PART III.

No. 1.

Earl Granville to Viscount Palmerston .- (Received Navember 4.)

(No. 308.)

My Lord,

Paris, November 2, 1840.

BARON NEUMANN has probably put your Lordship in possession of the contents of the despatches which my Austrian Colleague received from Prince Metternich on Friday last, and of which he has been instructed to communicate some parts to the French Government.

to communicate some parts to the French Government.

Count Appony made this communication to M. Guisot yesterday, who expressed satisfaction with the pacific tenour of the communication, which he considered as implying the hope that France would be party to an arrangement of the Affairs of the East. He, however, regretted to find that the language of Prince Metternich was vague, and that there was no specific proposition which would enable the French Government to state to the Chambers that negotiations were on foot between France and the Powers who had signed the Treaty of July.

M. Villemain, the Minister of Public Instruction, called upon me this

M. Villemain, the Minister of Public Instruction, called upon me this day, and as he is one of the most able orators, and a leading Member of the Cabinet, it may not be uninteresting to your Lurdship to be made acquainted with the substance of his conversation with me.

He was not as confident as M. Guizot that the Ministry will have a majority in the Chamber of Deputies, and he said that their difficulties would be insurmountable, if a determination should appear on the part of the Allied Powers, whatever may be their success in Syria, to settle the Question of the East, excluding France from all consultation as to the conditions of peace between the Sultan and Mehemet Ali. I said I could not doubt that any pacific arrangement between the Porte and Mehemet Ali would be far more satisfactory to the Sultan and his Allies, if France should concur in that settlement; but I could not suppose that if the population of Syria, supported by the Turks and their Allies, should compel the Egyptians to evacuate Syria, the re-imposing the voke of Mehemet Ali upon any part of that province could be contemplated by the French Government. He said that it was the appearance of making light of the opinion of France on a great European question which would overset any ministry in this country which submitted to such humiliation, and that it would entail a rancour against other Powers, even if public feeling did not force the Government into itsmediate war, which would render precarious the preservation of peace.

My Lord, Paris, November 5, 1840.

I RECEIVED, late last night, by the memenger, your Lordship's despatches Nos. 312 and 313, and I this morning, at eight o'clock, transmitted to M. Guizot a copy of No. 312.

No. 3.

Earl Granville to Viscount Palmerston.-(Received November 8.)

(No. 317.) My Lord,

Paris, November 6, 1840.

M GUIZOT this morning read to me a despatch which he had addressed to Baron Bourquency on Wednesday last, with the view of opening the way to an understanding between France and the Powers who are parties to the Treaty of July, on the settlement of the Eastern Question.

The French Charge d'Affaires having received instructions to communicate to you this despatch, it is unnecessary for me to state its contents, but I have to report to your Lordship the substance of a conversation which ensued between the French Minister and me on the same subject.

M. Guizot mentioned to me that the Baron Bulow, since his return to London from Berlin, in talking with M. Bourqueney respecting the expediency of France being party to a pacific arrangement between the Sultan and Mehemet Ali, had suggested that an agreement should be entered into for the suspension of hostilities on a certain day, and that the question whether the Pashalic of Acre be conceded by the Treaty of Peace to the Pashs of Egypt, should depend upon the Fortress of Acre being actually in possession of the Egyptians or of the Turks at the period of the suspension of hostilities. M. Guizot said that the French Government had this objection to Baron Bulow's suggestion, that France by the adoption of it would adhere to an arrangement more disadvan-tageous to Mehemet Ali than the Treaty of July, inassusch as by that agreement, the Pasha would be bound to give up, not only all that he was called upon to surrender by that Treaty, but possibly the Pashalie of Acre in addition. The proposition would be fairer, and one to which the French Government might agree, if the basis of the negotiation for peace should be the state of actual possession in the whole of Syria, by the contending parties, on a certain day to be fixed, for the suspension of hostilities; that is, if Aleppo and Damascus, and the Oriental part of Syria, were still occupied by the Egyptians, that abandonment of it should be compensated by giving to the Pasha an equivalent elsewhere. I observed to M. Guizot, that the Pasha of Egypt had been forewarned by the Articles of the Treaty itself, of the consequences of his compelling the Sultan and his Allies to have recourse to measures of coercion; and that, after the call that had been made upon the Syrians to throw off the Egyptian yoke, the Sultan was bound in bonour to the people who had risen in support of his rights, not to abandon them to the mercy of Mehemet Ali; that if the Pashalic of Acre were restored to its legitimate Sovereign by the efforts of its inhabitants, aided and encouraged by the Turks and their Allies, the Allied Powers could not advise the Sultan to place them again under the Egyptian dominion. M. Guizot admitted that the Sultan might reasonably refuse to abandon the Syrians, who had raised the Turkish standard, and re-established the authority of the Porte, but he suggested that some compensation might be found for Mehemet Ali by leaving Candia under his Government.

Unless some compensation of this sort be made by the Allies, France cannot concur in any pacific arrangement between the Sultan and the Viceroy, or exert her influence to induce the latter to accept the conditions of peace imposed upon him; "and is it worth while," said M. Guizot, " for the sake of excluding the Pasha of Egypt from the Government of Candia during the few years of life that now remain to hun, to risk the dangerous consequences that may result to all the world, from France not concurring in the settlement of the peace in the East; for it cannot be doubted, that the want of such concurrence will render precarious such settlement, as well as expose to hazard the peace of the West of Europe."

M. Guzzot assured me, that the French Government had no other intelligence respecting the military events in the Levant, than that which had been published in the ministerial journals last night, and copied into all the newspapers of this morning. That this intelligence was most unfavourable to the Pasha could not be denied, but it did not appear to him to be at all conclusive as to Ibrahim Pasha being unableto maintain possession of the plains to the eastward of the mountains, or as to his being under the necessity of evacuating the towns of Aleppo and Damascus, or the passes of the Taurus.

(No. 324.) My Lord,

Paris, November 9, 1840.

THE proposition made by M. Guizot, in his despatch to the Baron de Bourqueney of Wednesday last, was not one to which the King or his Minister, I believe, had even the hope of obtaining the assent of your Lordship, or of the Representatives of the other Powers. They could not expect, that after the success which has attended the operations of the Turks and their Allies on the coast of Syris, and at a moment when intelligence is daily expected of the fall of St. Jean d'Acre, the Allies could advise the Sultan to second to Mehemet Ali more favourable conditions of peace than these offered to him by the Treaty of July, and before the inability of the Egyptian Army to maintain possession of the most important points in Syria had been so clearly manifested; but the proposition which was made by M. Guizot in conversation with me on Friday, and respecting which he told me yesterday he had since written to the Baron Bourquency, they flatter themselves may be more favourably listened to. I should be sorry indeed to find that neither the proposition itself, nor any modification of it, could be entertained by your Lordship, because, notwithstanding the unexpectedly large majority obtained by Ministers, upon their first trial of strength in the Chamber of Deputies, I approhend that they would have great difficulty in carrying on the pacific policy announced in the King's speech, if it shall appear to the Chambers that the parties to the Treaty of July are determined to carry out the provisions of the Treaty, and to settle the conditions of peace between the Sultan and Mehemet Ali, without allowing France to have a voice upon the question. I know that many Deputies, the friends of peace and good order, to whom it is indifferent whether St. Jean d'Acre be in the hands of the Sultan or the Pasha of Egypt, have a feeling that the dignity and honour of France will suffer, if the Allies reject the overtures of the French Government to come to an understanding with the Allies as to the future existence of Mehemet Ali, and who will be satisfied if the Ministers shall be able to show by the subsequent conduct of the Allies, that the regret which they have all expressed that France was not a party to the Alliance, was perfectly sincere.

My Lord. Foreign Office, November 12, 1840.

WITH reference to your despatch No. 317 of the 6th instant, I have to state to your Excellency, that M. de Bourqueney, to whom I showed that despatch, assures me that M. Guizot did not address to him any despatch on Wednesday, the 4th instant, but only wrote to him on that day a private letter, a part of which M. de Bourqueney read me confidentially last Saturday morning. The part of that letter which M. de Bourqueney read to me, stated, that M. Guisot withed to make a proposition to Her Majesty's Government, but would not like to do so, if he had reason to suppose that it would be rejected, and therefore he wished M. de Bourquency, in the first instance, to ascertain from me, whether Her Majesty's Government would be disposed to make to France some sacrifice on the Turkish Question, independent of, that is to say, beyond the Treaty, in order to enable France to join the Alliance between the Four Powers and Turkey. I said to M. de Bourqueney, that her Majesty's Government is most desirous that France should join the Quintuple Alliance, but that I should only be decriving M. Guizot, if I were to lead him to suppose that Her Majesty's Government could agree to anything beyond the Treaty; that the Treaty, having been concluded, must be executed; and I reminded him, that by the Treaty Mehemet Ali has lost all right to any part of Syria, and even to Egypt itself; though, with respect to the latter province, it is the opinion of Her Majesty's Government, that the Sultan would do well to reinstate him, if he should submit completely, and at an early moment. I said, moreover, that our successes in Syria have been so rapid and signal that we may assume, that the Sultan's authority is virtually re-established over the whole of that province; and that the discontent of the Egyptians is represented as being so great, that it is by no means impossible that the authority of Mehemet Ali in Egypt may be overthrawn by the people themselves.

As it does not appear, from your Excellency's report of your conversation with M. Guisot on the 6th instant, that M. Guisot requested you to make any proposition to Her Majesty's Government, it is not necessary for me to give your Excellency any instructions to make to M. Guizot any other reply than that which you made at the time to what fell from him. But I cannot refrain from remarking, that the notion that Her Majesty's Government could consent, out of deference to the wishes of France, to suspend operations, which Great Britain is carrying on upon the coast of Syria in fulfilment of the engagements of a Treaty concluded with Four other Powers, is, to say the least of it, somewhat extraordinary; and you acted very properly in giving no encouragement whatever to such a suggestion.

M. Guizot seems, indeed, in the whole of the conversation to have gone upon the assumption, that the Treaty of July last is not to be executed, and that the only thing to be considered is, what mode of breaking that Pronty would be the least diangreeable to the Contracting Parties. But the Allies intend that the Trenty shall be carried into execution; and, therefore, it seems useless to discuss the relative merits of the various ways of setting it aside.

No doubt the Five Powers, who are parties to the Treaty of July, would gladly have the accession of France to that Treaty; and Her Majesty's Government are persuaded, that if France were willing to accede to it, and thus to become a party to the settlement of the peace in the Levant, all the Contracting Parties would joyfully accept her accession. But it is not at first sight evident what the dangerous consequences are, which, M. Guizot says, may result to the world, from France not concurring in, that is to say. I presume, not being a co-operating party to, this settlement; nor is it manifest in what way the want of the concurrence of France will render the settlement precarious, and expose to hazard the peace of the West of Europe. France might indeed be tempted, though it is scarcely supposable she should be so, to interpose, while affairs are still pending, and to endeavour, by force of arms, to prevent a aettlement distasteful to her, and calculated to defeat her unavowed designs; but, when once that settlement has been effected, and the authority of the Sultan has been re-established in his own dominions, France cannot hope to reverse such an arrangement, even if she were to take up arms to endeavour to do so, which it is quite impossible to suppose she would. For, even if she had strength sufficient to make the attempt, her recorded pledges to the Sultan must prevent her from doing so, as long as her Government continues to attach any value to a character for good

The anxiety of Her Majesty's Government to obtain the co-operation of France, arose not from any feeling that such co-operation was indispensalily necessary to give permanent stability to the arrangement when effected, but chiefly because such co-operation would have ensured the prompt submission of Mehemet Ali, and would therefore have led to a more casy and speedy accomplishment of the object in view.

My Lord, Foreign Office, November 13, 1040.

WITH reference to your Excellency's despatch No. 324 of the 9th instant, I have to state to your Excellency, that, as I have already informed you by my despatch No. 322, M. de Bourquency denies having received any despatch from M. Guisot, such as your Excellency states M. Guizot to have read to you on the 6th instant; and I have not as yet received any official proposition or communication from M. Guizot through

M. de Bourqueney,

With respect to the feelings which your Excellency states to be entertained by some of the Depoties, that the Four Powers, in order to prove the sincerity of their regret that France is not a party to the Alliance, ought to consent to abstain from carrying the Trenty into execution, I have to observe, that such reasoning is unsound, and rests upon an erroneous foundation. The Four Powers have invariably, and with the atmost sincerity, expressed their regret that France is not a party to the Treaty which they have emcluded with the Porte; but they have never expressed regret at having concluded that Treaty; nor have they ever stated, that, because France did not choose to be a party to the arrangement which that Treaty is to effect, they would on that account abstnin from effecting that arrangement. If such had been the feeling of the Four Powers, and if they had been of opinion, that no arrangement of the Turkish Question could be carried into effect, but such an one as France would be a party to, they ought not to have concluded the Treaty of July, and to have taken towards each other, and towards the Soltan, the engagements which that Treaty contains.

The Four Powers have, from the beginning, felt great regret that the determination of France not to join in any coercive measures against Mehemet Ali, rendered it impossible for France to be a party to the Treaty: but it would be very much to mistake the nature of their regret, to suppose that it implies a willingness to allow France to have a voice whether a Treaty, to which she is not a party, shall be executed or not. I apprehend that nothing but the overwhelming force of any Power could entitle it to prescribe to other Powers to refrain from executing the engagements of a Treaty; and there is no Power now existing in Europe

I beg to call your attention to Mr Wood's despatches. In the despatch from General Jochmon, will be found most satisfactory proof of the angacity with which Commodore Napier adapta his measures to the circumstances under which he acts, and the felicitous audicity with which be carries them into execution.

What has been done in Syria by Commodore Napier, by General Joehmus, and by Captain Walker, and the brave men under their command, has destroyed the spell of Mehemet Alr's fortune, and shows that brahim's boassed skin and valuar are taking when pict his chimen as those share named. The Turkish soldiers, heretofore cowed by defeats, due to the ignorance, or corruption, or cowardice of their Generals, are now said to be elated with a just confidence in themselves under housest and wise commanders, and have shown that valour, for which their nation has been formerly so highly celebrated.

It will not be the fault of the soldiers hereafter, if Syria and Fgypt be not restored to the possession of their legitimate Sovereign AGREEABLY to your Lordship's directions under date of the 6th of September, to assent Izzet Pasha in the distribution of the Sultan's proclamation to be published in Syria, I have waited on his Excellency, and have offered him my services in whatever he thought I could be of use to hen.

On laset Pasha's reply that he had brought with him no proclamation, I begged he would furnish me with copies of the Sultan's firman, hearing his nomination to the Pashalic of Acre, and his own "Boyouroukli" to the Sheiks and Emira, as noted per margin", calling upon them to return to their duty to the Sultan, and confirming them in the Government of their neveral districts.

His Excellency accorded immediately to my request, and I lost no time in forwarding them to the individuals to whom they were addressed. Since then, a great number of similar documents have been drawn up and distributed.

I have distinctly stated to lizet Pasha that, previous to his arrival, I had declared to the Syriana, by your Lordship's authority, that the Porte would grant them their ancient rights and privileges if they returned to their allegiance to the Sultan; and as I knew it was in consequence of such promises they were encouraged to the degree of again revolting against the Egyptian Authorities only a few weeks after they had laid down their arms, I sincerely trusted and fully expected his Excellency would now, by virtue of his authority in Syria, execute all I had promised in the name of your Excellency lexet Pasha answered that he would, but in a time that did not satisfy me that he would. Since then I have spoken to him again on the subject, and argued with him on the prudence of abolishing a number of taxes which are altogether dlegal, and are even unknown in other parts of the Turkish Empire. These taxes and imposts will have to be abolished so much to the Intti-Scheriff; and were they to be abolished at once it would create a most favourable moral effect in the country, and would undoubtedly encourage the nation to redouble their exertions in support of their Sovereign. Besides which, Ibrahim Pasha is making aimilar concensions to the Syrians, and it becomes therefore doubly incumbent on the Porte not to delay the execution of a measure that promises so much present good.

I have alluded to the same subject in my letter of the 3rd instant to like Pasha; but he replied to me verbally that he preferred waiting for contractors from the Post indicate the transfer of the New theoless, I cannot help thinking that we are giving Ibrahim Pasha an advantage over us by his hesitation in a matter that requires none.

I have also suggested to his Excellency that the discharge of the Syrian conscripts who are our prisoners would greatly promote the cause of the Sultan. There are no less than 16,000 of them in the Egyptian Army, who, when liberated, would light for him so long as their future liberty depended on the success of his arms.

I have reason to believe that though in many instances his Excellency pretends to concur with me in opinion on these subjects, yet he takes no trouble to follow out my suggestions the moment I leave him. I have been also endeavouring to persuade him to use the greatest courtesy towards the Princes and the Sheiss in his camp, without exception, and not to make any distinctions, by which he will lay the seeds of jealousy amongst them, and will make them attend more to their private feeds than to the public service.

In order that my representations may have some weight with him, I have given him explicitly to understand that I was sent here by your Lordship, that I was authorised to make a number of promises to the Syrman, (the nature of which I specified,) and that I was in a manner pledged to see them executed by the Sultan's officers.

I trust your Lordship will not be led to infer from the foregoing that any difference exists between us; on the contrary, we are on the most cordial terms together, and in many instances he is pleased to consult me and abide by my advice; but as the executive rests with him, it does not always depend upon me to make him follow up his good intentions. He is houster full of crossy as I real, though I may be permitted to say, that I do not consider him the fittest person to govern these countries after the termination of the war.

Since writing the above, I have received the Grand Vizier's very handsome letter, conveying the Porte's authority for me to act in Syria. I feel confident that so soon as the Pasha sees it, he will pay more attention to my suggestions.

The possession of this document is another mark of your Lordship's confidence,—the more gratifying to me as I feel I do not deserve it. In expressing my grateful thanks for it, allow me to assure your Excellency, that no exertions shall be wanting on my part to render myself worthy of the approbation of my superiors.

I have, &c.,
(Signed) RICHARD WOOD.

Mr. Wood to Viscount Pensonby.

My Lord,

Ottoman flag-ship, of Djounie, Ottober 10, 1840.

ON the 20th of September I embarked on board the steamer "Cyclops," to reconnoitre the coast from Beyrout to Sadon, and to communicate with the inhabitants of that part of Mouat Lebanon which desce to the sea, to agree on the manner of arming them. At Sidon I found the Egyptians busy in fortifying and barricading the town and streets. The result of my observations I have communicated to the Admiral in my letter of the 22nd ultimo, (a copy of which I have the honour to inclose herewith under No. 1), and his Excellency having decided upon an attack on Sidon, I was received on board His Majesty's ship "Thunderer," on the 24th, and proceeded off Sidon, taking up our position close to the eastle and town. On the 25th, Commodore Napier joined us with a few Turkish troops and marines, in all not exceeding 1,400. The town was then duly summoned; and on the refusal of the Authorities to give it up, it was hombarded, and a landing was effected In four hours and a half it was taken by assault, and the whole garrison, composed of nearly 3,000 Egyptians, including the officers, were taken prisoners. We did not lose altogether more than five men, and had only thirty-two wounded. The whole action was a most gallant one, and not sufficient praise can be bestowed on the officers who conducted the assault, particularly on Admiral Walker, who headed the Turkish troops; and who, after taking possession of the castle, was the first to rush into the town with a handful of Turks, and drive back the enemy from their barricades.

While I congratulate your Lordship on the success of the Turkish arms, as the chief promoter and supporter of the Expedition, I may be allowed to pay a passing tribute to the justness of the opinion your Lordship formed of the worthlessness of the Egyptian troops and of the power of Mohemet Alt, which is at best but little more than nominal in Syria.

The capture of Sidon has produced a great sensation in the country, masmuch as it has considerably lowered the Egyptians in the estimation of the natives; and has shown them that, far from being irresistible, they are inferior to the troops brought against them.

On the following day, I had the Divan of Sidon, composed of natives, assembled, and read to them a copy of the firman bearing faret Pasha's nomination, with which he had furnished me, his own Boyouroulds, and an Arabic version of the Convention; after which I proceeded to the nomination of a Governor, in the name of his Excellency. All the other public officers were confirmed in their places, and were charged to send in returns of all the public stores of every nature, particularly in arms and ammunition. Every thing was done in the name of the Sultan. Public prayers were offered by the Mufti for the success of his arms; and the gressest cuthomism was displayed by all chases of Her Highnese's subjects, to whom I durinctly stated that henceforth they should be governed according to the Hatti Scheriff, and all dlegal taxes and imposts should be abolished.

I beg to inclose a copy of the letter the Divan addressed to Izzot Pasha, and a copy of the one I wrote to his Excellency, I am glad in being able to state that his Excellency has confirmed the Governor, at Captain Berkeley's and my request; and I sincerely trust he will also take my suggestions into consideration.

My proposal to the Admiral to arm the inhabitants of Damour, (a district nine miles to the north of Sidon, and within four hours' march of Deir-el-Kammar, the capital of the mountains, and of the residence of the Bour Beauty had for alget, first, the Larussing of Seleman Pasha's left flank, secondly, the cutting off of his retreat on his rear, over the mountasms,-Djounie and Salon being in our possession; and, thirdly, that of offering facilities to the great Prince to come to us, or of forcing him into authussion. In consequence, on the 29th, Captain Berkeley and myself, with about a hundred marines, proceeded on board the steamer "Stromboli," and disembarked at the River d'Amour, from whence I addressed immediately a circular letter, to the Princes and Sheiks, as noted per margit", of the surrounding a llages who came down and were armed accordingly. The four Princes accompanied me to Djourne to pay personally their respects to the Pashs, whom I induced to present such with a sword, and to give them their Boyourouldis, as subsovernors of their several districts. The mountains descend nearly to the eez, which would place his Army, on many points, within range of the gues of our ships, and in all others between us and the armed peasantry.

Your Lordship will excuse the mention of the above details, which I only give with the view to show how limited is now the country left for Ibrahum Pashs to act in. He is surrounded with difficulties; there is no option left him, and he must either shut himself up in Acre, leaving Syria to us, or he must retreat beyond Lebanou, which I think he will do in preference to the former alternative.

The country to the south of Sidon, as far an Acre, is inhabited by Mutualis, who are in favour of the Sultan. While at Sidon, I sent them a letter, calling upon them to take arms in defence of their disrega cod ingus and priviles. In their answer, they express their entire days, it said the Pric, and the will against to timber personally their submission. They, moreover, sent a confidential agent to inform me that Ibrahim Pasha had demanded 2,000 of their clients to co-operate with his army against us, but that they had refused to comply with his derind die ex roles prit xis, and begged to be furnished to their right 3,000 stand of arms, both to defend themselves, and to take possession of the Post of B . A kern and the country beyond it. This pass secured, all communication between Acre and Ibrahim Pasha will be cut off. Bendes which, no troops can be brought from the latter place, either to Tsu at or Sal p, or attack on Norw test using I was called away from Selon the day three of the Sheiks came to take away the arms, Captain Berkeley undertook to give them, with the necessary quantity of ammuand have obtained from the Pasha a Boyourouldi for each Sheik, confirming them in their several posts, with the condition that they use all then effortions the support of their legitimate Sovereign against Mehemet.

On the 20th instant Kaella was taken by a squadron of two English and one Turkish frigate. They took off two mortars, four field-pieces, a quantity of arms and ammunition, and destroyed the rest before they abandoned the town

The same aquadron captured Toour on the 24th, where a great quantity of grain and public stores were found. The garrison, about 1,200 men, retreated at night a league inland, where they continue to remain encamped.

Osman Pasha estimates his total loss to 2,000 men, from which it would appear that many of his troops dispersed. He was himself wounded by a musket-shot, and has fled to Zahlé, a large Maronite village on the other side of Lebanon, bordering on the plains of their capture will greatly distress the Egyptian army at Maraah and Ibrahim Pasha is actually at Ibteddein, or Deir-el-Kammar, with about 1,500 men, undecided how to act. At one moment he proposes encamping near Sidon, and hazarding an attempt at retaking it; at another, of collecting together all his forces, and attacking us. He entertains, also, an idea of throwing himself into Acre, or of retreating to the Valley of the Orontes. In fact, my Lord, he is quite perplexed how to act; he is now convinced the whole country is decidedly opposed to him, and he is aware that were he to throw houself into Acre, Syria is lost to him, and were he to retire into the interior, he must leave us in possession of the whole coast and of the mountains.

The natives tell me positively that the feeling is such at Acre, that it would currender to any squadron that bombarded it for half an hour. The troops compoung the garrison are, for the most part, disaffected; and I am even assured that, not long since, the Governor was obliged to take the arms out of the lab is of the artiflery to prevent mischael. The menin the gallies are waiting with anxiety for the moment to fall on their jailors to obtain their liberation.

I have stated the foregoing to the Admiral with the remark that, if the opportunity be ast and time be given to brialing Passa to shut himself up in it, it will require a very long siege. The objection to making the attempt armes, I believe, from a disinclination to expose the fleet to be disabled at a moment a war is anticipated with France. To remove that objection I have read to the Admiral your Lordship's letter of the 6th of September, containing the following paragraph, "and Her Majesty's Government expects the Admiral to carry the orders and instructions he has received into execution, without regard to the opposition that may be made by any Foreign Power." The other objection was, that after we had taken it, we had not sufficient tenops to hold it. It is, however, ubvious that if Abdallah Pasha defended Aers with only 1,200 disargeniz. I troops for eight months against 25,000 man it could be held by a garrison of 1,000 Turkub Nuam for a few weeks until succour could be thrown into it, now that the place is ten times stronger, and Ibraham Pasha can never bring the same number of troops against it. The possession of Acre is of such an immense importance as to authorise almost any common risk.

Though I cannot assert anything positive with regard to the taking of Beyrout, yet I believe it to be the intention of the Admiral to make the attempt soon. Admiral Walker is using his utmost endeavour to prem on Sir Robert the necessity of capturing it, to make it the winter quarters of the Army. Besides its central position, its bay affords a convenient anchorage for the fleet, is the event of our not making Acre our winter

By the very next opportunity, I shall do myself the honour of transmitting to your Lordship my correspondence with him, with a statement of the whole transaction. The Ex-Emir would have been always dangerous, whereas, by the appointment of the other, the Porte has gained a faithful adherent, whilst it has accured a formidable opponent. I have acted with the greatest circumspection throughout the whole negotiation, and I sincerely hope my conduct will meet with your Lordship's

I have, &c., RICHARD WOOD,

Inclusure 4 in No. 11

General Jockmus to Viscoust Possonby.

Comp of Djounie, October 7, 1840. My Lord, HIS Highness Izzet Pasha communicated to me an official letter which he received from Constantinople, announcing to him that the E 3

Sublime Porte had appointed me a General of Division; and although I have not yet received any communication from your Lordship on the subject, I know very well that I owe the nomination entirely to your Excellency.

I hope in the course of this war to prove, that it has not been entirely uscless; it will be the best mode of expressing my sincere thanks.

Selim Pasha, also a Fortk, or General of Division, will now command all the troops here, lazet Pasha having declared that he will only occupy himself with his affairs of Governor-General, which is the wisest thing he can do, as his meddling these last weeks has once brought us into a dangerous situation, he having detached troops without the Commodore or me knowing anything about it. The Admiral wrote to him on the subject, and now all is right; at least our difficulties are diminishing, and if Commodore Napier is allowed to go on as he began, you may expect good news from this quarter, the more so, as by the arrival of Captain Ford we received a new reinforcement of a battalion, and the news of another brigade coming immediately, and more troops later.

We can expect thus to see here soon from 15,000 to 18,000 men, and with that force, if they are telerable troops, we may hope to do something

But troops, to be efficient, must be well equipped, and provided with the necessary stores. Izzet Pasha tells me that orders are given that plenty of provisions be written us from the Ishel of Cyprus and Caramama. I beg your Lordship will have inquiries made if these provisions can really be got there, and if there are means of transport at hand, or if we are to send the transports from hence.

Our troops now are without about, and all the men are obliged to make Albanian sandals from raw ox hides. In these mountains it is absolutely necessary that one should calculate on a soldier's using one pair of shoes a month. I hope that your Lordship will induce the divergment to send us out immediately 20,000 pair of shoes, or, in case of necessity, a proportion of Albanian sandals,

Our present stock of musket ammunition amounts to 650 baxes, each at 1,200 rounds, being 780,000 rounds of ball cartridge, or about 100 rounds per man, of our present force. There ought to be at least 200 rounds per man in store, and consequently we want 650 boxes, of 1,200 rounds each, to be sent down here by the next steamer. If 10,000 men more are coming, they ought to have sent with them 24,600,000, or 2,000 boxes of musket-ball ammunition, besides 60 rounds in each man's pouch on starting from Constantinople,

Our hospitals are in a miserable state, or rather there were none at all, till I got one established about a week ago. I annex a list of things immediately required for our present force, and another list for the case we should be remoreed by 10,000 men.

Our means of transport are null, because the peasants who have furnished the mules are not regularly paid, and consequently they run away to the mountains of topical for that are regularly notice a paid by the Quarter-Master of the British Marines and Austrians, and who are very willing to serve. The muleteers and their animals are taken by force whenever they are required, which often makes us lose hours and days of precious time; for we cannot move without mules to carry animunition and provisions.

The muleteers thus often refuse to load, and the soldiers and officers, who have strict orders to start by a given time, beat them to they go, and the quarrols become worse, because the people don't understand each other

This produces much had blood, and can have the most serious consequences in length of time, as we make disaffected people every day, of those who ought to fight for us.

We must absolutely change the system. At present, the Pasha orders, or pretends to order, the muleteers to be paid; his Kiahaya pretends to give the money to the Emir Abdallah (Civil Governor), who says he distributes it amongst the muleteers; but these awear that they never get one day's pay out of three, which I know to be the case.

This business is so serieus, that I request your Lordshop's carnest attent on to it. When our Army was ne augmented, we shall require at least 4 to mass per com being an expense of 3 and past is a day, or 35/, faming about 1 00% a month by the medical department.

Your Lordship must also maist that 2,000 beds, with blankets and sheets, be sent to us for our hospitals, for wounded and sick men. Both are now lying on the bare floor, with no cover but their cloaks.

Yer Le lety sees in majoritectly and sateingually the expenstion has been fitted out in Constantinople; and if your Lordship does not become our Quarter-Master-General, in the same way as you are really the General who has corrected and foresten the success of this expenition, which I know most people considered as madness, I am alread that our difficulties will augment to such a degree, as to paralyse us completely.

But in order to be certain, your Lordship ought to appoint a person who must see the things started and embarked, handing to you a regular but of the disposent in each viscol, if which I bug your Lorus up was send me copies in duplicates. I take great liberties in asking all these things, but I know your Lordship has our success at heart, and you ordered me to te the truth, which I must do,

I read this letter to Commodore Napier, who fully agrees with me in everything therein expressed.

General Jockmun to Viscount Pontonby.

My Lord,

Head Quarters, Beyrout, October 12, 1840, 6 A.M.

1 HAD the bosons to inform your Lordship of the causes and the event of the dispersion of Osman Pasha's corps.

Ibrahim Pasha having continued since, and notwithstanding the reverse, his aystem of dividing his forces, in order to cover more ground against the projected armaments of the mountaincers, we have persisted, on our side, to take advantage of his mutakes.

On the 8th of October, in the afternoon, I occupied the brights of And the whore the action of the 24th of September had been tought), and the village of Ornachajuen, without opposition, with a force of four battalions.

During the following night, about 300 armed peasants joined, and I more early on the 9th a recommissance on my left, to ascertain the anture of the ground. A skirmish ensued, and the every showed about 1,000 men, under Hassan Bey and Emir Massoud, on the opposite heights of Calat Meidan.

Commodore Napier and Selim Pasha coming to the heights of Ardali on the 9th, resolved to drive the enemy from his position, m order to facilitate the operations of Emir Beam Kasim, who having been proclaimed governing Prince in lieu of the old Emir Bechir, had been directed to cross the Kelb Son, and to enter the provinces above Beyrout, for which purpose he had expected a force of my stancers and man been provided with 1,100 muskets for distribution, the last remaining

The ultimate object of the operation was eventually the taking of Beyrout, whither Admiral Stopford had gone with part of the squadron.

The position of the enemy at Calat Moidan, however, was of prodigroup natural steingth, being covered by a deep ravine, and presenting three successive lines of entrenchments, the elevation of the position, from the depth of the ravine to the highest redoubt, being perhaps 1,000 yards, and in many parts the rocks were nearly perpendicular.

Commodore Napier, with the double view of saving a great loss of life on our part, and of obtaining a greater result in victory, directed me to order Omer Bey, who with five battalions had been left in our position above Djounic, to march with two of them to Ageltus, there to cross the Kelb Sou, and to fall on the enemy in his flank and rear. The Emir Beehir received similar orders.

Shortly afterwards, and during the evening of the 9th, we ascertained that Ibrahim Paska in person had arrived at Calat Meidan, with 2,000 of his best troops, namely, 1,200 Albanian body-guards, and 800 of what is called his regular guard

Perceiving finally his fault, this General had ordered four battalions of Solyman Pasha to join him also, and 2,000 more men were approaching from Zachlé, in order to be concentrated in our front.

Not a moment was to be lost without compromising the column of Omer Bey and the mountaineers of the Emir Bechir.

The Commodore ordered up to the heights of Ardali the three remaining battahons from Djounie, and two Turkush field-pieces At two p'clock, on the 10th of October, we had seven buttalions at Ardali, when the fire of Omer Bey approaching by the road of Beckfuya, was distinctly heard in the enumy's rear.

The following dispositions were then taken for an immediate attack. One battalion and the mountaineers were directed to cross the ravine, which reparated us from the enemy, and to arrive on his line of retreat by the road to Brumana.

Four leattahons stormed the heights of Calat Meulan, two in tiradleurs, supported by two others, in closer order, moving by the road.

Two hattalious, reserves on the heights of Ardali

After two hours' fighting and the display of the most daring gallantry on the part of the Turks, for the flite troops of the bitherto unvanquished Ibrahim Pasha also stood manfully to their posts strongly furtified and facing both attacks, we joined Omer Boy on the heights of

The enemy's three lines of retreat being occupied by our respective corps, namely, the road to Brumana by our column, and the roads to Beckfuya and Corneil by Omer Bey, Ibrahim's forces were thrown into the gorge, not twenty-five men of any of his corps remaining together at sunset, and he himself escaping with difficulty, accompanied by a few

Eight hundred prisoners, all his stores and ammunition, &c. &c. fell into our hands; a great many more troops will disperse to their houses, or he pursued by the Emir Bechir Kasim, who arrived at sunset within three hours' distance from the field of battle, and communicated to the Commodore, that he was then observing the 2,000 men approaching to 1brahim Pasha's support from Zachlé

In consequence of having been weakened by Ibrahim Pasha's order, by four battalions, Solyman Pasha withdrew altogether from Beyrout, in the night of the 9th October, and concentrated in a camp one hour and a half east from the town, having the river between himself and the place. The town was, consequently, occupied by the English and a battalion of Turks on the 10th of October; but the news of the entire defeat of Ibrahim Pasha having reached Solyman Pasha's camp, his forces were seized by a panic. He bimself, ahandoned by his troops, fled in the direction of Damascus, with a few squadrons of horse, many of his soldiers dispersed, a regiment of 2,000 men laid down their arms early on the 11th of October at Beyrout, and gave up his entrenched camp with nineteen pieces of artillery, ammunition, stores, &c. &c.

Our success has been complete. The Turkish troops fought as they did in the times of Solyman the Great.

" Princess Charlotte," Beyrout, October 9, 1840. My Lord,

I REGRET that your Lordship should have taken such hold of a paragraph in my letter of the 17th September, as to imagine that I should wantonly and ignorantly withdraw all the naval force from this coast upon the approach of had weather. I did not enter into any details upon the subject, as so much is left to my discretion by Her Majesty's

I shall now only say that a sufficient number of small vessels and ateamers will be left at all times to give effectual accurity to any position occupied by the Albed Force; and this description of vessel can render such assistance far more effectually than three-dockers and eighty-gun

The want of harbours on this coast is the point to be deprecated, and not the safety of Her Majesty's large ships. There is well-yer said the line here and hereabouta; two more are immediately expected, and perhaps

It cannot be expected that these thirteen sad of the line are required at the same time to blockade the coast of Egypt and Syris-or, indeed, ought they, as all their provisions would be exhausted together; there

In the winter time some place of security is required, where part of the squadrop can be replenished with provisions and water to relieve those ships which are kept at sea.

I know of no place more secure and convenient than the harbour of Mariner ee, to self-cl s. pplies from Molta may be directed to go

The harbour of Alexandretta (Scanderson) has been named as a secure harbour; but I know, from good authority, that the air is at all times pestiferous, the water unwholesame, and the anchorage exposed to furious winds.

IT appears that Rechid Pasha's ministerial position is endangered by intrigues in the huren. The Sultan's sources in hasing already four children either born to him, or about to be so, has furnished a sufficient ground for convincing him that the success of his arms has been due neither to his ministers nor to his generals, but to the manifest protection of the Prophet, who showers his favours thus abundantly upon him.

Rechid Pasha's tenure of power has, in consequence, become an precarious, that Prince Metternich has instructed the Internuncio to apply to his colling testa car. The him to represent age to the Solino that the Four Powers, in the conviction that their efforts on behalf of His Highness's Government would be useless, if any other man were put in the place of Rechid Pasha, make it a condition that that minister shall not be removed.

My Lord,

PRINCE METTERNICH apprehends that his advice as to an overture to be made by the Porte to France, after having been asked, was not waited for, and that this step has been taken at Constantinople. He has not a certainty upon this head, but he suspects it

He attributes the original idea, and its supposed success, in great part to the intrigues of the Frenchmen, by whim the members of the Divan are surrounded, and he holds the moment to be come when the removal of these Frenchmen should be insisted on, and their places supplied, where necessary, by Europeans of other nations.

One motive for their presence, and one great means of their influence, is the printing the "Moniteur Ottoman" in French, contrary to the usage of the whole of the Levant, where the only European language current is the Italian. This Proper Metters is the limited printing allered, the Porte being made to understand, if necessary, that the Courts will not suffer the French language to be made that of the Levant.

The Prince has no doubt of the co-operation of Russin for this object, and answers for that of Prussia. He will address himself to these two Courts, and only awaits your Lordship's answer before giving the necessary instructions to the Internuncio.

WITH reference to the letter from Mr. Wood to your Excellency of the 8th of October, of which a copy is inclosed in your despatch No. 243, I have to instruct your Excellency to represent immediately to the Porte that the interests of the Sultan and the honour of the British Crown require that the Pasha sent to govern in any part of Syria should be a man who will, actively and in good faith, carry into effect the provisions of the Hatti Scheriff of Gulhane, and fulfil the promises made to the Syrians in the name of the Sultan by the British Agent, Mr. Wood. Whatever may be the merits and good qualities of Izzal Pason, and Her Majesty's Government do not presume to question them, it is evident that he is not a man well qualified for the particular duty which has been imposed upon him as Pasha of Syria, and therefore Her Majesty's Government most carnestly request the Porte to make some different arrangement for Syria, and to send to the Pashalicks of that province Governors better fitted than fixet Pasha seems to be, to carry into effect the benevolent intentions of the Siltan, and not only to gain, but also to retain, the conadence and good-will of the Syrians.

In my inte conversations with Count Nesselrode on the subject, I have found him unwilling to give an opinion; and further, the Emperor will not hear of taking the initiative in any overture to France.

The tendency of Baron Brunnow's despatches (who always writes in a sense to please the Emperor), is not calculated to effect any alteration in his Imperial Majesty's feelings and opinions; but, on the contrary, to confirm them; and the Imperial Government are under the impression that, if France were to be admitted into the Alliance, the present relations between France and England would assume at once a different aspect, which would disturb our present friendly position with Russia.

Mr. Wood to Admiral Stopford.

Her Majesty's ship " Oyclope," Beptember 22, 1840.

CAPTAIN AUSTIN, of Her Majesty's ship "Cyclops," whom I accompanied in his tour to Saida, will have reported to you his proceedings along the coast, and I trust your Excellency will not deem it out of place if I permit myself a few suggestions, the result of the observations was enabled to make, with the assistance of Captain Austin.

The reports of the messengers which I received while at Djounie, from the villages to the south of Heyrout, coincide in every respect with the corsees for a I have since had personally with the villagers who came off to us. They assert that they would have joined long since the Sultan's troops at Djounie had it been in their power; but that the surreillance of the Egyptians, and the precautionary measures of the Emir Bechir, whose troops are quartered in their villages in small parties, prevented them from even quitting their homes to follow their darly occupations. Two mountain chiefs, who were received on board to-day, and a letter that was sent off to me, confirm the statement of the mountaincers, who are unanimous in favour of the Sultan.

They propose that 1,000 troops be sent to the river Damour, with from 3,000 to 5,000 stand of arms, which they undertake to distribute in two days. Their desire to have the co-operation of the troops and the assistance of two or three ships of war, arises from the simple fact, that their presence will frighten away the guards that are placed over them by the Emir Bechir, thereby leaving them free to come for their arms.

The mountain chiefs on board the "Cyclops," are known to be powerful, and men of influence, who were deeply compromised in the late insurrection. One of them possesses five villages, and can arm alone 1,000 of his own men. The Emir Bechir-el-Kasım, whom the Sultan has appointed by his Imperial firman to supersede his uncle the great Prince (also Emir Bechir by name.) resides near these villages, and notwithstanding his anxiety to join the Sultan's troops, he also has been prevented doing so by the difficulty of realising in safety the Expedition I beneve to have already informed your Excellency of his several messages to me to send troops to open the reads, that he may come to us with 10,000 men, that he has already prepared for the support of the Sultan's expedition.

The foregoing facts tend to show the expediency of sending an expedition of 1,000 men to the river of Damour, or more properly to a point of land running into the sea, a mile to the south of the river, forming nitogether a position as atrong as Djounie, and equally as tonable with the assustance of two ships of war, in the midst of populous villages, and only distant four miles from Deir-el Kammar, the capital of the mountains, and the residence of Emir Bechir, whom they propose to drive away as soon as they are armed. The chances are, that the Emir Bechir-el-Kasım will come to us immediately, in which supposition I am not wrong; then, the whole population of Lebanon will be up in arms to drive away the Egyptana, whose rear will be exposed to their attacks, their provisions will be cut off, and themselves obliged to fall back upon Baltick, leaving the mountains in possession of their inhabitants, and the Turkish troops free to as I on some other part of Syria.

The despatching, therefore, of 1,000 men, with two or three ships of war, and a few thousand stand of arms, to take temporary possession of the position alluded to above for this distribution, may be attended with the happiest result, and as such. I beg to submit the suggestion to your

Excellency's serious consideration.

(Translation)

IN the name of the Supreme God, of our Prophet, of his Parents, and of his Albest of happy memory

After prayers and compliments.

We have the honour to expose to your Excellency, who is renowned for his great mercy, that on Sunday last (lst Shaban) the rays of your Excellency's and broke upon us, by being honoured with a revered despatch from the High Divan of your Excellency, inclosing an imperial firman from the Porte; as we had the honour to hear in a general assembly, and to meditate on, its contents, we replaced with a great joy at the goodness of the Almighty, who has degreed to grant as such a remarkable favour and concession, so much appreciated by us are, as that of replacing us under the dominion of the Ottoman Porte. May God give her always the victory. Your servants esteem themselves in especial happy (and we render thanks to our Maker) in having your Excellency of eminent superiority at our head as Governor, according to the tenor of the firman, before which we prostrate ourselves.

One and all of us have hited up our hands to Heaven, in humble supplication to preserve you to us, to give you the victory, and to cause to exist for ever the sovereignty of our Sultan, the Emperor, and the "Hanan of the Hawakina." May the Almighty preserve him, and maintain his Government to the end of days!

We, moreover, inform your Excellency, that we received thus day your honoured Orders, addressed to the Chiefs and Princes of the districts and villages of our neighbourhood, which were given us by Colonel Haled Boy of the 2nd Regiment, and Abdullah Aga, the Secretary, who also instructed us, in the name of your Excellency, to distribute them separately, and to call upon the inhabitanta to assist our Consuls to tranquilize the people, and to guarantee to them, in behalf of the Subhme Porte, their property, their lives, and welfare.

Conformably to the above matructions, we have not neglected to publish everything, esteeming ourselves happy in having to perform so sacred a duty.

L'INSTRUCTION adressée à Lord Ponsonby sous la date du 15 Octobre dernier, à la suite d'une délibération entre les Plémpotentiaires d'Autriche, de la Grande Breisgue, de Prusse, et de Rossie, a constaté l'opportunité qu'il y aurait à ce que les Représentant des Quatre Coura à Constantinople fussent autorisés à annoncer à la Sublime Porte; " que leurs Guavernement respectifs, conformement aux atipulations du § 7 de l'acte séparé annexé à la Convention du 15 Juillet, croient devoir recommander fortement au Gouvernement de Sa Hautesse que,—dans le cas où Mébémet Ali se soumettrait sons délai, et consentirait à restituer la fluite Ottomane, et de retirer ses troupes de la Syrie toute entière, d'Adans, de Candie, de l'Arable, et des Villes Saintes,—Sa Hautesse daignât non seulement réinstater Mébé met Ali dans ses fonctions comme Pacha d'Égypte, mais en même tems lus secorder l'investiture héréditaire du dit Pachalie, d'après les conditions établies par la Convention du 15 Juillet, bien entendu que ce titre héréditaire serait sujet à être révoqué si Mébémet Ali, ou l'un de ses successeurs, venut à enfrendre les ausdites conditions."

L'audité d'adresser à la Sublime Porte une communication conçue dans le seus ci-dessus énoncé, a été unanimement reconnue par les Qualir

Viscount Palmerston to the Lords of the Admiralty.

My Lords, Foreign Office, November 14, 1840.

THE Four Powers which, together with the Porte, are parties to the Treaty of the 15th of July, have resolved to recommend to the Porte, through their representatives at Constantmople, that if Mehemet Ali shall at an early moment make his submission to the Sultan, and agree to restore immediately the Turkish fleet, and to cause his troops to evacuate the whole of Syria, the district of Adana, the Island of Candia, Arabia, and the Holy Cities, the Sultan should, notwithstanding the decree by which he has deprived Mehemet Ali of the Government of Egypt, reinstate Mehemet Ali in that Pashislick in furtherance of that resolution, it has been determined by the representatives of the Four Powers at London, that the intentions of the Your Powers, in this respect, should be made known to blehemet Ali through the Admiral commanding in the Mediterranean.

I have, therefore, to signify to your Lordships Her Majesty's pleasure that instructions be given to Sir Robert Stopford, directing him to send immediately a competent officer to Alexandria, in order to make the following communication to Mehemet A

The officer so to be sent, will, on his arrival at Alexandria, demand to have an interview with Mehemet Ali, in the presence of Boghos Bey, in order to make to Mehemet Ali a communication from Her Majesty s. Government. When admitted, he should state to Mehemet Ali that he is ordered by the British Covernment to inform him that if he will make immediate submission to the Sultan, and will deliver into the hands of the officer so sent a written engagement to restore, without further delay, the T rkish fleet, and to cause his troops immediately to evacuate the whole of Syria, the district of Adana, the Island of Condia, Arabia, and the Holy Cities, the Four Powers will recommend to the Sultan to reinstate Mehemet Ali in the Pashalic of Eg) pt. But the officer will state that this recommendation will be given by the Four Powers, only it it at of the prompt submission of Mehemet Ali, and that the officer is breatest to remain three days at Alexandria, to know the decision of Mct. act Mr. and to convey it to Constantinople.

The officer employed should put down the foregoing communication in writing, and after baving read it to Mehemet Ali, he should deliver to him the paper on which it is written.

If, at the end of the three days, Mehemet Ali should not have determined to make his submission to the Sultan. The officer should re-embark, and should proceed to Constant, a ple to make his report to Her Majosty's Ambassador at that Court. If Mehemet Ali should at any time during the three days deliver to the officer the written engagement above mentioned, the officer should immediately proceed with it to Con-and which the French Charge d'Affaires had received instructions to communicate to your Lordship. I have to express my regret at having led your Lordship into error in regard to the nature of that communication.

M. Guizot has since shown to me the paper he road. It was a private letter, and not an official despatch, which he addressed to Baron Bourquency; and the French Munister had no intention, in directing the Baron to put your Lordship in possession of the contents of this private letter, to make an official proposition to Her Majesty's Government.

M. Guizot was desirous, before he made any official proposition to your Lordship with regard to France becoming a party to the settlement of the Eastern Question, to ascertain whether it were likely that such proposition would be favourably received, and with this view he wrote his private letter to the Baron de Bourqueney

Baron Bourquency having collected from your Lordship's convercation, that the proposal of any arrangement more favourable to Mehemet Ali than the Treaty of July would not be intened to by the Allies of the Sultan, abstained from entering into any explanation of different projects of peace between the Porte and the Pasha, founded upon that basis, to which the French Government was ready to agree.

M Guizot has told me, unofficially and confidentially, that according to the first of those projects, the hereditary government of the Pashalick of Acre, as well as that of Egypt, would be conceded to blehemet An, that, according to the second, the Pashalicks of Acre and of Tripoli for life, with the hereditary government of Egypt; and, according to a third project, the hereditary government of Egypt; with the Pashalick of Acre and the government of Candia for life. With respect to the suspension of hostilities on a future day to be fixed, and the opening a negotiation for peace, on the basis of the actual state of military occupation at the time of the armistice, as suggested by M Guizet in the conservation I held with him on Friday last, he said to me this day, that he does not consider that suggestion, which he made only with reference to another of a similar kind, made by Baron Bulow to M. Bourqueney, as an official proposition addressed to Her Majesty's Government, but merely as an intimation that in case the Albed Powers should desire the concurrence of France in the octilement of the affairs of the East, the French Government would be ready to enter into negotiation upon that basis.

(No. 827.) My Lord,

THE publication of your Lordship's despatch of the 2nd of this month, in which you reply to M. Thiers' despatch of the 8th of October, relative to the deposition of Mehemet Ali, has made great sensation in the political society of Paris. It was nearly the sole subject of conversation at the hotels of the Ministern who received company last night; and M. Guizot was closely questioned by some of his supporters who are the advocates of a pacific policy, as to the construction he put upon your Lordship's despatch, and had some difficulty in satisfying his interrogators that your Lordship, in asserting the right of the Sultan to appoint whom he pleased be generopartically for also of 1 securitaries did not been to Gether, a untertial of expelling Mahemet Ali from Egypt. M (runcot in, however, very much annoyed by the publication of this despatch; he said to me, that it would add exceedingly to the difficulties of the Government in the debate on the Address, and augment the numbers of the war party on the division. I am inclined to think, from some words which dropped from him in his conversation with me, that he has pledged himself, in the communion of the Address in the Chamber of Peers, to act up to the declaration contained in M Thiers' note of the 8th of October, in regard to France not consenting to the Government of Egypt being wrested from Mehemet Ali. He expressed to me his belief, a belief, he said, founded on his reliance on your word, that it was not the intention of the Allies, if they succeeded in driving the Egyptians out of Syria, to attack Egypt. If, however, that intention should be changed, he would not declare, as M Thiers had done, that France would go to war, but he had no hesitation in saying that he would not remain Minister.

With reference to this explanation, I have to state to your Excellency, that it must be apparent that the rapid progress of events in Syria has put all contingent suggestions of an earlier date out of the question, even if in any case such suggestions could, as being departures from the Treaty of the 15th July, have been subjects for discussion.

IN answer to your Excellency's despatch No. 327 of the 13th instant, I have to astruct you to state to M tranzet that he is quite right in stating, that I said to him before he left England that it is not the intention or wish of the Allies to expel Mehemet Ah from Egypt, and that the object of the operations now in progress is to restore Syria to the direct authority of the Sultan; and the instructions to Sir Robert Stopford, of which I send you copies, and which you will read confidentially to M. M. (No. 21)

My Lord,

Alexandria, October 16, 1840

SINCE I had the honour to address your Lordahip on the 6th instant, nothing of material importance has occurred.

The country remains quiet, with the exception of a slight manifestation of discontent amongst the Cairo Militia, owing to a report that a part of them were to be sent to Syria.

On hearing this, Mehemet Ali went immediately to Cairo, and by his presence restored tranquility; and, at the same time, ordered that the communications with Sues, which had undergone a momentary stoppage, a round be respected, and every facility given by the authorities for the transmission of mails and the safe passage of travellers.

Captain Johnson, the East India Company's Deputy Agent, has applied to Mehemet Ali, and obtained from him an officer to escort the mails from Sucz abould they arrive, in which case we may expect them at Alexandria on the 21st or 22nd instant.

Great activity prevails in strengthening the fortifications of Alexandria under the superintendence of Colonel Galisso. The equipment of the combined fleet is going on, and nearly completed; the Turkish sailors have not been removed, although their discontent rather increases.

No. 39

Mr. Count Larking to Viscount Palmerston.—(Received November 15.)

(No. 23.)

My Lord.

Alexandria, October 28, 1840.

IN my last despatch No. 23 of the 6th instant. I had the borour to inform your Landst p, that Melemet Ah had received intelligence of the non-source lefeats of his troops in Syria, and also of the defection of the Emir Bechir.

This intelligence at first affected him much, but has not prevented it in making the greatest efforts to support his son Ibrahim; in this view he is collecting a large number of camels at Cairo to transport provisions and amministration.

He has also had recourse to the expedient of recalling from Cairo Sheik Abou Naked and Sheik Ah, and his son, of the family of Abd it Malek. These individuals were partizant of the Sheik Bechir, who was killed about fifteen years ago, and have been for the last seven years living at Cairo in a sort of honourable captivity, at the instance of the Emir Bechir, who confiscated their property, but afterwards, at Mehemet Ah's request, allowed them its usufruet. They are all of the Druse religion, and are expected a array. Any order of religion is to receive the pseudo-investiture of the principality of Mount Lebanon.

The Sheaks banished to Sennaar about two months ago have also been sent for, with a view to their liberation, in order that they may combine with the above-mentioned individuals in producing dissension in Mount Lebanon.

Notwithstanding these measures, and the encouragement given in my M. Cochelet and Count Walewski, it is evident, that Mehemet Ali has no longer that confidence in his position which he formerly possessed; and I believe I am correct in assuming, that he has now renounced all hope of being able to retain possession of Syria, if left to his own resources, and that in his present efforts he is actuated by the vam hope instilled into his policy, through French agency, that if Ibrahim can hold out till the spring, French negotiation will save him, and eventually insure him the possession of those provinces.

Although the influence of France in this country is at present great, if I may venture an opinion, I should say, that Mehemet Ah begins to doubt whether the Government of that nation can assist him in the present cross, and I think I can perceive a desire on his part for a rapprochement with England. I am led to this conclusion from his conversations, and I think another instance in favour of the assumption, is the great facility he is affording to British commercial interests, both as regards the shipping here, and the assistance he has just afforded in transmitting the India mails from Sues to this port.

These mails arrived here this morning, and proceed at once to Maltaby the "Liverpool" steamer

No. 40.

Lord Beowrale to Viscount Palmerston.—(Received November 21)

(No. 174.)

My Lord,

Vienna, November 14, 1840.

AS Prince Metternich's last despatches to Paris will have been communicated to your Lordship, I need give no account of their contents.

The immediate motive for writing them arose from the necessity in which the Prince found himself of accounting for his conduct in withholding instructions to the Internuncio to concur in the step prescribed to Lord Ponsonby by your Lordship's despatch No. 195, of October 15th.

The publication of that despatch in the newspapers led him to apprehend that Asstra words be half up as star long in the way of an are calle settlement of existing differences, and be therefore hastened to explain the motives of his conduct.

He took this opportunity of inculcating upon the French Government that the best course they could pursue would be that of determining Mehemet Alt to an early aubmission. Having had repeated opportunities of hearing from the Prince his opinion as to the terms which might in that case be granted to the Pasha, I may state that these terms do not include the cession of any part of Syria, which, with the fortress of St. Jean d'Acre, must, in his opinion, be restored entire to the Sultan. With regard to Egypt, the Prince holds that the conditions upon which it may be conceded to Mehemet Ali must depend upon the circumstances of the moment when he shall make his submission. The most advantageous terms upon which it might be granted to him would be hereditarily to him and his descendants. The least advantageous would be those upon which he lately held it, during the Sultan's pleasure. Between these two extreme points there are many modifications, any one of which might be adopted according to the circumstances of the moment. I have represented to the Prince that the action of givening Egypt hereditarily to Mehemet Ali had been put forwards in the first instance as a compensation for his relinquishment of other parts of the Sultan's dominions, but that if he should delay his submission until Acre had been wrested from him, he would no longer have anything to offer in return for the boon, while France, although she might make war to defend him in Egypt, could not do so in order to force the Sultan to confer upon him a benefit to which he has no claim. In this reasoning the Prince fully acquiesced.

If St. Jean d'Acre should neither be taken before the bad weather sets in, nor be ceded by Mehemet Alı during the winter, Prince Metternich is fully prepared to see it attacked in apring; nor do I think that in such a case Austria would withhold such assistance as might be necessary to advance the success of the operation, Count St. Aulaire having, some days ago, renewed to Prince Metternich the request that something might be conceded to France, I represented to the Prince that, under the turn which events had taken, it was an immense concession to France to restore to Mehemet Ali the Government of Egypt, from which, but for the wish of the Allies to propittate the French Government, nothing would be easier than to expel him.

Prince Metternich had shown no disposition to accede to Count St. Aulaire's request, and be fully agreed to the doctrine that the replacing Mehemet Ali in the Government of Egypt, if it shall take place, will be a sufficient concession to France.

Count Appour yesterday communicated to M. Guisot a long despatch of Prince Metternich, written after the intelligence had reached Vienna of the change of Ministry in France, and of the appointment of M. Guisot to the department of Foreign Affairs. The despatch in written in a very friendly spirst to M Guizot. Prince Metternich apprehends that in the present excited state of France, a pacific Ministry will have great difficulties to encounter; and conceiving that the settlement of peace between the Sultan and the Viceroy of Egypt will not be complete, unless France cone a reas a special configuration be broken the attrament of that object

A suggestion is thrown out by the Austrian Minister, that the influence of France should be exerted over Mehemet Ali, to persuade him to solicit his Sovereign to invest him with the hereditary Government of Figs pt on the condition of his yielding the rest of his possessions, whilst Four Allied Powers should use their influence at Constantinople to induce the Sultan to comply with the request of the Pasha.

WITH reference to your Excellency's despatch No. 331 of the 16th metant, in which you report that a disposition exists on the part of one of the Powers, parties to the Treaty of the 15th July, to make concessions, in regard to Turkish Affairs, to France as let M Guzzof, wated the Allies declined to make to France under M. Thiers, I have to state to your Excellency that this distinction does not seem founded upon any just

If the Allied Powers refused to France, under M Thiers, the concessions which M. Thiers demanded, which were, that the whole, or an important portion, of Syria should be left in the occupation of Mehemet Ali, the Altied Powers did not do so on account of any personal feeling on the part of the Allies against M. The re, but because they thought that such an arrangement as that desired by M. Thiers would be desirablive of the integrity of the Turkish Empire, detrimental to the independence of the Sultan in ferious to the halan e of power, and largerous in its results to the peace of Europe.

Now, none of these considerations can be altered by the circumstance that M. Thiers has been succeeded by M. Guizot, and that the latter directs, for the present, the Foreign Affairs of France; for, even if the force of these considerations depended, which it obviously does not, upon the personal character of the individual who may hold at a particular moment a particular office in France, it must be recollected that the arrangements, to which the concessions in question relate, are meant to be permanent, while the retention of power by any given individual in France, or in any other country, must necessarily be uncertain and precarrous, and, in any case, of comparatively limited duration.

I SOLICITED the honour of being admitted to the presence of your Imperial Majesty, that I might lay at the foot of your Majesty's throne the standard taken in battle by your Majesty's valuent troops, and sent to me from the officer who had the happiness to direct the actions of those brave men in the glorious combat of the 10th of October

A few weeks since, some rebellious subjects of your Majesty boasted that this standard should be displayed before the capital of your empire. The standard is now here, a monument of the trainings of your Majesty's arms, and an evidence of the error of those who proclaimed the weakness of the Sublime Porte, and the power of the late Pasha of Egypt

Viscount Ponsonby to Admiral Stopford.

Sir, Therapia, October 25, 1840.

I HAVE been directed by Lord Palmeraton to inform you, that the right of commercial blockade, that is to say, the right of preventing neutral merchant ships from entering a blockaded port, is a beligerent right, which can be exercised only by a State against another State with which it is at war. But no State can be at war with the subject of another State; because war cannot be waged, except with those with whom peace can be made but no treaty of peace can be concluded with a subject, who has no independent will, and who must follow the orders of his Sovereign, in peace or war, and who cannot make peace or war for himself. Alt we can do is, to prevent the Egyptian ships of war from coming out of port, and by so doing we help the Turkish blockade, but our ships cannot stop nor search any neutral merchantmen, whether English, or French, or other.

Having, in pursuance of Lord Palmerston's directions, made the above communication to you. I beg leave to add, that there is no impeachment of the right of the Sublime Porte to establish a blockade of the strictest nature, and to enforce it by the Ottoman ships of war

I have, &c., (Signed) PONSONBY

My Lord,

Therapia, November 1, 1840

IRCORD.T extremely that I could not get means to forward before yesterday to the Admiral his instructions about St. Jean d'Acre. I fear he may have left the coast, to take refuge in Marmorice Buy, before they reach him, which will be a serious minfortune.

I learn from excellent authority, that the greatest confusion and disaffection prevails in the garmon of St. Jean d'Acre, which consists of 4,000 men, and that thrahim Pasha is so suspicious of the chiefs, that he has had one of them (Said Mobamed) arrested, and has ordered Scheriff Pasha, of Dumascus, to go there as fast as possible to take the command.

Ibrahim, with from 10,000 to 12,000 men, is near Zachlé, in the plain between Lebanon and Anti-Libanus - I believe the place is named Malacha. He will have the greatest difficulty in obtaining provisions. It is certain that the Haouran and the Ledges will revolt immediately, and aid the rest of the country. The inhabitants of Damascus are extremely ill disposed towards Ibrahim, and the people of Hebron have usen as masse.

The mountaineers have cut off the retreat of the garrison of Topoli, which was directed on Balbeck, and the report is current, and believed, that it was the appearance of a British vessel off Alexandretta, that induced the troops (Egyptian, to evacuate Latakus and Tortosa.

If to all this should be added the capture of St. Jean d'Acre, the fall of Alexandra would follow the first cannon shot directed against it.

The French are endeavouring to raise the Syrians against the Sultan, but their unceasing activity has not succeeded

A Regiment of 2,500 men and its Colonel descried from the Egyptians. Izzet Pasha gave the Colonel the rank of Pasha. He has arrived here.

I am afraid it was not quite right to send the Emir Bechir to Malta. The Turks and others may be suspecious and jealous of it. I think it will be proper that I should consent, it asked by the Porte to write to the Conservor of Marta.

and desire him to send the Emir to Constantinople. Nobody will do him any harm here.

My Lord,

Berlin, November 18, 1840,

LORD GRANVILLE, in his despatch to your Lordship of the 23rd ultimo. No. 295, says, "that M. Thiers spoke of despatches he had received from Count Bresson, which stated that the Prusuan Government propose making some propositions to the other parties to the Treaty of the 15th of July, calculated to bring about an arrangement between the Soltan and Mehemet Ah, in which the French Government might concur." I asked Baron Werther if it was so, as he had never spoken to me of these propositions; his Eacelleacy and that Count Bresson must have mintaken his meaning, for he never had the intention of making any propositions, and had repeatedly told Count Bresson, that if France wished to become a party to the Convention, she must take the initiative, and that the Four Powers must continue to execute the stipulations of the Treaty until it was accepted by Mehemet Ali.

My Land,

St. Petersburgh, November 11, 1840

Till Prussian Minister and the Austrian Charge d'Affaires are much dissatiafied with their late communications with Count Nesselrode, and both have assured me that they find but little disposition in the Russian Government to meet the wishes of their Cabinets to adopt a more conciliatory line of policy towards France

The Prussan Minister has read me a despatch from his Government, which he has communicated to Count Nesselrode, in which the unbending tone of Baron Brunnow is strongly commented on, and appears to have given offence to the Prussan Government

Count Nesselrode persists in his opinion, that it is impossible for the Allies to take the initiative in any overture to France, and the despatches since received from Baron Brunnow giving an account of the rejection by your Lordship of M. Guizot's proposition before leaving London, and also of the objections ruised by your Lordship to Prince Metternich's proposal of a meeting at Wieshaden, have confirmed Count Nesselrode in the determination of the Russian Cabinet to await events.

His Excellency read me these despatches this morning, and expressed his reliance in the firmness of the British Cabinet to carry out the stipulations of the Convention of July to their full extent. The despatches are written in the same tone as that which I reported in my No. 100, and with the evident object of upholding the Emperor in his hostility to France, and are filled with arguments in favour of the Imperial Majesty's favourite principle of no conversion.

The Austrian Charge d'Afforces received a messenger yesterday. Count Nesselrode informs me that he has brought snother vague proposal from Prince Metternich, to which he is not disposed to give any immediate answer. His Excellency has learnt from Vienna, with some surprise, that Prince Metternich has modified the instructions to the Interruncio, which it was expected would have been forwarded in exact conformity with your Lordship's despatch, No 195, to Lord Ponsonby.

Foreign Office, November 26, 1840, 1 HAVE received your desputch No. 105, in which you state that the same Maister and the Austrian Charge d'Affaices at St. Petersburgh are

Prusium M nister and the Austrian Charge d'Affairea at St Petersburgh are much distatofied with their late communications with Count Nesselrode, and that the unbending tone of Baron Brunnow appears to have given offence to the Prusium Government

I have to state to you, in reply, that in order to understand correctly the value of these communications from Vienna and Berlin, which have been received by Count Newclonde, and in which fault is found with the conduct of Baron Brumow in the Conference on Turkish Affairs, it is necessary to bear in much the many fluctuations which have taken place in the opinion and feelings of the Austrian and Prussian Governments, and especially of the Prussian Government, upon these matters. The Austrian Government entered into the Treaty of the 15th July readily and with much zeal, the Prussian Government, in ratifying the engagements contracted by its Plempotentiary, made a reservation, storing that it meant to give to the Albance its moral support, but not its active co-operation; and that if war should ensue with France, Prussia would not take part in such war, unless attacked by France, which it is sufficiently obvious that in such case she would in all probability immediately be.

The Two German Courts have, ever since the conclusion of the Trenty, been either for a vigorous execution of its stipulations, or for an abandonment of some of those stipulations out of deference to the wishes and threats of France, according as those Courts have felt themselves internally strong or weak, and according as they have thought the chances of war remote or near at hand. The representations which you refer to in your despatch, were made from hence, and from Vienna and Berlin, at a moment when a great effort of intrigue had been made by the French Government to shake the firmness of the Allied Powers, and to weaken their union, and those efforts had partially succeeded with the Two Courts, and with their Representatives in the Conference,

Those efforts, however, fuled in producing any effect upon Baron Brunnow, and hence the complaints levelled against him at St. Petersburgh. But those complaints were most unjust. Baron Brunnow has, from first to last, since he came here in September, 1839, down to the present time, maintained the same tone and held the same language. He has always stated the desire of his Government to settle the arrangements between the Sultan and Mehemet Ali upon the basis originally put forward by England, namely, that the whole of Syrus should be restored to the direct authority of the Sultan, and that nothing but Egypt should be left to Mchemet Ali; but Baron Brunnow has never maisted dogmatically upon his opinions, so as to throw obstacles in the way of a reasonable and satisfactory arrangement.

Baron Bruunow has, ever since the Tresty was signed, held on all occasions the same language as Her Majesty's Government, namely, that the Treaty could not be abandoned and must be executed, but while, on the one hand, before the Treaty was signed, he threw no obstacles in the way to prevent the accession of France thereto, so since it was signed, he has never urged measures calculated to bring on a war between France and the Four Powers.

Now, however, the operations in Syria have been attended with signal success, the French Government has decided for peace, and the Chamber seems resolved to support that policy; and both the Austrian and Prussian Governments have declared that the Treaty must be executed, and that Mehemet Ah can in no case be allowed to retain more than Egypt. Therefore the complaints of the Austrian Charge d'Affaires and of the Prussian Minister at St. Petersburgh, which originated in a different state of things, will probably not be renewed. You will read this despatch confidentially to Count Nesselrode

My Lord,

Paris, November 20, 1840.

I RECEIVED by the post on Wednesday but your Lordship's despatches, Nos. 325, 326, and 327; and it appearing to me to be important that no time should be lost in communicating to M. Guizot the instructions which the Lords Corresponds to be Arthratic and been breited by your local parketers of the 14th instant to send to Sir Robert Stopford, I availed myself of the opportunity of my meeting M. Guizot at dinner that evening at the Tuilleries, to read to his Excellency confidentially those letters. I also read to the French Minister your despatch, No. 327, in which you observe that the Sultan and his Alices would be in an embarrassing situation, if, after they had expelled the Egyptions from Syria, Mehemet Ali abould still refuse to make his submission. to the Sultan, should still persent in retaining the Turkish fleet, and should remain in a posture of rebellion. M Guizot received with satisfaction my communication, and upon my saying that I had been induced to make it at the earl at memoral, coorder that he to all throughout many at writing to M. Cochelet on the subject of it, by the first steam packet which might leave Marwelles or Toulon for the Levant, he answered, that he would write immediately to M. Cochelet, and give orders by the telegraph that a steam vessel should be ready at Toulou to convey his despatches to Alexandria.

Upon my calling M. Guizot's attention to the passage in your Lordship's despared to what I have above referred and on a verpressing tax a metion that the French Government could not expect, if Mehemet Als persusted in his rebeltion, that the Sultan would be content to abandon his right to the sovereignty of Egypt, and take no measures for the restoration of the Turkish fleet, his Excellency fully acknowledged the embarransment of that situation, but merely added, " Alors comme alors," meaning, that it will be time enough when such embarrassment shall arise, to consider of the measures which it may be then expedient to adopt. The French Government, however, will make every effort to induce Mehemet Ali to avail lamself of the communication which Sir Robert Stopford is now sustructed to make to him, and have no doubt of their success, if St. Jean d'Acre shall have fallen, or is likely very soon to fall, into the hands

Le 4 Novembre, 1840.

LA Convention du 15 Juillet ayant retiré à Méhémet Ali l'administration de l'Île de Candie, la Porte se trouve ainsi appelée aujourd'hui à porter son attention sur les moyens d'établir solidement son autorité dans cette Île, et je n'hémte pas à affirmer que la première, la seule condition même pour s'en assurer la tranquille possession, rende dans le choix du Gouverneur qu'elle y enverra. Caudie ne ressemble à aucune autre dépendance de l'Empire Ottoman. Géographiquement cette Île se trouve placée dans une position exceptionnelle. La population, qui est évaluée à 180,000 habitains, compte 150,000 Grees et 30,000 Tures seulement, les dermers, maîtres des forteresses et de la majeure la Circes, moins neles, mais plus nombreux et protegés par leurs montagnes, n'acceptent qu'avec répugnance la suprématie des Tures, ausa n'ont-ils jamais laissé Compper une occasion pour tâcher de s'y soustraire. À ces causes naturelles de la rivahié entre ces deux fractions de la nation, il faut ajouter le aouvenir de la tyrannie que les Tures ont exercé dans les années précédentes eur les habitans Grecs. Nulle part peut-être, il faut en convenir, les Grecs n'ent eu à subir une plus dure oppression. La révolution Grecque vint leur offair l'occasion de se venger, et ils en profitèrent largement; d'horribles cruautés agnalèrent en Candie cette periode de malheurs, et elles contribuérent à rendre encore plus profonde la haune réciproque de ces nations rivales.

Mus la révolution Grecque réveille parent la population Chrétienne de l'Ile un autre sentiment bien plus dangereux pour l'autorité de la Porte; le désir de l'independance. L'intervention des Puissances put seule empécher crête lle de se soustraire à la domination Ottomane, mais les Grecs, en se résignant aux décisions des Cabinets, n'out pas rénoncé à l'espoir de s'émanciper un jour de cette domination , la proximite et les incessantes provocations de la Grece ne contribuent que trop à les raffermir dans cet espoir.

Ce sut premièrement en vue de ce danger que la Porte se décida en 1826, à confier la Candie à l'administration de Méhémet Ali, et pendant plusieurs années le Pacha sut obligé d'y entretenir une sorce de 8,000 à 9,000 hommes pour la maintenir dans l'obéssance. C'est alors qu'il y envoya Moustapha Pacha, d'abord comme Commandant de la troupe, ensuite comme Gouverneur-Général de l'He. Par l'énergie de son administration, Moustapha Pacha parvint à compremer tous les partin. Le population Turque, jusqu'à là joussant d'un pouv ar des partine, lut soumis à un regime réguler et les Greca contains par la crainte, et protégés en meme temps contre l'oppression des indigènes Musulmans, surent mous disposés d'écouter les instigutions de leurs correligionaires de la Grèce. L'Île put ainsi jouir d'une tranquillité qu'elle n'avant pas couns sous les délégués de la Porte.

Moustapha l'acha, qui jouismit déjà, à son arrivée dans l'Île, d'une fortune considérable, y acquit de grandes propriétés, qui augmentèrent son influence et l'attachement encore davantaire du passe les recuests au permett et le se passer des extortions, il put donner, lui le premier, l'exemple d'une administration équitable, et se concilier ainsi l'affection et la confiance de la population

tion équitable, et as concilier ainsi l'affection et la confiance de la population En effet il n'y a qu'une voix à son égard, et tout le monde s'accorde à lui connaître les qualités d'un bon Gouverneur. Partisan d'inlleurs declaré de la cavilisation, et déposablé de tout préjugé, il no se lausse point influencer par des antipathies réligieuses, ou par les considérations d'un sentiment exclusif. Aussi la nouvelle de sa confirmation par la Porte a été accueillie avec transport par toute la partie saine de la population ; elle n'a contrarié que ceux qui espéraient trouver dans un changement l'occasion d'accomplir leurs projets coupables. Mus tout en se montrant disposé à faire sa soumission an Sultan, Monstapha Paria a expresse le désir d'obtenir le gouvernement viager de l'Ile. Si l'on considere cette demande comme une condition imposée par Moustapha Pacha, elle paraltra avec rasson absurde; mais d'abord ce n'est pas sous ce point de vue qu'il faut l'envisager. Moustapha l'acha est prôt à remettre l'Île sur la ample injonction du Sultan : il voudrait sculement qu'on ajoutêt à la faveur de sa confirmation celle de le nommer viagèrement, non seulement dans l'intérêt de son propre avenir, mais encore dans celui de la tranquilité de l'Île à laquelle. il doit nécessairement s'intéresser en sa qualité de grande propriétaire. En effet a'il ne fut nommé Gouverneur de Candie qu'au même titre que les autres Pachas, c'est à dire avec la perspective d'être remplacé peut-être un an après, les esprits momentanément épassés ne renonceront pas entièrement à l'espoir de réaliser plus tard leurs vues intéressées; les Turcs d'un côté, les Grees de l'autre, se prépareront en silence à profiter du premier changement pour renouveler leurs tentatives, et la configue publique sora toujours en éveil. Si no contrare Mousta, la Pacha est remoci à vi , les partis, le a nature a a sonadministration et dominés par l'ascendant qu'il a su prendre sur eux, se résignerent au silence, et la Sublime Porte sera ainsi délivrée des embarras et des complications qui lui susciteraient de nouvelles intrigues dans l'Île. L'essentiel pour la Porte, c'est d'aviser aux moyens d'assurer son autorité, et de la garantir, soit contre les intrigues, soit contre les tentatives extérieures. Si Moustapha Pacha peut rear la cette louble des ar, porregué ne pas lui en faccater les moyens? Assurément on ne craindra pas que l'ambition le porte à abuser de la concession de la Porte pour concevoir des projets d'indépendance ; ce n'est pas un Gouverneur de Candis qui pourra jamois espérer devenir un Souvernin independant. Il faudruit le supposer fou pour lui prêter l'espoir de se mointenir, lm Musulman, maître d'un pays habité par 150,000 Grees et par 80,000

Turcs seulement, seus l'appui de la métropole. Dire-t'on qu'il conservera de la sympatme pour son ancien maître Méhemet Ali? Et qu'importe, pourva qu'il gouverne bien . l'e? Une autre consideration me fait desirer qu'on laisse à Moustapha Pacha le gouvernement à vie de Candie, c'est de conserver ainsi su service un homme qui, par ses lumières et ses bonnes qualités, pourra être un auxiliaire utile pour la réforme de la bonne cause. Or, dans un pays où La impue dispose de tout, qui peut assurer qu'un an après qu'il aura été nommé Pacha de Condie, on ne les retire cette place pour la donner à quelque favori, ni en ne la lui assure pas par une concession vagère? Quant à moi, et vo les élémens divers qui caractérisent l'état intérieur de Candie, et la placent dans une categorie spéciale, j'ai la certitude que tout changement d'administration dans cette lle y amènera de grandes perturbations. Si l'intérêt public était la seule règle des déterminations du Convernement Ture, je crourais inutile de faire à Moustapha Pacha la concession qu'il demande, car je ne douterais pas alors qu'on na le laisse à non poste tant que sa présence est nécessure. Mais on pole suit que trop, une intrigue pourra tuffire pour la lui ôter, et c'est ce que je voudrais qu'on empêchât des à present, cur, je le répète, le sort à venir de Canche m'inquette besucoup. Alors même que le Sultan ne voudrant pes même Its accomber ex, bestement le titre de viager a faud at tes ues que le firman de sa nomination contint quelqu' assurance qui autocust Moustapha Pacha à experer que tant qu'il se conduire bien, il conservers sa place. Il me samble même important qu'on ne tarde pas à lei faire pervenir ce firman, et à demander sa soumusion à l'officielle.

Alexandrie, le 27 Octobre, 1840.

RIEN de nouveau s'est passé pendant cette décade nous n'avons eu de Syrie l'arrivée d'aucune Vapeur. M Boufort est revenu, voie de terre, de son voyage de Syrie: ses fatigues ont été tellement grandes qu'il vient d'être obligé de garder le lit, étant attaqué d'une fièvre cérébrale. La position d'Ibrahan Pacha, qu'il a vue de ses propres yeux, lui a donné un coup terrible, à lui qui eroyait lbraham Pacha invincible, inéme pour les Europeeus. Aussi ne s'est il jamais étendu sur la Syrie, se contentant à dire que la position d'Ibraham Pacha sortirait de ce maternis pas. Nous avons appris à Alexandrie le départ de l'Emir Béchir et de sa famille pour Malte; cela a parti satisfaire Son Altesse. Par la trêbe occas mille (la pourraient entrer et cortir chargés, que c'est l'Amiral Stopford qui avait voulu favoriser la commèrce; que passé ce terme le blocus le plus rigoureux existerait.

La même embarcation Anglaise qui a apporté la nouvelle du départ de leurs Bechit jour Maite, a apporté a du negociant lui, as une ettre du Commandant Fisher, dans isquelle il le chargeaut au nom de l'Amiral Stopford de ne pas s'adresser à Constantinople pour arranger ses affaires, vu que là étaient ses ennemis, mais de se soumettre à la générosité de l'Angloterre, lui déclarant que s'il faisait cette démarche ses affaires s'arrangement à son trèsgrand avantage.

Son Altesse sursit, dit-on, répondu qu'il connaissant la punsance de l'Angleterre ; qu'il envast annu que cette nation, qu'il avait toujours protégée plus que la France, et cela appastement, avant été la première à tourner ses armes contre lui, qu'il avait choss la France pour mediatrice; que ces deux Puissances Statent vocance; qu'elles pouvaient s'entendre entre elles, mais que lui ne forut jaman que ce que voudruit la France. Ayant complètement échoué, l'on a voulu employer l'influence de Boghos Bey, et de M. Amatani, qui avait reçu une lettre du Comte Medem dans laquelle il l'engageant à appayer cette démarche. Quand ces deux personnages se sont présentés à Son Altease pour lui parler du même sujet, Sou Alteme les a repoussés avec indignation, disant qu'il n'aurait jamais cru que des gens qui se disaient être ses amis pourraient lui faire une aussi indigne proposition. Le soir le Consul de France étant allé au paints. Son Alteree lus a tout reconté, disant que ces messieurs cherchalent à le detacher de in France. Le même jour (le 14 Octobre,) est entré dans le port le "Méteor," portant de grandes nouvelles pour le Pacha; d'abord la réponse de M Theers an mémorandum de Lord Palmerston, plus l'ultimatum adressé aux Cinq Passances. Dans cet ultimatum il serait notific à la Sublime Porte la révocation de la déchéance de Méhémet Ali, et la déclaration à toutes les l'ussances que la France preod sous sa protection Mehémet Ali, et lui garantit ses droits. Quand Son Alteme a eu cette nouvelle, le sang de contentement est monté au viange de Méhémet Ali ; au moment, on a craint pour ses jours.

La population est réngoée à tout événement, l'on viendrait lu annoncer le bombardement d'Alexandrie, qu'on ne seruit pus étonné. Le Nil est toujours à vingt-trois pieds ; pour peu que l'hiver soit rigoureux la Basse Egypte ne pourra pas ensemencer les blés. Le Pacha continua à eniger les droits de terrain encore mondees : la maère est à son comble; Alexandrie est obligé de renvoyer des grains dans l'intérieur; le peu de village qui reste, meurt de fam, leur grain ayant été conporté par l'esu de Nil

L'on assure que les Anglais ont rénancé su hombardement de St. Jean d'Acre. M. le Comte Walewski est toujours à Alexandrie; il a très souvent des conférences avec le Pacha, qui l'a pris en très-grande anutié

Le grand vapeur Angiais de la correspondance des Indes est devant le port, et attend la malle des Indes, qui ne viendra pas à ce qu'on pense.

Le Commandant Fisher a reçu hier le bateau à vapour la "Vesuvius," qu'il avant demandé pour s'en servir pour parlement à l'entrée du port lorsque le cas l'exigent.

My Lord, Therapia, Navember 8, 1840

I HAVE learnt privately, but with certainty, that the French Embassy bas assured the Sublime Porte that Her Majesty's Government have strongly disapproved of the deposition of Mehearet All.

I have found an occasion to state to his Excellency Rechid Pasha that your Lordship has fully a, proved of that measure and considers it a necessary one.

Extrait d'un Rapport de M Lauren.

Beyrout, Is 16 Octobre, 1840.

VOICI la manuere dont s'exprima l'Emir Béchir sur les plans ultérieurs d'Ibrahim Pacha.

On avait formé le projet d'envalur l'Anatolie avec 30,000 homnes de tre que reli cres et avec actant ce Bacti-cozoule le Hanani et de Bermaia Mais Méhémet Ali n'était pas d'accord avec lui-même sur la date de l'enécution de ce plan. Il espérait, d'un côté, un arrangement amable de son affaire et la médiation de la France; il redoutait, de l'autre, l'apparition de l'Armée Russe. Plus tard on promit des renforts qui devaient venir d'Egypte. Mais lorsque l'interrection des Marie tes cut celute on dut renoncer su projet d'avascan, d'autant plus que les chefs de district en Anatolie avec lesquels Méhémet Alis c'était mis en rapport, avaient été pour la plupart destitués et remplacés par des personnes inconnues.

En outre les fonds nécessaires étaient en retard, et les Bachi-bozouk demandaient, d'un ton menaçant, le payement de feurs arrières. L'Armée arait beaucoup de maiades, peu de medecins, et un habillement à peus suffisant. Encors au commencement de Février l'Armée régulière était forte de 90,000 hommes, mais elle a été tellement affaiblis par la désertion et la mortalité, qu'à présent il peut à peine être quention des deux tiers. Depuis le débarquement des Alhés à Djounie les Egyptiens ont perdu au-delà de 17,000 hommes, et un nombre égal à cetui-ci est prêt à se débander des que l'Armée s'avancers plus loin

Ibrahim Pacha a douze régimens de Cavalerio, quatra regimens d'Artillerie et trois reger en a li for terre caspone en et sur resquele d'pent conster. Mais ceux-ci ne pourront être employés que dans la plaine. Le reste de l'Armée est sédeutaire et ne peut bougur sans danger pour la possession de la Syrie. C'est ainsi que les 4 000 hommes qui forment la garmion de St. Jean d'Acre, les 800 qui sont à Eskalon, et les 1,400 qui se trouvent aux environs de Gaza. Jaffa et Karfa, no peuvent être déplaces sans compromettre la sureté de ces places. Il en est de même des 3,000 hommes de Tripoli et de Lalaquia. Dans ces lieux le peuple s'insurgerant ausatôt. La même chose arriverait es on reportant sectoriest une par des 7 800 hommes qui se trouvent act selle. mert à Au nouve. Kills et Anta! l'arsous. Adama Marache et 5d stau, ne comptent cue 8, 800 h annes of the asset à faire pour garder la frontière et es forts de Kulek-boghan et de Beilan. Les garnisons de Homs, Alep, et Hama. a sort fortes que co f 0000 h mores et Il recor Posta la meme en a reconsul'insuffisance. A Dumas il n'y a qu'un régiment d'Artillerie et quatre compaga es de Balt dj's Mus entre Balbek et Zable, dans le velage de Malaca, se trouve campé lheahim Pacha avec 6,000 hommes et sept pièces de campagne derrière un fossé.

Par conséquent, si les Alliés veulent se borner à la guerre de montagne, ils n'auront à combattre, outre les garnisons, que l'Armée de Malaca. S'ils descendent dans la plaine de Balbek, ils y trouveront la Cavalerie, l'Artillerie, et les troi

Parmi les troupes mentionnés jusqu'ici on se comprend pas le 12,000 à 15,000 hommes cantonnés à Orfa, et que Méhémet Ali a ponasés en avant dans le but d'attembre plus tôt Durbekur su cas où il ferait une invasion dans l'Anatolie.

L'Emir Bechir pense que cette Armée, composée pour la plupart de troupes urres, pourrant être, sans inconvenza retirée et réunie à la susdate Armée de Balbek. Elles presentent alors un effectif de 20,000 à 22,000 hommes. Mais on pourrant s'en rendre maître de la mansère survante.

D'après le plan d'Ibrahim, c'est de Damas que cette Armée doit recevoir ses transtions de guerre et de bouche et toutes ses autres ressources. Elle serait runée dès qu'on lui comperait ses communications avec la dits ville, ce que peut se faire en lançant sur ses dernères les Drusos du Haouran, de Hasbie, et de Rahachié, qui sont prêts à s'insurger.

Ibrahus Pacha no se battrait alors que pour gagner la grande route de Dachas à Gonetra, et St. Jean d'Acre. Il faudrait ne pas l'arrêter, man la poursuivre et ne lus couper la retreite qu'à Eskalon et Gaza, où il ne pourrait arriver que très-affaible. Cette poursuite pourrait être confiée, en toute adreté, aux insurgés qu'il s'engageaut (l'Emir) à organiser et à conduire. Les Chefs les plus influens du Haouran, de l'Anti-Laban, et de Naplous, im ont fait, dit-il, les propositions les plus acceptables. Il n'a qu'à les sommer de se lever et ils se rendront à son appel

Pour ce qui regarde les garmions, elles se soumetieront successivement en Sultan après l'expession à ibral en Pacha, et de cette mamère on éparguerait beaucoup de sing et de matériel.

L'Emir n'etait pas à même de nous dire si les magazins, ètc. se trouvaient

Il pensut que l'Armée était approvisionnée pour quatre mon, mais seulement de pain, de fèves, et de lentilles.

C'est à St Jean d'Acre, continua l'Emir, qu'on a transporté le blé qu'on a enlevé, sans le payer, aux paysans de la Judéo aussitôt après la révolte. A Damas il y a des dépôts de blé considérables, mais pas de bonne qualité

L'Armée n'est pus payée et n'a pas d'habits pour la saison qui approche L'esprit dont elle est animée est cetui des esclaves, ce qui les fait rester sous les drapeaux, c'est la crainte des châtimens corporals et l'impossibilité de s'enfuir Les Chefs de l'Armée sont soumis, mais non dévoués à l'ordine. Les troupes sont sur un très manivais pied met les métig nes. La re, agri a re est remproque et s'accroit journellement. Une révolte générale va être la conséquence d'un état en violent.

Dans le cours de la conversation l'Enur me dit ausait ce qui suit. Melémet Ali voulait conquérir la Turque. Il l'aurait pu taire, car Dieu da avait des pé been de moyens. Mais il n'aurait pu y parveur que par un régime de justice et d'humanité. Or, il s'en est si peu soucé que les Syriens ne se sont jamais trouvés dans une situation plus affreuse que depuis trois ana. Nulle part on ne trouvait n'i justice, ni appui, ni súreté. Les paysans de la plaine étaient dépouillés par les soldats et pur les employés civils, d'abord de leur récolte, ensuite de leurs bestieux; après cela on les chamait dans les montagnes. C'est de là qu'ils menaceut maintenant de descendre pour se venger cruellement de leurs oppresseurs.

M. Stendl to Baron Sturmer.

Mondeur le Barou,

CE n'est que hier matsu que j'ai reçu l'instruction que votre Excellence
m'a fast l'honneur de m'adresser en date du 6 de ce mos, et par laquelle clis

a bien voulu me faire connaître l'envoi en Syrie et le but de la mission du Père Etienne, bupérieur-Général des Lazaristes. J'en fus informé par M. Laurin le jour qu'il s'embarque sur le bateau à vapeur à Alexandrie; aussi craignais-je qu'il ne gagne le Patriarche des Maronites avant que je puisse m'aboucher avec lui.

Mus à mon arrivée devant Djourie, je fus informé du contraire. Le Père Etienne était effectivement arrivé, peu de jours avant mor, à bord d'un pyroscaphe Français devant Saïda, renant d'Alexandrie pour empécher les habitans Cathologues du Mont Liban, par l'influence du clergé, à embrasser la cause du Sultan et à s'acmer contre Meliémet Ali. M. Laurin avait profité du même pyroscaphe pour en prévenir M le Baron Bandiera.

Avant que le l'ere Etienne ent le temps de descendre à terre, le Père Leroi, Prefet du Couvent des Luzanstes à Antsura sur le Liban, à deux heures de distance de Djourne, et parent du Père Etienne, se rensit auprès de celui ci. après avoir obtenu le consentement de l'Amiral Stopford, qui lui était nécessaire, comme le Couvent d'Antaura se trouvait su-dech de nos avant postes. Cette permission but fut accordée par l'Amiral Anglais parcoque celus-ci n'ignorait pas que le seul conseil que le Père Leris pouvait donner un Superieur-Général, dans l'état où se trouvaient déjà les habitans de la montagne et surtout le clergé Maronito, était celui de répartir sur-le-champ, sans même mettre pied à terre. En effet tous les montagnants qui avaient pu se mettre en communication avec notre camp ou nos vausseaux, étarent dejà venus chercher des armes et des munitions; le reste de la untion, sourd aux exhortations des nombreux et infatigables émissaires Français, attendast avec impatience le monient de pouvoir suivre leur exemple; le clergé Maronde, loin de précher contre le mouvement de la nation, comme l'exigent M Dénoclosse, Consul de France & Herrout, encouragent sous main la nation à sécouer le joug Egyptien. De plus il y a en Syrie différens rites Catholiques Indigénes, on trouve presque de partout aur le laban des Maronites, des Melquites (Grees quis), des Syriens, et des Armémens Catholiques. Le clergé de ces différentes peuplades, quoique feignant une parfaite barmome, nourrit une certaine jalousie réciproque qui se municate en de certaines occasions; mais les musiconnaires étrangers ont éveillé la jaloune commune de tous les prêtres indigénes, quoique cruz-ci Mehent de la dégulier autant qu'ils peuvent ; noson pour lequelle le Père Etienne n'aurait guère réussi à gagner le clergé et le Patriarche Maronite.

Aussi in Supérieur des Lazaristes ne fut pas sourd aux conseils du Père Préfet, qui, établi depuis plusieurs nanées dans ce pays, ne pouvait pas ignorer to the cast circulatances, il reportet peur Alixas frie peur le je re a ce son arravée, no voulant pas perdee son temps et sa peine sans le moindre résultat, comme les antres Agens Français qui purcourent les montagnes et le litteral de la Syrie. Le bruit qui s'était répandu que d'autres Lezanstes devatent veuir pour seconder leur Supéneur, est déaué de fondement.

No suchant pas si votre Excellence a été prévenue d'autre part du mouvement que se donnent les Emissaires Français en Syrie pour paralyser les efforts don Anglais et souteur Méhémét Ah, je croirais manquer à mon devoir si je ne portais pas à sa connausance ce que y'as appres Ce sont les Consuls de France à Dumas et à Beyrout, le Comte Ratts-Menton et M Déméloise, qui dingent les ménées de ces Agens, presque tous employés des Consulats de Beyrout et de Damas, Tripoli, Saida, Re. M Dénicione a même ordinairement un bateau à-vapeur à sa disposition pour se rendre plus facilensent d'un point de la côte à l'autre, et qu'il envoya à Alexandrie avec a nouvelle de la defection de l'Emir Bechir.

Aux premières démonstrations faites par les Anglais, M. Déméloise se rendit auprès du Patriarche Maranite, et lui ordonne au nom du Gesta de la sit-Français, protecteur de l'Eglise Maronite, de défendre aux montagnards de es nation, qui cet la plus nombreuse, sous peine d'être excomuniée par lui, de s'armer pour se joundre aux troupes Alliées contre Méliemet Ali, menaçant, en cas contraire, que la France retireruit à la cation Marunite sa projection. M Joursouf donne pour réponse que lus, comme ecclémentique, ne pouveit et ne voulait pas so meier d'affaires politiques. Cette premiere tentative avant manquee, M. Baudin, Chancelier du Consulat à Damas, fut envoyé auprès de l'Emir Bechir, et différena employés des Consulats aupres des autres Emirs et Chéiks, pour engager à seconder Ibraham Pacha et ses Généraux. Us les consequent, un nom du Gouvernement Français, de faire résistance pour peu de temps encore aux Albés, qui n'etaient que très-faibles, et qui, en liver, no pourraient fore d'opérations militaires ; en même temps ils assurèrent que dès que le temps le permettrait, une flotte Française très considérable serait envoyée pour battre et chasser de ces parages et de devant Alexandre les forces navales Augio Autrichiennes; que la flotte Egyptienne se joundrait à la Française, et que de plus une Armée Française de cent mille hommes viendrait débarquer en Syrie pour en expulser les troupes Anglaises et celles du Sultan.

Les Armémens qui sont actuellement en France n'avaient d'après eux d'autre but. M. Démélouse ayant appris à temps que l'Emir Béclur s'était décidé de se rendre à Saida pour faire sa soumission, il alla au-devant de lui pour tacher encore de l'en dissuader, must il ne réussit pas mieux que M

C'est avec une grande peine que je doss informer votre Excellence que notre Age til confere a Salla a acra d'arres ce qu'en m'assure a cette occasion une conduite reprochable et en opposition à sea devoirs. Il a nonseulement donné l'hospitalité à M. Ses intentions ne sont pas connues. L'Ameral Stopford pense qu'il pourrait tacher, voyant in Syrie perdue pour lui, ce qui met l'Egypte aussi en grand danger, de tenter un coup de tête, pour embroudler les affaires en Europe. Subject on a Rosse or error to les troupes en l'oppe entant ait bous l'Asie Mineure, ce que, d'après les assertions de M Pontois, serait considéré par la France comme une déclaration de guerre, Ibraham, qui n'a plus beaucomp à perdre et tout à gagner, pourrant avancer en Anatolie, où il ne craint pas de rencontrer beaucoup d'obstacles, et où il compte sur la sympathie de la population Musulmane. L'Anural Stopford ne put toutelois baser sur rien sele - postion.

En tout M. Smith est bien loin de jour de la même confinnce dont jourssait son producessoor et non sans fondement, car le Comanodore avait proposé de prendre Beyront d'assaut, le Colonel South a y opposa, redoutant une torte resistance et pourtant la garnison de cette ville etait dans un état si pitoyable qui ai seule approche de vaisseurs de guerre qui ent beu svant que le Colonel n'est émis son opinion, Solyman l'actus abassanna la place en toute hâte. Il en fut autant de Tripoli. Le jour que le Commodore voulait attaquer Ibrahim Pacha, M Smith his fit donner deux i as cuntreordre et de j'un il tin et enjourdre de se retirer de devant l'ennemi et de rentrer au camp de Djounie, ce qui n'aurait pas manqué de produire un effet noral très desavantagena pour noon, tant onez es lures que cuex les Europtiens. M. Napser attaqua maigré l'ordre positif donné par l'Amiral Stoplord sur la demande de M. Santh, et an bout de quelques heures Ibrahim fut hattu et obligé de quitter la montagne en toute hâte, de crunte d'être fait presonner par les montagnards. Une certaine jalousse que Sir C. Smith ne lausse pas faire transpirer, contribue aussi beaucoup à ce que le Commodore lui soit préiéré même par les Anglass. On le croit du reste trop agé et trop faible pour faire la guerre dans la pantague

Parfois pourtant son curactère se trahit, surtout depuis qu'il s'est blossé à la jambs. Il est purfois d'une brutalité envers ses sub ordonnés qui s'en plasguent ouvertement : l'autre jour il avait ordonné, en contravention avec le Hatti-Chérif, de donner 500 coups de bâton à son cuisinier pour avoir mis trop de sel dans la soupe; un Draguman de l'Amiral Stopford, qui, par bonheur pour cet infortuné, se trouvait présent, intercéda pour

Mr. Wood to Viscount Ponsonby

My Lord,

Beyrout, October 29, 1840.

THE evacuation of Trapoli, on the 18th instant, has been followed by that of Tortosa, Latakia, and Antioch, the same is reported of Beilam and Scanderoup, and Kourk-Kolak,

The Governor of Tross has joined the Saltan's standard and Mchammed Bey the commanding cheer of the garrason, has seen se zed by the mountaineers of Akkar. They have also made a great number of preserves at the expressed the remaining of his troops. Many of the troops that evaruated Latakus have deserted and returned to the honour to inclose herewith.

Though not anything positive is known with regard to Aleppo, yet it is run a rea that the period have shut the gites of the town against the Egyptum troops, and occupy it in the name of the Sultan.

Sheik Said of Beled Super to the south has come to me to Beyrout, and I presented him to his Excellency least Pashs, who gave him a Boyouroulds to return to his district, and collect the Sheiks of Beshara, Souf, Gebel Nablous, Gebel el Kods, and endeavour to cut off the communication between Forahim Pasha's camp and Acre, which has been done I could not procure for Sheik Said more than 800 munkets, but the moment arms arrive, either from Malta or Constantinople, he is to be furnished with a sufficient number to enable him to close on the left flink of theahim's army, assisted by the Druses of Hasbeya and Raskeya, who had unanimously declared in favour of the Sultan previous even to their being provided with arms.

Some time since I addressed a circular letter to the Sheiks of the Hamiran and el Ledra, and or the 25th its aid tweety seven of them. accompanied by 200 horsemen, came personally to make their sub-

They were well received; robes of honour were given to them, and they have left yesterday for their homes with instructions to harass the rear of the Egyptians.

The people of the Haouran have already intercepted two convoys, and are carrying on their operations to within a short distance of Damascua.

The mountaineers of Akkar and Sappita to the north of Tripoli, with the Fruit Hongar will take possess in if the road in I bridge of It my and Hamah, and so separate the army of the north from that of the south, the moment we can provide them with 4,000 stand of arms.

I hope, therefore, that in a few days they will have the means of annoying and occupying the right flank of Ibrahim, by which he will be completely beamed in and surrounded.

I feel confident that the moment Sir C. Smith thinks fit to advance on his front with the Emir Bechir, the natives who are on his rear and flanks will be encouraged to fall or close upon him, when, if the Turkish troops display the same firmness they have shown hitherto, he must either capitulate with his whole army, or he cut to pieces.

If advantage he taken of the enthusiastic feeling of the natives at this moment, and of the panic of the Egyptians, the campaign in Syria ought to terminate in a fortnight bence; if not, the winter may materially change and retard our chances of success

The French are indefatigable in their intrigues, and endeavour to persuade the Syrians that they are going to war with us in the spring

Though I hear nothing more of the proposal to Mehemet Ali for their occupation of Acre, yet I am told positively that the last French steamer disembarked at that place four French engineer officers.

To prevent similar occurrences, as also the constant communication P 3 of French steamers of war with the coast, coming from Alexandria, I have proposed re-esta decong the Quarantine which suggest on having been acceded to an vessels and passengers coming from higher was have to perform ten days quartint ne at Beyroot

An Onire tillcar" will be also published to-morrow based on the one issued by Solvman Pasta, to which the French, I believe, and not then o ject conderring to death an who encourage the Saltan's subjects to court say in the raise bedience a any mainer whatever. I hope it will have the effect of deterring the French enassants from persevering in their machinations.

I am also auxious to establish a secret police when I think of the utmost importance at this moment, but as a wall cause an extraord nary expense, I am afraid I shall meet with opposition.

The Maronite patriarch has invited Mr. Steindl and myself to go to him to-morrow to receive the documents relative to the rights of the Maronite clergy and nation.

My Lord. I INCLOSE the "Monitour" of yesterday and in-day, which contain an accurate report of the two first days' debate in the Chamber of Deputies

The debate was opened by Marahal Soult. He was succeeded by M. Thiers, who, in a speech of more than three hours, defended the conduct and explained the policy of the bimistry of which he was at the head. M. Thiers arowed that it was his intention to augment the regular army to the amount of 639,000 men, to put into activity 300,000 National Guards, to suspend any explanation with the Allied Powers upon the Affairs of the East until the spring, in order to give the time necessary to prepare these armaments, to persuade Mehemet Ali to avoid taking measures which might prematurely require the interference of France, and then, after this completion of the military preparations, must not only on the abrogation of the Treaty of July 15th, but also on a re-consideration of the Treaties of 18.5 for the purpose of ad-pting a new F-a-pean irrangement, more suitable to the interests and glary of the Frent Lution. Two speedles, one by M. Pasay and the other by M. Guizot, occupied the whole time of the Chamber y sterday. M. Passy spoke three hours in defeare of the Ministry, of which he was a member; and M. Guizot made an able reply to the speech of M. Thiera of the preceding day.

The official despatches and private letters having reference to the Eastern Question, which were read or quoted in the debate of these two days, were very numerous. The debate will not terminate before the middle of next week, and there will be a majority of more than sixty in favour of the Address. I am informed that twelve or thirteen deputies belonging to the Parti Gauche will, from their love of peace, vote with the Government on this occasion.

Mr. Bloomfield to Viscount Palmerston .- (Received December 1.)

(No. 110.)

My Lord, St. Petersburgh, November 17, 1840.

COUNT NESS FLRODE appears satisfied with the speech of the King of the French at the opening of the Chambers, and also with the last news from Paris

His Excellency has heard from Vienna, that the fears entertained by Prince Metternich as to the result of the operations on the court of Syria had subsided, and that his courage had returned with the report of our occupation of Beyrout.

I inquired whether the tate communications from Prussia and Austria had made any impression on the policy of the Imperial Cabinet, and was informed by Count Nesselvone, test ha and not felt biased called upon to alter the general instructions to Baron Brunnow, which were, not to deviate from the limits of the Convention of July, but also not to oppose any reasonable overture from France.

His Excellency then told me the Prussian Minister and Austrian Charge d'Affaires had urged the necessity of the Albes adopting some measure, which would allow France to become a party to the final settlement of the Turco-Egyptian Question; as, without her accession and acknowledgment of the arrangement, whatever it might be, the work could not be complete; and that it was imperative on the Four Powers to consider beforehand what course they ought to adopt, under the various changes that might arise during the contest now carrying on in the East.

Count Nesselrode appears not to have thought it necessary to meet their wishes in giving any special instructions on these points, and has answered them

I reported in my No. 105, that the Prussian Minister and Austrian Chargé d'Affaires were diseatisfied with the reception by Count Nesselrode of their late rouse meatures. In v. I may now said that this fix m, is quite receptional Count Nesselrode has had some difficulty in explaining his reasons for not adopting the suggestions of their Cabinets, and thus all parties are displeased.

The failure of these attempts is attributable in some degree to the unpression record by Court Nessot 8, of the feetings of Her Majesty's Government, and of the annious deare of the Emperor that Great Britain and Russia should form a strong alliance, considering, as he does, that their combined means of coercion are sufficient, without the assistance of Austria and Prussia, to effect the object of the Convention of July.

The Constantinople post has been due several days, and our last direct news from Syria is only up to the 14th October.

Count Nesschode's messenger to London will be desputched on the arrival of the Turkish post

I HAVE received your despetch No. 110, in which you state that Count Newcirode had told you that the Prussian Minister and Austrian Chargé d'Affaires had urgently recommended that the Allies should adopt some measure which would allow France to become a party to the final settlement of the Turco-Egyptian Question.

I have to state to you, that it would seem that the execution of that part of the Trenty of 15th July, which relates to the arrangements to be made between the Sultan and Mehemet Ali, will be completed whenever those arrangements shall have been agreed to by both parties by the md of the Four Powers, but it is difficult to see in what way France could now come in as a party to the settlement of those arrangements. For France declined to take an active part in the Alliance as a supporter of the Sultan; and in the recent debates in the French Chambers it has been openly avowed, that France is the supporter of Melicinet AL. If then France were as were come into construct with the other Four Powers, for the purpose of settling the details of the final arrangement between the Sultan and Melicinet A. she would come not that the ence as the avowed protector of Melicinet Ali, and would thus bring into the Conference an element of discord instead of the means of conciliation.

No such distinct proposition, however, as that mentioned in your despatch as having been made to Count Nosseirode, has been yet made to Her Majesty a Government.

My 12 rd Foreign Office, November 18, 1840

I TRANSMIT to your Lordship a copy of a despatch from Her Majesty's Ambanador at Paris, (No. 317.) reporting the substance of a conversation with M Guizot on the Turco-Egyptian Question.

I have to instruct your Lordship to communicate to Baron Werther that part of Earl Granville's despatch which refers to a conversation which Baron Bulow in stated to have had, since his return from Bechn, with M de Bourqueney, and to say to Baron Werther that the Prussian Government was, no doubt, entitled to refuse, as it has done, to afford any assistance whatever in the execution of the arrangements of the Convention of July 15, and to decline sending even a musket or a cartridge to the Syriai's And Her Majesty's Government value so highly the moral support which Prussian has given to the Ambre his long to outsiding Perty 1 the Convention, that they are quite content thorowith, and have abstanced from pressing the Prussian Government to take any steps which that Government thinks anconvenient to itself.

But then Her Majesty's Government imagined that they might reckon upon having the moral weight of Prussia in favour of the Alimnee, and did not expect to find that moral weight thrown into the scale of France; and least of all did Her Majesty's Government expect that the Government of Prussia would enter into communication with that of France, without the knowledge of the British or of the Turkish Governments, for the purpose of determining that on some given day the operations of the British flect in the Levant, and of the Turkish troops in Syria, should cease.

If Prussia imagined that such a creation of operations could contribute to accelerate the accomplishment of the arrangements of the Treaty, though it is not very apparent how such an effect could be so produced. Her Majesty's Government was entitled to expect that the proposal should have been made, in the first instance, to the British Government, and not to the Government of France.

(No. 60.) My Lord.

Berlin, November 25, 1840.

ON receiving your Lordship's despetch of the 16th instant, No. 98, demning the to complain of the conduct of Baron Bulow, in proposing to the French Minister at London, without your Lordship's knowledge, that hostilities in Syria should cease on a given day, I wrote a private letter to Baron Werther, in which I embodied your Lordship's language. I preferred this form, as it assured my complaint being curried to the King

Buron Werther deared me to call on him to-day. He said that the King was much hort at the language held by your Lordship and myself; that it was unfair to say, that Prussia had contributed no material support towards executing the Treaty, for if she had not sent arms or troops to Syria, she had assumed an imposing attitude on the Rhine, and had charged her Minister at Paris to say, that the first shot fired in any part of the world against any of the parties of the Aliance would be considered as a shot fired against Prussia; that whether material support was contributed in the East or the West mattered not, so lift gas it was contributed in the execution of the Treats, that in regard to the moral support of Prussa, every Agent had been instructed to say, that the King had cetered transay and cordulty into the A hance, and would not desert it

Baron Bulow, on leaving Berlin, had been instructed to give every support to your Lordship; he had no other instructions, and in its despat has does not mention his conversation with M. de Bourqueney. Baron Werther thinks, that the French Minister has given an importance to some triding conversation which it did not deserve; and he will desire Baron Bulow to give any explanation to your Lordship that may be demanded. But he repeat of arms. that the King and himself were much hart by your Lordship's distrust of the sincere adherence of Prussa to the Quadruple Allsance.

Baron Worther had just communicated to the King the news of the taking of St. Jean d'Acre, which had given his Majesty the greatest pleasure.

(No. 357.) My Lord,

Paris, December 4, 1840

THE general discussion on the Address in the Chamber of Deputies terminated yesterday. It lasted eight days. The "Monsteurs" which I transcrit to your Lordship, contain an accurate report of the speeches which have been delivered. Those of M. Guizot, of M. Theres, of M. Herry r. of M. Lamartine, of M Villemann, of M Janbert, and M Teste, are the most worthy your Lordship's perusal.

The speeches + M Thers and of M Jamert late Minister of Public. Works, are remarkable for the disclosure of the views and projects of the late Ministry. M. Thiers avowed that the object of the immense aroundents which it was his intention to but a prope of had be remained in other, was that only to force a retraction by the Allied Powers of the supulations of the Treaty of July, but also a revision of the settlement of Europe, as established by the Treaties of 1815. M Jaubert declared that he waited with impatience for the day of vengoance against England, and in his violent anger, he let out the secret, to the great annoyance of his former Colleagues, that one of the objects of the recall of the French fleet to Toulon, was to senze the Balcaric Islands. M Guizot spoke with great ability, with firmness, and moderation; and the Marshal Soult, when attacked yesterday in the Chambers for writing a care private letter to an English gentleman, in which he expressed he hope for the continuance of the albance between England and France, notwittenanting the disagreement upon the Eastern Question, answered the attack by referring to the cordial reception he had experienced from the people of England when Ambassador at the compation of Her Majesty, and saw he would repeat now what he had declared at that time, that his wish was for the perpetuity of the

the world

The debate on the paragraphs of the Address will probably be closed to-morrow. The Commission of the Chambers has itself aftered the second and third paragraphs, and they have adopted language stronger than they originally proposed respecting the determination of France to watch over the maintenance of the balance of power in Europe, and not suffer it to be infringed. The final propositions made by Commodore Napier were, that Mehemet A . . . . or restor to man't to evacuation or Syria that the Turk sh flect should be got ready for sea, but that, in consideration of the doubts expressed by Michemet Ali as to the authority peasested by the Commodore for concluding a Convention, its restitution should not take place until Mehomet Ali should receive official assurances, that the hereditary Government of Egypt should be guaranteed by the Alited Powers.

That point on which there still remains a doubt arises from a paragraph in the last communication from Boghos Bey, which states, that instructions will be given to concentrate the Egyptian troops in Syria, in order that they may be ready for evacuating that country immediately after the receipt of the approval by the Allied Powers of the present arrangement.

As the Commodore attaches great importance to the immediate and unconditional evacuation of Syria, and as his propositions were presentally based thereon, he cannot consent that an opening should exist for any mass onception, which might eventually lead to an evasion of the objects contemplated; he has, therefore, made a further communication to Boghos Bey, and I have great hopes that the point will be conceded. The Commodore informs me, that he has sent copies of all the correspondence on the subject to the Admiralty, to which department he refers your Lordship, there having been no time to furnish me with copies, in consequence of his desire that the India mail on board the "Oriental" storm ship should be subjected to no further detention.

IT is evening of this day; Mehemet Ali must have known of the fall of Akka on the 5th instant; and there are no signs here of his submission to the Sultan. Letters from Alexandria of the 6th, and I believe the 7th, mention continued efforts to reinforce ibrahim in Syria. The partizans of the French assert, that there are discontents in Syria, they state some things as facts, which are almost redicutous, and cannot be true; but it is true that the French Agents are indefatigable to rame disturbance in that country. I have urged the Ottoman Ministers not to allow success to make them relax in their exertions.

The Porte has recalled Inzet Pashs, which is a great good. I am endeavouring, in concert with the Internuncio, to get Selim Pushs appointed Governor; Selim, who fought so bravely, and who is faithful and also docile. The Porte has given powers to General Jochmus, in conformity with your Lordship's contructions. I have notified the fact to Sir C. Smith, and sent him an extract from the instruction.

I have relieved Mr. Wood from the duty of interpreter to Sir C. Smith, and the consequent confinement to triling duties that anybody could perform; and I have desired him to resume his active exertions amongst the Syrians, by which he has produced such agual good, and which I fear are now needed to put an end to the disputes that have been created by bad management. I have also directed Mr. Wood no longer to consider himself Vice-Consul; I have instructed him to consider himself absolutely free from the authority and control of everybody in Syria, in his execution of the duties of the trusts reposed in him by the Porte; but to make his reports to me on all he does. In doing this I have acted in conformity with the feelings of Rechid Pashs,

We hear from Alexandria, that the people there are in ardent hope of an attack being made by the Sultan's Albert upon the city, and of their deliverance

Theregua, November 20, 1840.

YESTERDAY M. Thow communicated to me the instruction he had just received from St. Petersburgh, directing him to concur in any steps taken by his colleagues, in furtherance of your Lordship's instructions to me, No. 195, dated 15th October

We agreed that nothing could be now done under the authority of that instruction, because Mohamet All has not made his submission to the Sultan; and the view we took is fortified by our having been informed, that the internuncio's instructions, corresponding with those in your Lordship's No. 195, have lately been modified by recent instructions received from Vienna.

I have the honour to inclose three papers, communicated to me by his Excellency the Internuncio.

No. I shows the final arrangement with the Pasha of Candia, for the re-establishment of the Sultan's authority in that island

No. 2 reports the situation of affairs at Cairo, and shows the loose hold of Melicant As upon the prope of that part of Unit and to what devices be bas been obliged to resort to keep up the fast fading shadow of his ancient authority. This same number further reports the state of things at Alexandria, showing that the authority of Mehemet Ali is there also to low, that the least effort on the part of the Sultan would finally extinguish it.

No. 8 reports occurrences already known to your Lordship, viz., the retreat of the Egyptian troops from the Taurus, Adans, &c., &c., and it states the fact, much to be regretted, that the Turks ill-treat the Christian Rayabs in some parts of Syria, and concludes with the lamentable accident of the

With the exception of this last-mentioned event, the contents of these papers bear directly upon the subject-matter of your Lordship's instruction No. 195; for they throw a strong light upon the nature and extent of the power of Mehemet Ali, and show that it is himited and unsubstantial. If these reports are true, and they are corroborated by the evidence of all people in this country, who have had means for seeing and hearing what is passing, it will be obvious that those nutsons of the power of Mehamet Ali, which have been so long cherished and confided in, are unfounded in any reality; and that now, at least, there are no reasons why Mahamet Ah should be treated with any consideration by the Sultan or his Allies. He has reasted to the last, he has been the cause of expense, trouble, and inquietude to all the Powers of Europe . he has deficit and decrived the Sultan; and it will only be when resistance is out of his power that he submits. The grounds upon which the French professed to support and have been cut from rader that I is proved that be cannot add to the general strength of the Ottoman Empire; and it is proved that Mohemet All a object was to partition it. All he can now do is to make any settlement that may be made, less certain of duration, and less beneficial to everybody, and destructive to the point Fe politics, if the same hand that has absendy reduced them to abject ansaty share a " for of sy the power of our stored Europe, as their perpetual tyrant. Mehemet Ali cannot be reduced to the position of a mere Governor of Egypt; what he has been, will give him a power that must make him machievously formidable. His curroung; the dissatisfaction that always must exist; the disputes that will grow up in Syria; the intrigues of the French, the thirst of vengeance he will feel, the newness of unsettled reform, and amelioration in Turkey, will all operate in his favour as the disturber of the Empire, and the concession made to Mehemet Ali will prove, that an unprincapled man may find accuraty from condign punishment in the excess of his

The Porte can easily introduce into Egypt the new system of Government and bless that country with a sensible aniel mation of it be taken from Metiers at All but it is an asset e for the Porte to do the smallest good for the people if Mehemet Ah be retained.

I speak positively, because I am sure I am right. I cannot perceive any reason for maintainer Mchemet An in the Government of Egypt, except it be, that his power is imagined to be too great to be met by the Suitan and his Allies. The fact is, that his power is so low that nothing but the goodwil of the Affice can enable how to exist as Governor. The people of Levy, pray to be de avered from his voke, they are even more hostile to him than the Syr ans, but they have not into the means to show their hatres of him as the others if Mehemet Ah he reinstated in the Government of Egypt by the Allies, the querion arises who is to be entitled to control rain, if he is more the pewers intrusted to him. He may be carled the servant of the Santab but he asia, se independent refact for or is placer there by the Alaes and is heree tary. It is arrhead to state by what mores the raws " the harry or and to an appropriate of the Suitan could be en reed. It is suspaisable to be neve that Menet et and obey them voluntarily, and the feeling the Ailies show for him in re-establishing him, will be for him, and for the Sulinn, and for the world, a proof, that they will never again unite for the purpose of coercing him.

If it be left to the Sultan to vindicate his own authority, it must require an armed Cree to do it at I that is the renew I of the earls, in part at bast, to shate which there have seer so many exertions made. Melon I Ah at recestion blacked in the Government of Earlit will be de forto the Sovereign to Egypt. but he must be so will a best a sand against Turkey, and will also esta different from the Socian. He will be accessaring a post; I more, occase he ossso rained the country that for years to come an enlightened and honest Government would have a deficult task to restore it to anything like prosperity and strength. The independence of Egypt of the control of any European Power see is to be govern a esternosi at sheet of great reports see at lit-Government as that of Mehemet Ali, or that which alone his children, who have shown their brotal tyranny in Syria, are expedite of administering, the danger to its independence would be much greater, than if it continued to be a portion of the Ottorial Emina

LA ville du Caire est continuellement dans un état d'agitation difficile à décrire. Le Gouvernement cherche à cacher les facheuses nouvelles qui lui arrivent de la Syrie, mais tant la prise de Beyrouth, que celle de Taraous et d'Adana, sont conques. La défaite d'Ahmet Pacha sur l'Oronte vient d'augmenter le nombre des trustes nouvelles.

My Lord.

Foreign Office, December 12, 1840.

I HAVE received your despatch. No. 271; and I have to acquaint your Excellency that Her Majesty's Government approve the arrangements which you have made respecting Mr. Wood's duties in Syria.

Her Majesty's Government have also received, with satisfaction, the intelligence contained in your despatch, of the recall of Imet Pashs, who, by the violence of his temper, and by the ferocity of his character, was emicently unfit for the post to which he had been appointed in Syria

I take this opportunity to state to your Excellency that, as the Syrans have been aged by he ash I thornes to take up are for the Sultan, and to declare themselves in his favour, it is peculiarly incumbent on the British Government to court no effort to induce the Porte to make such future arrangements for the administration of the Government of Syrm, as may occure the Syrians from oppremion, and render them contented and prosperous.

Her Majesty's Government are not sufficiently conversant with the internal arrangements of Turkish Administration, to be able to say what specific measures would be best adapted for this purpose; but they wish your Excellency to inform them what are the intentions of the Porte in this respect; and I have to instruct your Excellency to press upon the Turkuh Government in the strongest manner, that it is essential for the honour of the Sultan, and for the future tranquility of the Turkub Empire, that the arrangements to be made on this matter should afford full security and saturaction to the Syrians.

Some persons have suggested that some of the sea-ports of Syria which are opens to to the Leba in district such as Beyrout and Litakia should be added to the Druse country, and should be placed in the hands of the Emir Bechir. But there may be doubts whether such an arrangement would be politic, and whether it would not be better for the Sultan to retain the sea-port towns more directly in his own hands, giving, however, to the Druses every possible facility of commercial intercourse by means of those sea-ports.

It has also been suggested that the Emir Bechir should have the rank of Pashs. But upon this Her Majesty's Government are unable to form on

(No. 185.) My Lord,

Vienns, December 2, 1840.

PRINCE METTERNICH is of opinion that the time is come to take into consideration the advice to be given to the Sultan with regard to the Government of Sycus. He thinks the re-cutshishment of the former Pashabeks, according to their ancient divisions, the best mode which the Ports can adopt, with the exception of the fortrem of St. Jean d'Acre, which he would exteem it tape and the surrest to a Pasha, and with regard to which he suggests two modes of co comit for your Lordship's consideration.

I at arst would be to destroy the fortress.

The second, to place it in an efficient state of defence, to separate it with its rayers from the Pashalack of Acre, entrusting the command of it to a Governor named by the Porte with a garrison to be furnished and relieved from Constantinople.

The Prince leans to this second course

With regard to the mountain, he is of opinion that it should be left exclustrely under its own Chiefs, paying a very slight tribute, but the Chiefs being responsible for the maintenance of a strict police within their territories

One doubt presents itself under this head, which Prince Metternich thinks can only be examined into and solved at Constantinople.

The Maronites have drawn up a statement of requests to be forwarded by their Archinchap to Vienna. This paper has not yet been received, but its contents have been stated through the Internances. The requests are in general reasonable, but there is among them the request that the Prince of the Mountain may in future be chosen from their community. Prince Metternich is unable to decide whether the grounds on which this demand is founded are valid or not, but he thinks that this nomination having hitherto been conferred upon one of the Druses, it would be inexpedient to change the established practice. He suggests, however, a doubt whether it might not be better, both for the interests of the Pierc, and for those of the populations of Leasnon, to divine the authority now to by a single Chief among a greater naturer, giving to each of these tribes a Prince chosen from itself. The populations to which this would be applicable would be the Maronites, Druses, Mutualis, and perhaps others. Prince Micterrich, how yet on yearbouts this tree as one which it yet worth examination in conjunction with the Ministers of the Porte, not so one on which his mind is made up.

The inclosed "Mounteur" contains an account published by the French

M Guizot, in conversation with me upon this subject, observed that the immediate bombardment of Alexandria with which Commodore Napier measced the Pasha, was at variance with assurances given by your Lordship, and that he was persuaded that the Commodore was not authorized by Her Majesty's Government, to employ such menace any more than to hold out to the Pasha the expectation that by making his submission to the Sultan it depended upon him to restors the throne of the Ptolemies, and found a new dynasty

I hope I am right, and that I have done what I think you wish, and as I feel certain the Turkish Army, as it is, could not have followed up librahim without cavalry, artiflery, or communicat, I thought it better to get them out of Syria by treaty. THIS will be delivered to your Excellency by Captain Maunsell, an old acquaintance of his Highness Mehemet Ali I send him to request is Highness will consent to release, or exchange, the Emirs and She ka of Lebanon, who were sent to Alexandrea last Ju 1, by the authorities of Syria. The greater part of those unfortunate individuals were arrested only on susp tion of deaffection at the inst gat on of the late terand Prince whose government of Lebanon was anything but just, or moderate, and who at lost deserted Meacmet Ali.

The retaining those unhappy individuals in captivity can answer no good purpose at present Lebanon is entirely free and armed, and come

Let his Highness frankly, freely, and unconditionally deliver up the Ottoman fleet and withdraw his troops from Syria; the miseries of war would then ceuse, and his Highness in his lacter years would have ample and satisfactory occupation in cultivating the arts of peace, and probably laying a foundation for the restoration of the throne of the Prelemies.

By what has taken place in Syria, his Highness must be aware what can be accomplished in a country where the inhabitants are disaffected to the Government. In one month, 6,000 Turks and a handful of marines. took Sidon, Beyrout, defeated the Egyptian troops in three actions; possessed themselves of 10,000 prisoners and deserters, and caused the evacustion of all the scaports, the passes of the Taurus and Mount Lebanon. and this in the face of an army of more than 30,000 men; and in three weeks more, Acre, the key of Syria, fall to the combined fleets, after a bombardment of three hours. Should his Highness persist in hostilities, will be permit me to ask if he is safe in Egypt? I am a great admirer of his Highness, and would much rather be his friend than enemy,

In the capacity of the former, I take the liberty of pointing out to his Highness, the little hope he can have of ever preserving Egypt, should he refuse to be reconciled to the Sultan.

Experience has shown that the Egyptian army in Syria are disaffected. and the whole of the country are in arms against them; and if Ibrahim Pasha is attacked by a larger and increasing Turkish force, he will probably be forced to lay down his arms. Let his Highness look to Egypt: the Turkish search are all disaffected the Vice Idential and several of his officers abandoned him a few days ago, and are now in the squadron; the Syrian troops in Egypt wish to return to their country; the Egyptians are a treaty of the older gline for their local Form 12 of 1000 Egyptian soldiers now at Constantinople, are being clothed, paid, and organized, under the eyes of the Sultan, let his Highness reflect on his danger, should they be thrown into Egypt, with a promise of being disbonded, together with the rest of the army, on the overthrow of his

I observed to your Excellency in my letter of yesterday, that I had no direction to suspend hostilities by sea, unless his Highness would surcender the ficet, and give immediate orders for the evacuation of Syria, much less can I insure the discontinuance of military operations; on the contrary, I feet perfectly satisfied that operations will be carried on, until orders are given for its complete evacuation.

I am perfectly ignorant of the despatches brought by the last French steamer, nor have I any knowledge that the French Government has entered into negotiation with the Allied Powers.

I only know that the Albed Powers have recommended to the Porte.

to reinstate Mehemet. Ali in the Government of Egypt, and render it hereditary in his family; and I know that nothing could afford so much plastic to the Braish Government, as my writing by this packet to say that orders have been given for the evacuation of Syria, and the surrender of the fleet. I can enter into his Highness's feelings in besitating to do this, until he officially receives the guarantee of the Allied Powers, but at the same time I must do my duty.

COUNT NESSELRODE has received despetches from London and Constantinople to the 17th ultimo.

I called on his Excellency yesterday, and he allowed me to read Baron Brumanu's fast reports, giving a detailed account of the late meeting of the Planspotentiaries, and inclosing your Lordship's letters to the Lords of the Admiralty of the 14th altimo.

Count Nesselrode and that he entirely approved of the plan, suggested by Baron Brannow, of making a direct communication at Alexandra, through one of the officers of Her Majerty's Fleet, and that in consequence of our success at St. Jean d'Acre, and the instructions which he was informed were to be sent by M. Gusset to M. Cochelet, he hoped Mehemet Ali would see the folly of attempting to offer further resistance to the fulfilment of the Convention of July, and that he would thus facilitate the termination of the question, by throwing himself on the prediction of the Alice with the Porte.

The R issum to recent are big, by applicad this proposed communication, and may have the effect of preventing France from being mixed up with the transactions in their present stage, and of postpooring her chance of admission into the negotiations.

Count Newelrade told me that he had no fresh festractions to send to London on the subject, but that he should convey the Emperor's entire approbation to Baron Brunnow of his conduct and language, and express his confidence in the wisdom of Her Majesty's Government to adopt from time to time any measures which may become advantable.

Viscount Palmerston to the Lords of the Admiralty.

My Lords,

Foreign Office, December 15, 1840.

I HAVE had under my consideration the letter of your Lordships' Secretary of vesterday's date, the omig a copy of a despatch from Communione Napier, dated the 26th of November with copies of that officer's correspond once with Boghos Bey, and also the further despatch from Commodore Nep ir of the Right of November which has been communicated to me by your Lordships this day, including the Articles of Agreement signed by Commodore Napier and Boghos Bey on the 27th of November.

I have to request your Lordships to convey to Commodore Napier the approval of Her Majesty's Government of the steps taken by him on this occasion, though without any instructions to that effect, and upon his own responsibility, to carry into execution the arrangements contemplated by the Treaty of the 15th of July, and to put an end to the contest in the Levant.

But the instruction given by your Lordships to Sir Robert Stopford in pursuance of my letter of the 14th of November, will have reached by itolart Stopford a few days after he received from Courn adore Napier a report of has result of the negatiation at Alexandria and it is ancertain whether he Itolart Stopford with have considered the instruction of the 14th of November in appearing thomastore Napier's arrangement, or whether he will have looked upon the instruction.

In this state of things, Her Majesty's Government must postpone a final communication with respect to the arrangement made by Commodore Napier, to if y care as toey probably will in a few days' time, what course See Robert Stopford took upon the receipt of the instruction of the 14th of November. But there is one part of the Articles signed by Commodore Napier and Baghos Bey, upon which it is necessary that an instruction should immediately he sent to Sie Robert Stopford.

In the First Article, Bagkon Bev, on the part of Mehemet Ali, takes two engagements the one is to order too Egyp an troops to eracuste Syrin; the offer in to rest in the Turkish fleet. The first engagement was to be fulfilled from match, and was to be conditional my upon the promise of Commodure Any in that he maid, in his capacity of Commodure of the British fleet before Anxandria suspend and rives against Anxandria, and every other part of the Egyption correctly. The color of gagement was event all, and was a be fall had as soon as Mehemet Ali should have reserved at official in the hered tary Covernment of Egypt and that this correction is an ishail continue to be, under the given tee of the Foar Powers. #### No. 92

Viscount Palmeraton to Viscount Ponsonby

Foreign Office, December 17, 1840. My Lord.

HER Majesty's Government have received from Commodore Namer a copy of the Articles of Agreement concluded between him and Boghos Bey, on the 27th of November, by which Boghos Bey engaged, on the part of Mehamet Ale, that the Egyptian troops should immediately evacuate Syria. on condition that Commodors Napier should suspend hospities against Egypt, and that the Turkish fleet should be given up by Mehemet Ah, as soon as Mehemet Ali should be informed from Constantinople, that the Sultan and granted him the bereditary Government of Egypt, and provided that grant were guaranteed to Mehemet Ali by the Four Powers.

As these Articles of Agreement will have reached Sir Robert Stopford much about the same time as the instruction cent to him by the Lords of the Admiralty on the 14th of November, it is doubtful which of the two bit Robert may have determined to act upon; and whether he will have considered the instruction of the 14th of November as superseding the Articles of Agreement, or the Articles of Agreement as superseding the instruction.

If Sir Robert Stopford has taken the first course, and has sent a commupication to Mehemet Ali, in pursuance of the matruction of the 14th of November, there can be no doubt that Mehemet Ali will have consented to do what was required of lear by deat mother and card of teat case Nr Robert Stopford will have transmitted Mehemet Ali's acquiescence to Constantinople, and then your Excellency and your Colleagues will, of course, have given to the Porte the advice specified in my despatch of the 15th of October, No. 195, to your Excellency; and your Excellency will before this have sent off to this office a report of the decision of the Porte, which has, no doubt, been in conformity with the advice so given.

But if Sir Robert Stopford has taken the second course, and has looked upon the Articles of Agreement of the 27th of November as superseding the instruction of the 14th of November, he will in that case have sent those Articles of Agreement to Constantinople, as being virtually equivalent to the writen engagement required from Meheinet Ali by the instruction of the 14th

In that case, however, a doubt may have been felt by your Excellency and your Colleagues what steps you should take in pursuance of the instructions contained in my despatch of the 15th of October, and in the corresponding matructions sent from Vienna, Petersburgh, and Berlin; because those instructions, modified by the subsequent letter to the Admiralty of November 14, conto appared the unconditional submission of Mehemet Ali to the Sultan, as a pre impary to the advice to be given to the Porte to reinstate Melicinet Ali in the Government of Egypt, and, on the contrary, Mehemet Ab, in the demands which he sets forth in the first Article of the Agreement, signed on the 27th of Nov reser on ages to rest of the Beet only in two conditions. the one being, that the Sultan abould grant him hereditary tenure in the Giver neut of hay, t - are the other berg that said grant in the part of the Sultan should be placed under the guarantee of the Four Powers.

It appears to Her Majesty's Government that the fact, that Mehemot Aliattached the first of these conditions to his restoration of the first, need not prevent the Porte from making to him that concession. For, in fact, those Art les of Agriculturest were substituted by a policie sorm after to the part of Mehemet Ali; and he was led to suppose, that in asking for hereditary tenure, he was only asking that which the Porte was willing to give. But the second condition, namely, the guarantee of the Four Powers, is one which cannot be complied with; and your Excellency should, on this point, give to the Porte the same explanations which Sir Robert Stopford has been enstructed, in pursuance of my letter to the Admiralty of the 15th instant, of which a copy was inclosed in my despatch No. 269, to give to Mehemet

It has been reported, but upon what authority is not known, that the Porte was, towards the end of vorember, but before is had heard of the submission of Mehemet Ah, discit ned to revoke the decree which had deprived him of the Government of Egypt. It is not unnatural that such a feeling should have existed at that time in the mind of the Turkish Government, but Her Majesty & Government hope that subsequent events, and the unanomeus advice of the Four Powers, will have removed these objections on the part of the Porte, and will have led the Porte to accept the settlement effected by Commodine Napier's arrangement, or by the subsequent more ample submission of Mehemet A r

It would indeed be necessary, that, in remutating Mehamet Ali in the Postsaire of Egypt care also d be taken to make a ich arrangements as would protect the people of Egypt from a continuance of the tyrana cal oppress in by which they have of late years been crushed, and about a secure the Sustan against a renewal of thise post thes we call ave compared him to have recourse to the aid of his Allies. But the means of effecting no these parposes may be found in the supulations of the Treaty of the 15th of July, without removing Mehemet Ali from his Pastai c The Treaty says, that ail the laws of the Turkish Empire, and all the Treaties of the Porte, shall apply to Egypt, just as much as to any other province of the Sultan's dominions and that the land and sea force which may be maintained by the Pasha of Fayet, sha be part of the forces of the Empire and be kept up to the service of the State.

Under these at all atrons the S. My Lord, I RECEIVED yesterday your despatch No. 853, incloung Commodore Napter's despatch to your Lordship of the 26th of November, and his correspondence with Boghos Bey.

I read with surprise, in the Commodore's despatch, that a French steamer had arrived three days before at Alexandria with a Negotiator, who had joined with the other French Agents already established there, in endeavours to prevent the success of his negotiation with Mehemet Ali. This statement is so at variance with M. Guisot's repeated assurances that he had directed M. Cochelet to advise Mehemet Ali to accede to the proposal which Admiral Sir Robert Stopford was instructed to make to the Pasha, that I could not but conclude that either it must have reference to some person whose musion was unknown to M. Guisot, or that it was founded upon erroneous information furnished by Boghos Bey, or some other Egyptian Agent. I this day, in conversation with M Guinot, alluded to this new Negotiator, who must have been sent to Alexandria unce M. Thiers quitted office, and I must my that the unhesitating and unembarraned manner in which he demod that he had cent any Agent whatever to Egypt, and the repetation of what he had before and to me in regard to the recall of Count Welewski, and his instructions to M. My Lord, WITH reference to your despatch, No. 371, of the 18th instant, in which your Excellency reports that M. Guizot demes having sent any Agent whatever to Alexandra, I have to acquaint your Excellency that I read to Baron de Bourquency, last week, Commodoro Napoer's letter, and drow his attention to that passage which states the arrival of a new French Negotiator, who, in conjunction with M. Cochelet and Count Walerski, had endeavoured to prevent the arrangement which Commodors Napier was trying to effect, and Baron de Rourquency said thereupon that he could not believe the latter part of the statement, because the person to whom Commodore Napier alluded, as having recently arrived, must have been M. de Beaufort, who, Baron de Bourqueney said, had been sent to Alexandria by M. Gursot immediately on his coming into office. Baron de Bourqueney further said that he could not think that M. de Besufort had acted in a manner so contrary to M. Gumot's intentions.

It may be that Baron de Bourqueney was mustaken as to the time when M. de Beaufort was sent from Paris, and that M. de Beaufort was sent off by M. Thers, and not by M. Gurant; but it would be descrable that your Excellency should ascertain when M. de Beaufort went, and by whom he was sent.

I this morning communicated to M Guizot your Lordship's letter of the 15th altimo to the Commissioners of the Admiralty, agmiying to their Lordships the Queen's commands as to further instructions to be addressed to Admiral Sir Robert Stepford. The refusal of Her Majesty's Government to entify that part of the Convention concluded between Commodare Napier and Boglass Bey, which stipulates for the guarantee by the Allied Powers of the hereditary Government of Egypt, was expected by the French Minister, and he appears to have been satisfied at finding his expectations confirmed by my comminimention to him of your Lordship's letter. He seemed not to apprehend that the want of that guarantee would retard the execution of the other arrangements of the Treaty, and expressed his permanion that if the Sultan should be so ill-advised as to refuse to reinstate Mehomet Ali in the Government of Egypt. the Allied Powers would not aid the Turkish forces in expelling the Pashs from that pashelic.

Sire,

JE seus le beso-n d'expresser à votre Majesté la reconnacsance dont je suis pénetre Depuis longtemps le Gouvernement du Roi m a tenie que de l'intérêt. A 15 are hui votre Majeste met le comble à sea bontés pour moi en déclarant aux Puissances qu'elle considère mon existence politique comme indispensable à l'équilibre Européen. Cette nouvelle marque si signalée de l'intérêt que daigne me porter votre Majesté, m'impose des devoirs que je saurai remptir; et d'abord celui d'exprimer clairement et succinctement au Roi de la France les motifs de ma conduite.

Dans tous les temps, le vœu le plus smoère de mon cœur a été pour la prospérité de l'Empire Ottoman. Je désimis le voir heureux, tranquille, et puissant ; mon ambitson la plus grande a toujours été de lui veur en aide contre ses ennemis et de sacrifier pour sa défense tout ce que j'ai acquis pe of ment par to longe travanx. Et e le dara, et avec franch se, ce qui m'a toujours porté vers la France, ce qui m'e toujours engagé à me conformer à ses conscils, c'est que je savais que de tous les Gouvernemens de l'Europe c'était celus qui voulait le plus de bien, et de la manière la plus désintéressée, à l'Empire Ottoman.

Je prie votre Majorté de croire que c'est l'amour de mon pays qui a toujours

dirigé ma conduite.

Ainm après bien des efforts, bien des contrariétés, j'étais parvenu à faire régner l'ordre en Syrie, à faire succéder la paix et la tranquillité à l'anarchie et au désordre. Et si j'as maisté se vivement pour que cette province restat sous mon gouvernement, c'est parceque j'avais la conviction que si elle m'était enlevee, tous les manx que j'en avans exturpés retemberment de nouveau sur elle-Entre mes mains la Syrie était un élément de force qui me mettait à même de porter des secours efficaces au Sultan et à la Turquie ; entre les mains de la l'erte, j'one le dire, la Syrie était vouée à l'anarchie, au désordre, à la guerre et le Mais aujourd hai ce que je craignais s'est en partie realisé. l'influence étrangere est venue en aide aux élémens de discorde et d'insurrection : une première tentative avait été impaissant pour faire soulever les populations; cette fous-ci les efforts de ceux qui ont eru travailler pour l'intégrite de l'Empire Ottoman, en excitant à la revolte une de ses provinces, ont roussi, non à insurger tout le pays, mais à armer les unes contre les autres les populations, et à are ner la guerre civile. Les monta d'inferêt ger cral qui me pertaient à feurer conserver la Syrie sous mon gouvernement n'existent donc plus. Il reste mes interêts personnels et ceux de ma famille ; ceux-là je suis prêt à les sacrifier à a paix du monde. C'est à la haute sageme du Roi des Français que je pr'adresse, je mets man sort entre ses mains, elle réglers à su volonté les arrangemens qui doivent terminer le différend.

Si votre Majesté la juge convensble je suis prêt à me contenter en Syrie du Pachalie d'Acre. Ce pays a resisté à tous les efforts que l'ou a tente pour ce se auver contre moi. Votre Majesté trouvers juste peut être de me face laisser l'île de Candie, qui joint depuis longtemps sous mon gouvernement d'une peospérité inaltérable.

Mais et au contraire les bautes lumières de votre Majesté la portent à eroire que le moment des concessions est passé, et que celui d'une résistance opiniatro est arrivé, je sum prét à combattre jusqu'à mon dernier soupu, et mosenfans aussi. Mon armée de Syrie est encore considérable : Damas, Aleppo, toutes les principales villes sont en mon pouvoir ; mon armée de la Hedjas est en marche, une partie est dejà au Caire, le reste y sera sous peu. Des Chéiks influens du Laban partent pour la montagne et me répondent de ramener les Druses I les Mar a les a la - r. rission. J'an quarante i atimens prêts a prendre la mer au premier signal de votre Mojesté. J'espère donc que personne ne se meprendra sur les véntables motifs qui m'inspirent la démarche que je fina nujourd'hui. Personne ne croira que c'est la peur qui me fuit agir ; j'ai pour moi toute ma vie pour répondre à une pareille accusation. Il y à quinze jours encore quand toute mon existence était menacee; on aurait pu voir de la faiblesse dans ma conducte at flavait ofde, mais autourd'hut que mon existence politique est sauvée par la déclaration de la France, je ne risque que peu de choses à prolonger la guerre. Non, ce ne sont pas les forces qu'on deployent contre mus qui m'effrayent, ce qui m'effraye c'est d'etre cause d'une ancre génerale, c'est d'entrainer la France, à qui je dois fant dans une guerre qui n'aurast d'autre but que mes intérêts personnels. I aira cette circunstance le viens m'adresser à votre Majesté, la reconnaissance m'en fatsait un devoir et d'a fleurs p'ac pour le Rei des Francias l'a la rate nota contante que sa sagesse et ses lumières inspirent au monde. Je viens mettre mon sort entre ses mains. Quelle que soit la décision du Roi, je l'acceptera avec recon calss i ce passiva. que votre Majeste veuille men prendre part au Traité qui interviendre entre les Grandes Pulssa ers mor el relationstrate.

Ferin, quoi qu'il arrave, je prie le Roi de me permettre de lui dire que ma reconnainsance pour lui et la France sera éternelle dans mon cœue, que je la leguerar à mes enfans et à mes petits enfans comme un devoir escré.

Je voulais envoyer un de mes principaux officiers porter cette lettre au pied du tel e le votre Major annie la la la la capacar de sa quarantame m'ont déterminé à la remettee au Comie Walowsky, qui la fera parvenir à votre Majesta.

Cependant nous manquons de beaucoup de choses. Si la mer ne sera pas bientôt libre, la Syrio no sera pas tesable; voici comme vont les choses. Si il y a onze jours, votre Altesse m'avant ordonné de me returer d'aci, je ne l'aurais per fait: mais aujourd'hui tout a change. Notre Infanterie serait bonne, mais les Syriens ne valent nen. Je les as lauss partir en leur faisant lauser les armes. Les Arnauts, ayant parié à quelque séducteur, demandent leur solde ou leur congé: je les ar laissé partir. Le 15 Novembre, 1840

LA nouvelle de la prese de St. Jean d'Acre par les Alliés est parvenus ica le # du courant par le bateau à vapeur Français " l'Euphrate." Peu avant arrivèrent des Tatares per terre, annonçant l'apparition des escadres combinees

par devant le dite ville avec l'intention de l'attaquer

Melicinet Ali, qui à l'arrivée de ces nouvelles n'avait pas déscapéré encore que ses affaires en Syrie pourraient prendre une tournure favorable, mit tout en centire pour y parvenir. On écrivit au Caire pour y parvenir sur-le-champ un corps d'armée dont l'armement avait été prepare depuis quelque temps. Simultanement les ordres tenus en réserve furent expédies pour la sortie des escadres, gue state or dieger processive onles de tre quer ces many horación pour On comptait our St. Jean d'Acre comme sur un point, si non imprenable pour les forces actuelles des Allies, du moins tel à pouvoir leur résister assez longtemps pour qu'elles se trouvassent entièrement épuisées avant sa reddition.

 Pendant qu'on s'occupant de ces mesures neriva au palais le Consul-Général de France pour présenter à Méliemet Ali en audience publique les officiers da Pane venus pour recevoir quelques colonnes d'Albàtre. Ce Consul fit tomber de suste la conveniation sur la sortie de l'escadre, et conseilla très-énergiquement l'abandon de cette séée. Ceci se passait dans la Grande Salle d'Audience en présence de plusieurs dignitures et d'un public tres-nombreux, lorsque Méhéniet Ali éciata, et en élevant la voix s'exprima en ces termes:--- C'est vous et votre France qui m'avez mis dans cette position; je suis las des conseils vains et mutiles; desermans je n'écouterai plus personne et ne suivrai que mes propres maperations."

M. Cochelet repliqua en priant le Pacha d'attendre encore, et en ajoutant que les affaires n'étaient pus terminées; qu'il espérait recevoir par le prochain bateau à vapeur la nouvelle que la mediation de la France a été acceptée, ou qu'elle a recours aux armes. Toutefois Méhémet Ali ne se laissa pas calmer; il déclara de nouveau à hante voix, qu'il n'attendra plus de secours d'aneune Pausance étrangère, et qu'à l'avenir il ne se lausserait guider que par m propre

d'autres circonstances semblent autoriser une opinion contraire,

Quant à la prise de St. Jean d'Acre, elle a produit sei une sensation profonde, qui a tout à fait ébranlo le parti Egyptien. La dernière étincelle d'espérance en faveur de la Syrie a dispara tout à coup. Les amis de Mehémet Ali, tant Européens que Musaulmans, ainsi que les Primats les plus influenz du pays, se réunssient pour le déterminer à la condescendance. Mehémet Ali se montrait an commencement facilities et reflechessort. Il ne trouva pas ces ingunuations dignes d'aucune réponse. Pou après cependant il changemit de contenance, et il commençant par écouter les conscila de ces umin. Le soir du 10 il fit con la tre à cenx-et d'avoir pris la resolution de finir tout à l'amiable, car l'homise, dissitil, n'emporte nen de tout cela de ce monde ci; il parlait de l'envoi d'un Parlo. menture avec des propositions d'arrangement aux douz Amiraux, de la restitution de la flotte Turque, du rappel d'Ibrahim Pacha de Syrie; et le public pui, durant une journée, se bereer de l'espoir d'une parx prochaine.

Lo 11, M. Cochelet et le Comis Walewaky se rendment de nouveau chez Mébémet Ali pour le détourner de son projet. Ils lui representerent les austes Achenies que les mesures susdites pourmoent entrainer, et s'epandrent en ansurances de l'appui de la France dans le cas ou on en viendrait aux extrémités. En même temps de demanderent de lui une déclaration définitive sur le système qu'il comptait suivre à l'avenir, demande à laquelle toutefois il ne répondit que d'une maniere evance. Ce concert, quelque passif que fût le rôle qu'y jour. Mébémet Ali, amona cependant, sous certains rapports, un changement dans l'étôt des choses. L'envoi d'un l'arlementaire fut rejeté comme contraire à la dignité de Méhémet Ali, et les préparauls de guerre furent repris avec une nouvelle rigueur. On travalle depuis avec la plus grande activité à toutes les fortifications non encore achevées. Celles qui l'etaient déjà furent montées au complet et munies du matériel nécessaire. Comme on manquait d'Artillerse de terre, on débarque des flottes 8000 Artilleurs et Mintelots, dont quelques détachmens dorrent être employée aueu sur d'autres points de la côte. Au débarquement de cre troupes se rattacha le désarmement de tous les hatament de guerre de notre del l' sire inves de Civalent set le unes de recient or re de partir pour El Ariche, vers ou se dingera aussi l'expedition perparée au Caire et restince peur a S . E. in comme a ca l'ende Net male pre lere navant on lui donnerait, comme aux troupes de ligne, une paye formelle et des rations, - mesure qui produiait la plus facheuse impression sur ce corps mécontent, qui se aroit à présent entièrement incorporé su inslitaire.

En attendant, rependant, Ibrahim Pacha a été rappelé de Syrie, et l'ordre lui en a été transmis par quatre courriers expediés par des routes differentes. Pisar ce qui regarde d'ailleurs les préparatifs de guerre, il s'y rattache tant d'affectation et un deur se patent de produire de l'effet, que, quelque serieux qu'ils puissent être, cette vue secondure ne murait être méconnue,

Voter le tablequ qu'offre aujourd'hur la vie publique d'Alexandrie. D'après ce um précède, il est difficile de voir au fond des choses. Mais je puis avancer ter, comme étant la conviction de plusieurs personnes admises dans la confiance de Méhémet Ali, que sa flexibilité continue, qu'il devient tous les jours plus étranger aux espérances qu'il avant placées dans le Gouvernement Français, et que tout le reste ne se fait que pour donner la meilleure couleur possible aux chances qu'il aurast dans le cas où il ne serait pas réduit à se battre pour la dernière pouce de terriun,

Le 16 Novembre, on sour

P.S.—La nouvelle de la dissolution du Ministère Thiers a été apporté ica par le baleau à vapeur arrivé luer. En la recevant Méhémet Ali a observé, dit-on, une attitude entièrement passive.

Report from M Lauren to the Internuncio.

Pera, le 24 Novembre, 1840.

D'APRES les nouvelles du Caire du 14 du courant la nouvelle de la prise d'Acre y avait produit une sensation difficile à décrire. L'Armée d'Ibrahim Pacha a reçu l'ordre de rentrer sans délat en Egypte; l'expédition de 5,000 bommes destinés pour la Syrie a fait halte, et 1,800 hommes sculement en seront detachés pour el Arishe. Méhémet Ali fait tous les efforts pour se fortifier à Alexandrie, et prétend vouloir résister aux attaques des Alliés.

gédies, parceque le Gouvernement n'a pas pu les payer.

Les nouvelles d'Alexandrie du 16 du courant portent que Méhamet Ali a fait des reproches assez vifs, tant au Consul-Général de France qu'à M de Walewsky, sur la conduite de la France à son egard, et qu'il n'éconterait plus les conside de caste nation mans que su rait ses propres volorites. 3451 est prêt à s'entendre à l'ammble avec la l'orie et ses Albés; qu'il se contenterant de l'héredité de l'Egypte, et qu'il avaiennt increamment aur ce que sera plus convenable, ou d'attendre une ouverture de la Porte, ou bien d'envoyer à Constan-

(No. 282.)

My Lord,

Therapia, November 30, 1840.

I INCLOSE reports received yesterday evening from Mr. Wood, and I hope your Lordship will approve of the prodence and activity of that Gentleman, who has contributed more to the success obtained in Syria than most men.

Izzet Pasha and some few other ill-disposed Turks have evented just dissatisfaction amongst some of the mountaineers. Izzet is recalled, and the others will be removed from authority. The Porte is ready to take any measures for ensuring to the Syrans the reward of their loyalty to the Sultan, I have, &c.,

Begrout, November 10, 1840 My Lord,

HIS Excellency Selies Pasha has dictated to me the inclosed letter of thanks to your Lordship, for the loss our his Sovereign has been graciously pleased to confer upon him, in promoting him to the rank of Ferick, which he feels conscious of owing to your Lordship's kind recommendation of him.

I avail myself of the opportunity to do justice to the honourable conduct of Seam Pasha, in his in portant command to Syria under so many try ng circumstances, and to express my personal obligations to him for the readiness with which he has complied with all my suggestions and wishes, and for the assistance he has given me in every instance.

In repeating my thanks to your Lordship for His Highness the Grand Vinter's letter to me, giving me authority to interfere in the administration and in the arrangements of the civil affairs of Syria, I take the liberty of inclosing herewith a letter of thanks to His Highness under a flying seal, Auxious not to beiray the confidence reposed in me, I have made use of the authority of the Sublime Porte for the best interests of the bullian, so far an it lays in my power, without, however, surpassing the limits which prudence, discretion, and delicacy towards the Turkish officers here impose upon me am greatly indebted to his Excellency the Moushteshar Effendi, whose annable and cound along disposition is beautifull praise, for los ready compliance with and hearty co-operation in, all my demands. It is, however, but proper to state, that there remains yet a great deal to be done, which must be left for after considerations. In the casin lime the greatest cultion and peoplete is required to conciliate the people, and please and content all parties,—a delicate task in a country where there are so many interests all clasting with each other, and where there are almost as many petty chiefs as there are pearants, who are reluctant to foreign the right of governing their Chents in the manner of their forefathers, in favour of an enlightened and general system of administration.

In proportion as difficulties of this nature occur, I will take the liberty of noting them to your Lordship.

My Lord,

Beyrout, November 17, 1840.

I HAVE the honour to me ose berewill the translation of a letter addressed to me by his Excellency Schin Poshs, informing me of the evacuation of Jaffa by the Egyptians. Selim Aga, Binbassi, deserted to Acre with 800. men, but unfortunately the mountaineers attacked him on the road, killed about 200 of them, and allowed the remainder to proceed to join the Turkish troops in a state of pudity.

Ibrahim Bey, Brigadier-General, who commanded at Juffa, retired with only a part of his troops, but the inhabitants arrested Mustapha Bey, the Colonel, and the officers that were with him, who are to be sent prisoners to Acre.

The possession of Juffa will leave the Egyptime at Jerusalem no means of effects tieres upe. The cauchy without a reption, around them, as up in arms, and I am in hopes that the surrender of that important place will speedily follow Jerosalem is surrounded by a stong wall, at I is situated on the summit of lofty thoughtains, where it would be difficult to transport cannon. My Lord,

THE evacuation of Jaffa by the Egyptians has been followed by that of Jerusalem in the manner stated in the letter I have the houser to melon herewith from the Kady or Judge of that place.

The mountains of Naplous, as well as the capital of that district, have also returned to their allegiance to the Sultan, and have received the Governors appointed by his Excellency Selim Pasha.

The infloratial and powerful family of El Hadi was the chief support of Mehemet Ali s power in the South of Syrin, the principal mambers of it holding the most lucrative and important commands under him

There m no doubt, however, but what his submission is as advantageous to us as it as rumous to the cause of Mehemet Au in the South. ## Mr. Wood to Viscount Ponsonby.

My Lord, Beyrout, November 19, 1840.

I HAVE the become to inform your Lordship that I returned to Beyrout, on the 15th instant, from the mountains, where I had been to see and communicate verbally with the Entir Benhir on subjects relating to the present crisis of affairs in the country; as also to collect correct information of the movements of the enemy and their effective force, the positions they occupied, and the communications that were still open in them, and the state of their Communication and Supplies.

Ibrahim Pasha's camp at Malaka (a place adjoining Zahlé) is composed of 10,000 Infantry, two aquadrons of Lancers (about 1,000 men), and 1,000 Irregular Cavalry. He is intrenched, and he has with him thirteen field-pieces. At Yelsland a village five intern or leagues from Malaka, there are 2,000 Infantry and 500 Cavalry to guard the road, and at Baibec, four house from Malaka, 500 Kurdesh Cavalry.

Besides the above, he has stationed his Kaftan Agneti (Master of the Wardrobe) in the Hauran, six hours from Damascua, with two battalians of Infantry, 600 Cavalry, and three field-proces; and his Madjoun Agneti at Mezarib, twelve hours from Katmin, with two battalians of Infantry, and 700 Bedouin Cavalry. At Home and Hamah there are only four battalians of the Line. The Egyptian forces, therefore, in the South amount in about 14,500 Infantry and 4.00 Cavalry, bearies the garrison of Damascus. About Meneckly Pasha is in the direction of Aleppo with eight battalians of Infantry (if complete fi 400) and 1.000 Cuirssa ers, and a certain Aharel Bey Ebis Mursalogiu-deb-Hank has been named Pasha, and sent from the camp to Aleppo to collect it is said, the troops that are in the North.

If any reliance can be put in the reports lately circulated, the Egyptian forces concentrated in the North, near or at Aleppo, amount to about 15,000 men. It appears to me, however, from the accounts I have received at various periods of the movements of the different regiments, that their numbers are greatly exaggerated; and it is evident, besides, that if librahum Pasha possessed such a force on the frontiers, he would not have had recourse to the hard expedient of abandoning Koulek-Bogas in the Taurus, destroying the works there, and spiking nearly 500 brass cannon.

The Egyptian troops have been withdrawn from Tarson, Adam Marash, Apriab. Oria, and Antioch. The 500 Druss Cavalry that were quartered at Al Bost in Lave deserted to Malatin, and of the three regiments that were retiring from Marash one fled into the Desert near Alexon—the other two were prevented with order ty, from tollowing their example.

From the aspected approximate listinate of the Explan Arms its netual amount may be fairly stated to vary from 3+000 to 20 000 effective meritous as the Mustechar Effends has faithfully premised in to cay that he would near the expense of serious intelligent emissances to the North to ascertain both their numbers and men could be all head to be able soon to furnish your Lordship with more positive and salistactory information on this head

The principal expects of the Egyptus army are at Damascus and Homs, from whose a procures his supples benever with great difficulty and risk. He is obtained to detach strong bodies of Carary to essent the convoys, to protect them from being captures by the armed monotaineers who are in possession of some of the assess of Arti Libanus. Note the tank ing these precautions, only a few days since, a large convoy of 400 males and camels was captured by the people of the Hauran who killed 200 of the escort In revenge, he has sent his Kaltan Agussi into their country to piliage and destroy it, but fortunately they have surrounded him, although they cannot drive him away from his position, which he defends with three peces o can ion

The famous Druse warrior Sheik Shible el Argan has joused Ibraham from Marash with 400 Drase norsen en . Indiedately on his arrival he put timself in communication with the knint Bechie, whom he begged to procure for him and his men a Boyouroulds from his Excel erry letter Pason, pro as rg bin and his men their arrears of pay when he would join us and bring with his as many of the Egyptian forces as he could entice away. The moment the Lear Becaut apprized me of this circumstance, I lost no time in making the necessary arrangements to secure the co-operation of this Sheik, from whose doubtless courage and known fame I anticipate many valuable services in the cause of the

I subjoin an extract from Halil Pasha's letter, which will convey to your Lordship both the panic that has seized the Egyptians, and the expedients to which Ibrahim Pasha has recourse to intimidate the people, who are more afraid of the Albanians and Irregular troops than of the Nisam.

" Sheriff Pasha has dispersed the band of the 6th Regiment that was at Damascus, and has turned the privates into a body of Irregulars, whom he armed, and sent to a place called Sakra, together with a body of friegular Cavalry. On some of the fugitives joining them, and informing them that Acre was captured in three hours, praise he to the Almighty, fear came over their hearts, and they fied back to Damasous, where, however, Sheriff punished them, and forced them to return to their aforesaid place. On their murch thither, about sixtoen of them, officers and privates, run away to Saids, and on inquiring of them the state of ibrahum's army, they answered, 'It is all over with Ibrahum this time: we are only waiting for the appearance of the Sultan's troops, when we will desert. This is our intention, and we are only looking out for some milde or other to afford us an opportunity

I believe this feeling to be universal in the Egyptian Army, and it is not, therefore, surprising if, with such disaffected and disorganized troops, Ibrahim should not dore to move out of his intrenchments, or that he should be obliged to put officers for sentrice to prevent desertion at night. Whenever the Sultan's troops are led on, thay are sure of victory. It will be the agnal for the general dispersion of the Egyptian Army in Syna, the destruction of which I consider mevitable, if advantage be taken in time of the enthusiasm and the spirit that seems to animale the people.

My Lord,

Therapia, December 8, 1810

I RECEIVED on the 6th at tagert, from Commodore Suprer, a copy of the Convention be signed with Boghos Boy at Alexandria, on the 26th of November, 1810, and I immediately communicated it to the Porte and to my Colleagues.

Your Lordship has received the Commodore's report upon the subject. and I have only to acquaint y vithat the Submit Porte has formally declared the Convention to be null and void; and that my Colleagues and myself concur in the declaration, and for acr, that I have written official letters to Admiral Stopford, to Commodore Napier, Consul Larking, at Alexandria, to the officer in command of Her Majesty's ships at Beyrout, to the commanding officer of the British troops in Syria, and to Mr Consul Moore, the purport of which is to make known the declaration of 2 D 3 the Sublime Porte, and to prevent, as far as may be in my power, the carrying into execution any part of the Convention.

It is unnecessary for me to say, that no Government in the position of the Ottoman Porte could, for one moment, tolerate the assumption by an individual of the right to treat for it with any Power, whether existing de jure or de fucto in the guise of a rebel Power. Her Majesty's Ambasander is wholly unnutherized to recognize the act of an individual unprovided with powers let Her Majesty's Government and the Ministers of Austria, Prussia, and Russia are equally unauthorized to recognize the acts of a person so circumstanced.

This proceeding has thrown no little discredit upon the management of our affairs; and the Sublime Porte hardly knows what to think of the manner in which the Admiral and the Commidute have acted, in assuming authority they have no right to exercise—the first with respect to the blockade, the second in the present affair

I beg leave to call your Lordship's attention to the fact that the want of means for communicating with Syria and Egypt has been, throughout the progress of the important business in this country, of serious detriment to Her Majesty's service, and may now be the occasion of the escape of Ibrahim's Army from Syria, if the rachness of those who made the Convention at Alexandria should be carried to the extreme of putting it into execution. I have taken the liberty many times to represent the above-mentioned want of means. I am sure they will never be afforded me, unless by command of Her Majesty's Government. I beg to be exonerated from blame for the past, present, and future evils attendant upon such a want.

The Sublime Porte has no steamer at its command at this moment, all being employed in active service, or in dock, and one has been wrecked.

The Sublime Porte not only rejects, as it has done, the Convention, but it is in liginant that such an arrangement should be considered posa ble

Translation of a Despatch, addressed by the Sublime Ports to Chekib Effendi at London.

Le 13 Chewall, 1256. (Le 8 Décembre, 1840.)

TOUT le monde a été à même d'apprécier les bonnes intentions et la moderation dont la Sublime Porte a fait preuve envers Méhemet Ali, depuis l'avonement au trône de notre Auguste Muitre, tout en avisunt aux moyens de défendre les droits et les intérets du trône Impérial. D'une autre par un ne peut ignorer les exigences de l'ambition excessive de Méhémet Ali, et son obstination à persister, fant sous le règne de Sultan Mahmoud, que sous le règge actuel, dans des prétentions madmissibles, et dans les voies qui ont provoqué les événemens qui se sont accomplis récemment; c'est pourquoi il est superflu d'entrer ses dans aucun détail à ce sujet.

Mais indépendamment de sa conducte antécieure, et même après le Traité hours and nit conclu entre la Sublime Porte et les Quatre Puissances, Méhémet Al sest open ser neut maintenu dans son système de résistance, et loin d'avoir ou recours à la clémence souveraine, il ne s'est occupé que de préparatifs de guerre, auna vouloir tenir aucun compte ni des importantes faveurs qui lui étaient assurées par ce Traité, m de l'impossibilite absolue de le modifier, et fermant les yeux non sculoment sur les avantages personnels qu'il aurait recueilles de son acceptation et sur les conséquences ficheuses auxquelles il s'exposait par un refus, mais encore sur les nombreux succès qui ont couronné non apérations en Byrie, et sur les répugnances et le mécontentement qu'ont fait éclater contre luimême les habitans de l'Egypte.

La Sublune Porte, au contraire, a acrupuleusement conformé tous ses actes nux stipulations du Traité, en prononçant, après s'être concertée avec les Reprénentaris des Quatro Pussances, la destitution de Méliémet Ali, qui las était imposée par l'obligation de garantir ses intérêts présens et à venir

Aujourd'bus, et après tout ce qui vient d'être exposé, comment pourraiton confier de nouveau l'autorité à un homme tel que Méhémet Ali ? Toutelous, et que pe le Sal de and parel efection ex eva de order de se propre vol. de 1 Méhémet Ah, néammons, en cas d'une demande de la part des Grandes Puiscances, il est possible que, par déference pour elles, quelque faveur temporaire hu sort accordee. Main seruit-il possible aujourd'hui de revetur sur la question de l'hérédité, cette grande concession, déjà rejetée par lui, du Traité d'Albance? Et comment les Quatre Pumances pourment elles concilier desormais cette concession avec le maintien de l'intégrale de l'Empire Ottoman, qui forme le principal objet de leur sollicitude ?

La Sublime Porte vient de déclarer ses intentions formelles su sujet de l'hérédité, et elle a lieu d'espérer que les Quatre Pinssances voudront bien se pénetrer de la vérité des raisons qui précèdent, unes que de la justice qui milite on sa favour, et achever l'enuvre qu'elles ont entreprise et dont la Sublime Porte a déjà recueills les premiers fruits.

Il est important de faire observer encure que si, d'un côté, les forces de terre et de mer du Pacha, à qui sera confié à l'avenir le Gouvernement de l'Egypte, dorvent être suffisantes pour la protection du commerce et le maintien de la tranquillité intérieure de la Province, elles doivent ausa, de l'autre, pouvoir se concilier avec ses ressources locales, sinsi qu'avec la sureté inténeure de l'Empire et les nouvelles institutions que Sa Majesté Impériale le Sultan y a introduites, et qui devront être également appliquées à l'Egypte, sux termes même du Traité de Londres, -institutions d'après lesquelles les mesures versiones exercées jusqu'ici envers les habitans de cette contrée doivent naturellement cesser C'est pourquoi ce point aussi mérite un examen sémeux

Yous voudrez bien, M. l'Ambassadeur, porter le contenu de la présente dépèche à la connaissance de Messieurs les Membres de la Conférence.

AS chance entirely rules the world, peaceable preparations sometimes terminate in war, and warlike preparations sometimes terminate in peace. From the Creation to the present time, such has been the case. The will of God is the great first cause, and the end of all things. God is all powerful

The stars were from the beginning uninvourable to my late efforts until the Commodors of the Fleet of Her Britannic Majesty arrived, and announced that the Government of Egypt was to be berechtary in my family for the sake of peace. The European Powers have thus determined. Peace is the object of all Governments, and these things have happened to bring back report, to stop the effusion of Mussulman blood, to satisfy the minds of the people, and allow all to return to their habitual pursuits of commerce or agriculture.

With this view, the Commander-in-Chief of the forces in Syria has been ordered to retire from that country, and return to Egypt with all his camp, and the slaves of Egypt

(No. 74.)

My Lord.

St. Petersburg, December 22, 1840.

I HAD the honour of an interview with the Emperor yesterday morning, and of a long and confidential conversation with His Imperial Majesty upon a variety of important topics, which the state of affairs in different parts of the world suggests, in the course of which the Emperor repeatedly expressed the warmest feelings of friendship for England, and which naturally turned mostly upon the late events in the Levant and in Egypt.

The Emperor evinced the most lively satisfaction at the manner in which the success of Her Majestr's Forces had brought to a termination the question between the Sultan and Mehemet Ali. The Emperor, however, and he should have considered the conclusion of those operations more completely happy, if Commodore Namer had insisted upon Mehemet Ali's unconditional submission to the Sultan, and had taken his demand of the hereditary Government of Egypt only as a petition to be referred to Constantinople for the unbiassed decision of the Sublime Porte. However, His Imperial Majesty was highly pleased at the success, which had been more rapid than, with the means that were provided, he had anticipated, but of the ultimate attainment of which he had never

The Emperor expressed his great desire that the concord established between the Great Powers who signed the Treaty of the 15th of July, and particularly the Alliance between England and Russia, should be cemented and preserved by every possible means.

I afterwards visited Count Nesselrode, who read to me the heads of the arrangement which your Lordship desired should be adopted, and signed by the Four Powers, and by France, to which, he said, he had not the slightest objection. His Excellency further said that France ought to sign it, in accordance with the collective note presented to the Sultan, and that he trusted she would demand no more. Count Nesselrode expressed great gratification at the sentuments he understands your Lordship to entertain upon the idea of a general guarantee of the integrity of Turkey; and he said that he boped the honours that the Emperor had conferred upon the Archduke Frederick, Admiral Sir Robert Stopford, and Commissione Napier, would show how entirely absent from the mind of His Imperial Majesty was any feeling of jenloury at the success of the Adied arms without the assistance of a Russian force.

I HAVE received your Excellency's despatch No. 74, of the 22nd of December, reporting the language held by the Emperor of Russia respecting the Turco-Egyptian Queetion, in an interview which you had with His Majesty on the preceding day; and I have to instruct your Excellency to take an opportunity of stating to His Imperial Majesty the gratification to Her Majesty's Government by the sentiments expressed by him re his occasion; and to assure him, that it is the sincere wish of Her Majesty's Government that the Alhance between England and Russia, so apply car well by recent events, may mag continue, and may not only tend to the welfare and prosperity of the two countries, but may also contribute powerfully to maintain the peace of the world.

Your Excellency will assure His Imperial Majesty, that the honours which he has conferred upon the British naval officers employed in the recent operations in the Levant, have been the source of extreme gratificato a to Hir Majesty's to recement as affirming a striking proof of the time y territor of the Emperor Lowers England, and as being a public makes a one of the curba is with which the Emperor has co-operated

Your Excellency should also say, that Her Majesty's Government appreciate very highly the sound judgment with which the Emperer has acted in the whole of these transactions; for there cannot be a doubt that the powerful naval and military force, which the Emperor has kept in reserve to be ready to act in case of need, has essentially contributed to the successful result which has been obtained; while the circumstance that those forces have been kept in reserve, and have not prematurely been brought into action, has prevented some political difficulties which might otherwise by possibility have arisen.

Her Majusty's Steam Vessel " Megara," at Sea. December 12, 1860.

I HAVE the honour to report to you my proceedings in the service on which you ordered me. I arrived off Alexandria in this vessel early on the morning of the 8th and faring no English man-of-war off the place, proceeded into the port, and sent for Mr. Larking, Her Majesty's Consul, whom I requested to inform Meliemet Ali that I was charged by you to make a communication to him from Her Majesty's Covernment, and for which purpose 1 demanded an interview with aim in the presence of Bogbes Bey

At soon I went to the Palace with Mr Larking, and had an audience with Mehemet Ab after del versag y air letter to it at and passing a few compliments, I read to him my extract, a copy of which I memie, from Lord Palmerston's instructions, which was interpreted to him by his Drage man, and then presented to him, expressing my hope that his comphonee with what it required would restore a good understanding between the Sultan and himself. He alluded to the recent Convention, and said he had promised all this before to Commodore Napier, if Egypt was goaranteed to him, and that he never departed from his word.

I repaid, I had no guarantee to offer; but he would perceive that, though you had not been able to ratify that Convention, you had lost no time in communicating the instructions received from your Government, and a expressing your own disposition to conciliate; and that I hoped he would rient the wish which I knew you had expressed, and take some immediate steps for the rest tution of the Turk shillert, which I regretted to observe was making no preparation for sea, that the words in my note with reference to the fleet were ' cannedlate, ' and ' without delay;" and I was sure his giving directions for that part of it which could be most expeditiously equipped proceeding to via at Marmorice, would be regarded in a favourable light, both at Lor sen and at Constantinople

Mehemet Ali said carriestly, he had always wished to give the fleet up to les master that I might pledge myself that it should be ready to deliver to me, or to any officer that might be sent by the Porte to take charge of it, and that he would send his own officers and men to assist in navigating it, if he was reinstated in Egypt; adding, if I give up the fleet, what security have I, having already given orders for the evacuation of all the places referred to?

I told him be must look for his security in the good fasth and friendly disposition of the English Government, and in the influence it might have with the Sultan and the Alber Powers. He seemed rather hisposed to yield in this point, but gave no positive inswer. I then stated that my time was amilied he said he had no wish for delay. The documents which I had given him should be forthwith translated, and brought again under his consideration, and that I should have his answer in French to take to you as soon as possible. I replied, I was authorized to take his final answer to Constantinople, and that I must be furnished with his written engagement to convey thither, and as I concluded it would be written in Turk sh, I must have a translation of it also, that I might be set after it contained all that was required. This was impreciately assented to Menemet-All say ug, he was always ready to make his submission to the Sultan, and that he would promise all that was asked, if he was allower to remain quiet in Egypt This ended the Conference

In the evening Mr Larking and muself had an interview by appointment with Beghos Bey, who sail it was Mehemet Ali's desire to meet the views of the timed Powers, and that he was pleased with the English mediat up, but that he couss level that he had already the process of the hereditary Generalized Payor, and he was afraid there we all ocdifficult es raised at Constantino, e, at I that there was one Power (Russin) not so well a sposed to see such a termination to the Question of the Bughos Bey, that I count be aware the A red Pewers could not regard Menemet th since his deposition by the Sustan in the same high sochel reand that he must make his submission and that I was size if I e weed without delay set I such gart of the Purk shiller an could be got ready to Marmorice, it must tend to exacutate all parties, and be a proof of the

Mehemet Ali said he had given orders already on the subject, and repeated earnestly that the fleet should be ready to quat the part, as far as he was concerned, live days after the arrival of the officer to whom the Sultan wished it to be delivered

I then remarked that on the subject of Candia there might be some delay, as I understood the Pasha there had not submitted to the Sultan, and as I thought it probable the Porte might be prepared to send troops immediately to take possession of that island, I proposed that I should be the bearer of a letter to the Pasha of Candia, directing burn to yield it to the Turkish Authorities; to which Mehemet Ali immediately assented, and ordered one to be written. I hope these points, therefore, may be taken as an earnest of his sincerity, though I am quite of opinion, that unless the Sultan gives him the hereditary Pashalick of Egypt, he will be very much disposed to fight for it—or, at any rate, to give further trouble. This letter to the Pacha of Candia being ready, I received it with those to the Yuner and yourself (all which I herewith transmit), all under flying scals, from blehemet Ali's hands, and took my leave of him. Boghos Bey then requested to speak with me on one or two subjects, by Mehemet Ali's desire, which were-lat. My Lord, I HAVE the honour to acquaint your Lordship, that on the 8th instant, Captain Fanslawe, of Her Majesty's ship "Princess Charlotte," arrived

He brought me a letter from Admiral Sir Robert Stopford, in which te requested me to assist Captain Fanahawe in obtaining the object if his mission by all the means in my power

I never supposed that an officer of Commodore Napier's standing, commanding so formidable a force, and coming direct from the Admiral, would have opened negotiations of so important a nature, unless instructed

I replied that no one could more deeply regret than 1 del, having been a party in advising him to accept the conditions offered by Commodore Napier, for which, as it appeared in the sequel, he did not possess adequate authority, but that he must be aware that the recommendation of Her Majesty's Hovernment was in spirit nearly resembling that which led to the arrangement that had been entered into with Commissione. Napier, and merely engaged him promptly to execute those measures which he had repeatedly declared it was his intention to adopt. To this Mehemet Ali replied, that the present recommendation was different, in as much as that by the former arrangement his position was secured, whereas by this he was entirely at the merry of the bostan. I then said that for the Four P ..

Mehemet Ali then said that with regard to Captam Fanshawe's proposal that he should deliver up a portion of the fleet, that would be a lonf measure, and might be construed into a desire to procrastinate that unconditional surrender of the fleet which would take place as soon as he received an order from the Sultan stating to whom he was to deliver it over. That he submitted himself to the will of the Sultan, and threw himself on his generosity. As regarded the evacuation of Syria, it had already taken place, and as regarded Candia and the Holy Crice, he was prepared to address a letter to the Grand Vizier, in accordance with what was required of him.

I reported this to Captain Fanshaws, who said that this answer was not in the form he expected, or according to the letter of his instructions; that he would however be satisfied, and be the hearer of a letter to the Vizier if conformable to the above declaration.

This letter, as well as one to Admiral Sir Robert Stopford, of both of which I have the honour to inclose translations, were prepared and delivered to Captain Fanshaws, along with an order to the Commander of the Egyptian troops in Candia, immediately to effect the evacuation of

Alexandrin, December 22, 1840

HAVING received intelligence that partial disorders had broken out in Mount Lebanon, which were attributed to the presence of Burnham Pasha at Damascua, I informed Boghos Bey of the fact, which led to Mohemet Ali addressing a letter to Sir Robert Stopford on the subject.

A letter which I wrote to Sir Robert Stopford, of which I have the honour to inclose a copy, will acquaint your Lordship with all that passed.

Inclosure in No. 114.

Mr Consul Larking to Sir Robert Stopford,

Alexandria, Docember 21, 1840 BY Her Majesty's steam-vessel "Hydra," which arrived here on the 17th instant. I learnt that Ihrahim Pasha had not contil Sant and ugh it was supposed they were on the point of leaving that city.

As this state of affairs is totally at variance with the inform. your Excellency had given to Mehemet Alicend in a dead of the ser the test of the parties that bester, sout by rig was already . . . I lost no time in calling the attention of Boghos Bey to the met, urging him to use his influence with Mehemet Ali, to induce him to forward to your Excellency an order to Ibrahim Pasha for the ammediate and unconditional evacuation. I pointed out to him the certainty of a stop being put to negotiations at Constantinople, so soon as the news arrived that Ibrahim Pasha was still at Damascus, after his father's formal declaration to the contrary, and that if any collision should unfortunite; the place with mental Turn it in Figure forces, it or ght be attributed to a desire on the part of Ibrahim Pasha still to avail himself of the chances of war, and that such a supposition, although it might be erroneous, must prove most disadvantageous to the interests of Makanat Ali

Hoghos Bey assured me that no such views were entertained by Mehemet Ali after the solemn declaration he had made, but that I was aware that for a considerable time Mehemet Ali had had no communication with his son, and that the only intelligence he had had of the movements of his army, was contained in a letter from your Excellency by which he was led to suppose that the evacuation was not only commenced, but completed. I replied that this assurance must have been given in the full persuasion of its correctness, but I remarked, that so soon as your Excellency would hear that it had not taken place, you would be the first to demand an order for the immediate and unconditional evacuation of Syris, and this order being promptly and spontaneously given, would be interpreted into a desire on the part of Mehemet Ali to remove all difficulties on the subject. I made use of other arguments, all of which Boghos Bey requested me to put in writing, in order that he might submit the same for the consideration of Mehemet Ali.

I did this, and on the following day received a communication from Boghost Buy, to the effect that Melicinet Ali was entirely ignorant of the movements of Ibrahim Pasha, and felt convinced that the intelligence I received was not altogether correct; that should your Excellency deem it expedient he could have no hesitation in giving the order, but that in the mean time he proposed sending an officer to Beyrout, who should be allowed to proceed to Damascus, being the bearer of a copy of his letter to the Vizier, and make known to Ibrahim Pasha his intentions regarding the evacuation of Syria, and at the same time make arrangements for the transport by sen of the mek, wounded, and women, whom it would be impossible to remove by the overland route.

I runarked that such a proceeding would be totally irregular, as the commanding officer at Reyrout would nover allow the passage of his Envey, unless authorised by the Commander-in-chief, and that whatever minumention he thought proper to make, must be made through your to the y, and again arged him to wave all pretexts which might be protect into a desire to procrastinate, and at once to give the order in of the same evening I had another communication from Boghos Bey, it will be aid that Mehemet Ali based his declaration on the statement under by your Excellency, and which statement had never been officially contradicted, but that the moment he heard from your Excellency that Heatom Pasha was still to Syria, he would not heatate to furnish you with an order for the immediate and unconditional departure of the Egyptian troops from Syria

Foreseeing that further discussion would be unprofitable and producing of loss of time, I requested that a letter might be addressed to your Excellency, contains the intentions of Mehemet Ali, which I have now the honour to inclose

I request that after perusal of this letter, your Excellency will favour me with your instructions how to proceed, and I have no hesitation in using, that as soon as they are made known, I shall have no difficulty in energing them into effect.

You will perceive, that tall an official contradiction arrives of the intelligence above alloded to, Mehemet Ali has a plea for refusing to take my further steps, the non-precessity of which had been pointed out to him by year E to list cy.

The Pasha replied, that as the Subline Porte found the form of the Coverns or as and as it substance was contrary to the intereses of his Highness the Sultan, it was the duty of the Porte to act as it had done :--

"You say," continued the Pasha, "that it is necessary to make an engagement of which France may be an integral part; we have any two propositions to make, and both are diametrically opposed to the policy adopted by France, namely, either the total and absolute sal to said of Mehemet ka as a subject and not as a vassal, or, his announction. How is it that you pretend to have at heart the integrity and the independence of the Ottoman Empire, when you seek to parintain it if you are so are no as for the preservation of Mchemet Mi, you have only to appoint I in Governor of one of your provinces."

"However," said M. Cor, "Egypt and some other provinces might well be given to Mehemet Ah, without making a partition of the empire." Title Commander-in-Chief has sent me a copy of a letter addressed to me by your Lordship, the original of which, I presume, has been sent to Alexandria; this letter states that the Porte had made a formal protest against my acts, and that the Convention is null and void, in which your Lordship and your Colleagues entirely colleur, and you car upon me to abstain from carrying it into execution,

In reply to which, I beg leave to acquaint your Lordship that I never bad the least idea that the Convention could be carried into execution without the authority of the Porte and the Commander-in-Chief, to whom the whole correspondence was addressed; therefore I cannot see the necessity of the formal protest of the Porte against my acta-

The Convention simply tied down Mehemet Ali to abandon Syria insuediately, and give up the Turkish fleet, when the Pert, as a manufactural his teres fary to e to govern Egypt, and on tress conditions, I agreed to suspend bootileties.

I was led to believe, from Lord Palmerston's letter to your Lordship, that I had followed up the views of the Ailied Powers. I was led to beheve, by letters I have received from different members of the Govern-

Her Majerty's steam vessel "Stromboli." Therapia, December 17, 1840. My Lord,

WITH reference to my interview with your Lordship yesterday, I have now the honour to inclose to you a copy of the Note which I gave to Mehomet Ali on the 8th instant, after having communicated to him the contents verbally, and which your Lordship will perceive is strictly in conformity with the instructions from Lord Palmerston, which I received from Admiral Sir Robert Stoplard, on being directed by him to proceed to Alexandran for the purpose.

On the third day after my arrival at Alexandria, I received from Boghos Bey the translation, which I presented to your Lordship yesterday, of the letter, or written engagement, from Mehemet Ali to the Vinier, the organit of which I am the henrer of, and which I subsequently received from Mehemet Ali humself.

I beg leave also to take this opportunity of reporting to your Lordship, that in beautiful it views I had will Mel met M, he expressed himself dearrous of yielding entirely to the Sultan's commands, in the hope that the marrounden of the theil Powers and the mediation of Figland, with which he seemed much pleased, would obtain for him the tenure of high t he laid stress upon holding the guarantee set forth in the Convertion recently made with him by Commodore Napier; but I gave him to understand distinctly, that Convention had not been ratified by the Admiral Commander-in-Chief, and that I had no guarantee to offer him. I urged him at once to give up the Ottoman Beet, on which subject he pledged himself, most earnestly, that he would give it up to any officer the Sultan might name to take charge of it, immediately he arrived at Alexandria; or to the English Admiral, if so ordered, that he would lend his own officers and seamen to assist in navigating it; and that, as far as he was concerned, it should be ready to quit the port five days after the arrival of the Suban's officer, and that we had already governorders for its present on, (which, from information I received at the Arsenal, I believe was the case)

At my first interview with him, he promued to enoply with my requisition as to time, the translations of the documents to be given to me, and their being sent under flying seal; and he did so: and at my suggestion gave me a letter to the Governor of Candia, directing him to give up the mland to the Sultan's authorities, and to be prepared to quit it with the Egyptian troops; in short, he said be would do all that was required of India With respect to the translation of the Holy Cities I was informed that the troops remaining in them, amounting to about 2,000, were left only for the purpose of maintaining order and security, and would be instructed to quit them on receiving the Sultan's commands, or on the arrival of Turkish troops

I shall proceed in the "Stromboli" to-day to Constant nople, that she may take in coal; and I shall be prepared to want on the bear with his letter, when I receive the internation from hom of one wish to see one and unless your Lorest. should went the steamer to return to Therapia, I shall awart in her at the trusien Horn, your Lordsh as instructions for my further guidance.

M. le Minutre des Affaires Etrangères.-Vons envez, Messieurs, qu'une lettre a de ade per Mchemet Ali à la Sublinse Porte et vous en connaissez le contenu. La bublique Porte a également reçu avant hier le mémoraishim de la Conference de Londres du 14 Novembre. M. l'Ambassadeur d'Angleterre.-Je penso que c'est au Sultan qu'il peut soulement appartenir de décider ce point.

M l'Ambustadeur d'Angleterre.-Je busse à mes Collègnes du déci er a desaus. Quant à moi, je ne vous pour le mousent rien devant moi qui m'autorise à m'expliquer, ni à énoncer une opimon.

Le ton qui y règne m'a paru repositre a tous les custame. Il ene été démende qu'il n'e ent pas été question de la Convention du and a crossman to be a first bought encore que cette Convention n'ent jamais été conclue, et Méhémet Ali, en s'y référant, n'a fait que se prévaloir d'un avantage qui lui a été offert gratuitement, Il n'aurant terre d'ailleurs qu'au Capitaine Fanahawe de lui représenter qu'un acte que les Commandeurs Albés avasent déclaré nul et comme non avenu ne devast pas être mentionné dans la lettre au Grand Vizir. Mus je ne m'appenentirai pas sur cette circonstance, qui, à tout presidre, n'a plus maintenant qu'un interêt eccondaire. Je reviens à la lettre de Méhémet Ali. Dans cette lettre le Pacha déclare être prêt à faire tout ce qu'on las demande, et sous ce rapport su soumission me parait entière,

"Je serais donc d'avis que cette soumission fut acceptée ; qu'un officier de Sa Hantesse fut envoyé à Alexandrie; que Mébémet Ali reçut l'injonction de lui remettre la flotte Ottomane; que d'après les termes de l'Acte séparé de la Convention du 16 Juillet, les Commandeurs Alliés fusient savités à nassiter à cette remise. que le Pache fût sommé d'évacuer les provinces ou villes de l'Empire Ottomane qu'occupent encore les troupes Egyptiernes et qui se trouvent seti ces en nehors des limites de l'Egypte ; enfin, que le Grand Vizir, en répondant à en lettre, lui annonçat que, ces conditions une fois remplies en entier, Sa Hautesec, par égard peur ses Alliés, darguerait le réinstaller dans ses fonctions de Pucha d'Egypte. Ce Conseil est celui que la Conference de Londres a vousa que nous dornais na à la Sublime Porte dans le cus où Mébémet Ali se rendrait à la sommation qui vient de lui être faite. Quant su inbut, sux forces de terre et de mer, et sux lois qui devront gouverner l'Egypte, ces points ont été réglés d'avance par la Convention du 15 Juillet, et il suffire d'exécuter à cet égard les stipulations que renferment les Articles III., V., et VI., de l'Acte séparé appead à cette

"Je regarderata comme regrettable à tous égards toute hésitation de la Porte à se conformer aux conseils de ses Alliés. Les plus brillans succès ont couronné leurs efforts en Syrie: ces succès ont dépassé nos calculs, nos prévisions, nos esperances. La Sycre est rentrée sous le sceptre de Sa Havtesse, et le prije pal objet de l'A hance se trouve ainsi remp i . A sez plus loin, n'entre pas dans les vues des Pussances Alliées : la Conférence de Londres s'est assez clairement prononcée à cet égard. La Sublime Porte peut sans doute avoir de bounes rauous pour deurer l'anéantusement de Méhemet A 1; mais n'avant pas les moyens de l'effectuer elle-même, ce sexuit sur ses Alhés qu'en retemberait la charge. Or, voudrait-elle, pour prix des services qu'ils lui ont rendus, les jeter dans une entreprise qui mettrait en péril la paix générale si ardenment desirée par tous les peuples et si heurensement maintenue jusqu'ici.

"C'est vers la France surfeert, que es porte aujourd'hus l'attention de nos Gouvernement cette Passet e a froit à curs ega : s et à leur adeiet et qu l'attitude menaçante et belliqueuse du Ministère Thiers n'a pu les arrêter dans leur marche vera le but qu'ils en proposuent et qu'ils ont atteint, ils semblent désormans voulour vouer tous leurs soins à ménager le Ministère qui lui succède, et dont le langage annouce une politique sage, modérée, et concelinate. Ils docvent en conséquence entrer dans et position, farre le part des difficultés dont il est entouré, et ne pas l'exposer à se voir entraîné malgré lui dans une fausse route. Dans l'état où sont les esprits en France, un incident imprévu peut tout bouleverser, et l'est-il pas dans l'interêt de tous et dans celui de la justice, qu'en s'unue franchement à ceux qui la gouvernent, pour prévenir un parcil

M. l'Internonce donne ensuite lecture des paragraphes 8, 4, 5, and 6, de l'Acte séparé du 15 Juillet.

M. l'Entoyé de Preser. Je partage l'opinion de M. l'Internance. Le démarche de Melazuet Ali i se parait co effet conforme à l'esprit de Memora, dum. Je penec, en outre, que Méhémet Ali ayant solicité son pardon du Sultan, la Sulla se Porte ne devrait pas agar aver trop de sevente contre les, que de devrait au contraire se prêter à des explications et faire preuve de mesure et de modération, non seulement dans l'intérêt de la Forte elle-même, mais encore dans l'interêt général de l'Emrope

M. le Chargé d'Affaires de Russie.-Dans tout ce qui a truit à la question générale les vues de mon Gouvernement na muraient différer de celles des Trois autres Cours ses Albées; mes instructions sont busées sur ce principe. Dans la question spéciale qui fuit l'objet de cette Conférence, les documens existans dorvent nous indiquer la marche et les règles à suvre; or, cette marche et ces règles me semblent déjà tracés par le mémorandum de la Conférence de Londres du 14 Novembre, et par la dépèche de Lord Falmerston du 15 Octobre. Le mémorandum ne m'est pas encore parvenu de mon Gouvernement; c'est M l'internonce qui a en l'obligeance de me le communiquer; j'au seulement reçu la dépèche de Lord Palmerston, qui est mentionnée, et je cross me conformer au sens de ces pièces, en m'associant, dans la circonstance dont il s'agit, au vota émis par M l'Internouve.

M. l'Ambassadeur d'Angleterre.—La question, je le répète, me semble dépendre du fait de la soumission de Mébémet Ali, et le Sultan me parait seul juge dans une semblable question; il a seul le droit de prononcer. Si la Sublime Porte nous fait connaître que le Sultan a agréé la soumission de Mébémet Ali, qu'il en est satisfait, les ordres de mon Gouvernement me préservent de conseiller, dans ce cas, à la Sublime Porte d'accorder à Mébémet Ali le Gouvernement héréditaire de l'Egypte. Jusque là jusqu'à ce que la Porte nous fame connaître la décision du Sultan, je dois m'abstenir de tout conseil, de toute opinion.

Le Minute des Affaires Etrangères.—Il y a différens genres de soumasson. M' beriet à surre par par excepte veur banérie, n'a les los sages, ou envoyer quelqu'un pour implorer sa grâce; mais ce n'est pas ce que nous prétendons. Le mémorandum veut que Mébémet Ali restitue la flotte, qu'il évacue certains pays. Il écrit qu'il fera tout cela; s'il accomplit ces promesses, la Sublime l'orie pourra croire à la soumasson, mais la lettre ne peut pas être considerée par elle seule comme une soumasson réelle.

M l'Internonce d'Autriche.—La lettre est un commencement de soumission. Si la Suduic d'orte de les remais de la diffé que M acmet à la restitue, et qu'il évacue les pays désignés dans le mémorandum, sa soumission sera centamiennent alors complète.

M. le Chargé d'Affairer de Russie.—Il est certain que nous ne pourrons considérer la soumission de Méhémet Ali comme accomplie que lorsqu'il sura rendu la flotte, et evacué les Villes Saintes, ainsi que les autres beux nommés dans le mémorandum mais nous devons pour le moment nous en trair au texte du mémorandum et de l'instruction adressée par l'Amesuté à l'Annral Staperd, où il est fait mention d'une lettre à être renuse par Méhémet Ali à l'officier chargé de lui aggnéer la décusion de la Conférence de Londres.

M l'Internonce.—Que pouvait faire de plus Méhémet Ali f. Il devait commencer par dire qu'il se soumettait, et il ne pouvait dans la même heure effectuer toutes les conditions de se souturation.

M. le Minutre des Affaires Etrengères, faisant allumon à ce qu'avait dit M l'Ambassadeur d'Angleterre, fait observer que jusqu'ics il n'avait point été question d'béredité.

M l'Internonce.—Je ne sun pas appelé dans ce moment à discuter cet objet, sur lequel je n'ai point d'instruction précise, mais, le cas échéant, je me conformerai entièrement sur ce point à ce que fera M. l'Ambassadeur d'Angleterre.

M. l'Ambassadeur d'Angleterre.—Pour moi, j'as l'ordre précis de conseiller à la Subtime Ports de concéder l'hérédité à Méhémet Ali, dès qu'elle nous fera connoitre que le Sultan est satisfait de la soumesson de Méhémet Ali; mais ce conseil ne peut qu'être conditionnel; je n'ai pas le droit de juger de la réalité de la soumession, et je don attendre, pour le donner, que le Sultan se prononce sur le fait de la soumession.

M Platernonce.—Quant à moi, je doss le répéter, j'envisage la lettre de Méhémet Ali comme un premier pas vers sa soumission.

M l'Ambassadeur d'Angleterre.—Je ne pourrai agir dans le sena des instructions de mon Gouvernement que lorsque la Sublime Porte aura déclaré qu'elle c. andere la sommission de Méheuret Ali comme complete. Mais je ne puis demander en Sultan une déclaration quelconque à ce sujet, car je crousis empéter sur ses droits. C'est à Sa Majesté à décider.

M l'Enroyé de Prusse.—Je pense, ainsi que je l'ai déjà dit, que la Sublime Porte ne do t pas user en cette circonstance de trop de sévérité, et je dots l'engager toujours à la moderation.

M. le Ministre des Affaires Etrangères.—La Parte n'n jamins voulu agu avec sévénté: les faits l'ont défà prouvé. Elle ne le ceut pas meme au, ura'hui. Elle veut, au contraire, agir de concert avec ses A. es, et quoque ce se t sans doute au Sultan à décider sur la source sans de Mehemet Al., neanmons, comme ces Alliés ont déclaré leurs intentous dans le memoraneum, j'ai cro deveur consulter œurs flepre ser tans sour savoir si la demarche de Mehemet Arcest co ferme à t caprit du mémorandum; man, punqu'il y a dissidence cans leurs opinions, on pourrait s'en remettre à la décision de la Conférence de Londres.

M l'Internoace.—Mais il n'y a point de dissidence entra nous : nons pensons tous que la sous sission de Mélén e. M. pour severar cos pete, d'at être stavie de l'execute à des ou fittois ; a la sont imposees. Je perse encore, que renvoyer la question à a dec son de la Conference de Lonares, oe soruit en appeler de la Conférence, et perdre du temps en ajournamens inutiles.

Le Ministre des Afaires Etrangères. Je crois que Mébémet Ali doit d'abord exécuter les sei il des qui la sont imposées, quant à l'heredité, c'est une autre question sur laquelle je ne suis pas préparé à m'expliquer.

M. l'Internonce déclare encore une fois que, le moment venu, il s'ansociera dur ce point aux démarches de M. l'Ambassaileur d'Angleterre, et M. l'Envoyé de Pruse fait la même déclaration.

Le Ministre des Afaires Birangères.—Vous savez. Messeurs, cu'à son avéneu ent au frère le plan avant accorde a Minemet Ah cacan instration heroètain de l'h. pie la reple cette faveur. Le France du l'alla det ar la a exponence en ore prostant fans le la t d'eparence a effis à la sang Mélamet. All a exportant recette il situation des montre cette faveur. Mentioner les Representant sont toute attainants à reconnuitre que le Sultan a toute sa iberté d'action à cet égard, et que Méhémet Ah ne saurait invoquer aucun droit

M. l'Escoyé de Primer a ajouté que toute concession en faveur de Méhemet. Als ne saurait être envisagée que convue un effet de la generous du bostan, la l'indépendance de Sa Hautesse est le but de la Convention du 15 Juliet, mais paus la position de les tran est avantageuse aujourd'hai, et jous elle las permettra peutsetre d'etre genereux.

M. l'Internence.-Man le Truité existe toujours pour nous.

M. l'Ambassadeur d'Angleterre.— Je déclare que, dans mon opinion, Mébémet Air n'e aucun dent aujumi inte que le Saran est la mantre de premire le parti qu'n crous convenable, et que nous ne pouvons que lus prêter nos conseils.

Le Ministre des Affaires Etrangères, s'adressant à M. l'Internonce, lai del — Votre Excellence à consideres sur dire que su le Santan est satisfant de la ettre de Ministre Ah, en der not acces ter sa sour essent. Mais Mei enet Al, a leigh écri male ettres sent raises. Peut-on ajouter (n. a ses tettres? Il est vide it d'adfeurs qu'il y à de la ruse même dans cette oernière lettre. Par exemple, il parle de la Convention du Commodore Napier, qui est un acte nul, pour aborder le sujet de l'hérédaté.

M. PInternonce.-Cela est vrai, mais on ne peut comparer cette lettre donnée par suite d'une sommation qui lui est faite par l'Ameral Anglass, au nom des Quatre Punsances, à toutes celles qu'il a adressees de son chei à la Subhme Pocte et nommement à Housew Pacha.

M. le Ministre des Affaires Etrangères. Vous conceves, Memicure, qu'il fant qu'en tout cas la Porte au le temps de réflécher sur cette affaire.

M. l'Internonce.--Assurément, une affaire de ce genre ne peut être biclée dans un jour; il faut sans doute que votre Excellence puisse se concenter avec ses Collègues et prendre les ordres du Sultan.

M. le Ministre des Affaires Etrangères fait observer que, devant soumeitre un Conseil et au Sultan son rapport sur la Contérence de ce jour, il désire savoir, en définitive, qu'elle est la conclusion qu'it doit leur faire connaître.

Messieurs les Représentant répondent que, leur opinion se trouvent consignée dans le présent Protocole, ils s'y référent.

M l'Ambamadeur d'Angleterre,-Ju répète que je dois attendre la décision du Sultan pour donner le conseil qui m'est préscrit par les ordres de mon Gouvernement.

M. l'Internonce fait observer encore une fois combien il servit regrettable que la Porte se se conformat pas avec promptitude au viru exprimé par les Cours Allies dans le mémorandom du 14 Novembre.

Je viens maintenant de recevoir d'Ibrahim Pacha, voie de terre, une dépêche en date du il Ramazan (le 27 Octobre), d'après laquelle il devast se mettre en route avec tout son moude, de Damas le 3 ou le 4 Chewal (le 28 on le 29 Novembre). Ainsi, l'on doit regarder comme positif qu'il s'est mis en route à l'époque annoncée.

Et voici que sur cos entrefaites, je reçois de l'Amiral de la flotte Britannique, son Excellence Sir R. Stupford, une dépeche officielle écrite à la hauteur de Chypre, le 6 Décembre, et conque dans le seus ci-dessous énoncé. M l'Amiral m'a envoyé, en incine tems, come des matructions. qu'il avait reçues de la part de son Excellence Lord Palmerston. Je vois par cette communication qu'il a été supulé que je don renouveler ma soumission à la Sublime Porte en rendant la flotte impériale, et en faisant évacuer par les troupes Egyptiennes la Syrie, Alana, la Crete, le Hedjan, et les deux Villes Saintes

Je reconnais que l'obtention de mon pardon, que ma rentrée dans les bunnes graces de mon Souverain et resilie a com couch a cesasis celle occas de la gracieuse acceptation par Sa Majesté impériale de ma très humble soumssion, sont les effets des nobles efforts des Hautes Puissances Alliées; et parfaitement reconnassant pour tour cela, y'ni pits des mesures pour la resistation de la flotte impériale. On travaille avec activité à mettre les vaissenux en bon état; et à la reception d'un firman faisant connuître de quelle manière il aura plu à Sa Majesté Impériale, que la flotte sore consignée et expédiée, je m'empresseras de me conformer à la volonté souveraine en mettant le dit tirman à exécution.

Lord Beauvale to Viscount Palmerston.—(Received January 13, 1841)

(No. 2).

My Lord, Vienna, January 3, 1841.

I HAVE communicated to Prince Metternich your Lordship's despatch No. 212, addressed to myself, and your Nos. 266 and 270 to Lord Ponsonby, and His Highness has directed the Internuncio to co-operate with Lord Ponsonby in carrying out the instructions conveyed in the above despatches, and to consider them as obligatory upon himself. Upon one is at cuty upon with a your Levish a expresses a could the Prince has given a positive opinion,-it relates to the suggestion that some of the sea-ports of Syria, such as Beyrout and Latakia, should be placed in the ranks of the barr. Bester That us saggest on the Prince of poses a decided negative, as, in his opinion, it would expose the inhabitants of the mountain to foreign intrigues. Upon this point I may observe, that the Maronites, who are by far the most numerous of the mountain tribes, are at the same time those who are in the most immediate contact with the port of Beyrout. They have hitherto been religiously under the protection of France, and it is to be remarked, that the failure of the funds heretofore furnished to Rome by the Catholic countries of the world. having reduced that Court to the inability to pay the missions in the countries of unbelievers, France has taken this burthen upon herself, and has thus acquired a host of active agents, through whom she exerts an influence over the Catholic populations throughout the world. This is a grave reproach to the other Catholic Powers, but it is not likely to be done away; and although for the moment circumstances have led to the substitution of English and Austrian influence among the Maronites for that of France, yet it is not probable that this can be long maintained ago is the circ ristances to which I have adverted. From these motives the Prince has expressed to the Internuncio his opinion, that the towns and ports on the sea-coast should remain in the hands of Pashas or Governors appointed by the Sultan, leaving the mountain districts to be governed in the ranger and down in your Londstages despatch upon the aubject.

Lord Classicards to Viscount Palmerston.—(Received January 23, 1841.)

St. Petersburgh, December 29, 1840.

My Lord, THE French Ambassador has lately received a courier from Paris. but he has not received instructions to make any communication of importance to the Imperial Government. The Baron de Barante had applied for leave of absence, when has been so tar refused, that 'I Guaret has written to him that important discussions may probably arise upon the settlement of Syria, and has put it to min whether I's Excellency would like to be absent from his post at such a morent. M. de Barai to says that he has, therefore, postponed his departure from St. Petersburgh. The language which he holds to Count Nesselrode, and to myself, is, that the Turkish Question is no wise concluded by Commodore Napier's auccesses and negotiations, but is only now beginning; that it is impossible to leave Turkey in the state of evident debility into which, he says, that temportant country has fallen; and that this state of things must be considered by all the Great Powers of Europe, and some provision made against the contingencies, which it renders not improbable. Count Nesselvode replies, that the danger with which Mehemet Ali menaced the Sublime Porte having been averted, and its recurrence guarded against, no occasion exists for other provisional engagements to meet events which appear very remote.

Count Nesselrode has sent to me Baron Brunnow's report of the details of the proceedings at Alexandria, and your Lordship's observations thereupon; and at that part of the latter which suggests that the il positive or coastal beament of Mehomet Ali a the Viceregal peasession of Egypt, with the right of anccession to his family, must be decided by the Sultan. I see a marginal note, in pencil, of the Emperor's handwriting, saying,-" C'est junte l'observation que je vous ai faite ainsi qu'à Lord Chargearde." The suppression of a revolted vassal gives His Imperial Majesty a pleasure beyond that which the political consequences of Commodore Napier's conduct must give to all who, like the Emperor at this moment, desire the peace of Europe.

My Lord,

8t. Petersburgh, December 30, 1840.

IN consequence, I believe, of an accident that occurred to the steamboat between Odessa and Constantinople, the last Mail from that car tal was sent by land, and only reached this place yesterday, when (went Nesselrode learnt the manner in which the Convention entered into by Commodore Napier and Mehemet Ali was received by the Divan of the Sublime Porte

The Russian Government will not despatch any instructions to M. Titow thereupon, for fear of adding to the complications and embarrass ments In which the First arrangement of the Three-Pgy Itan Question has become involved. The Emperor places entire reliance upon your Lordship's judgment and conduct in this difficulty

Count Nesselrode thinks it unfortunate that the Sultan had not been disposed, or advised, to concede the herothtary Government of Egypt to Mehemet Ali, because now France may intervene, and the settlement of the question may be, -as the French Ambassador says it is, -only commencing, instead of being virtually concluded, as had been hoped, and Count Nesselrode would have preferred that the whole matter should have been concluded without any French intervention. His Excellency thinks that to insut upon the deposition of Mehemet Ali will be to put France in an embarrassing position, and perhaps not without danger to the peace of Europe.

Count Nesselrode seems to think that M. Guizot will not be able long to sostain himself in power.

Monsieur,

St. Pétersbourg, le 23 Décembre, 1840.

Il une sous empresae de placur sous les yeux de l'Empercur votre ex at any, he 35 Novembre, par are, a c your news arez real to hade des ter ners ex nelueux que y entier t de se passer à Abyaneire, ai si que de la o termiontana de la Porte de refuser sa sancti a a j arrangement conclu per le Commodere Napier

L'est certain qui a appartient qu'à Sa Hautesse de déterminer en dernier remort l'étendue des sacrifices qu'il lui convient de faire, pour assurer la pacification de son Empire, et ce Souverain ne doit point douter que l'Empereur désire amcérement que cette pacification ait lieu aux conditions les moins défavorables pour la Porte.

Mais plus, notre Auguste Maître e à cœur de défendre les intérêts du Sultan, et plus aussi. Sa Majesté Impériale crosrait comquer a l'emocé. qu'elle lui porte, ai cile ne l'engageast sériousement, dans ce moment do not, a envisager avec calme et modération la situation actuelle des choses, et à se défendre contre des illusions et des espérances qui pourraient ne pas se réaliser en définitif.

Il y a encore peu de mois, à l'époque même de la signature de la Convention de A Juillet, que ni la Porte ni sea Alliés n'avaient pa se flatter de réduire en si peu de tema Méhémet Ali à l'impuissance, à la juelle il se voit condamné aujourd'hui, et il est à peine permis de doi terquasi se serast empresse negacires de la accerder Il crot te, et preme une partie le la Syrie, si, par ces moyens, on avait pu accélérer, dans l'intérêt de la paix générale, un arrangement définitif.

Di puis, les opérations militaires des Alliés en Syrie ont été couronnées par les succès les plus décisifs. Néanmours, lorsque la Porte, dans un moment d'irritation, s'est déterminée à prononcer la déchéance de Méhémet Ali, les Puissances n'out pas hésité à exposer leur opinion à cet égard, et à faire connaître les conditions auxquelles il leur semblait que le Suitan ne devait pas bésiter à réintégrer le Pacha dans l'administration héreditaire de l'Egypte.

Il est viai sans de le que la Porte n'a jungia rega jusqu'à present. une communication officielle des conseils que les Puissances Alliéen avaient eru devoir lui adresser, mais la Porte connaît parfactement la nature et la tendance des instructions du 15 Octobre, qui ont acquis une publicité Europécane: elle est également informée des déterminations arrètées le 14 Novembre à Londres, et de la démarche qui a été préscrite à Sir R. Stopford, et qui n'avait d'autre but que d'assurer l'effet des instructions précédentes,

Il scrait aujourd'hui impossible aux Quatre Puissances Alhées de revenir sur leurs déclarations antérieures. Déjà le Cabinet Britannique n'a pas hisité un instant à se prononcer en faveur des avantages qui resultent de la cessation des hostilités entre la Porte et Méhémet Ali. mais tout en appréciant le but que s'était proposé le Commodore Napier, en prenant sur sa propre responsabilité d'accélérer la soumission du Pacla, tout et appre vant rensemble des conditions que cet officier lu a imposées, le Cabinet de Londres n'a pas eru assumer sur lui une garantie formelle, relativement au droit d'hérédité que le Sultan conférerait à Mébeinet Ali.

Nous avons l'intime conviction que les autres Puissances adhérerent avec empressement à cette opinion de l'Angleterre, accune d'elles ne voudra en effet se charger d'une garantie, qui deviendrait aussi onéreuse pour ces Puissances, qu'elle serait incompatible avec les droits de souverameté de Sa Hautesse.

Il ne nous reste donc qu'à émettre le vœu que les Représentans des Cours Alliées à Constantinople soient mis à même de s'acquitter promptement des instructions dont ils ont été munis précédemment, en conseillant à la Porte de révoquer la déchéance de Méhémet Ali, et de lui accorder sa grace avec la promisse ou accorder de dans le cas ou il remarant saus paus de retard les autres conditions de sa soumission. Dans cette même hypothèse, il appartiendrait à la Porte d'apporter à cet acte d'investiture les restrictions contonnes dans les Articles III., IV., V., et VI, de la Convention de Londres, et développées avec beaucoup de sagacité et de précision dans une dépèche du Prince de Metternich, adressée en tout derajer lieu à l'Internonce d'Autriche.

Du reste, au milieu de l'incertitude où nous nous trouvons encore sur les meaures que l'Amiral Anglais a prises, à la suite des instructions qui lui ont été transmises le 14 Novembre, ainsi que sur les déterminations ultérieures que Mélémet Ali aura adoptées en conséquence des nouvelles ouvertures qui lui aurant été faites, nous nous trouvons dans l'impossibilité de vous donner des directions plus étendues que celles que vous réceves par la présente, au surplus, elles nous semblent asses précises, par a vous la ser a cons de de sur l'esquit dans lequel nous desorrants voir agur les Quatre Représentant à Constantinople, afin d'amener la Pour il preu ce de la bernanate os sages et montress, et conformes aux

Le Cabinet de Londres parait plus que jamais pénétré de l'urgence de acconder, par tous les moyens possibles, la pacification de l'Orient et de faire cesser les doutes que le Divan parait avoir sur les véritables intentions des Alliés. Veuilles donc bien, Monsieur, voin associer à Lord Ponsonby, pour tenir aux Ministres de la Porte le langage que Lord Palmerstup vient de préserire à l'Ambassadeur d'Angletorre, et qui, nous n'en

conjunctures actuelles.

Nous aumons à croire que le Sultan saura apprécier nos conse la comme da méritent de l'être, et que, pénétrée de l'importance de rétablir un moment plus-têt la paix dans toute l'étendue de son Empire, et de prévenir désormais la possibilite d'un nouveau conflit, dont il serait difficile de calculer les diverses chances, Sa Hautesse s'empréssera de suivres les aves bienveillang et desontéressés de son Allies, et contribuers ainsi à hâter la fin de la crise actuelle.

My Lord,

Fionna, January 17, 1841.

Despatches of the 7th instant, received yesterday from Prince Esterhasy and Baron Neumann, have convinced Prince Metternich that the British Government has not only not employed the means in its power to induce the Porte to grant hereditary succession to the family of Mehemet Ali, but that it has purposely abstained from doing so, in the hope that events might arise which would render such a measure un-

Having had a full conversation with the Prince upon the subject, I believe your Lordship may rely upon the following, as containing the elements and the sum of the resolutions of the Imperial Court upon the auliject.

From these considerations, this Cabinet is prepared to declare, that with the submission of Mehemet Ali to the summons made to him by Admiral Stopford, in the name of the Four Powers, the Turco-Egyptian question is come to an end. It the Sultan should refuse the hercalitary grant to Mehemet Ah, it's courtry will give him no support that will withdraw itself from the new affair which would inevitably arise from thence, either between the Porte and Mehemet Ali, or among the European Powers.

France has armed both by land and sea, and if the Eastern affair is brought to an end, those against whom France shall propose to maintain her armed peace will naturally remain united. If the question of h reditary right were to become the cause or the pretence under which France should remain armed, the Continent will exempt itself from this greated of war, by discreasing at the its part. In it's case, the course of Continental Europe will be decided by that of Germany.

Thus far I have followed as closely as possible the very language of Proje Metternesh, in descriping the case preposes to pursue. It is sufficiently clear, and needs little addition, but I lose not an instant in apprising your Lordship, that in the course, in all probability, of forty-eight hours, despatches to the above effect will be sent off to Prince Esterbazy, and also to the Courts of Berlin and St. Petersburgh. The accession of the former to Prince Mettermeh's ideas is not doubtful, and that of the latter appears equally assured by ac-parelles recently received from thence, from which it appears, not only that the Emperor considers his word engaged to obtain the offer of hereditary succession to Mehemet Ali, but that some degree of ill-humour had been already felt at the Russian Court, at the delays and evasions practised at Constantinople.

It has appeared to me, that if Her Majesty's Government should decide to preserve the Alliance by obtaining the fulfilment of the pledge it has taken, this may be done with a better grace before receiving communication of Prince Metternich's despatches, which would in that case be withheld, but things have now been suffered to go so far, that I doubt the sufficiency of any resolution to attain that end, which shall not place us on the ground which has been taken by Austria, by deciding to withdraw our forces from the Levant, and to abandon the Porte to its own resources, in case of a refusal on its part to concede the condition to which the Powers hold themselves to be bound. In case Her Majesty's Government abould decide against this course, the Austrian Government will, upon the refusal of the Sultan to grant hereditary right to Mchemet Ali, withdraw its forces of every description from the Levant, notifying at the same time to the Federative Courts, that its share in the Enstern question is at an end. There would ofterwards, in all probability, ensue hardly remark to your Lordship, that there would result from this an interversion of positions, which would place England in the state of insulation from which France would escape, nor is it possible to foresee the new events and combinations which might consequently arms in Europe. The source of all this confusion has, in Prince Metternich's ognition, no real value; be has no belief in the continuance under any circumstances of hereditary auccession in Egypt to the family of Mehemet Ali, nor, if he believed in it, would be consider it as a misfortune either to the Porte or to any body else. The balance therefore in his mind is between a thing utterly valueless on the one aide, and objects of the most vital importance on the other. Under these impressions your Lordship cannot wonder at his decision.

My Lord,

Vienna, January 17, 1841

PRINCE METTERNICH has just shown me a draft of a despatch to the Internuncio, in which, after recapitulating the authorance of the despatches sent by Prince Nicholas Esterbary, is directs him to call his Colleagues together, and making them acquarated with the resolutions of the Austrian Cabinet, to call upon them to concur in steps calculated to give effect to the decisions taken in the centre of London, and consigned to your Lordsdip's despatch No. 270, of 17th December last, to Lord Ponsonby

If it should be impossible to induce all the Representatives to act in common, the Interpuncio is directed, in that case, to state to the Divan the determination of Austria; leaving it open to such of the other Ministers as may think fit, to make similar declarations. I have good reason to think that the Ressian and Prussian Munsters will act with the interm icto, and as it will only be a question of giving effect to an instruction of your Lordship's, I hope Lord Poisonly will have no difficulty in doing the same. The Prince is employed in drawing up a further instruction to the Internupcio which be has promised to show me that I shall not detact Lord Napier for the purpose of giving an account of it. I expect it to contain instructions as to the representations to be made to the Daran - I shall not fail by this occasion to acquaint Lord Poisonby with what is passing, in an far as I can do so, by an Austrian Courier.

(No. 21.)

Foreign Office, January 26, 1841

Your Excellency's despatches to No. 12 inclusive, have been received.

and laid before the Queer

With reference to your Excellency's despatch, No. 10, of the 17th instant, stat ug that the lutercure as dispatches of the 30th ultimo had brought at ligence that the Commissioners destined for Alexandria would not be copywered to give non assurance as to the right of raredtary succession in Mchemet Ali's family, and that their arrival at that port. would be delayed as much as possible, I have to inform your Excellency that Her Majorty's Government do not know what instructions or autho-Bits the Port bus given to the Commissioners whom it has sent to Alexandr a but the Austrian Government has been entirely mesu-formed as to the delay who had supposes the Porce to intend to practise in regard to sending those Commissioners. For, in the first place, the Ports applied on the 200 rultime, through Lord Ponsonly, to Captain Fanshawe, for an unmed are passage for those Commissioners in her Majesty's steam-yearel "Specialish and t was make to a see Castain Forebawe stated that he halmoments of accommidating them are that he was obliger to go in the first instance to Marmorice Bay, that the Commissioners did not at once proceed in the "Stromboli." But the Porte, upon considering the statement made by Captain Fanshawe, determined to send them in a vessel of its own; and so little foundation is there for the assertion made to your Excellency by the Austrian Government, that the Porte would delay as much as possible the arrival of the Commissioners at Alexandria, that I have this morning seen a letter from Sir Robert Stopford to Lord Minto, dated Marmorice Bay, the 13th of January, being four days antecodent to your Excellency's despatch, in which Sir Robert Stopford states that 2 P 3 the Turkish Commissioners had already at that time arrived at Marmorice, and had left t ag i a for Alexandria, and Sir Robert added that he had sent Commodore Napier with them to Alexandria, to superintend the arrangements for the restoration of the Turkuh Sect.

Prince Metternich must therefore have been strangely misinformed upon these matters.

With respect to the orders given to the Austrian frigates at Marmorice Bay, not to take any part in any attack upon Egypt, and not to aid any operations against Ibrahim Pasha, I have to observe, first, that it has long been well explained by me to Prince Esterbary, and of course through h m to Prince Metternich, that if Her Majesty's Government abould at any time think that the course of events rendered it expedient that Haz Majesty's Squadron should attack Alexandria, such a measure would, in the first matance, in confirmity will the engagements contracted by each of the Four Powers by the Convention of the 15th of July, be submitted to the coas ler tion of the Conference at London, and secondly, if it is the army of Ibrahim was, when last heard of, at Damascus, and about to retreat to Egypt by the inland road through the Desert, it could not be very probable that the assistance of the Alexian frigates could be asked for in support of any attack which the Turkish army of Syria might make upon the retreating forces of the Egyptians.

Viscount Palmerston to Lord Beauvale

No. 22.) My Lord.

Foreign Office, January 26, 1841.

1 HAVE received your Excellency's despatch No. 11 of the 17th matant, stating that despatches of the 7th instant, received from Prince Esterhazy and Boron Neumann, have convinced Prince Metternich that the British Government has not only not employed the means in its power to induce the Porte to grant hereditary tenure in Egypt to Mehemet Ali, but has purposely abstained from doing so; and I have to observe, that the conviction of Prince Mettermen in this matter is entirely gratuations, and not only unfounded upon any facts, but entirely opposed to facts, and to truth; and I have to state, that on the contrary, the conduct of the Austrian Government on this point is much more open to that interprotation.

For what has in this respect been the course pursued by the Two Governments?

The British Government sent of its own second to Lord Ponsonby the instruction of the 15th of October, and invited the other Three Courts to send similar instructions to their Representatives at Constantinople.

If that invit it me had been complied with, the whole matter would, in at prof heavy, have my since our set of Batthe Vistrain to surementions is a and upon a point of exquere or, as a represented it, the ran discreame of the training of princip and that Given ment, the english that a line, but that the wither show I make mother prios or to be subject at the nation cost uplated by the instructiref that that October, muzz steel a dier nt oranse of preceding, ard ledged organic the lacer to the rist os corresponding with those of a 15 and October to Let I Plasmally. This, or that occusion, two shorts, at her begin by which and their from except the means if its newer to presuade the Porte to grant be editary tenure to Mehemet

The British G vergoent may us to adopt w tenever it properly can, the views of Austria, consented, at the suggestion of Prioce Metternich, to suspend the execution of the instruction of the 15th of October, and sent, on the 14th of November, a different instruction to Sir Robert Stopford, which instruction was founded upon a Memorandum drawn up in the Conference; the instruction steelf having been fully considered in Conference, and several alterations having been made in it at the suggestion of the Representatives of the Three Powers.

But Lord Ponsonby was still instructed, that whenever the Porte should receive from Mehemet Ali the submission required by the instruction of the 14th of November, he was to give to the Porte, in concert with his Colleagues at Constantinople, the advice prescribed by the matruction of the 15th of October.

Now, it appears by the Protocol of the Conference held at Constantinople, on the 20th of December, between Rechid Pashs and the Representatives of the Pour Powers, that Lord Ponsonby formally declared on that day to Conference, that he had positive orders from his Government to give to the Porte advice to grant hereditary tenure to Mehemet A .. the moment the Porte al said state that it was satisfied with Melionet At a submission. But Lord Ponsonby properly, as it appears to me, declined to take upon breself the responsibility of deciding whether the submission of Mehemet Ali was satisfactory and complete or not.

But what, on that occasion, was the course pursued by the Internuncio with respect to the fulness of the submission? He was first of opinion that it was complete, and then of opinion that it was not complete, but only a beginning of submission. But with regard to the advice to be given to the Porte in the event of the submission being to be considered complete, what did be say? Why, first he read a paper which he had previously prepared in order that his meaning might be perfectly clear and distinct, and that he might express "toute is pensee" of his Government, and in that paper he distinctly confined himself to recommending the "re-installation" of Mehemet Ali in his Pashalic of Egypt. without saying one word about hereditary right; and then, afterwards, when Lord Ponsophy stated that he for his part had positive orders to advise the grant of hereditary tenure, the Internuncio distinctly stated that he had no precise instructions on that point, though he added that he would, in virtue of his general matructions, take upon himself to follow the example, in this respect, of the British Ambassador Thus, then, it appears that the Austrian Government having in October declined, upon a ground of form, to give to the Internuncio the same instructions which Her Wajesty's Covergreent had given to Lord Pussonly upon the questinople, left the Internuncio, up to the 20th of December, without any precise instructions for his guidance on this point; and then the Austrian Government, endeavouring to throw upon the British Government and British agents the blame which belongs wholly to its own neglect, attempts to charge Her Majesty's Government with having purposely abstained from doing that which it is proved by the Protocul of the 20th of December, the British Government alone out of all the Four had fully and completely done.

I do not deem it necessary to enter at length into the other topics of your Excellency's despatch.

Austria must of course judge for herself as to the line of conduct which she may think most consistent with her interests and her engagements, and Her Majesty's Government are well consumed tout no tomporary weakness or mistaken view as to the former, will induce her to forget the latter. But every body who casts their eye upon the map of Europe must have felt, that although the accession of Austria to the Convention of July was of the highest importance, and may indeed be said to have been an indispensable condition of the Alliance, yet the geographical position of Austria, and her complicated Continental interests, afford France many means of working upon her fears, and through her of awaying, in some degree, the march of the Allies; while, on the other hand France has not the same means with respect to Great Britain

It will be necessary to make certain of this before we are quite at case about Acre; and I shall, therefore, keep the "Vesuvius" and "Hecate" here until we are so. So soon as that is the case I will send "Vesuvius" to take invalid manues and "Zohra's" mon as you direct; and in the mean time shall desire the "Dido" to go off to Kaiffa, and embark as many of the "Zebra's" men as she can convenorty and the ild the be no a reliension e pertained at Acre the 'Dido" will proceed to you you at Mary over. This power appears to be any and heavily and the men have get very wholesome quarters on that and other considerations, I think the General will probably retain his bead-quarters here for the present; so soon as he is quite at ease I shall return to Beyrout, leaving, if possible, the " Heente " here, should be request it. We have had most beautiful weather; but I have recommended to all the Captains and Commanders to put to sea the moment at threatens to blow (the sailing ships keeping their courses and topsails reefed, and anchored with a good offing,) and to retire when moderate.

It has been reported that Ibrahim retires only with his Egyptians, all the Syriam having either left him or been discharged. He has been throwing out very strong foraging parties from El-Mezerib to considerable distance, which have terrified the inhabitants and kept us somewhat uneasy, making the acquiarting of correct intelligence still more difficult.

I write in very great haste, as the "Gorgon" must leave thus by 11 a.m., to insure her reaching your flag on the 13th. The "Gorgon" takes up Dr. Niddy and Lieutenant Sand, R.M., who were apparently at the last extremity at Acre, at a saven by Capita i Davies ka the agricing to receive them on board the "Dido," till an opportunity offered for Beyrout or Marmorice. I am hap y to say, that there was not decided in prevenent in the health of the marines at Acre, since the establishment of the Convalescent Hospital at Abdallah's Palace. It is the General's intention, should be remain here, to have the whole effective force down here; and I shall sond all men not strong to Marmorice. Mr. Robertson, Assistant-Surgeon of "Benbow," is moving here with the head-quarters by General Michell's desire; and we brought down the Assetant-Surgeon of the "Zebra" to take charge until Mr. Robertson's

The "Magicienne" arrived off this place yesterday overing; but Colonel Higgins, his guns and stores, remain on board until we gain perfect information of Ibrahim's retreat, in case it should be advisable to reinforce Acre, which we do not think likely

The "Hazard" is at Siden with discretionary power to move to Tyre, should be think Sidon an unsafe anchorage.

General Michell and I are both determined to confide ourselves strictly to precautionary and defensive measures; and we shall use every endeavour to previous upon our Allies to do the same, and not to obstruct, but rather to far state Ibrahim's retrent.

Lieutenant-Colonel Colquinous being withdrawn from Acre, the General would be very glad that another Field-Officer was sent to command there. The Deputy Commissary-General has not yet arrived here, and consequently no demand for money from Malta can be forwarded; but I shall speak to him on the subject immediately he comes. Captain Henderson will speak to you, by the General's desire, as to the possibility of its being sent up by your orders without delay, as it is much wanted.

My Lord,

Her Mujesty's Steam Vessel " Stromboli," Therapia, December 17, 1840.

WITH reference to my interview with your Lordship yesterday, I have now the honour to inclose to you a copy of the Note which I give to Mehemet Ali, on the 8th instant, after having communicated the contents to him verbally, and which your Lordship will perceive is strictly in conformity with the inatructions from Lord Palmerston which I received from Admiral Sir Bobert Stopford, on being directed by him to proceed to Alexandria for that purpose. On the third day after my arrival at Alexandria, I received from Boghor Bey the translation, which I presented to your Lordship yesterday, of the letter or written engagement from Mehemet Ali to the Vizier, the original of which I um the bears; of, and which I subsequently received from Mehemet Als In usel. and I begin avenue to take this constitutive of a parting they are Loreith poting in both the interviews I had with Mehemet Ali, he expressed himself degrous of yielding entirely to the Sultan's command, in the hope the intervention of the Ader Poses on the ried at a of English with when he seemed much lessed, would obtain for him the tenure of Egypt. He laid stress upon holding the is stat to e set forth in the Convention reading made with an inter-tendore Nanter, but I gave him to understand clearly, that Convention had not been ratified by the Admiral Commander-in-Cinci, and that I had no guarantee to offer him

I urged him at once to give up the Ottoman fleet, on which subject he pledged himself most carnestly, that he would give it to any officer whom the Softan regit name to take classe of these eater atch carried at Manning. or to the English Admiral, if so ordered, that he would lend his own others and men to assist in mavigating it, and that as far as he was concerned it should be ready to leave the port five days after the arrival of the Sultan's officer, and that he had already given orders for its preparation (which from the information ? received at the Amenal I believe was the case). At the first interview he promused to comply with my requisitions as to time, the translation of the documents to be given to me, and their herog sent under flying seal; and he did so and at my suggestion gave me a fetter to the Governor of Candia, directing hir i to yield up the Island to the Sultan's Authorities, and to be prepared to gust it with the European temper to a set, he sand to would do an that this required

Foreign Office, January 29, 1841.

I HAVE to state to your Excellency that Chekib Effends called on me yesterday, to ask my advice as to what he should write to Reclud Parks upon the question of giving to Mehemet All hereditary tenure to the l'ashalic of Egypt,-a grant which, he said, the Porte is extremely desirous of not being pressed to confer. I told has that, undoubtedly, I could not but admit the torce of the objections which have beste a good against this great, and that it would be very much better, both for the interest of the Sultan and for that of his Egyptian subjects, if the Sultan could reserve to himself the same unfettered discretion in the selection of future Governors of Egypt, which he excremes with respect to the choice of Governors for the other provinces of his Empire But I said, that in all affairs one must be content with what is practicable, and ought not to endanger what has been obtained by striving after that which is that the U. I said that it is elear that Me short Air has courte by submission in the expectation that he should obtain hereditary tenure in Egypt: now if, after al., he those were to me moves to ben, what would pread y he the consequence !- renowed revolt, or an attitude, at least, of passive resultance. What wo ld then be the recordy? Sue he as of the species that he at wed to continue, because if it lasted, it would amount to the separation of Egypt from the Turkub Empire. But the Sultan has not, at present, mayal or tothlary means sufficient to enforce his authority, in such a case, over Meliemet Ali in Egypt. The Sultan would, therefore, be obliged to have recourse for aid to his Allies. But the measures hitherto agreed upon by the Four Powers in virtue of the Treaty of July, are confined to the expaining of the Egyptums from Syria, Arabia, and Candin, and to the driving of Mehemet Ali's forces and authorities back within the limits of Egypt. If, then, the Sultan were to apply to the Four Powers for amistance to attack Mehemet Ah in Egypt itself, a new deliberation of the Conference would become necessary.

Now, I said to Chekib, I could tell him beforehand what would be the result of that del beration, if the assistance asked for by he Suban were required in consequence of the Sultan's refusal to comply with the advice given him by the Four Powers, to confer upon Mehemet All hereditary tenure of his Egyptian Pashalic. I said I know perfectly well that the Four Powers would decline giving the Sultan such soustance; and what then would happen? Why, the Sultan would, in consequence, find himself, for want of sufficient means of his own, obliged to great to Mehemet Ah with a bad grace, and after an ineffectual attempt to avoid doing so that which he might now make a mere of confarring willingly; and thus, instead of performing, as he now may do, an act of Savereign Power at the suggestion of his All as he would appear to all the world as making an extorted concession to a surject

I said that I would not, like the Austral's Generoment, attempt to represent as being of no value or in portation a sacrifice which is unquestionable a great one because such a representation on a not consince the Su tan. But I braged Chekd. Lifter it to regress the Covernment to cours let the numeric importance or the morn, and playment strength when the butter has gained by the events of the last few mo. he and to remember that all which the Sultan has gamed, M erret A has not I sat Aus t err trint to positions have need so entire y ching to, total the I aba can never again become ready cange miss of ser rusty tre blesome to the Sartat at the Sustan avers homely properly of the stepulathe is of the freuty of July and if reach well organize his army, payr and fit ances, and shall place it se branches of his public sers to spon an efficient too and I write to the hafer hat the best the best the best tables as recovered, for an live twicturery the waste of Seria, And a and the his points which, web reference to infrary moral fitter a not reage a consocra was are of the atmost a portage, and for the recovery of which is a half at ten the dat year, cave goe y many very considered a sacrificer. I farters remained by that a fact wal executive of that an abit on of the Treaty of July, which says, or tail the says and reat ex of the Empire are to apply to Egypt as to any other province, will afford a most essential security for the sovereign authority of the Sultan I therefore requested Chek'h Effendi to urge his Givernmen to conclude this matter without further delay, because it is of great importance for all parties concerned, that it should be brought to a final settlement as soon as possible.

Chokib Effondi promused me to write to Rechid Pasha to this effect, and he my I that he had no doubt that the Substitute of compy with the advice of his Ailton.

Cependant, pour lever ces doutes, et pour éviter toute perte de tems, les Se assectée unt sugé nule de se pos attendre les rapports ulterieures de Constantimople; et sans differer plus longtones de répondre à la communication de son Excellence Chekib Effendi, ils ont era de leur devoir d'exprimer encore une fois a M. l'Ambassadeur Ottoman, et de constater par cent, l'opusion de leurs Cours respectives, telle qu'ils ont su l'honneur de la lui communiquer déjà de vive VO X

Cette opunion invite le Sultan à user de sa clémence et de sa générosité souveraires de manière non seufement à révoquer l'acte de destitution prononcé. contre Méhemet Ali, mais à lui accorder la promesse que ses descendans en legne directe seront nommés successivement par le Sultan au Pachalie d'Egypte, chaque fins que co poste devicodra vacant par la mort du l'acha precédent

De plus, les Quatre Cours, en adressant à la Sublime Porte le conseil que la présente communication est destinée à lui réstérer, ont la conviction de ne tui suggérer to un arrangement dérogatoire aux droits de souveraineié et à l'autorité légitime du Sultan, ni une mesure contraire sux devoirs qu'il appurhent au Pacha d'Egypte de remplir comme aujet du Sultan, nommé par Sa Hauteue pour gouverner en son nom une province de l'Empire Ottoman

Cette venté se trouve confirmée non seulement par les Articles 3, 5, et 8 de l'Acte Séparé annexé à la Convention du 15 Juillet, man encore par le metructions que les Quatre Cours ont adressées à lours. Représentat sur Coursesse troople à la suite de la delibération du 15 Octobre.

En effet, par l'Acte susmentionné à 5 il est atipulé que tous les Traités et toutes les forx de l'Empire Ottoman, c'est-à-dire tous les Tratiés et toutes les nex que sont aujourd'hui ou que pourrout à l'avenir être en vigueur dans l'Empire Ottoman, s'appliqueront au Pachalio d'Egypte comme à toute autre province de l'Empire.

Cette condition, que les Quatre Cours regardent comme indispensable, constitue à leurs yeux l'un des hens les plus solides pour rattacher l'Égypte à la Turquie comme une partie sotégrante de l'Empire Ottoman.

Le § 6 du même Acte porte que les forces de terre et de mer qui pourront etre entretenues en Egypte, fesant partie des forces de l'Empire Ottoman, seront toujours considérées comme disponibles pour le service général de l'État

Finalement, par l'instruction concertée à Londres le 15 Octobre, et confirmée par le Mémorandum rédigé le 14 Novembre dernier, il a été formellement reconnu, que si Méhémet Ali ou l'un de ses descendans vensit à enfrendre les conditions suxquelles le Gouvernement hérédraire d'Egypte lui aurait été confé,

Sir

Har Majesty's Ship "Caryefoet," Alexandria, January 11, 1841

I ARRIVED here in the afternoon of the 8th and on any oring, an officer came on hear it complete to the new attender of Millines Al, and to say His Highness would be a little see me as some as a recreat

Bey, and short I had descreed I was I should have the honour of pay the my respects to His Highness.

Between seren and eight in the evening, I repaired to the Palsoo and delivered to Hoghos Boy year letter, and are put solutions lands an extract of Lord Palmerston's instructions of the 15th of December, beginning with the words, "Now it is necessary that See Robert Stephen!"

Biognor fley, after some explanations on my part, did not seem to be much desappeared at the refusal of the Alice to a guarantee, but he expressed his dissatisfaction at the word. "Hereditary" not appearing in the letter of Reclud Pasha to the British Ambassador, and observed that there would be some difficulty with the Pasha as he fully explicted on his substantion that "Hereutary Pashahe of Egypt" would be conferred on him.

On being introduced to the Pasha he was by no means in good-humour, and was evidently disappointed at the communication Beyless Bey and previously made to tun.

I acquainted His Highness that I had directions to allow vessels to proceed to Kaiffa to embark the sink wound I, women and chiadren, and others of the Egyptian army, and that a British officer should accompany the person he sent with directions to evacuate Syris, to see his orders carried into execution; and that I should give every assistance to fit out the Turkish fleet, which I regretted to see in the same state that I had left it. He observed that it was not his fault, that after the agreement I had made with him, the officer had been sent back from Syria with the agreement disallowed. I remarked that the difficulty was now obviated, that the agreement had been approved of in London with the exception of the guarantee.

To the ne replied that he did not care so much about the guarantee, but the word "Hereditary" had been left out, that Lord Palmerston's fetter to Lord Possonby dated the 15th October, which had been made public, decidedly and the Porte would be strongly recommended to give him the Hered tary Peshalio; that in M. Guzzet's speech to the French Chambers, he had dectared that the Allies would recommend it; and in fine, that the agreement signed by Boghos Bey and myself stipulated that the fleet should be given up on receiving the Official Account that the Sublime Porte would couler on hun the Hereditry troversment of Fgy at, that, notwithit and og tis, in Lora Palmenton's instructions of the 14th November, communicated to him by Captain Panshawe, the word "Heroditary" was left out. But nevertheless he had entirely submitted himself to the will of the Sultan, and asked for no terms, being convinced he would be confirmed in the fullest terms.

There was so much truth in these observations that I did not endeavour to combat them, and after some conversation on radifferent subjects, I took my leave, and was requested to see Boghos Bey the following morning after the papers had been translated and considered by the Pasha.

At eleven the next morning I wanted on Boghos Boy, who again expressed to me the desappointment and desastisfaction of the Pashs, not so much at the refusal of the guarantee as at the word "Hereditary" being left out in Rechid Pasha's letter; he said the Pasha had done everything he could to gain the goodwill of England; that the interests of Great Britain and Egypt were identified; and he again recurred to the reasons he had to believe he should enjoy the Heredstary Title.

I said I was not without hope that the British Government would still use their influence with the Porte to obtain that point, and that I should do everything in my power to forward the Pasha's wishes, and I had reason to believe they would be complied with.

He requested me to read that part of Lord Palmerston's letter approving of my Convention, which I consented to do, but to be considered as a presate communication and not to go forther; this he received with much satisfact in, and said if I would read it to the Pasha he was certain it would go a great way to tranquillize him. In the avening I again waited on Meliemet Ali, and I read to him the other part of Lord Palmerston's instructions, which had some effect to putting him in good-humour.

He however still hugered after Syria, and tasked a good deal about the unpossibility of quitting it had the Spring which it a great lost of life and stores. and was anxious that the worken and to free, and to sick, show I be showed to emberk at Beyrout or Sidon, or the most convenient place should the army be still at Damascus.

I observed on this, that the weather was better now than when the Convention was signed, and was improving every day. That I had no authority to allow any embarkation at Beyrout or Sidon, but that I should direct the officer in command of the Court of Syria, to give every facility in his power; and that I felt satisfied the best way to ensure the British Government pressing the point of the Hereditary Government was, by throwing no difficulties in the way. that whether or no his son would succeed him; and as to a guarantee, he had shown it was more necessary to guarantee the Porte against him than him against the Porte. He was a good deal flattered at this observation, and at last consented to all I requested, and which I got in writing yesterday morning, a copy of which I have the honour to inclose.

The Egyptian steamer started yesterday afternoon, and I send copies of the orders I have written to the Senior M litary and Naval Officers, as well as the instructions to Lieutenant Loring, which I trust will meet your approbation.

I really do think under all circumstances Mobiemet Ali has behaved very well; both His Highness and Boglios Boy sistire me of their good wishes to Great Britain, and I feel positive if Lord Palmerston can obtain for him the Hereditary Pushahe of Egypt, he will have no occasion to regret it.

The Commissioners arrived yesterday afternoon, and Admiral Walker took command of the Turkish fleet to-day at noon.

Thus terminated this great Question, the solution of which (under your orders. I had the honour to commence at Dounte and finish at Alexandria.

I am happy to say that the Pasha has abandoned the monopoly of agricultural produce, except cotton, which may be exported on paying a duty of 12

It is quite impossible to say at present what assistance Admiral Walker will require, and I do not age to detain the " Strombol - lest the should be too tate for the steamer going to Markelles, but if you could space "Castor" and "Daphne" they would be useful; and if you approve of it, I could call up "Dido," "Hazard." and "Magicience," should they be required.

THE report of the discussion in the two Houses of Parliament on the address, in answer to the Queen's speech, has produced a most satisfactory effect upon the public here, as well as on the Government. The French people have been taught to believe by the late Ministry, by the greater portion of the press of this country, by many of their orators in the Chamber, that France had been treated contemptuously, that the Treaty of the 15th of July was an Alliance formed, not for the mere purpose of settling the Eastern Question, but with bostile intentions against France, or at least for the purpose of excluding Prance from all consultation with the other Powers on the general affairs of Europe, and withholding from her the influence to which she was entitled in

The explanations given by M. Guizot in the Chambers had tended to undeceive the public, and, to a certain degree, the irritation of the nation had subsided. But the good feeling towards France which was manufested on both under in both the Houses of Perhament, by all the speakers who took a part in the debate on the address, seems to have entirely dissipated the illusion which was practised on the public.

M. Guzot has, in the most explicit terms, expressed his satisfaction at the tenour of the debate; and seemed to consider it as an introduction in the re-establishment of that good understanding and concert, which it is desirable should subsist between all the Great Powers upon questions of general European policy. M Guzzet said, he was not prepared to make any proposition; but he referred to Marshal Sould's Note of 1839, which had been addressed to the Courts of London, of Vienna, of Berlin, and of St. Petersburgh, and to which answers from each Court have been returned, corresponding very much with the sentiments expressed in that Note, as affording a basis of an arrangement between the Great Powers.

After a few interviews with Mehemet Ali, Sir Charles succeeded in obtaining the object of his Mission, and received a letter to that effect from Boghos Boy, in which he stated the willingness of Mehemet Ali to do all that was demanded of him, and expressing a hope that this prompt compliance with the wishes of the Albes, would induce them to recommend to the Sultan to grant him the hereditary Government of the Pashalic of Egypt. It is necessary I should acquaint our Colleagues and the Ottoman Minuters with my position, and I shall do so without loss of time. I have been repeatedly told by the best authority, including yourself, if I mutake not, that your Government had not decided to grant the hereditary right to Mehemet Ali; and at the Conference it did appear that you had no authority to mention that point. This matter, however, is not of a very recent date, and it is not at all impossible that more than one alteration may have taken place in the language or opinion of that Government, and that which is erroneous now, may have been right before, or possibly may be so again, for in this affair there has been a perpetual fluctuation of circumstances. If my Government has not sent me orders, it cannot be for went of time, as they would have reached me through Vienna at soon as the instruction you have received. I will not detain your measuringer any longer, and I will only add, that I see no sarrifice of duty, or to duty, in this affair, the line being very plum which is to be followed, namely, to execute the orders which may be given by superior authority.

It may be superfluous to recall to your memory, that my conduct had been governed by the principle admitted by the Baron, and by yourself, and Count Korngamarck; that the offers to be made by the Sultan of favour, &c., were to be made upon the submission of Mehemet Ali, and that the Sublime Porte is the judge, whether or not submission has been made. Also, that the offer of the hered tary Government of Egypt was to be conceded to Mel emet " upon conditions Now, the fact is, that at the Conference the Ottoman Minister denied the submission and it was resolved that measures should be taken to put that question to the test of experiment, and the Sublime Porte has, in enusequence, sent Commissioners to ascertain the fact. YOUR messenger has just arrived, and I will not at this late hour enter at large into the subject of your obliging letter, to which I will reply when I can do so more to your own antisfaction to discussing the subject. I will now conline myself to the expression of my regret that I cannot conser in the measure proposed but in consequence of my want of respect for the opinion of Prance Mettermen, but because I think I should net contrary to my duty if I permitted my acts to be guided by that Minuster's instructions to the Internuncio, instead of waiting for the orders of my own Government. I confess I am at a loss to comprehend the necessity or advantage belonging to the measure which has called for such hurried action. I do not perceive why what has already been done by the Sublime Porte abould be the smallest obstacle to the grant to Mehemet Ali of any thing more, when the time clearly marked out in my instructions for making any such grant shall have arrived. You will recollect that it was late last night when I received the first intimation of this plan, and was called upon at once to adopt it, and I might upon that ground alone have been justified in declining to act until after consideration of the affair, but it is not on that account I have declined: it is because I am not authorized to supersede the authority of my own Government in directing my actions, and because I see no necessity whatever for taking upon myself the responsibility of se doing upon this occasion, when, as I view the matter. there is nothing to be gained by the proposed measure, and nothing to be

I regret that I cannot act with my Colleagues in this affair, without at the same time being wanting it the chedicite has to my Operament. It will be very unpleasant to give occasion, as your Excellency observes, to Europe, to suppose that there exists any difference of opinion amongst the Representatives of the Four Powers; but, if that opinion shall be created in Europe by what is now done, it is not to me that it can be justly attributed to be the cause. I act upon plain intelligible grounds, which I have berefly stated to your Excellency, and I confess I have no proof or even compresenses of the necessity for proceeding with such breathless haste, and I cannot, without the existence of some reason that appears to be solid, deviate from the tenour of my instructions. I HAVE the honour to reply to your questions, by reference to what took place at the Conference, held on the 20th of December, 1840, which, no doubt, a fresh in your recollection.

I then said, that I had received orders from my Government to offer certain counsels to the Sublime Porte, in the name of the British Government, provided the Sublime Porte was satisfied with the submission of Mehemet Ali; and I stated that the counsel to be given, if the Subhme Porte were satisfied with the submission, would be counsel to grant the hereditary. Government of Egypt to Melicajet Ali upon certain conditions, which conditions I would detail at the time when I should be empowered to give the counsel; your Excellency stated, that the Sublime Porte was not satisfied with the submission of Mehemet Ali, and it was agreed at the Conference that the Sublime Porte should take steps to satisfy itself of the true nature of the submission by an appeal to facts, and the Porte has sent Commissioners to effectuate that purpose,

BY Her Majesty's steam-vessel "Hydra," which arrived here on the 17th metant I trained that Itealine Pasha had not evacuated by na, and tost on the 7th of December the Egyptian troops were still at Damascus, although it was

As this state of affairs is totally at variance with the information your Excellency had given to Mehemet Ali, and in contradiction to the declaration be had lately made to the Vincer, that Syria was already evacuated, I lost no time in calling the attention of Bogbos Bey to the fact, urging him to use his influence with Mchemet Ali to induce him to forward to your Excellency an order to Ibraham Pasha for the immediate and unconditional evacuation of Syria I pointed out to him the certainty of a stop being put to the negotiations at Constantinople so soon as the news arrived that Ibrahim Pasha was still at Damascus, after his formal declaration to the contrary; and that if any column should unfortunately take place between the Turkish and Egyptian forces, it might be attributed to a desire on the part of Ibrahim Pasha still to avail himself of the chances of war, and that such a supposition, although it might be erroneous must prove most development to it interests of Mellowet A.

Boghos Bey assured me that no such views were entertained by Mehemet Ah, after the solemn declaration he had made, but that I was aware that for a considerable time Mehemet Ali had had no communicate a with a some bild that the only intelligence he had had of the movements of oreston was contained in a letter from your Excellency, by what he was held to work that the evacuation was not only considered but on proceedings to I technical the massive rance must have been go to restant the pure said of its corrections but I remarked that so soon as your Excellency well hear that I have not taken place, you would be the first to be and an order for the transdate and to son Ther I care for I Sana, an the order been promptly and speciancously g ven, would be interpreted into a deare on the part of Mehemet Ali to remove al difficulties on the subject I trade use of ther argues its ad I wilch Boylos for the true to just a working, or order that he regard subject the

I did thus, and on the following day received a communication from By those they to the effect that Mel-met. The was not poly ignorant of the movements of Ibrahum Pasha, and felt convenced that the intelligence I received was not altoeither correct, that should your Excellency doesn it expedient, he could have no hesitation in giving the order, but that in the meantime he proposed sending an officer to Beyrout, who should be allowed to proceed to Damascus, being the bearer of a copy of his letter to the Vizier, and make known to Ibrahum Posha his optentions regarding the evacuation of S is, and it the same time a ske arrangements for the transport by sea of the nek, wounded, and women, whom il would be impossible to remove by the overland route.

I remarked that such a proceeding would be totally irregular, as the commanding officer at Beyrout would never allow the passage of his Envoy, unless authorized by the Commander-in-Chief, and that whatever communication he thought proper to make, must be made through your Excellency; and again urged him to wave all pretexts which might be interpreted into a desire to procrastmate, and at once give the order in question.

On the same evening I had another communication from Bogbos Bey, in which he said that Mebeinet Ali based his declaration on the statement made by your Excellency, and which statement had never been officially contradicted; but that the moment he heard from your Excellency that Ibrahim Pasha was get a Syria I we stand to state to turn show a with an excellency for the anniculation and unconditional departure of the Egyptian troops from Syria.

Foreseeing that further discussion would be unprofitable, and productive of loss of time, I requested that a letter might be addressed to your Excellency, containing the intentions of Mehemet Ali, which I have now the honour to

I request that, after person of this letter, your Excellency will favour me with your instructions how to proceed, and I have no hesitation in saying, that his soon as they are made known, I shall have no difficulty in carrying them into effect.

You will perceive that till an official contradiction arrives, of the intelligence above altituded to. Mehemet Ali has a plea for refusing to take any further steps, the non-necessity of which had been pointed out to him by your Excellency

Cette nouvelle s'est d'ailleurs trouvée confirmée par les renseignemens parvenns à votre Excellence, et en conséquence desquels vous avez jugé à-propos. M l'Admiral, de renvoyer à Alexandrie Hamid Bey, qui, conformement aux clauses de la Convention conclue avec le Commodore Napier, avait été expédié à votre Excellence avec des dépêches pour Son Altesso Ibrahim Pacha. Mr. Larking m'ayant toutefois fait connaitre, que d'après les informations qui lui avaient eté transmines par le bateau à vapeur, sur lequel M. le Général Smith est arrivé à Alexandrie, on pouvait attribuer l'état de rébellion qui no cesse de se manifester dans certaines parties du Liban contre l'autorité de la Sublime Porte, au aéjour prolongé du Général-en-Chef Egyptien à Damas; et m'ayant exprimé l'opmon qu'il serait convenable d'expédier itérativement à Son Altesse Ibrahim Paclin l'ordre d'évacuer la Syrie, je me suis empressé de aoumettre cet avis au Viceroi. Son Altesse, ayant bien voulu le prendre en considération, tn'a urdonné de porter à la commansance de votre Excellence que les cummunications par terre avec la Syrie sont complètement interrompues, par suite de l'état de trouble et d'anarchie dans lesquels est pour le moment plongée cette Province et qu'il lui parait impossible par cette voie de tenir Son Altesse Ibrahim Pacha au courant du résultat des dermères négociations. Son Altesse rappelle en outre à votre Excellence, que le retour de Hamid Bey, qui avait été précédemaient chargé de transmettre ses ordres au Genéral-en-Chef, ne lui a pas lasset la ressource d'une autre voie de communication. DANS la lettre que j'ai écrite et envoyée par votre Excellence à Son Alteme Mehémet Ali Pacha, il n'y a rien de clair ni de précis relativement à l'héredité du Gouvernement de l'Egypte. Il est dit, en termes généraux, qu'il sera réintégré dans le Gouvernement de l'Egypte. Il est donc probable, il est à présumer que Son Allesse concevra des soupçons à cet égurd, et a'est pour cela qu'il a été jugé nécessaire de donner sur ce point les éclairessiemens qui suivent

Comme la lettre que Méhémet Als Pacha m'a envoyeé, et par laquelle il a offert sa soutaission à la M quite I riscule commander ar faire ment in de la Convention qui avait été faite entre lui et le Commodore Napier, et que la Sublime Porte n'avait pas accepté cette Convention, qu'elle regardait comme mille et non-avenue, on a pensé que parler d'hérédité dans ma lettre ce serut, su fond,

Cependant, Sa Majesté Impériale, dont les bontés et les faveurs se répandent sur ses serviteurs véritablement soumas, ayant à l'égard de Méhémet Ali Pacha des intentions bienveillantes qui sont un harmonie avec les sentimens de modération dont les Hautes Puissances Alliées sont animéés, il est certain qu'aussitét qu'il sura prouvé par des faits, ainsi qu'il a été déclaré dans ma lettre, la soumasion qu'il a offerte, en restituant immédiatement la flotte l'impériale, et en consignant, sans délai, les pays dont on suit qu'il est question, et qui sont situés bors de l'Egypte, aux Commusaires de la Sublime Porte, Sa Hauteuse daignera le rétablir dans le Gouvernement de l'Egypte, avec droit d'hérest te

On est après à établir les conditions nécessaires posées comme bases par le Traité d'Alliance et d'autres points qui se rettachent à ces conditions ; et comme tout cela sera arrangé en même tems que l'investiture de l'héredité aura lieu, je m'abstress d'entrer dans des détails à ce sujet pour le moment. Toutelon, il importe que Son Alteme eache en peu de mots ce dont il s'agit, et qu'on lui fasse surtout savoir d'avance, que si une seule des conditions qui auront été étables

n'est pas observes, l'hérédité sera aboue

Vous ratifieres donc formellement, de la part de Sa Mayésté Impériale, à Méhémet Ali, dans le cas où, conformément à ce qui a été dit plus haut, sa soumission seruit un fait, l'hérédité conditionelle comme ci-dessus. Et afin de dassper tout-à-fait les doutes qu'il pourrait avoir à cet égard, et lui inspirer une entière confiance, vous lui ferez même voir, au besom, ma présente dépêche

Her Majesty's Ship " Coryefort,"
Alexandria, January 14, 1841

Excellency this morning, relative to the notice you had usued of the intention of celling the crop of cotton of 1840, on the 20th of February, and continuing the sale the lat of every succeeding month; I beg to observe to your Excellency, that neveral of the British increhants complain of the difficulty they have of becoming purchasers. They allege, that if they import cash to purchase this cotton, the price may be put so high, that they will either be obliged to take it at a loss or re-export their specie. They have, in consequence, requested one to suggest to your Excellency that the cotton in question may be put up at public sale, where it is sure to fetch its real value, and the merchants will then have a fair chance of becoming purchasers. This is the system invariably followed by the East India Company, and they have always found it to answer their purpose and satisfy the public.

I take this opportunity of asking your Excellency whether it is His Highness's intention to execute the Commercial Treaty of the 16th of August

Sir,

Your Excellency must be aware that the British Government will make on its being put into immediate operation, and feel quite certain, if His Highness will allow it at once to take its course, he will not only gain many friends in England, but it will also engage Lord Palmerston more strongly to push the point of the hereditary Government.

As I had the honour of arguing the Convention of the 27th of November, which has been approved of with the exception of the guarantee, I feel myself bound in honour to do all in my power to have it fulfilled, and I am desirous of being furnished with arguments to show the British Government that it is to their interest to, if possible, see it fully carried out, and no argument that I can make use of will weigh more than being able to write to Lord Palmerston that the Commercial Convention is in full operation.

Permit me to express to your Excellency how pleased I am on seeing the loyal manner in which His Highness has acted throughout the whole offair of the evacuation of Syria and the delivery of the feet, and I trust it will have its due weight at Constantinople.

Brigadler-General Michell to Viscount Palmerston .- (Received February 14, 1841.)

(No. 3.)

My Lord,

Acre, December 31, 1840

As yet there has been no direct communication with England or with Malta, nor have any means seen afford I are of see ling to your Lords up a satisfactory despatch with regard to the affairs of Syras.

On the departure of Sir Charles Smith the Sulfan's commission was delivered to General Jochmus, and a few days afterwards be left Beyrout for

Sidon, and proceeded thence with some light cavalry to Hasbeya in the bill country on the Upper Jordan, for the purpose of giving encouragement and direction to the mountaineers, and of obtaining accorate intelligence concerning the Egyptian Army

The most vague and conflicting accounts were arriving daily as to the intentions of Ibrahim Pashs. He had concentrated his forces about Damascus, and the general belief was that he would immediately commence his retreat to Egypt.

General Jochmus, notwithstanding his nearer approach to Damascus, has been still kept in doubt as to what is going on there; but he seems to be fully of opinion that Ibrahim Pasha is about to move, and that he will, if possible, retreat on Gaza. His proposal, therefore, is to cause the Egyptian Army to be harassed on its flanks and rear by the mountain levies, and having assembled the regular Turkish troops at points along the coast, to operate with them as occasions may offer, in the defiles between the Jordan and the coast. In the mean time General Joehmus has been very desirous of attacking Gaza, and of capturing or destroying the provisions which are said to be in store there for the Egyptian Army, and he has repeatedly arged my co-operation for this purpose with men-of-war or steamers on the wast. There have been bowever not are at it, many diffi culties opposed to such an undertaking. The whole of the fleet had taken shelter at Marmones, leaving only one steamer to watch the wreck of the "Zebra" in the Bay of Acre, besides the "Heeste," which brought me to Beyrout; yet three French vessels, a corvette, and two brigs of war, remained upon the court and were generally at unchor near Beyrout. I took the earliest o, sorten by of making this ke will to the Albaral, Sir Robert Stopford, and he most kindly and promptly sent Captain Houston Stewart with the "Benbow, severty two, and the "Hazarl' slosp They arrived on the 2 sch of December, but the heavy surf prevented their communication with the shore, and it was not until the 37th that I could get the detachments of artillery and suppers, which came from England in the "Hecate," disembarked at Acre. In the mean time, however, Lacutenant-Colonel Colquboun of the Artiflery, and Lacutenant-Colonel Alderson of the Engineers, had made a visit to that fortress, and likewise to Tyre and Sidon.

The Admiral, while he sent too this naval aid, expressed a great unwillingness to have it employed against Gaza or in any offensive operations; first, on account of the storms prevailing at this season; accountly, because the negotrations opened by Captain Fanshawe were still pending, and be had consented to a request, made by the Pasha of Egypt, Mehemet Ali, that Egyptian steamers toight go off Gaza to embark the sick, the women, and the children, of Ibrahan

Paalsa's Army for Alexandria

Captain Houston Stewart had instructions from the Admiral based upon these reasons and they of course we glass also with me as to any operations against Gaza; bendes I had received information of the Egyptian force there, and at El Arish, having been targety comforced; but knowing that General Jochuna had directed a corps to be detached from Acre to that part of the country, I determined to attempt some observations upon the coast, and on the 29th proceeded in the "Hecate" steamer from Beyrout to Aere; Captain Stewart kindly consenting to accompany me, and ordering the "Hazard" sloop to follow, but leaving his own ship the "Benbow" at anchor near Beveout. We reached Acre in the evening, and having communicated with Lieutenant-Colonel Colquboun and with the Turkish General Selim Pashs, re-embarked and pursued our course to the southward with the intention of visiting Joffa and of reconnectring Ascalon and the coast near Gaza; but on the morning of the 30th, a gale of wind prevented our further progress, and we were compelled to return to the anchorage off Caiffa near Mount Carmel. In the course of the day the " Hazard" sloop appeared, but Captain Stewart, apprehending for her, if she came to anchor, the fate of the " Zebra," whose wreck lay near us, ordered her back by telegraph to Beyrout.

The morning we were enabled to steam across the bay and land at Acre; but the gale in renewed at intervals, and we must for the present relinquish all idea of landing Marines or Artiflery upon the count. Captain Stewart returns this evening in the "Hecate" to Beyroot, leaving the "Vesquish" with me. That steamer conveyed some amountation on the 29th to Jaffa for Omar Pasha, the Turkish General, who has made the movement towards Gaza. His corps is however too small to attack that place, and he will probably limit his operations to a removal of the provisions from Ramlah, and other points in the line of the Egyptian Army's retreat, to Jerusalem or to Jaffa. In fact he has now expressed a wish that the enemy's attention may not for the present be drawn towards him by a descent upon the coast. I have directed Colonel Rose to accompany Omar Pasha, and to keep me acquainted with his morements.

Your Lordship will doubtless learn from Sir Charles Smith a full account of Acre, of the brenches made during the bombardment and by the explosion of a magazine, of the immediate repairs which he ordered to protect the place from a coup-de-main, and of his views as to a more extensive and permanent restoration of the works. Considering the very limited means and resources, personal or macrone well to Acre, the prestress tande to execution. Se University Smith's orders has been as much as could be expected, but a great deal remains to be performed, and Lacutenant-Colonel Alderson will now charge himself with the direction of the works, whilst Lieutenant-Colonel Colquboun will superintend. in concert with the Turkish Artillery, the arming of the batteries.

I regret to inform your Lordship that the small Marine Battalion, which has been stationed at Acre since its capture, has suffered much from sickness, the Commandant Lieutenant-Colonel Walker and thirty-one men having died in the course at boot six weeks. This is full in tirt, of our total ratifier. Was ber the mortality has been occasioned by their previous exposure and privations during the operations on the coast, or by any cause of manhabrity in Acre, I have not yet been able to ascertain. There is reason to believe the sickness is now on the decrease. The two Assistant Surgeons lent by Sir Robert Stopford, from the flest and who had not at ake in the a lady are recovering that for has been added, and I hope the arrangements I have this day ordered as to a ventilation and improvement of the quarters, and as to the establishment of a Convalescent Hospital in an airy aduation outside the town, will restore the Battalion to comparative hearth.

Nothing has been seen of the Egyptian steamers from Alexandra, to receive the sick of Ibrahim Pasha's Army, When that permission was given by topian. I and we town suppresent to Athen was already to an empth to Gaza, and not likely to huger at Damasous. Probably Ibrahim Pasha delays his movement from that city, now, in consequence of the Convention commenced with his father by Captain Fanshawe. Our situation will be very embarrating the me dia loca are let it did not a react of histelly of our art may be construed into a breach of faith, and may disturb arrangements half concluded. I am, therefore, anxiously expecting orders from Lord Ponsonby upon the subject. In the meantime his Excellency's latest instructions to General Jochmus, and upon which he is prepared and resolved to act with energy, dictate a continuance of affentive operations.

Viscount Ponsonby to Viscount Palmerston.—(Received February 28.)

(No. 31)

My Lord,

Α.

Therapia, Pebruary 1, 1841.

UPON the arrival of the news of the surrender of the Ottoman ficet, I wrote to Baron Stormer to recommend proceeding to the settlement of the condition to be attached to the grant of the hereditary Government of Egypt to Mehemet Ah. His Excellency shortly after sent me a Paper he has drawn up, and the next day but one, I had the bonour of a visit from him, when I proposed a plan which met with his approbation, and which was afterwards set forth in my letter to him of the 28th instant.

I also wrote to M Titow a letter, (I melose copy of it,) and I afterwards sent him, and to Count Konngsmarck, a copy of my letter to Baron de Störmer, dated 29th January. I received another letter from M. Titow in approbation of the plan, which I also inclose with my answer: but a few hours after the receipt of this last letter, I had one from Baron de Sturmer, stating that he had objections to my plan, and that our Colleagues had the same: to this I answered, that I withdrew my plan, as it was no longer approved of; and I stated my obligation to follow literally your Lordship's instructions as contained in No 27) Hast I and recently from the Trickse has letter but I a stemmy 1 will do all I can, an obedience to your Lordship's instructions, to obtain security for the Sultan against the evil designs that Melicinet Ali may entertain, and to prosessed on a of hard in these from the prose is all they have latherto endured; I am convinced that there is no way of doing both, so certain as that which your Lordship says you wish would be taken, viz.: taking the collection of the Revenue out of the lands of the Padia. If the collection of the Revenue be left in Mehemet Ale's hands, your Lordship will see, from the the west for the first part and a west for all as a confmand, and every body knows that money is the most formidable arm he can have against the Suitan, and that he will use it. If Baron Stürmer's plans be adopted, and if the revenues and so forth be left in the hands of Mehemet All, I am afraid there will be good cause to lament that arrangement; but if the money be not left in Mehemet Ali's power, I think the Sultan might give him almost any privileges. Your Lordship says positively, that all the Laws of the Turkish Empire are to apply to Egypt just as to any other Province in the Sultan's dominions. Now the law is, that Pashar shall not collect the revenues of their Pashalics, but if it be ordered that Mehemet Ah shall pay a tribute for his Pashalic, that law must be violated, for he must then receive the revenues. The dangers and anconveniences of his receiving the revenues are infinite. He will be the solo arbiter of rewards and punishments in Egypt, and the world knows by experience how he will treat the people. In my letter of January 31 to Baron Sturmer, I have stated briefly an argument to show that the Convention of July 15 is not binding upon the Allies, so as to oblige them to deliver up to Mchemet Ali the property and liberty of the Egyptians; and I have shown, that if the Convention be construed to bind the Allies in that way, the other exactments of it are rendered null, and there will be a manifest contradiction of one provision of the Treaty with another provision. The Austraina desire to put a sudden end (as they suppose they can do) to the question here, by yielding every thing to the Pasha. Your Lordship desires to establish future security but for the mater and his large me sugar My mits as to less than orders I a could I be sloken in that fells by the exerts is of the Austrians I should be still deterred from acting with them for such a purpose, by my own knowledge that all this question is to be most rigidly scrutinized in Parliament and that severe censure would full upon me, if I deviated from your instructions. and thereby contributed to sacrance the Egyptians, and leave the Sultan exposed to danger. I have an additional reason derived from information I have received, that a pamphlet is prepared for publication (if it be not aircady pubtished,) and addressed to an Anti Slave Trade Association, in which the extent of the Slave Trade so long carned on by Mehemet Ali is proved, and the horrors of the Chase, as it is called, are fully described. This Chase is commanded by one Visiter, a Frenchman, employed by Mehemet Ali, and it has for several years produced an annual average importation of 16,000 Negroes into Lower Egypt, and it is proved, that the number of human beings annually destroyed by the hunters of Negroes in their Chase, equals at least the numbers sent into Lower Egypt making a total of more than 30,000 Negroes sacrificed or sent into slavery

Leaving the eclection and the command of the revenues of Egypt in Mehaniet Al.'s hands, win crabe him to continue this Chase as it while a toward for having carried it on accretofore, I could not venture to be personally responsible for such things, and if they are done, it should be by the order of Her Muesty's Government

The pass philet I mention has not yet, I believe, been made public, nor sent to its destination. It is four ded on the best and surest a formation

Cet Article n'a pas benoin de commentaire. L'Egypte faient partie de l'Empire Ottoman, les Trutés de la Sublime Porte avec les Pansances Etrangées servoit y 'tre executes avec la même regieur etre dans toutes ses actres le même de la faire de la tempere partie les parties les Hatt de Guthané occupe aujourd'hui la première place. Le droit de buttre monnue ayant toujours été établi en Egypte, Mébémet Ali et un successeurs continueront à en jour, man elle devra être au même coin que celle que l'on frappe à Constantinople. Quant au système monétaire, il devrait être le ridire pour l'E, vite commi pour les autres parties de l'En pres, mais cela ne pourra de fiure que lorsque la Porte cera parvenu à améliorer en propre mounaire, que malheurementent ne vant pas celle de l'Egypte. Vouloir une les des s'estèmes des à les est ce que Mébémet Ali a fait de bon et d'utile, et ce qu'il est dans l'intérêt de la Subline Porte de maintenir et d'établir successivement dans tous ses Étals.

Parmi les Traités avec les Puissances Étrangères mentionnés plus haut, il en est une surtout qui, s'il est maintenn dans toute sa riguent, pourra ouvrir une ère de prospératé aux habitans d'Egypte, c'est le Traité de Commerce conclu d'abord avec l'Angleterre, et auquel la plupart des Puissances Européennes ont adhéré depuis. Ce Traité, en abolissant les monopoles, donners un libre essor à l'industrie, fera cesser une findle d'exactions arbitraires et accablantes pour la peuple, qu'il tirera ama de l'état d'abjection et de insière dans lequel il gémit, et assurers le bien-être du pays, en rendant à l'agriculture des portions de terre très-considérables restées incultes jusqu'à ce moment.

Les forces de terre et de mer que pourra entretenir le Pacha d'Egypte, faisant partie des trèces, et l'es pre Ottomon, serent toujours ce anterées con me entretemes pour le service de l'E. at Cet Article exige quelques développemens. Les forces Egyptiennes devront des maniferent de la character de la character de la répartition, et de les appoier en term de guerre sur tel point de l'Empire où leur présence pourrait être jugée nécessaire.

Les nominations des officiers de terre et de mer ne pourrant être faites en Egypte que par le Sultan, comme dans toutes les autres Provinces de l'Empire Le Sultan, cependant, par une faveur spéciale, et vu l'éloignement de l'Egypte,

I fandrait tratefois, ce nous se il te, leur taire donner d'avance l'assurance que cette controcat n'autrit sera accordée sans difficulté. Par ce moyen toute penage de réaction ou de vandreté sera écartée.

Il out entendu que Méhémel Ali ne pourrait désormas faire construire aucun bâtiment de guerre sans l'autornation expresse de Sa Majesté Impériale.

Le pavillon Ecoption devra être remplacé à l'aviter par le pavillon de Sa Maje le l'operane tel qu'il est en isare dans toutes les autres parties de Empire. I en est de n'îne de matorine Espetian pour les troupes de terre et de mer, qui devra être remplacé par les costumes usités dans les autres parties de l'Empire Ottoman, et des modifications exigées, par le climat, telles que, par exemple, l'asage d'étoffes plus légères, se pourront seules avoir lieu après que Sa Majesté Impériale y aura donné son assentament.

Lorsque tous ces possits seront définitivement réglés par le Sultan et ses Ministres, ce qu'il me paraît important de faire sans retard, les décisions de Sa Majesté Impériale devrort de rame ves à Melacaret Ala par le firmais qui l'investire du Gouvernement héréditaire de l'Egypte. Il devra y être dit clairement que cette grande et importante concession que le Sultan a daugné faire dans es magnanismité, dépend de l'exécution fidèle des opaditions mentionnées et desaux, et pharra être récoque le jour ou Marret Au ou les trembres de sa tame appares à lui succéder se refuseront à les remplir.

Le rang de Pacha d'Egypte devra être déterminé comme étant celui d'un Vizir de l'Empire, et n'ayant en cette qualité, à l'hérédité près, aucune autre prérogative que celles dont jouissent les autres Vizire

Quant au mode de la succession la pensée de la Sublime Porte nous est comme. Elle vi idrait se réserce le droit longue la passe de l'actua d'haypte sera vacante, de nommer tel individu de la famille de Méhémet Ali qu'elle jugera y être le plus propre. En tout cas il faudra que ses intentions à cet égard entent bien clairement suprimées dans le firman d'investiture.

Il devra y être dit aumi que les Pachas d'Egypte seront tenus à l'avenir, tant à l'époque de leur nomnation qu'à l'occasion de l'avénoment d'un Sultan, à se rendre de leurs personnes à Constantinople pour y prêter le serment emgé et y recevoir l'invastiture, et qu'ils ne pourront en aucun cas prendre le titre de Gouverneur de la pravince placée sons leur administration avant d'avoir rempli cette formanté.

La Sublanc Porte parait désirer que ai Méhémet Ah ai son fils Ibrahim vicunent un à l'occasion de l'investiture, leur apparation pouvant faire maître une foule d'entragres de l'est hou de paissent, mans se Montret Montret au pareit son fas Said Dey, un pareit acte de soumemon serait peut-être agréable an Sultan, et ferait un bon effet dans le public.

Du Tribut que paie l'Egypte.

MEHEMET ALI fut installé dans le Pachalie d'Egypte en 1806, à condition qu'il enverrait au Sultan un présent de quatre mille bourace, qui, d'après le cours d'alors, représentaient à-peu-près la somme de deux millions quatre cent mule florms.

Le Pari de d'Egy te d'a es était communement appele se Pachabe du Caire (Belled el Mano), il ne s'étendait qu'à l'Egypte Moyenne et au Delta. 1º. Du Miri sur les terres cultivées alors par les fellahs non dépendent des Bers:

2º. Des droits d'importation et d'exportation de douanes de Sues, du Care, de Damiette, de Rosette, et d'Alexandrie;

3°. Du droit sur les Caravans du Sennar, Darfour et Carduffan ;

Recetten - - - - 505,135 bourses
Dépenses - - - - - 415,513

Excédant de Recettes - 89,622

Nous ne pouvous pas dire si ce Budget d'Egypte est réel ou hypothétiquenous nous bornous à en donner une traduction exacte ci-après

Le fait est que la guerra de Syrie avait coutée au-delà de 200,000 bourses, et que le Hasué, d'après les aveux du Hasuadar à la fin de l'exercice 1248 (155), but toin de présenter un excédant de Recettes comme l'établit le Budget, se trou vait au-dessous de 165,000 bourses; Méhémet Ali ne voulait plus de Budget, it suspendit le paiement du solde des troupes et des fonctsonnaires civils, et se déclara même hors d'état de payer le tribut.

D'après l'arrangement du 14 Mai, 1833, Méhémet Ali consentit à paver pour l'avert de la consentit à paver pour l'avert de la consentit à paver pour l'avert de la consentit à paver pour l'Adans, et de la Crète, co qu'avaient payé ses prédécesseurs, ce qui fut établi ainsi qu'il suit

Egypte - - - 12,000 bournes Candie - - 2,000 Syrie et Adana - - 18,000

En tout - - 32,000

Ce qui équivant à un million au cent mille florine, c'est-à-dire, Méhémet Ah pare huit cent mille florine de moins qu'il payait pour le seuf Pachalie d'Egypte sans le Said, sans Alexandrie, sans la faculté d'augmenter le nun et établir des l'opindes que le said et alloiter avec autant d'adresse que de crusuité, au point que, l'un a soit et le suiférens chefs d'impôts directs et indirects y compris la la Syrie et la Cambe lui ont fourni en 1836 neuf cent mille bourses.

Nous pentous que Mehémet Ali, voulant réduire les impôts à un tanz compatible avec le Hutt-Chérif de Gulhané et avec le Traité de Commerce, pourra compter sur un revenu de 400,000 bourses par un ; de l'autre côté, déburraisé du sarplus de l'armés de terre et de mer, des ruineuses Commissions données à l'étreager, des constructions navales, et des dépenses secrètes, il pourra réduire les frais à 100,000 bourses. Ce qui lui dennera l'énorme excédant, et à-peuprès 300,000 bourses, ou 15,000,000 de florus.

Nous pensons que notre calcul est une raisonnable approximative, car le miri, qui ne pèse actuellement que sur 3,856,226 feddans, produit 225,000 bourses. Or il y a 3,157,000 feddans de termina meultes, dont deux tiers pourraient être defriché sans la conscription et sans les travaux fercés, qui, outre la consommation réelle en hommes, causent une émigration qui enlève encore plus d'individus à l'agriculture que l'armée; cela produirait 120 à 130,000 bourses.

Ajautons à cela le produit des douanes d'importation (de manufactures, vins, &c., d'far per de l'Année des portation d'aignts non mon polais, comme manufactures Egyptiennes, indigo, sucre, gommes et unitres drogues, tel qu'il est actuellement fixé par les contrats de ferme avec 20,000 bourses; et les domines pour les céréales, qui formaient l'objet des monopoles, tel que bleds, orges, riz, lèves, tentilles, dourait, et autres, dont l'exportation s'elève, année commune, de 6 à 700,000 ardebs, et qui, d'après le nouveau Traité de commerce, pourront être

exportés en payant 9 pour cent, ce qui produira

Lin et grain de lin - - 1,200

Droit de transit du café, ivoire, plames d'Autruche, poudre d'or, et autres objets de commerce
d'Afrique et d'Arabie - - 6,000

Ainsi Méhémet Ali pourra abolir tous les autres droits, taxes, et impôts délivrer les paysans et les industriels des plus cruelles exigeances et rexations fiscales, et simplifier la perception du miri et des douanes, et en supprimant les innombrables monopoles donner à son administration une marche égale, ferme, et housans.

Le chiffre de revenus ci-dessus n'est nullement exagéré. Méhémet Ali lumême assurant que le miri-et les dounces de l'Egypte scule, cultivée alusi qu'il ac propossit de le faire aussitét qu'il pourra mettre fin à ses démonstrations belliqueuses, pourraient lui donner dix millions de flories par an, frais d'administrations, entretien, &c. payé.

S'agussant de fixer le montant du tribut que Méhémet Ah nura désormais à payer pour l'Egypte, il est de toute convenance d'avoir égard aux données que nous venous d'enoncer

Viscount Possonby to Baron de Sturmer.

My dear Baron, Therapie, Thursday, January 28, 1841

MY proposition is, that the Sultan shall usue a Firman in the usual form, enying, that moved by the submission of Mehemet Ali, His Imperial Majesty thinks proper to confer upon Mehemet Ali a signal mark of his Royal favour, and he therefore orders that the post of Governor of Egypt shall be bereditary in the family of Mehemet Ali, and he commands all his Viziers and officers, he to attend to this Imperial Ordinance, and to bear in mind that all the Laws of the Empire, and all the Treaties of the Subtime Porte, shall apply to Egypt just us much as to any other Province of the Sultan's Dominsons.

The object I have in view as to units in one solemn act the proofs of the concession made, (which it is to be hoped will satisfy the pride of France,) and the manifestation of the Sovereign Authority of the Sultan by its exercise.

I propose that this act of anthority should be followed in due time by the specification of the nature and extent of the administrative powers which the Solidar's high the property of the latter than the Consistence of the annex of great importance, and if not done with produce and firmness, most produce great embarrassment, if not put the future tranquility of the Empire in danger. It appears to me that the Firman above mentioned will be a formal termination of the Quadron, by the extended of the principle of the parties. The exercise of the enjoyment of those rights is a separate question, and can be more correctly treated when put in its proper place, as derivative from and dependent upon the great principles already recognized.

I presume we shall have time enough to examine carefully and to settle this second affair, for it does not appear that there can be any immediate interruption of peace, and I do not imagine the French can show decently a violent impatience, and force us to rush headlong to a rush, and hasty, and imperfect settlement of details, when they have the formal official knowledge that the principle they have been contending for has been admitted.

If this proposal should continue to meet with your approbation, and should also be approved of by our Colleagues, it might be made the subject of a suggestion to the Porte, and if concurred in by the Sultan, and carried into execution, it would then be proper to forward the Firman to Alexandria to be delivered to Michaelt Al and a not beating of the fact to the right will a copy of the Firman, might be officially communicated by the Ottoman Ambassador in London to the Conference assembled in that Capital.

I have endeavoured to be as brief as possible, and I have abstained from all the minor questions, upon which, however, I have much to say when the time comes for their discussion.

Yours sincerely, (Signed) PONSONBY.

Baron le Statuer et je ne saurais assez vous remercer d'avoir beu voulu me la communiquer. Nous nous sommes réunis bentôt après midi chez M l'Internonce avec le Couste Komignuarek, et tous trois nous avons été d'accord à reconsaltre la prudence et l'opportunité de la proposition émise de votre part. Il parait utile en effet que le Sultan commence par établir auns l'exercice général de son autorité Souveraine sur l'Egypte, avant d'aborder les détails, et au monsent même où il fera la concession de l'hérédité. La prérogative Souveraine serait ainsi confirmée dans toute son étendue, et la porte reste ouverte pour toutes les mesures d'exécution que Sa Hautesse aurait à ordonner par la miste. Le Baron de Sturmer a donc adhéré, comme le Courte Kænigsmarck et moi, au parti d'offrir aujourd'hui des conseils dans ce seus au Ministre Ottoman, et it s'est rendu en personne chez Réchid Pacha pour l'y préparer.

Je suis heureux, pour mu part, d'avoir pu venir ainsi à la rencontre de voe intentions. Qu'il me soit permis seulement d'émetire ici une remarque faite aussi par l'Internonce au sujet de l'hérédite. Dans la lettre par l'aquelle vous avez eu la bonté de me communiquer l'extrait des instructions de Lord Palmorstere votre Excelle de désigner l'individu de la famille appeté chaque fois à succéder au Pschalie. Pentez-vous, my Lord, que dans nos conseils il serait bon de suggérer dès à present l'insertion de cette clause restrictive, ou qu'il faut s'en tenir à la rédaction générale et étendue que vous avez proposée. Votre avis à cet égard ne manquera pas d'avoir un grand poids pour nous tous.

My dear Sec.

Therapis, January 29, 1841

I HAVE the moment received your letter of the zero instant at gives me infinite pleasure to learn that yourself and my Colleagues approve of the proposed plan.

I copy at once to your question, and I say that I think it will be more product to keep everything take specific arrangement for the settlement that will flow from the assertion and establishment of the Sultan's sovereign authority and right. You will observe that I is I that any commit, hereusery in the manify of Mehemet Ali, which cannot the up the Sultan's right to specify the mode in which the succession should take place; and if it should be argued hereafter that the succession should be up the first line same, as it is called, by representation,) the answer would be easy, that nothing of the sort is known to Turkesh law, nor is usual in the East, succession being commonly regulated by very different principle.

I do not see any meet venience in leaving this matter untouched, but I do fear that any thing that might give Mehemet Ali ground for discussion and dispute at this moment, might be inconvenient, and would be second upon by him. He cannot deny the Sultan's Sovereignty, which he has already admitted, it will be impossible for him to refuse the Hereditary Right, as it is expressed, without danger, at the same time the Sovereignty of the Sultan already acknowledged.

My dear Baron, Therapio, January 31, 1841

THE plan I suggested to you, and which is stated in my letter of the 29th instant of was a love of the you are or Colleges was standed by the to lotale and accelerate the set lement of the question with Mehmet 11 1 still think it would do so, but as you and our Colleagues have aftered your opinion, I withdraw it.

You appear to have imapprehended the operation of the Firman I mentioned, and to have imagned it would occasion delay. I did not so understand it, and I do not perceive how it would have prevented any arrangement of the conditions being made in half an hour, if determined upon by the Sultan. I have seen no cause for delay except in the difficulties inherent in the construction of the conditions. As there is no longer question of my plan, I should only give you needless trouble by replying to the reasonings contained in your letter; and to spare your time, I will proceed direct to the subject that ought to occupy our attention,—namely, the counsel to be given to the Sultan. You asked me, "Have we a right to not according to our own fancies, when the route we have to pursue is clearly traced for un?" My reply in, we certainly have not; and, in conformity with your just notions, I will continue to act, without the smallest deviation, upon the instructions No. 270, which have already been made known to you, but which, to avoid error, I will transcribe literatus from the document.

"It would indeed be necessary, that in rematating Mehemet Ali in the Pashalic of Egypt, care should be taken to make such arrangements as would project the part of Egypt from a continuou. If the tyrace of opposite mity which they have of late years been crushed, and should secure the Sultan against a renewal of those hostalities which have compelled him to have recourse to the aid of his Allies. But the means of effecting all these purposes may be found in the supulations of the Treaty of the 15th of July, without removing Mehemet Ali from his Pashalic. The Treaty says, that all the faws of the Turkish Empire, and all the Treaties of the Porte, shall apply to Egypt, just as much as to any other province of the Sultan's dominions; and the land and sea forces which may be maintained by the Pasha of Egypt, shall be part of the forces of the Empire, and be kept up for the service of the Sultan.

the design of these supulations, the Sultan will of course be able, by an exercise of his legislative authority, to establish unity of flag, and of inflitary and naval uniform throughout all his provinces; to limit the number of troops which each province shall, according to its population, maintain; to regulate the mode of enforcing the conscription, so as to protect the people from undue burthens and oppressive levies; to fix the number and class of ships of war which shall belong to the soveral naval ports of his dominions; to fix the mainter in which commissions in the Army and Navy shall be granted in his name and by his authority; to determine that a single monetary system shall provint throughout all his dominions, and that there shall be but one Mint. The Treaty specifies, that none but the legal imposts should be levied in Egypt, which will secure the people from undue exactions; and the execution of the Convention of 1838, by which all monopolies are to be abolished, will at once free the industry of the people of Egypt from those oppressive restrictions which have hitherto kept the great mass of the population in the most abject poverty, and which have gradually thrown out of cultivation extensive tracts of land that were formerly tilled and productive.

"By such means it seems to Her Majesty's Government, that future security might be afforded, both to the Sultan and to his Egyptian subjects, against the disposition of Mehemet Ali to rebel against his Sovereign, and to oppress the people of the province he would have to govern."

The above constitute the sole rule I can follow, and they are the only words I am at liberty to use in the counsel I shall consent to give to the Sublime Ports.

Before I conclude my letter, I wish to observe, that you appear to me to have misunderstood me on the subject of the Convention of 15th July. What I say is, that Mebemet Ali having rejected the offers made to him, the Alben are not bound, to Mebemet Ali, to carry those offers into effect, but that the Alben are free to act as they think proper, and to vary if they please the conditions to be imposed upon Mehemet Ali, and I will avow my opinion to be, that if the precise stipulations in the Convention with regard to the terms there offered to Mehemet Ali, are to be rigidly adhered to, it will be done in contradiction to the other conditions insisted upon by our Governments.

Viscount Ponsonby to Viscount Palmeraton .- (Received February 28.)

(No. 32.)

My Lord, Threapia, February 4, 1841.

I THIS day attended a Conference assembled by desire of his Excellency the Ottoman Minister for Foreign Affairs, at his house in Constantinople

The Minister opened the business of the day by informing the Representatives of the Four Powers, that he had drawn up a project of conditions to be annexed to the grant to Mehemet Ali of the hereditary Government of Egypt, which project was prepared with the view of meeting the wishes of the Sultan's Adies, such as the Sublime Porte presumed them to be.

The project was then read, and Rechal Pasha asked the Representatives if it met with their approbation, and I was called upon to answer test that which established a tribute, upon which I should have to make some observations after my Colleagues had given their unswer to the question of his Excellency the Minuster. My Colleagues then gave servation their approbation to all the propositions contained in the project. I expressed my regret to be collect to did return a transfer and proceeded to state that the question being one of extreme gravity. I had thought it expedient to commit to writing what I intended to say upon it; and, that as it might be easily to be almost based upon the saminption, that the counsel the Representatives should give to the Sublime Porte, must be in exact and rigid conformity with the Convention of 15th July, I had applied myself first to that topic, and had made some brief remarks that the time there is not the Porte, are to be governed; and I then proceeded to read a French translation of the included size of the state to read a French translation of the included size of the state to read a French translation of the included size of the state to read a French translation of the included size of the state to read a French translation of the included size of the state to the size of the si

When I had terminated, his Excellency the Internuous entered into an examination of parts of what I had said, and concluded by declaring, that the Convention is the absolute rule by which the counsels given by the Representatives to the Porte must be rigidly governed. Count Kuengamarck and M Titow followed, and made the same declaration

I abstain from reporting to your Lordship the arguments made use of by my Colleagues, lest I should not do justice to them, and because they will appear in the Protocol, with the authority of their Excellences. There was a very engreement, which I have not time to report and which will also be force no do by in the Protocol and I proceed to state that the Ottoman Manster, after that discussion asked what would tae Three Regions states who are united in up note advise the Subiane Porte to do for ansuring the carry of into effect the measure they approved of a zero the interface? To this it was answered, that the Sublime Porte was the sole judge of that matter. Has Excellency then asked me how the Sublime Porte should treat Mehemet Ali, of the measure of tribute should not be adopted? I replied, the Porte should treat Mehemet Ali as it would treat every other Pasha

I must beg your Lordship's indulgence for my not entering into any details, I have had too much fatigue from exposure to the bad weather and a long debate, to be equal to the proper execution of such a work, and I confine myself therefore to brief notices of the main facts, by which your Lordship will lose nothing; because the Protocol will give, more or less well, the particulars I took but little share in the discussion on what I considered matters of number importance, as compared with the main question of tribute, being really unable to see how any regulations can palliate the evils of it, and hearing nothing in discourse that showed others to be more clear-eighted than myself

Rechid and Ahmed Fethi and Reza Poshas were present. They are to report to the Council, and then to the Sultan; and it is promised that the matter shall be speedily decided.

When the discussion of the tribute was over, Rechid and that Mehemet was in possession of the Governments of Dangola, Kordofan, and Sennaar. He asked if it was intended to advise the Sultan to give Mehemet Ali the hereditary Government of them. The Representatives replied unanimously, that those provinces did not belong to Egypt, and that the Representatives did not advise the hereditary grant: and being asked, what abould be done about those provinces, they recommended, in conformity with the notion of Rechid Pasha, that the Sultan abould tell Mehemet Ali, that His Majesty would leave them under his Government for the present.

I took this opportunity to speak of the Slave Trade so long carried on by Mehemet Ali from those provinces; and I stated the aircratter of the chare (as it is called), and the destruction of human life that attends the capture of the 16,000 Negroes annually caught and sent into Lower Egypt by the officers of Michael A. H. . I Provide Provide the Lower Egypt by the officers of Michael A. H. . I Provide Provide the Lower Egypt by the officers of Michael A. H. . I Provide Provide the Lower Lordon must be aware, that the Porte cannot do anything to destroy it, unless the power of Mehemet

Ah be brought under that of the Sultan

I request your Lordship will bear in mind, that I did not examine or discuss the conditions the Porte proposed to establish for the Government of Egypt but let them pass as being dependent, in many things, upon the question of tribute, and therefore destined to be carried into effect, or altered as the measure of tribute should be determined.

Observations addressed to the Conference by Lord Possonby

THE deposition of Michemet Ah, and the appeal to the Porte to remainte him, afford proof that the Convention does not bind the Allies in their conduct to Michemet Ah, who, by his refusal of that Convention, destroyed all his right to its benefits. Whatever may be granted to Michemet Ah since, is the result of the freewill of the Alben. The Convention, therefore, is not obligatory upon the Alber; in any case they are free to act as they please. My instructions say, that the means of protecting the people of Egypt, and of guarding the Sultan 3 F 8 against the renewal of hostilities, &c., may be found in the st pulations of the 15th of July, without removing Mehemet Ab from his Padate. This clearly proves, that Lord Palmerston looks to the freaty, as affording a source from whence may be drawn the means for effecting the purpose stated by it m; but it is not a declaration by Lord Palmerston, that the Treaty is to be the absolute rule. If it is to be so, why is it deviated from in any particular?

If the Treaty be not the absolute rule why are we to courses the Sublime Porte to take a measure that was adopted a that Treaty at a time when affairs were at a state totaly eatherest from their action state? The Treaty was a compromise with M hemet Al and al, its st pa alions were conditional, and with a view to enjoye fars to accept it. If the amount of tribute be increased, Mehemet Ali will be only stimulated to exact more from the people if that can be obtained by force or fraud, and an additional curse will fall upon Egypt. Will these things be generical against by a vast diminution of the taxes in Egypt? How is it to be done, except with the concurrence of Meliconet Ali, and his true and loyal assistance in the execution of the measure? Does any body expect it?

The absolute control over the revenue of Egypt, gaves to M. Louis M. O. absolute disposal of rewards and punishments. It makes a second persons and fortunes of all. These are only a portion of the consequences that will arise from leaving in the hands of Mehemet Ali that power which must necessarily belong to hum if he is to collect the revenues of Egypt, and distribute them, as must be the case if the measure be adopted by the Sublime Porte of taking from Mehemet Ali a tri-

They are possibly better able to interpret them toan I may be, but I understand them in the sense I have nescribed and it is for others, not for me, to decide, and to take such part as they may estrem the best. Those whom I have now addressed can judge, as well as I can do, what as the opinion of the British Government. My Lord, Therapia, February 9, 1841

WE loarn the fact that Mehemet Ali has granted to the trutor Ahmed Fever Pasha an annual appointment of 60 000 lolars, and has made him a present of an estate in the Delta worth 30,000 dollars, and also of the best bouse in Cairo with four gardens.

Mchemet Ah has given rewards also to the other trastors who aided in delivering up the Ottoman Fleet to Mehemet Ali. It will strike every man that this affords an instructive indication of the impolicy of giving to Mehemet Ali the command of the revenues of Egypt. It is obvious, that with the command of money that measure will give him, he may have the means of procuring other treasons as much evous as that of Ahmed Pevas Pasha; and that other Pashas may see the simple truth, that it is better to betray their Sovereign than to serve him.

I have done my best to oppose the establishment of the measure of tribute which was disapproved of by your Lorosto, I am told the Austrian Minister eided by the other Ministers will have carried it through. I am har, y that my name cannot be associated with the measure, and that I have had note to do with the act of delivering up Egypt to Mehemet Ab, and to France, which I am sure will be the consequence.

Admiral Stopford to R. More O' Forrall, Reg.

(No. 42.) Sir, Princess Charlotte,<sup>12</sup> at Malta, February 19, 1841.

BE pleased to acquaint their Lordships, that by despatches I have received from the commanding officers of the Allied forces in Syria, containing the details of the operations carried on between 25th of December and 2nd instant, it appears, that the plan laid down by General Jochmus, in command of the Turkesh Army, was, to drive Ibrahim Pusha from Damascus, and to force him to retreat by the desert, in place of marching by Guza notwithstanding which Braham Pasita reached Gaza on the 1st matant, by a detour to the southward of the Dead Sea, on which some starmishing had taken place. But, finally, on the and corresponding orders to the Allied forces, to grant every facility to that measure; when, after the necessary securities on both sides, a final and satisfactory arrangement was agreed upon, as will appear by Captain Houston Stewart of the "Rendows" letter of the 2-1 of February, of which I melose a copy, reserving the more voluminous details for the packet, and Falmouth, for their Lordships' fuller information. It appears, that in leaving the "Benbow" in charge of the Commander at Beyrout, which he considered it necessary to do. Captum Stewart's presence at head-quarters was of essential service to the successful result of their winding up the contest in Syria.

As I cannot find words to convey the loss sustained by the lamented death of that brave and mentorious officer, Brigadier-General Michell, in more adequate terms than Capture Struct has expressed in the left real of the 27th of January. I shall inclose a copy of that letter, giving me the melancholy michigeness of that event, which happened on the 24th ultimo, after only four days' illness, from exhaustion and over exertion.

I beg to add, that, by letters from Rear-Admiral Sir John Ommaney of the 7th and 10th instant, the Turkish fleet made an attempt to get out of Marmonce with Admiral Walker, but, the wind failing they were obliged to re-anchor, and still remain awaiting a wind to proceed to Constantinople.

TT is with deep sorrow that I announce to you the death of Brigadier-General Michell, which took place at Jaffa on the astropast. For the last five weeks we have been constantly together, and it is not easy to conceive a more cordial union between two officers of different services, than that which it was my good fortune to enjoy with General Michell. I shall ever lament him as one of the best-informed, most straight-forward, and excellent of men; and if I, who have known him for so short a time, experience so much grief for his loss, what must be the feelings of those who have been his friends and admirers for years!

I have the melancholy satisfaction to know, that I was of some use and comfort in a label of tire to to a label of the satisfactor on this coast at a time when it requires the atmost exertion of British firmness and vigiliance, to prevent any unhappy collision which might occur from the mutual mistrust which subsists between the Turks and Egyptians.

Colonel Bridgeman assecceds to the command of our forces, and in him, I feel confident, Her Majority's service will find an honourable and able director.

I was obliged to leave Jaffa for this place at 3, a u., on Monday the 25th; but I have since heard, that every nultury and personal mark of bosour and respect was evinced at Brigadier-General Michell's funeral there on the 26th instant

Her Mojesty's Ship " Ventoing," of Juffe, February 2, 1841.

AS the "Dulo" is getting short of provisions and the weather unsettled. I send her off at once, without waiting for communication with the shore here, which the surf will scarcely yet admit of. I embarked on board the vessel at Gaza yesterday evening with considerable difficulty. As at is my intention to despatch the "Vesuvius" this evening, calling at Acre and Beyrout, I shall send all despatches by her, and merely state to you in a hurned manner, that I left Ibrahim Pasha at Gaza. He arrived there on Sunday afternoon, when he in a latter to as a latter to assure for the beautiful to the result to another than the formal to the result of the least doubt he will perform; but it will require a little time, unless the wind gets to the castward, as there have been three transports with biscuits for the troops, (and intended to embark the women, sick, and wounded,) off Gaza for six days without having been able to land anything yet from the great surf on the brach.

Six Regiments of Cavaley and 2,000 Infantry murched last week to El-Arish en routs to Egypt. In consequence of the scantiness of the wells in the desert, it becomes necessary to regulate the murch in small successive columns. Lieutenant-Colonel Alderson, R.E., and Lieutenant Loring, R.N., of Her Majesty's ship "Carysfort," are now at Gaza, with directions to superintend and report upon the processes of the evacuation and I entertain the hope, that within a fortingly from this date, there will not be an armed Egyptum in Syru.

I hope that Colonel Bridgeman, who is now in command of the forces, in consequence of the lamented death of Brigadier-General Michell, will, so soon as I can communicate with him, consent to allow the Marines to leave Acre, in which case I should direct the "Vesuvius" to take as many as abe can conveniently accommodate, and the "Magicience" to embark the rest; there will still remain the Marine Artillery at Sidon, and the "Hazard" is not able to take them with their guns, but the next vessel may. The "Strombuli" returned to Alexandras last night, not having sufficient coals or water to enable her to remain off here; and I expect the "Hecate" back from Alexandras (whither I seat her on the 25th instant, to communicate with Commodore Sir Charles Napar, on the subject of the Syran conscripts at present in the figuptian ranks, and to get coals) manediately. I HAVE the honour to inclose translation of, I. A firmun, granting to Melsemet Ali the hereditary Government of Egypt, and setting forth the conditions the Sublime Porte attaches to the

2. A firman, conferring upon Mehemet Ali the Government of the provinces bordering upon Egypt;

3. An Official Note addressed by the Sublime Porte to the Representatives of the Four Powers.

4. A letter from the Grand Visier to Mehemet Ab.

At sex o'clock yesterday evening, I received a report from the Dragoni stating, that he had received the above-mentioned papers from R. I Pasha, and that they should be translated and sent to me, as quickly as possible. He further informed me, that the originals of the armans and the letter would be despatched this day at noon, in a steamer from Alexandria, and that the Consula might profit of the occasion to return to Alexandria.

I melose the Dragoman's report.

I received on the 9th instant a message from Rechid Pasha, as follows:—"I am preparing a firman which will contain the conditions. I have a plan, which appears to me excellent for conciliating the opinions of the three Representatives with that of Lord Ponsonby, with respect to the tribute, I intend to communicate the project of the firman confidentially to Lord Ponsonby."

The Dragoman continues:—"Rechid has not told me what he has found, or believes he has found, to consider the above open as Rechid has told me, confidentially, that when the firman shall be definitively settled, he will invite the Representatives to a Conference and communicate the firman to them, after which he will ask them this question—"If Mehemet Ali does not accept these conditions, what do you intend to do?"

What I have stated above will show, that it has not been in my power to take any part in this measure, which has been concealed from me. Considering the relations between the British Government and the Sublime Porte, it appears to me, that the Ottoman Minuster for Foreign Affairs ought to have made Her Measure's turbuseador in parallel with the measures taken by the Porte in this serious affair, before they were actually carried into execution.

I have replied to the Ottoman Minister's offer to allow the British Consul-General to go to Alexandria by the steamer, that I did not intend to require the Consul-General to go there. I have to request your Lordship's matructions on the above-mentioned point.

The aituation of Egypt will be easentially changed in relation to Hor Majesty's Government, if Mehemet Ali accept the terms declared in the firman, and Syria is separated from Egypt. It may not suit Her Majesty's Government to re-establish the British Coosul in Egypt on the same footing he lately stood on. Mehemet Ali may refuse the conditions: and, lastly, it is impossible, I presume, for Colonel Hodges to leave this at to short a warning.

I will not obtrude my opinion upon your Lordship, respecting the settlement that has been made, further than to say, that it might be good were it possible to carry it into execution. It is a half measure; it leaves the patra, age of Fayet in the hands of the Pasha with at any real control over the abuse of the power. It is a wirk a warry how guorant its authors are of the principles of Government by which despotic, as well an constitutional, States are ruled.

Instructions given to his Excellency Said Muhib Effendi, on a Mission to Egypt, by order of His Highness the Sultan

Traductiona

My Lord,

SAID MUHIB EFFEND! se rendra directement à Alexandrie sur le bateau à vapeur Impériale qui a été mis à sa disposition.

Il remeitra, à son Excellence Méhème Ali Pacha, le firman relatif à l'hérédité de l'Egypte; cetui concernant la concession des Provinces de 3 1 3

Soudan et contenant quelques autres ordres: enfin, la lettre de Son Altesse le Grand Vizir. Il lui représentera en terme convenable que ces contestations et démèlés qui existaient depuis quelque tems étant entrérement écartés, il n'y aura plus désormans aucune espèce de division on de dissentiment, et qu'il faudra travailler en parfaite union pour le bien de la religion, du Gouvernement, du pays, et de la nation. Il est naturellement nécessaire que les dits firmans soient lus officiellement en plein Divan, et rendus aussi public. Si Méhémet Ali Pacha exécute cette mesure apontanément, cela sera fort bien. Dans le cas contraire, le dit Effendi devra l'y exhorter en lui faisant les représentations nécessaires.

Il a été remis au dit Effendi le Nichan et le Fess, distinctifs des Vizire, destinés pour son Excellence Méhémet Ali Pacha, et il sera nécessaire que ce dermer les mette le jour de la lecture du firman.

Dans le cas cependant où il ne se montrerait pas disposé à le faire, le dit Effendi devra l'y exhorter,

Dans le firman relatif à l'hérédité, il est dit et établi comme condition, que derénavant les Gouverneurs de l'Egypte auront à se readre en personne à Constantinople pour recevoir l'investiture. Toutefois Sa Hautesse ayant égard à l'age avancé du Méhémet Ali Pacha, et mue par un sentiment d'humanité et de compassion, ne consent pas à ce qu'il s'expose aux fatigues d'une pareil voyage.

En annonçant ceci à Méhémet Ali Pacha, on devra ajouter, dans les formes convenables, que Sa Hautesse verrait avec satisfaction qu'il enveya ici un de ses fils pour la remercier de l'insigne faveur dont il vient d'êtro

Méhémet Als Pacha dovra accepter et exécuter immédiatement et sans objection toutes les conditions du firman relatifs à l'hérédité assai que toutes les dispositions contenues dans notre firman Impérial,

Si toutefois, contre notre attente, il devait être heurté par quelques unes des dites conditions, et qu'il scontre de l'héaltation, le dit Effendi lui représenters, en termes personalis, que ces résolutions de Sa Hantesse sont définitives, qu'aucune d'entre clies ne acurait être changée ou modifiée, et qu'aucui les Augustes Cours Alliées ne donnersient pas leur assentiment

Si le Pacha ne ce lause pas convancre, et qu'il persiste dans son opinion, on tâchera de le faire entrer dans la bonne vine, en lui expensant cu'il est de son intérêt de terminer, aans provoquer de nouveau l'emplos des mesures correctives; que si on était forcé de recourre encore une fois à la guerre, il serait soul responsable du sang humain qui y serait versé; enfin, que la non acceptation d'une des conditions établies porters atteinte à l'hérédité qu'on vient de lui accorder comme un insigne fayeur.

Arrivé à Alexandrie, le dit Effendi comprendra dans la première on dans la seconde entrevue quelle est la marche que compte suivre

Dans le cas, enfin, que Méhémet Ali ne prit en aucune considération les ouvertures du Délégué de la Sublime Porte, et qu'il rejetât entièrement les conditions qu'on lui offre, alors, comme il laudra de nouveau concerter cette affaire avec les Cours Alhéea, le dit Effendi devra exposer au Pacha la nécessité de lui donner par écrit son refus d'accepter les conditions en question. It lui fera donc écrire clairement tout ce qu'il aura à dire, et soumettra cette pièce à la Sublime Porte, dont il devra attendre la réponse.

Le I Effendi étant porteur de notre firman Impérial relatif aux armérés des tributs de l'Egypte et de l'île de Candie et de la Syrie, il est évalent que Mehémet Ali Pacha ne pourra rien objecter, mais qu'il devra

(No. 45.) Sir. "Princess Charlotte," at Malta, February 28, 1841

I HAVE great satisfact in in communicating to you for the Lordships information the gratifying announcement of the entire events in of Syria by the Egyptern army, which event took place on the 8th instant, when firm an Pasha proceeded by sea with the 8 rk and wour led, whilst the remainder of his army marched by land by El-Arish, as detailed by Captain Stewart and Colonel Bridgeman's letters, copies of which I have a marched by land by captain Stewart and Colonel Bridgeman's letters, copies of which I have now the bonour to inclose.

In thus concluding so happily and successfully an enterprise of no common description, and at one time of small promise from its apparently madequate means and complex elements, as well as the imposing attitude of the Egyptian force then in possession of the whole country, with all its fortresses and strongholds; it is a matter of no small gratification to me, under so momentous a responsibility as Commander-in-Chief of the whole expedite a that I was also to a grant show objects of such paramount importance to the peace of Europe. In return for which I am is not to a knowledge with gratific licer Landships most liberal rewards to the officers who had opportunities of distinguishing themselves in the fulfilment of my orders.

From the var our doctor cats he rewith transmitted, and the more volutions is correspondence new forward dily the "Liverpool packet, it will be observed by their Lordships that Captain Steward's presence and co-operation in the final arrangements at Jaffa and Gaza were of most essential service as affording committeey to divided councils, and a firm and judicious support in honourable fulfillment, under delicate and conflicting circumstances, of the conditions under which the retreat of librahim Pasha and his army, which turned out to be more formidable than was supposed, was finally effected.

Sir,

Captain Stewart speaks most favourably of the conduct of the captains and commanders of the steamers employed upon that dangerous coast, and it is equally antisfectory to me. The only painful attendant on this wurfare his been the acre or less prevalence of lever and described to it read. Done and tere to me with many have gradually recovered, but to many it has been fatal; I am however happy to be enabled to inform their Lordships, that in consequence of some cases of practice and Some of the marines are now embarked, and most probably now with the squadron at Marmonice, or on their way to Malta.

I HAVE the honour to announce to you the entire evacuation of Syria by the Fig. 1. To you but in Pasha, while man at 1 to 1. ast, having himself embarked on board the Egyptian steamer on Thursday the 3 L 3

His retreat has been conducted with much less loss of life than had been anticipated. He takes about 30,000 men from Gaza. back into Egypt by land and sea, exclusive of the column which marched by the Desert under the command of Solyman Pasha, with the women. guns, &c., said to amount to about 4,000 men.

I inclose you copies of the directions I issued before leaving Jaffa in the "Vesuvius" on the 16th instant to the different ships on the coast, by which you will see that the remainder of the marines and sappers have been taken from Acre by the "Hazard," and the whole of the marine artiflery at Sidon are at this moment embarking on board the "Magi-cienne" for passage to Marmorice, the "Hecate" having communicated

You are aware, Sir, of his generous attempt to succeur the "Zebra" in the gale of the 2nd of December, since which he has repeatedly effected personal communication with the army of Jalla and Gaza at times when many would have deemed it impossible.

Nor can I refrain from stating to you that the efficient order and street of an interior at a result y tomac the Stor force with the crew of the

My former letters informed you of the pleasing confidence which subsisted between the late Brigadier-General Michell and myself. In his surcessor, Colonel Bridgeman, I have found procisely the same anxious with that we should act cordially together, accompanied by the same invariable personal kindness and attention.

I send the "Vesuvius" direct to you with the despatches from the different Authorities, together with a letter from Colonel Bridgeman, requesting me so to do, and I shall take duplicates from him to Sir John Ommaney at Marmorece, to which place it is my intention to proceed with "Magacienno" and "Hazard" as soon as possible, leaving the "Hecate" here at the disposal of Colonel Bridgeman,

P.S .- Permit me to add that Lieutenant Loring of the "Carysfort," who was sent up by Commodoro Sir Charles Napier to accompany Mehemet Ali's Envoy and to see Ibrahim Pasha out of Syria, endured much personal fatigue in endeavouring to find Ibrahim, and has most carefully superintended the embarkation, remaining at Gaza for that Livabasso:

British Head Quarters, Jaffa, Pebruary 19, 1841.

IN my last despatch, No. 2, I informed your Excellency that the Egyptian forces at Gasa had commenced their march towards Egypt, a all I have now the antisfaction of reporting to you their final evacuation of Syria. The inclosed statement of Lieutenant-Colonel Alderson, who has superintended this evacuation from its commencement, will inform your Excellency of the numbers which have retired by land as well as

On the 5th instant I proceeded to Gaza, returning here on the 10th, and personally assured mys II is my mary ewa with II rat in Posha, that he was no less desirous to hasten than we were to induce his departure . indeed, he was then only awaiting the arrival of transports and the return of two steamers to embark the remainder of his troops, and to take also his own sessage 1000 Reg for Cavalry are some litteredar. Horse were the only mounted force remaining, and these would proceed by land. As Captain Stewart is about to return to Marmorice, and I believe thence eventually to Malta, I will not trespass upon your Excellency's time by entering into more detailed statements; I would only observe, that the Convention has been carried on, since I last had the honour of writing to you, with perfect good faith on both aides, and that Turkish and F. v. Gan And orit a may expect at possible religion apon British insciation, and or purseed in alice a proposa so and arral gements.

our suggestions.

The evacuation of the country by to Egypt at a heing thus happily in progress, I considered that I might with pradence and safety acquiesco in Captain Stewart's proposition for the embarkation of the battalion of the Royal Marines.

The portion of that force stationed at Acre, with the exception of Lieutenant-Colonel Mc Callum, one other officer, and a small detacliment as a guard over the stores, embarked in the "Vesuvius," on the 3rd matant; and the same vessel removed, on the 16th instant, the detachment which has been stationed at this place; whilst Her Majesty's ship "Hozard," calling at Acre, will convey thence to Marmorice Lieutenant-Colonel Mc Callum, the officer and party remaining there.

Captain Stewart has also so especially urged me to consent to the withdrawal of the Royal Marine Artiflery from Sidon, that I have assented to their embarkation in Her Majesty's ship "Magicienne," and I beg to refer your Excellency to our correspondence on the subject.

It is impossible for me to express how really grateful I am for the able advice assistance, and support who h Captain Stewart has adviced m. at 11 could not but sincerely regret his departure; but he has, I fear, experienced much personal discomfort whilst living at our head-quarters, and it is selfish, therefore, in me to do so.

As the Scraskier and bead-quarters of the Turkish army are returning to Beyrout, it is my intention to remove there also, and the whole of the Aridber have been provided with passages in the Aridber war-steamers. The appearance of plague at this place amongst some Turkish soldiers is an additional reason for this

I do not enter upon the question of the release of the Syrians who may have been serving with Ibrahim Pasha's army, as Captain Stewart will, of course, communicate the correspondence that has taken place on that subject with Commodore Sir Charles Napier.

. Her Majorty's Steamer " Stromboh," Alexandrio, February 21, 184.

I HAVE the honour to inform you that Lieutenant Loring joined me this morning from Gasa. I inclose his report, by which you will discree that the whole of the Egyptian army have left Syria. If rah many handed at Damietta on the 19th, and proceeded to Cairo.

Lieutenant Loring has had a very fatiguing and dangerous duty to perform, and met with little or no assistance from the inhabitants of the country through which he passed.

The menacing position of the Turkish army obliged Ibrahim Parks to go round the Dend Sea, which has caused an immediate loss of human life.

I have great reason to be antisfied with the whole of Lieutenant Loring's proceedings, and I beg to recommend him to their Lordships' consideration

The Emers and Sheiks are arrived at Carro, and the Pasha has promised to soul them to Syria on their arrival here.

A Turkudi Commissioner arrived there on the 20th with the firman from the Porte, a translation of which I beg to inclose.

The Pasha has accepted the 2nd, 4th, and 5th Articles, and the part of the 6th which regards the construction of ships of war; he begut the Sublant Parts to modify the Article 3rd, as being oppressive to Egypt; Art of last he considers to be an impossible, as it will bring discord into his family and civil war at his death; he also objects to the part of Article 6th which relates to the appointment of officers, as tending to disargantize the army, and bring his authority into contempt; hitherto all officers have been appointed by him with the exception of Generals of Divisions, and a deviation from that system would endanger the discipline of the army.

His objections appeared to me so well founded, that I made no attempt to refute them.

A good many Syrians have come into Egypt with the army; I have demanded their immediate release, but the Pasha at present is so irritated that he would not comply till be heard from Constantinople; thus will, however, blow over in a few days.

The Turkish Commissioner has sent to Constantinople for fresh instructions, and I do trust they will be more reasonable.

Dans cet état des choses, les Quaire Cours ont répondu d'avance au désir que la Porte a exprimé de voir leurs Consuls retourner à Alexandrie, et le Protocole signé à Loudres le 5 de ce mois à dejà cavite les Representans des Quatre Puissances à s'entendre avec la Porte, pour fixer le moment où les d'es agens devront s'a de voement retourner en Egypte.

Quant aux détails qui concernent l'administration sutérieure de cette province et auxquels se référent les firmans émanés le 13 Février, les Se assignée viennent d'être informée d'Alexandrie, en date du 24 du même

En effet, Méhémet Ali a reconnu, sans réserve aucune, que tous les traités et toutes les lois de l'Empire devront s'appliquer à l'Egypte comme à toute antre province de cet Empire ; il a souscrit aux ordres qui lui ont été adressés par la Sublune Porte pour régler en Egypte le système moné-taire, la levée, le service, et l'uniforme des troupes, et la construction des bâtimens de guerre; il a replacé sous les ordres de Sa Hautesse le Sultau. les forces de terre et de mer de l'Egypte, dont la Sublime Porte elle-même vient de déterminer le nombre ; en un mot, il se trouve aujourd'hui légale-ment placé envers la Sublime Porte dans la situation d'un sujet, Gouvernour délégué d'une province, fassant partie intégrante de l'Empire Ottoman

En partant de ce principe que la Convention du 13 Juillet était destince à rétablir, c'est à l'autorité seule du Rultan, qu'il appartient aujourd'hui de résoudre les questions d'administration intérleure qui restent encore à régler et le prendre en conservation des vina que Me emit Au

Ces principes basés sur les conditions de l'Acte Séparé de la Convention du 15 Juillet, serviront de régle aux explications amicales que les Représentans des Quatre Cours pourraient encore être appelés à offrir à

Les Soussignés ont la ferme assurance que ces explications, conques dans un sincère esprit de conciliation, trouverment auprès du Sultan le même accueil qu'il n'a cessé de faire aux conseils dejà donnés par ses Alliés,-conseits désentéresses et sincères que Sa Hautesse a justement appréciés, lorsqu'elle a accompli, par un acte de clémence, une œuvre de pacification que ses Alliés l'avaient loyalement aidé à assurer. # Captain Rousion Stewart to Admiral Stopford,

Sir,

British Head Quarters, Jaffa, January 17, 1841.

MY letter of the 10th instant, forwarded by "Gorgon," would inform you of Brigadier-General Michell's and my own determination to confine ourselves strictly to precautionary and defensive operations. It will then fire the receiver to the properties to be a transmit therewith copies of a letter which I addressed to General Jochmus" immediately after our last conference on the 12th instant, also of a note which I received from General Michell, after be had reached Ramia, and my reply to that note, sent by a staff officer to General Michell at Ashdod.

General Michell expressed in the most decided and unequivocal terms his disapprobation of the expedition. We both appealed to the Seraskier, who refused to incur the responsibility of putting his written veto on the advance, without which General Jochmus declared he should persevere, and accordingly he left Jaffs for Ramla within an hour General Michell then felt that he was in a peculiarly awkward position, but with the true spirit of an English soldier, determined to accompany and render every assistance in his power to the Turkish Generals.

i also felt myself bound, notwithstanding my protest, to go down with the "Yesuvius" and "Hecate," and make a demonstration on the coast, especially as I thought I might render material assistance, by either threatening a descent on the Egyptians' rear to the southward of Gasa.

by which their retreat on El-Arish would be endangered, or, in case of the Turks retreating, protecting with the great guns that hazardons

At 4 a. x of Friday the 15th, we weighed in the "Vesuvius" and "Hecate," and proceeded as far as Ascalon, when the weather became so thick, and blew so hard, with a heavy increasing sea, that after showing ourselves again off Jaffa, I requested Captain Headerson to run out fifteen or twenty miles for an offing, bank up the fires, and put the vessels under canvass. At 2 a. x. on the 16th, it being then more moderate, we hore up, and at daylight we put the steam on and steered towards Ascalon, but on getting sight of the heach, the surf was so excessive as to preclude all hope of being able to communicate with the shore for many hours to come. We therefore unwillingly returned off Jaffa, where we were not able to effect a landing until sunset, when I found General Michell just returned, having preceded the returning Turkish troops. The Seraskier had reached Jaffa about two hours previous to General Michell

It would appear that the state of the weather was such as to make it advanable, in General Jochmus's opinion, to return. There was a smart skirminium affair with a part of the enemy's cavalry which were in a result of the enemy's cavalry which were in a result of the property of the Poylish staff officers were most forward and dashing. Colonel Rose, Assistant Adjutant General, received two wounds, but is rapidly recovering. Mr Frederick Crawford, Midshipman of the "Benbow," scalonsly emphated the spirit and daring of the military officers.

Since writing the above, Lieutenant Loring of the "Carysfort," accommed by Hamid Bey, arrived from Alexandria, bringing me despatches

Jerusalem.

In such circumstances General Michell deems it more prodect to keep both the steam-vessels off this place, until we shall have been able to ascertain how Ibrahim Paula receives his father's orders to execute Syria, and the letters which we have written to him, auxiously recommending to him to second our sincere desire to avoid all unhappy rellisoons.

Ramia, January 13, Noon My dear Commodore,

I HAVE found Seraskier, Joehann, Wood, &c., all builted here. I have a letter from Napier at Jerusalem; Rechid Pasha moves with the Jerusalem battalions on to-morrow morning the 14th. The troops here move to-morrow also for Ashdod (or Ichdod), half way to Gaza; thus it will be better for you not to approach that part of the coast till the evening of to-morrow the 14th or the morning of the 15th. this to Jaffa, so I write, but we have not yet had a satisfactory conference, and I hope to be able to write to you again by Major Robe, and to give more full details as to our probable proceedings, and as to the most effectual support to be given to them by your appearance on the coast.

Mr. Wood is prepared to give us in writing very powerful arguments in favour of a continuance of active offensive operations. His letter from Lord Ponsonby, after Captain Fanshawe's arrival at Constantinople, is strong upon the subject.

In case there should be no other letter from me you may consider that we shall approach Gaza on the 15th, and possibly early. Your dimensional many be made accordingly worth and south of it, as you proposed, to-morrow afternoon and Friday morning.

My dear General,

Jaffa, January 14, 1841, Thursday, 10 a.m.

THE weather has changed, as I expected, with the phase of the moon. which quarters this day, but I hope the wind will not get so far to the westward as to make it impossible to communicate with you from the steam-vessels off Gaza. Our starting too soon might have one of two effects, either it might induce the Egyptians to retire at once if they have notice of your advance, and despair of Ibrahim Pasha's, or it might them to make preparations to strengthen themselves within Gaza i hope of giving Ibrahum time to come up. In this view I think it mig. the advance of General Jochmus, and therefore I shall not leave this till 4 a.m. to-morrow (Friday), and, weather permitting, shall be off Gaza and a little below it by 8 a.m., before which time I deem it impossible for the Turkish troops to be in a position to attack Gaza. Notwithstanding all Mr. Wood would say or write, I am still of opinion that we are bound strictly and simply to such measures as tend to facilitate and not to embarrass the Egyptean army's retreat out of Syria.

We know Lord Palmerston's and the British Government's wishes ar I seces. Lord Pensonby's orders must with us he subordinate to Lord Pateurstons; and when Fanshawe reached and left Constant mople, Lord Ponsonby did not know that the British Government had actually at a 1 of Napier's Convention with the sole exception of the hereditary part of it, which in Mehemet Ah's letter of submission is not insisted on. You and I have been imposed upon and ill-used by people who say and unsay as it suits their purposes; and General Jochmus's after-avowal that his aim was to prevent the return of a single Egyptian to his own country, ought to make us very enutious how we countenance any net of his, having that exterminating and ultra act for its end. We have promised the Admiral that we will act strictly on precautionary and defensive principles.

If Ibrahim Pasha is coming to Gaza, things will be very serious, and the contrary, he is really going the other road, then it is a matter of no importance, and assumes the light in which it was first presented to us by Rechid Pouha and Jochmus, to which we assented.

The movement upon Gaza seemed to be for a time abandoned, but on the 11th of January, General Jochmus again proposed it, and at length persuaded the new Scraskier, and his influential staff officer and advisor Rechal Pasha, to adopt his views upon the subject. For my own part, I was more than ever opposed to the measure, influenced in particular by your last letters, but also by military reasons. The attack was, however, resolved on, and I could not do otherwise than accompany the troops to witness the results.

WITH the deepest and most unfeigned sorrow I have to commumente to your Excellency the death of Brigadier-General Michell. This afflicting event took place at Jaffa on Sunday last, the 24th instant, after an illness of four days.

Constant exposure to the rain, during the operations upon Gaza, induced fever, and his constitution, which had been much broken by many severe wounds, was unable to withstand the weakening and prestruting effects of the disease.

The command of the British troops in Syria has devolved therefore upon me, as the senior officer, and incompetent as I may be to its very many responsible duties. I have the satisfaction of believing that your Excellency will permit me to profit by your advice and counsel, and that whilst I am in immediate communication with Captain Houston Stewart, I shall have the advantage of his sound judgment and experience.

1 HAD the honour to receive your letters of the 15th and 16th instant, yesterday, the "Cyclopa" having put them on shore at Acre, from whence they have been forwarded by a Courier. Both General Michell and I regretted that Captain Austin conceived he had not time to run down here in terms of general directions left at Boyrout, as his immediate return from hence to Marmorice would have conveyed to you and to Government the latest intelligence.

My letter of the 17th instant, which goes by this conveyance, will act an it you with the state of affairs up to that date, and I now beg to transmit to you copies of the letters addressed by Brigadier-General Michell and myself to Ibrahim Pasha, and to the Egyptian Commanding Officer at Gaza, together with the instructions issued to the respective officers sent to Ibrahim Pasha, to accompany Lieutenant-General Jochmus, and to Gaza. In consequence of the extreme anxiety manifested by Lieutenant-General Jochmus and Mr. Wood to drive matters to extremities with Ibrahim Pasha, it became very difficult to arrange safe and honourable proceedings, especially as no instructions for the Turkish authorities had reached them either from Alexandria or Constantinople.

Fortunately these instructions reached the Seraskier, vid Beyrout, two days after the receipt of Commodore Sir Charles Namer's letter from Alexandria, but to the surprise of General Michell and myself, there are two secret Articles appended to these instructions.

The insisting upon these Articles, one or both, is made to depend upon the relative state, and strength, and condition of the Turkish and Egyptian forces. Lieutenant-General Jochmus declared he could "cut them to pieces." Mr. Wood supported him, but the majority of the 3 O 3

IN consequence of the uncosiness evinced by the Turkish Authorities at the reported concentration of the Egyptian forces at Gaza, and the total want of any correct information as to the actual position of ibrahim Pasha, and consequent ignorance of his intentions with regard to the evacuation of Syria, I went to Gasa on the 25th ultimo, and after various interviews with Menikli Ahmed Pasha commanding there, we drew up the Agreement of which you will receive copies herewith, together with the subsequent acceptance of our supulations on the part of the Turkish Authorities here.

The Egyptians were manifestly unwilling to diminish their front until assured of the safety of their rear, commanded by Ibrithm in person, but we persuaded them by our guarantee to send off daily two regiments of cavalry. It has been extremely difficult to overcome the mistrust existing on both sides, and still requires much attention and caution; but Cornellinger i, who common sile forest the congress hard r views with myself, and I hope we shall be able to keep all quiet and right On Sunday afternoon, the 31st of January, Ibrahma Pasha arrived at Gaza, and he immediately gave us an audience, and yesterday he gave a letter of assurance for the Seraskier, that he meant to comply with his father's orders by immediately evacuating Syria, which I have not the least doubt he will perform; but it will require a little time unless the wind gets to the castward, as there have been three transports with buscuits for the troops (and intended to receive the women, sick, and wounded) off Gaza for six days, without being able to land anything, owing to the great surf on the beach.

Six reguments of cavalry and 2,000 infantry marched last week on El-Arish. In consequence of the scantiness of the water in the wells in the Desert, it becomes necessary to regulate the march in successive Columns Lacor and Committee of Aldreson, Roya Erg vers and Lear at Loring, Royal Navy, of Her Majesty's ship "Carysfort," are at Gaza, with directions to superintend and report upon the progress of evacuation, and I entertain the hope that within a fortnight from this date there will at Gaza, finding that the question of Syrian conscripts being allowed to remain in Syria with their arms, was anxiously insisted upon by the Turks, and as stoutly declined by the Egyptians, it was agreed that those at i car had unt a mear are ad only be read in a hat giver to Color ! Alderson, and should the authority come from Alexandria, they were to be returned free of expense, and I immediately sent the "Hecate" on to communicate with Commodore Sir Charles Napier on the subject, and to get coals. The "Stromboli" returned, bringing me intelligence that Sir

Charles Napier and Captain Martin were at Cairo, but that Captain Ward had (pursuant to instructions given in the event of their absence) an interview with Mehemet Ali Pasha, in which he was assured that it had been arranged and agreed five days before by himself, the Turkish Commission r Markin Bea, a late Commissione, that the Syr an conscripts should remain with their regiments till their arrival at Alexandria, when they would be such a good or the Legal Dails now remaining on Candia, the Hedgas, and at Constantinople of sont the "Strombon" back to Alexandria last night, and the "Heeste" is just now in night on her way back.

Thrahim Pasha sent nearly all his guns, women, and children back to Fig. pt. In Sang. There solves a Pash as a tamasal, with from 3 000 to 4,000 men. There cannot be less than 18,000 fighting men now at Gaza; the infantry, fatigued and weakened by a long Desert march, Ibrahim having gone very much to the south of the Dead Sea, in order to avoid the hostile tribes about El-Hated and the south end of the Dead Sea; but the cavalry quite fresh, and the horses in excellent condition.

It is my opinion, from all that I have seen and heard, that he will take about 28,000 or 30,000 troops back into Egypt. The information received on the state of his troops and their numbers by General Jochmus and others, has been ludicrously meorrect, as Rechid Pasha most feelingly allowed, when we rade together through Mentkli Ahmed Pasha's camp at Green.

I incluse a letter from General Jochmus to the Seraskier, dated the 22nd of January, from Jerusalem, when he insisted on advancing the troops towards the frontier, after the receipt of the news of the Convention having been approved of, which will show his estimate of the ruised state and condition of Ibrahim's army.

Sir.

Colonel Bridgeman has consented to allow the greater part of the marines to be embarked at Acre, leaving a Captain's guard of the strongest and most healthy men on the stores there. Lieutenant-Colonel Mc Callum in to have his option to remain there for the present in charge, or to join head-quarters, or to embark in the "Vesuvius" and proceed to Marmorice. I shall direct the "Vesuvius" to call at Acre and Bor at, and to the least option Steele has received authority to remove to Beyrout either by sea or land, should mekness prevail; but there has been, according to the heat accounts, but one case of plague. The "Hazard" is now at Tyre, as being the securest anchorage; the "Magicienae" between Acre and Tyre. I hope very soon to be able to send to the of these stages to your dig and list all the long get back to my own shull to the greater part of the regiptions are out of Syria.

Sub-Inclosure 14 in No. 174

Colonel Bridgeman to Admiral Stopford.

Britisk Head-Quarters, Jaffa, February 2, 1811

ON the 17th of January a letter was addressed to your Excellency by B. I. r. G. J. J. S. 19 a createth from Let to ant-tree red Jochmus,) in which the operations against Gaza and their result, as well as General Michell's observations thereon, will have placed your Excellency in possession of the events which have taken place on this part of the coast to that date inclusive. Major Williaman, Lieutenant Loring,

Royal Navy, and Hamid Bey, (whose departure hence for the headquarters of Ibrahim Pasha was mentioned in General Michell's letter,) after a long and fruitless expedition by the southern extremity of the Deal Sea threed westwird to the hoping there to have a cornte information of Ibrahim Pasha's line of march; from thence Lieutenant Loring returned to this place on the 23d of January, bringing us information of the arrival there on the 23d January of Ahmed Pasha with the advanced guard of Ibrahim Pasha's army

Mor Wilbraham, on the same day, again left Gaza with Hamid Bey, for El-Khalil, from whence, on the 25th, he proceeded to the Pass of Suera, through which it was expected forahim Pashs would retire to Gaza, accompanied by Hamid Bey and by Omar Pashs, and also by Captain Arbuthnot, Royal Navy, who having arrived in Syria on the 21st instant, had been sent on a similar mission to the head-quarters of Ibrahim Pashs, and had met with Major Wilbraham at El-Khahl

In order to satisfy ourselves of the good faith of the Egyptian Generals, and at the same time to afford them every possible assurance that the retreat of their army should be protected and favoured to the atment of our power, (some slight distrust having been evinced by them in consequence of a movement of the Turkish troops at Et-Khahl, Captain Houston Stewart, accompanied by Licutenant Loring, Colonel Rose, and Rechid Fasha, (Lieutenant-Colonel Alderson of the Royal Engineers having been also sent there two days previously, to place himself in communication with the commanding officer of the Egyptian force,) proeceded on the 25th to Gaza, and arrived there early on that day. They were at the salar title is very the speed year, with of the period and the retirement on the Egyptian frontier of the troops which were daily arriving. I also instructed Colonel Rose, as soon as he should be provided with a sufficient Turkish escort, (taking with him an Egyptian officer of rank.) to proceed on the route by which Ibrahim Pasha would most probably approach Gaza, and secure him as far as possible from any act of aggression on the part of the Bedoum Arabs, and other irregular troops, I conceive it now to be my duty to mention to your Excellency, that notwithstanding Brigadier-General Mickell and Captain Stewart, in their interviews with the Serankier and Council after the receipt of the Convention, were under the full impression that all hostile movements would be for like and that the retirement of the Egyptian troops would be perment all smeenty and good faith, it was agcertained by Captain Struct of the course of a subsequent conversation with Rechid Pasha, that secret orders had been sent to General Joehmus to not upon Ibrahim Pasha's line of march, and impede it as much as possible, abstaining at the same time from any direct attack.

The large force, however, concentrated at Gaza, had in the mean time considerably influenced Rechid Pasha, and he returned forthwith to Jaffa, arriving here on the 25th. On meeting me, (being of course aware that Captain Stewart had communicated to me his discovery of the secret orders which had been issued.) Rechid Pasha immediately put into my hands the very letter, as he assured me, which he had addressed to General Jochmus, but which he found had not been sent. I strongly protested in the Council at the course which had been adopted, as depointed out how surely the honour of the British name and of the Turkish cause would have been compromised thereby, as being no directly at a prince with the last it is a large to the Egyptian Generals; and I then received the most positive assurances that no hostile movement should be made, and that every possible assistance should be given to the

I have no doubt, however, that the order in question was given under the impression that Ibrahim Panha's army had been almost entirely destroyed in the Desert, or was at all events in a completely disorganized state, knowing as we do that instructions had been received from Constantinople, directing that in such case Ibrahim Pasha abould be compelled to give up his guns and arms.

I also objected to certain movements of the Turkish troops, which, although not suggested with any hostile intention, might yet, I conceived, have induced suspicion and mistrust on the part of the Egyptians.

To dissipate all feeling of the nature, and personally to reiterate assurances of their anxiety to assist and favour the retreat of the Egy, tasp army Rect of Pasha returned on the 25th to Gaza. On the 25th of January I received from Captain Stewart and Lieutenant-Colonel Alderson, a Note (of which a copy is inclosed.) which had passed between them and Ahmed Pasha and the other Egyptian Generals. Sub-Inclosure 17 is the partial affirmation of this document by the Seraskier, Lieutenant-General Jochmus, and the Moustechar Effendi, and Sub-Inclosure 18 is the copy of my letter to Lieutenant Colonel Alderson, transmitting it to him.

Major Wilbraham and his companions ceased not in the meantime to prosecute their search, and were twenty-four hours in the desert without water; all their exertions were however fruitless, and it was not ust the 31st of January, that Colonel Rose (in consequence of information obtained from some deserters of Ibrahim Pasha's column) was enabled to ascertain his exact line of march. On the morning of that day, he came up with Ibrahim Pasha about twenty miles from Gaza, on the route from the southern extremity of the Dead Sea, and having delivered to him a copy of Michemet Ali's instructions on the exacuation of Syria, accompanied him to Gaza.

This morning Colonel Rose, and a few hours afterwards Captain Stewart, returned to Juffa, and the former officer has placed in my hands the number of true date only of a Note a suressed to the Scrasker by Ibrahim Pasha, with which the Scrasker has expressed himself as an indicate of the series o

From the report I have received, it would appear that the Egyptian I not what I as reached Gaza, are unted to also at 15 00 infantry, and 6,000 or 7,000 cavalry. Of the latter, six regiments of regular cavalry which may amount to about 2,400 men, and 1,200 irregular cavalry have proceeded to El-Arah; and prior to Captain Stewart's arrival at Gaza, 2,000 infantry are stated to have retired in a similar direction

He is decidedly of opinion that the evacuation will take place without any unnecessary delay, and that within a fortnight, not an armed Egyptian will be left in Syria. Whilst the wind however remains in its present quarter, it will be impossible either to land the biscuit which the troops will require for their homeward march, or to embark the women, the sick, and the wounded.

Colonel Rose having had some personal communication with thenhim Pashs, and being enabled to afford your Excellency any further information. I have directed him to proceed in Her Majesty's Steam Vessel Vessel vesses to Constantinople. I purpose proceeding to Gaza on the 5th instant.

YOUR letter of the 28th matant, inclosing the documents which t is tain Stewart and yourself have executed with the General and other Of its of the kg of accuracy in which include assurances are ladges. of good faith in the execution of the Convention are exchanged, was received by me yesterday evening soon after seven o'clock

I most fully concur therein, and have lost no time in communicating with the Serrokier. From ten o'clock thus evening until this hour, I have been occupied in discussions and deliberations. The Scraskier Pasha, Jochmus Pasha, Houssein Pasha, the Moustechar Effends, and Evub Pasha, assisted at the Council, and the result thereof is appended by them to the Official Note which is inclosed, Phoy all profess most cornestly their sincere wish and desire to carry through the Convention in all uncerity and good faith, and most positively assure me, that no hostile movement or oppression shall be made on their part.

Two regiments of envalvy are ordered to Ashdod as a connectitook between thus place and Megdell; it had been their intention to ac a four regiments there, especially, as they assured me, to enable them to provide forage for their horses; but on my urgent request that only two regiments (to which I had previously assented, should be sent, the two extra regiments will be withheld,

You will observe by the inclosed Note signed by the Scrusker Pasha, Joehmus Pasha, and the Mountechar Effendi, that they fix seven days for gence will be extended to any other force which may arrive, either under thrabim Pasha or other officers' command. It will, therefore, be desirable that you should obtain from Ahmed Pasha and the other officers a written promise to carry the evacuation of Gaza and of the Schan's dominion into effect within that period, it would appear that ample time is thus given, as seven regiments of cavalry will already have proceeded to El-Arish. As regards the embarkation of the Egyptian infantry at Gasa, I have strongly urged it as a more immediate and speedy means of relieving the country from their presence; but their orders from Constantimple on this head, they say, are imporative, and they cannot assent to it; at the same time they are willing to give the most liberal construction to the embarking of sick, and, therefore, any of the infantry who may, in your opinion, he unfit to proceed by land, you are empowered to embark in the transports now at Gaza. It would be very desirable that the momental force of combatants should be ascertained, and that a Note should be unide of such infantry as from physical causes you consider proper subjects to be transported by sen. By thus embarking overy infantry soldier who may not be fit to march, and who could, therefore, delay the immediate retirement of that force, you will, I trust, be enabled to effect the evacuation of the Sultan's territory within the stipulated time. I would beg that in tendering my respects to Alimed Pasha, you will sensire him that I am perfectly convinced of the good faith of Turkish authorities, and that I shall not fail to watch over and secure, to the utmost of my power, the aniety of the last man who may be left in Syrua.

General Jochmus to Admiral Stopford

Head-Quarters, Jaffa. January 13, 1841.

INTRUSTED by the Imperial Firman of the end of the Ramazan with the operations of the army since the 16th of December, I immediately resolved to assume the offensive against Ibrahim Pashs, who had concentrated his forces at Damascus, since the end of November, reduced, however, from 20,000 to 24,000 reg for infantry, 5,000 to 0,000 regular cavalry, 150 or more pieces of partly disorganized artiflery, bendes 4,000 erregular Koordish and Annadi horse, and as many Albamans and other uregular infantry.

The Turkish and Allied forces consisted at that period of 15,000 infantry, and 150 cavalry, and 30 pieces of artiflery, exclusive of the garrison of Acre, which, reduced to four battalions and a detachment of Bruis's marines, was destined to remain at that point. The Emir Bechir maintained still in pay a corps of 3,000 mountaineers, infantry, and 500

Such was the strongth of the forces when, after the accessary preliminary arrangements, I transferred my head-quarters from Beyrout to Hasbeya, where I arrived on the 22nd of December, and without loss of time ordered the lerde en masse of the population of Lebanon, and of the whole of Syria south of the line of Beyrout, Balbeck, and Damaseus, metuding the wart ke tribes of the Havaran I had sent my Aide-de-Camp, Captain De L'Or, to direct the operations against Damascus, and Count Szechenyi of the Austrian service, to command the Bedonin tribes on the left bank of the Jordan, south of the Lake of Tibering. Both these officers executed the arduous and perilous tasks with brilliant courage and devotion,

From the best and most authentic information that could be obtained. it was evident that Ibrahim Pasha, towards the latter part of the month of December, had resolved to maintain himself as long as possible in Damascus, in hopes of a speedy settlement of the Egyptian Question, and a pacific arrangement that might enable him to withdraw his alusticed forces from Syria.

The fact of the "Carysfort" frigate being in the harbour of Alexandria, and the nature of the news from Europe which Ibrahim Pasha obtained from friendly agents to Beyond Salar and other sea ports, allorded him unquestionably strong reasons to hold out to the last. On the other hand, should circumstances force him to retire (since violent remonstrances, visited on their authors in some instances by capital pumiliment, had been addressed by many or most of his officers against the retreat through the Descrt), the Pasha had resolved to march by El-Mezerab. the bridge of Manjuma on the Jordan, Djenin, Ramla, and Gaza to El-Arush.

The most positive and well-corroborated news had been obtained on this head from Damascus, and the fact was placed beyond a doubt when Mehemet Ali had obtained not only the authority from the British naval Commander-in-Chief to embark the sirk, wounded, and women (who alone amount to upwards of 10,000), at or near Gaza, but had actually sent from El-Arish a cavalry division of 3,000 men, who encamped on the borders of the Desert, three quarters of an hour south of Gaza.

Under such circumstances, I considered it a most positive duty on my part to defeat the intention of the Egyptian Commander; first, by obliging him to quit Damasous, and a sally, by fireing him to take the route of the Desert; for if a Convention had actually been aigned while Ibrahim Pashs remained at Damasmis, the it Tary question remained undecided, and the complete conquest of Syria by the Allied arms could be denied upon the ground of our supposed inability of driving a much superior force from its capital; while, if the Egyptian army made forcibly its way through Palestine on El-Arish, its losses and sufferings would be small, the country being rich in every resource, and large Government stores existing still at Safed, Teberib, Ramla, and Gaza.

I have the honour to transmit to your Excellency annexed the plan of operations contained in my secret despatch to Lieutenant-General Selim Paulia, Governor of St. Jean d'Acre, then Kaimakam of Syria, in the absence of his Excellency the Scraaker Zacharias Pasha, who was still in

Your Excellency will perceive that the general outline of this plan was to concentrate the whole of the regular forces towards the defiles formed by Mount Carmel and the mountains of Jordan. He for a second time returned to Kerek, having lost his guns, ammunition, and stores during the continued and very harassing attacks day and night of the Arab bands intent on plunder.

My last reports from El-Chald of the 28th of January (twenty-two days after Ibrahum's leaving El-Meserib, and thirty-one after his retreat from Damaseus) state that Hamid Boy, despairing of communicating with Ibrahum Panha, had resolved to return to Guza, and thence to Egypt.

I HAVE the honour to inform your Excellency that I have directed the Frank Book Park Start to all the Color brakes Parks with and the Emir of the Rashoya and Hasbeya to follow Ibrahim Parks with there cavalry and infantry, the moment he leaves Damascus; I have also written this order to Sheik Mahmond of the Hanuran, and to the Bedouin Shedus of Kusa, Adjelun, Essyatt, and others. These latter will come to Eckoserab and Ferk, the moment Ibrahim tries to pass Depar Madjuma, all these light troops will continually attack and harass the Egyptian army by day and by night, and in this way they will create great dis-I give occasion to the middlers to desert, and to the muleteers to escape with their mules and comels, and leave thrahim without means to temport his guns and provisions. I beg now that your Excellency will give similar orders immediately in your Pashalic to the same effect, and order Schi Abdul Ah to collect all his people at Djest Jakub, the castle necessary it is to send to Safed the four guns of Seid Abdul Ali, and the 100 hoxes of ammunition, and 2,500 flints, and 2,000 okes of rice from Acre, together with 10,000 okes of biscuit, if the 20,000 okes are arrived for a liege at

It is also very important that your Excellency orders immediately to prove the latter one to be the passes by the road from Djess Madjuma to Djesin and Kakim: as your Excellency has received many muskets, these may all or partly be distributed to the people of Djebel Nabloux, and other warlike tribes near them, together with ammunition and finits; but I think it best only to do this when Ibrahim has actually left Damascus, and not before

With all these people following and harassing Ibrahim, we may have to do him great injury; and in the meantime, we shall assemble all the regular troops near Acre, and march by Mount Carmel towards Djenin, and defeat the enemy in a general action in the defiles, where his cavalry is of a > sc, and where we shall have at the mountaineers bestdes our regular infantry and artiflery.

But before this, I shall come to Acre and concert everything with your Excellency and we shall go together and fight another act in I ke that of Kalat Maidan, and, please God, the Sultan's standard shall be victorious.

I have written thu to your Excellency in the greatest confidence,

After this, he set the town on fire, taking the sheep and other animals from the town and neighbourhood. Ibrahim remained there that might, and sent towards derusalem about 100 borsemen, but on the road, these were informed that there were four or five Pashas with a large body of troops at Jerusalem. Upon bearing this news, the borsemen went back and informed Ibrahim that it was impossible to advance, and that if they did so, they would be cut to pieces Hereupon, he ordered all his troops to recross the river (Jordan), but while they were passing, the Arabs fell upon them, and many men were killed or drowned in the river; and most of the troops which got across, dispersed in the direction of the Damiseum road, and Ibrahim, with the remainder, went to Gerek; but on the road he lost all his infantry, and arrived at Gerek with only cavalry. Ibrahim Pasha left some guns at Es-Salt.

Jeffa, January 20, 1841, 9 o'Clock par.

I HAVE this instant received from my Aide-de-camp Baron Dumont, the important news that the expedition of a corps of our light proops under his command, which left Jerusalem on the 9th instant, for Maan, has completely succeeded. Ibrahim Pasha, thinking his depôt deep in the desert, completely safe, neglected to keep a sufficient garrison in the castle, which was only defended by four guns and a few men. Baron Done of after six forces marches, arrived at 10 o clock e st, on the 14th of January, near the place, and surprued it the next morning, just after the first column of Itratim's troops had left it for Suez, and after inducing the people to evacuate the town, burnt the five large magaaines which contained thrahim Pasha's stores. The column which left Maan for Sues is chiefly composed of all the women, servants, &cc., Stc., with some troops of encort. The army itself, of which the 2d column was to sleep at Maan, on the 14th, seeing its provisions burnt, had been obliged to countermarch, and is now wandering in the desert, harassed on all sides by the Bedouin tribes. Its state seems to be dreadful, and all over the country through which the Baron Dumont came back to herek be saw the good bodies of small detachments which had been out off by the Bedomen.

(Translation.) Biconac, Mountains between Kerek-el-Schoback and Masn, (Extract.) January 16, 1841,—8 o'Clock A.M.

I HAVE the bonour to inform your Excellency, that according to your orders. I left brussalers on the 3th estant accompanied by Sheik Abdul Baoman, Habit Cherif and Hall Hesiz Bey the son of the Governor of Jerusalem, with an escort of fifteen Arab horsemen

By five forced marches, of fifteen to eighteen hours per diem, I arrived near Maan, on the 14th instant, at 10 o'clock rise, our detachment being then increased by the Sheik's followers to 220 horsemen. I as posse ted an Egyptian bivoune near Maan, to within 150 paces, there being no respects, guintis, or induces are as a nor and I found that I had before me the first colour of the hypothemic construct the winter barrens &c. &c. It is a place consisting of about three hundred houses, with chemise of masonry. The magazines were in an old castle, defended by four old from guns, and twenty Egyptian solders. These were killed by my how me before I could prevent that they were endeavouring to escape. After ordering the towns-people to quit, and communicating your Excellency's orders and instructions to the relief that the town exacuated in the space of twente hours, surmounting the difficulties by money, and promises of presents. The magazines, five in number, I found to contain on inspection, 150 Camel loads of barley.

50 Ditto ditto prepared wheat.
35 Ditto ditto rice.

They were burnt at 3 o'clock in the night of the 14th, 15th January of the provide property and stores of the halitants having oven by that time removed to the mountains, and nothing left in the town.

I took the direction of Aneyi with Sheik Abdul Rahman, and on the 15th at 7 o'clock, after nurrise, I perceived the second column of the Fgy et an army, consisting only of about 1 200 cames on I a greater number of mules and other animals of burden, and an irregular cavalry encort, although I had received positive news that it was conducted by South in Paster, and I ad with I the little ery. We have use forty-four camela that belonged to the first column during the preceding night, and I found forty more dead on the road, or in the become, constituting a loss of eighty-four camela in one single night, by my party ages.

The whole of the Arabs of the Desert are pursuing the Egyptian forces.

Head-Quarters, Jerusalem, January 28, 1841, 8 o' Clock P.M.

I HAD the honour to inform your Excellency, in my report of the 17th instant, that in consequence of the official news of the submission of Mehemet Ali, hostilities had ceased on our part from that day, after the arrival of Hamid Bey, the latter having written to the same purpose to the Egyptian General at Gaza, who received and answered his communication on the 18th. No hostilities had been committed since the defeat of the Egyptian cavalry corps on the 15th instant at El-Meshdel, and our cavalry had ever since maintained the positions which it occupied on the 16th, when I advanced it along the course of the Ascalon river

By my directions a corps of eight battalions of infantry, and twelve pieces of artiflery under Lieutenant-General Hassan Pasha, flanked from Jerusalem our movement towards El Meshdel observing by light cavery the roads north and south of the Dead Sea, by which any Egyptian forces might arrive in Gasa.

On the 14th a corps was reported to have crossed the Jordan and bivouacked (near Jericho) at Reyha. Hassan Pasha encamped at Abugosh, three bours south-west of Jerusalem, marched, towards the exactly, on the 17th instant but the Egyptian hysical learing of his approach, immediately recrossed the Jordan with a heavy loss in drow and and kill dithe waters of that room one rises more than a foot during the incessant rains of the 14th and 15th of January; and the leaf filling upon the troops hering the passage and in the nearly impracticable marshes of the valley at the head of the Dead Sea.

The enemy's column above mentioned proved to be the shattered remains of the corps, called by Mehemet Ali "the Guards," amounting to about 4,000 to 5,000 men, and two cavalry regiments with a battery of artillers, forming the rear-guard of the army under the personal command of Ibrahim Pasha. The artillery and one of the regiments (Currassiers) had remained at some distance on the left bank of the river.

and the movement was syidently a desperate attempt to march by any way on Gaza or El-Arish.

The forturn attention of this corps will be seen from the two inclosed reports of Mehemed Recited Pasha, Chief of the Staff, and of Russ Pasha, commanding the cavalry. I do not estimate the loss of the army no great as the latter, but certainly, after comparing all the reports, it an is a soon or or remen and eight pieces if artiflery which latter, although with the column at Es-Salt, were unquestionably not at Kerek on the 19th instant, whither Ibrahim had retired after continual skiemeshes with the Araba. The Governor of Jerusalem had sent his son, Harley Hasse, to ascertain whether the artillery has been buried in the desert mountain or not.

Such was the mulated pointion of this last corps of the Egyptian army, that its Commander-in-Chief had lost all means of communication with his remaining forces, and that, although Hamid Bey and the Commissioners from Egypt were from the 19th to the 23rd at £1-Chaid, trying by all means to establish a communication with Ibrahim, either by the north or the south of the Dead Sea, it proved a vain attempt, notwithstanding that, during the same days, the above column under the Pasha was at Kerck, surrounded by the Arabs of the country, who had been reinforced by the tribes of Beni Sackr and Beni Hennedy, arrived from the diel () () o week to proceed at the end is seat then from

Jesusalem on the 8th of January, through Baron Dumont

The distance from El-Meserib to Kerek is, at the utmost, five days' march. Ibrahus Pasha left the former place on the 6th or 7th of January, and after fifteen days was still at Kerck, having continually marched and counter-marched in the desert mountains in search of food, or from having been stopped in the mountain defiles. According to the x rement of the son of the Chrestain of Abugosh, a Captain in the Quards, who deserted on the 21st instant from Kerek, and had been with the column ever ance it quitted Damaseus and El-Mezersb, Ibrahim marched from the latter place to Bilka, thence back north to Ea-Salt. age of south to Kerek and back to Jericho; obliged to recross the Jordan ( ) , se by a march along the coast, while all the irregular forces 1 . Lebanou, &c., &c., moving parallel to the Egyptian army along only covered the magazines at Safed and Tabareh, but were constantly in a position for close observation, covering Syria against large foragin. detreaments, and remaining at the same time disposable for a concentrar material etcs of Djoha waste Love da 1 to mit 2 leans with 30 pieces of artiflery, and a mountaineer force of from 10,000 to 12,000 men, and to light decidedly a general action on ground quite impracticable for the enemy's cavalry. It was at the time, and it romains still, my firm conviction, that victory would have crowned the Sultan's arms in a few hours, and that the whole of Ibrahim Pasha's army would have been annihilated or obliged to surrender; the only force of his still in some state like organization, being his cavalry, and this would have been of no use to him in the rocky grounds of Djenin.

The appeal to arms in the Sultan a name was cheerfully followed by the mountaineer population of the Lehanon and Anti-Lebanon, obeying Prince Kassim Emir Bechir; by the men of Belfad Basebarra and Safe under their Mussellims, Hamid El Bey, Hussein Selman, and Seid Abdul Ah, by the Emirs of Rasbeya and Hasbeya, and the cavalry of Balbeck under the Emirs Handjar, Achmet, and Chalib Arrian.

The powerful house of Abdel-Al. Governors of Napleuse, called to the standards the Mussulman population of their districts, and of Djebel Kuds, and the Bedouin tribes of Kura, Adjelan, and Es-Sait, prepared for booty when the hour for pursuing the enemy should have come, for these latter will not face an armed force, but are terrible to a flying foe.

On the 27th of December the Hanuran population appeared already in masses round El-Mezerib, and Kuftan Agassi, the Egyptian Commander of the Hennedy Cavalry and Moghribins, who had occupied that important post to protect the stores, collected there since two months, was obliged to fall back near to Damascus, leaving all the provisions and Orage in the hands of our partisans, who appeared in strong bodies on

Thomas to begy Hrans Shire 24

Since the 24th of December, the cavalry of Balbeck had thrown back the outposts of Ibrahim Pasha into the very gardens of Damascon, maintaining themselves afterwards at one or two hours from the gates of the town, and thus facilitating the desertion of the enemy. Upwards of 100 off, ers and 800 at a first regard troops lity and there exists at our outposts up to the 28th of December, many bringing with them both horses and arms, and offering themselves for immediate service in the Imperial army.

Justly alarmed at the immment danger of his military position in the centre of a general insurrectionary minement, with an army in niter destitution and deserting in all directions; blocked up within the walls of a large and disaffected town, reads for revolt, and with the enemy at its gates; unable at the same time to depend upon his troops, the major part of at the type the delice of the delice of the delice. at last gave way to the force of unlucky circumstances, and, selling the stores he could not carry away, and destroying a great part of his aminu-nition, he began his retreat on the 29th of December in the afternoon, encamping in the gardens of Damascus, and continued his march on the With as for as El Ressone, three hours from the latter city.

On the Stat of December, an advanced guard of 1,000 Drums and 2,000 Balbeck Cavalry outered Damaseus, to establish the author rity of the Sultan; but the cavalry, in accordance with my positive orders to Captain Do l'Or, started soon after to pursue the Egyptians in their roote towards Mezerth, where Ibrahim's army arrived on the 2nd and 3rd of January, 1641, after a loss, by descriton, killed, and dead from the cold, of upwards of 10,000 men and 20 guns.

The had and intense cold caused numerous deaths among the nearlynaked soldiery in summer clothing, and the sword of the herce and revengeful Haouranees, the victims of Ibrahim's abominable oppression, was unmerciful to small detachments or straggling deserts.

The bivouses of the Egyptian army and the whole line of march properties a selection of the second second second second such of the latter as could not keep up being immediately shot, by order

Ibrahim Pasha's march was followed in a parallel direction by the forces of the Emir Beenir, to whom I had given the Command-in-Chief of all the light troops, and who, parting Al-Elias and Zachle, marched by Merdie Adjun and Safed on Zaharieth, reinforced, at each station to the south, by the different detachments of volunteers, who had been directed to assemble along the banks of the Jordan.

The Balbeck Cavalry having also come to Tabarch from its pursuit of the enemy in the direction of Mexersb, the Emir Bechir found himself on the 4th and 5th of January at the head of 1,000 infantry and 1,300 horse, in and near Tabarch, while the defile of Djenin was occupied by a body of Albanians and Naplousians, supported by a strong force of the latter at aix hours' distance at Naplouse, ready to move at a moment's notice

Nineteen battalions of the regular army having been concentrated at Acre since the 5th of January, marched on that day, and on the 6th, from that place in the direction of Juffa; and, with the eight battalions already in Palestine at Jerusalem and Ramla, were in position to arrive at Dienin long before the enemy.

My own head-quarters had been transferred successively on the 31st of December from Hasbeya to Safed, thence, on the 3rd, to the Djear Madjuma, on the 4th to Djenin, on the 5th to Naplouse, and on the 6th to Jerusalem

Ibrahim Pasha remained three days irresolute at El-Mezerib, reconomtrong Fesk and the Jordan; but, informed or calculating on the certainty of a general setion, if he persisted in his intended movement on Djenin, he pushed his advanced guard on the 4th on Remsha; thus declaring his movement and indicating that he had changed his plans.

He was followed thither by all his forces and his transcon the 5th and 6th On this latter day his rear-guard was attacked in Remsha, by the cavalry of Chalib Artion, who had gone again over the Jordan from Tabareh on the 5th instant. On the 7th, a skirmish took place near Djaraseh with the partisans of Count Szechenyi. On the 9th, the rearguard of Ibrahim, sending out a foraging party, with some artillery, towards Es-Salt, the latter was repulsed in the Life.

The gy than army, it is not all the che desert has not since been authentically heard of; when last seen, between the El-Meserab, Kalat Mefrek, its infantry was reduced to 15,000 disorderly men, its artillery, though still numerous, was utterly disorganised, principally by desertion, infantry soldiers serving the guns; the cavalry alone was in something like discipline.

After four months' campaign, a powerful army of 65,000 regular traps has to as he have the series and allied troops has done much in the conquest of a visit country like Syria in a short period of glory and success; but Providence has evidently visited the sins of tyriany and unparalleled oppression on the heads of Mehemet Ali and Ibrahim Pusha, and has given a new and terrible lesson, that if revolt and armed rebellion against the lighterity by the galaxy and heavy misfortune, to the wiser order of things, which intrusts the direction of Empires to those in whose hands command has been vested from their birth.

The God of Battle may lead Ibrahim and his shattered forces through the Desert, and bring some troops back to the banks of the Nile. I have taken, as in duty bound, such means as may as much as possible delay his march, or diminish his chances of escape.

On the 6th of January, from Jerusalem, Fordered by twelve firmans the general insurrection of the Bedouin tribes of the Desert, and giving them as a reward all the Miri or Government tithes of produce, collected at the great central depot of the Desert, provided they would remove them and others out of the way of Ibrahim Pasha's line of march,—I optimited the command of this expedition to the Sheik Abdurralman, the renowned Chief of Djebel Chalil, the personal and for ton years the unquished enemy of Ibrahim Pasha. This expedition of 2,000 Bedouin was accompanied by my Aide-de-camp Baron Burnott of the Australian and of the Governor Osman Aga of Jerusalem.

My next reports will inform your Executency of the mane of this enterprise,

It is to me an agreeable duty to state to your Excellency the perfect analymity which has actuated all the officers and men of the Turkish and Albed forces, during these late and extensive operations, which by mere strategic combinations and movements, and with very little loss of life, have produced great and important results; the clear proof of Ibrahim's having lost Syria by mere force of arms, and without negotiations, the salvation of Palestine from pillage and destruction, and finally, the enermous loss of the Egyptina General, only as far as El-Mezerik, since he left Damascus, without calculating those reserved for him by the sufferings of the Desert.

To Brigadier-General Michell and Commodors Houston Stewart, of Her Little Wart & Stewart & Her Little Wart & Stewart & Her Little Wart & Her Little

have for the first time in modern Syrian history been brought to act in perfect accordance for one general and great object and are for this purpose, without pay and often without regular rations, gone for many days' marches beyond the frontiers of their proper command; a remarkable and isolated fact due to the personal influence of Mr. Wood, and so much to the devotion displayed by those chiefs to their legitimate master.

Son armée est en complète déroute, faute de vivres par la prise de Mann, et les déserteurs déposent tous, que même avant d'arriver aux magazins (à présent brulés), toute l'infanterie subsistant depuis quatre ou aix jours de la chair de chameau. J'ai trouvé iei le Baron Dumont, qui me confirme la complète déroute des Egyptiens. Comme il a vu passer les trois premières colonnes à portée de fusil, et que dans la deuxième en devrait se trouver, d'après toutes les informations, l'artillerie, il n'a vu qu'un grand nom re l'éleur à vir l'après on creet sei généralement qu'ibrahim a enterre ses canons dans le Désert. De son infanterse on n'a vu que la troissème colonne, réduite à 5,000 hommes; un corps isolé à Justia de 2,000 hommes, qui se trouvaient il y a quelques jours avec Ibrahim Pacha vera Kerek: tout ce monde était à moitié mort de faim. Les pertes d'Ibrahim en hommes, en chevaux, et en bêtes de somme, en repassant le Jordan, ont été très-fortes. Enfin son Excellence Hassan Pacha, sur une nouvelle de la paix, a envoyé un sauf conduit à Ahmed Ménikli Pacha, commandant la Cavalerie Egyptienne, et lui a fait savoir qu'il se l'attaquerait pas dans sa retraite, pourvo qu'il ne vint pas fourrager dans les villages près de Hald. Ahmed Ménikh Pacha, conduit par un officier de Hassan Pacha, a alors chom la route vere Gaza, dans sa retraite sur l'Egypte. La cavalerie, réduite à 2,500 chevaux et 700 cavaliers démontés, était dans le plus misérable état: et sans la Convention, deux bataiflons dans les passes presque impraticables du Vadisel-Glor, à une journée au sud de Hahl, auraient été se mant pour arrêter cette colonne. Il me parant très-nécessaire aux r venues vera Gaza de se retirer, afin qu'il ne soit jamais plus de 3,000 nommes à la fois dans cet endroit. Je pris votre Excellence de communiquer cette lettre à M. le Général Michell.

P.S.-Il y a beaucoup d'orge à El-Hald, et on y trouve d'autres provisions, mais il faut y envoyer do riz et du heurre.

Head-Quarters, Jaffo, February 2, 1841

A. JOCHMUS,

Licetenent Gerend

I HAD the bonour to inform your Excellency, in my despatch of the 30th of January, that the Commissioners of the Transfer Pasha, had not being able up to that day to communicate with Ibraham Pasha, had not being able up to that day to communicate with Ibraham Pasha, had not being able up to that day to communicate with Ibraham Pasha, had not being able up to that day to communicate with Ibraham Pasha, had not been equally unsuccessful.

At inst, on the old of January, middle o was received at Gaza, that the Egyptian Commander-in-Chief was within a day's march of that place, our pursually it. Tribs who had not left him a moment's quiet place, our pursually it. Tribs who had not left him a moment's quiet place, our pursually it. Tribs who had not left him a moment's quiet since his defeat near Jericho on the 15th ultimo. On the dist is not rest that with the remains of the guards and a ne irregular trib of the following amount:—

One regiment of currassiers, one data lancers, 600 horses.

Hennedy irregular horse

The force was in a most deplorable state, having wandered in the mountains of the Deserte in security of the list senerces days since their recrossing the Jordan, Ibrahim being away from Damascus and their recrossing the Jordan, Ibrahim being away from Damascus and their recrossing the Jordan, Ibrahim being away from Damascus and their recrossing the Jordan, Ibrahim being away from Damascus and their recrossing the Jordan, Ibrahim being away from Damascus and their recrossing the Jordan, Ibrahim being away from Damascus and Carrier I as a line of the Ibrahim being awa went to meet Ibrahim, told me that an oke, or two pounds and threequarters, of mule or camel's flesh, was sold at thirty to forty piastres, or eight shillings English, and that the Pasha's own borses were without barley the last two days. The three regiments of guards on their leaving Damascus were 6,000 strong, and the two regiments of cavalry 1 200, making a loss of these corps alone, who were the ente of the army, of 4,500 infantry and 600 cavalry.

The different columns which from the 21st to the 25th of January had preceded the arrival of Ibrahim at Gaza were as follows:—Under Ahmed Menikh Pasha, regular cavalry, 2,400; irregular cavalry, 300 ander Kourschid Pasha, under Dramanli and others, 11,000 infantry and trees its, 10,000 infantry and trees its, 10,000 infantry and trees its, 10,000 infantry and arrival in the secret getter trees is a large tree in a secret getter trees in a secret getter in a secret

The inclosed general return will give to your Excellency a complete tableau of the enormous losses of the Egyptian army since the opining of the campaign, amounting to 63,000 men, 619 garrison guns, and 148 field-pieces.

The forces of Mehemet Ali in Syria have always been very much and purposely overrated. I have never estimated his actual army above 75,000 effectives and 10,000 non-effectives, and the losses on the same scale; were it otherwise, the glery of the Sultan's and Allied arms would only be enhanced; for at the opening of the campaign there were in the field, of regular forces about 9,000 men, at the period of the taking of Acre about 16,000 men,—and the army at present in Southern Syria amounting to 15,000 infantry, 3,500 regular cavalry, 3,000 irregular horse, and there preces of field artiflery.

In the above estimates are not included the 3,200 horse and 600 infantry and artiflery forming the division of Et-Arab, which arrived and encamped near Gaza during the month of December last.

The sufferings of the remains of Ibrahim Pasha's own army have been dreadful. Licutenant-Colonel Alderson, in his reports from Gaza to Colonel Bridgeman, states that the infantry armying from the Desert had been seven days nearly without any food, and full three days without water; and the two Turkish Staff Officers who served for three days as safe-guard to the cavalry columns of Ahmed Menikli Pasha, represent his force as in the most exhausted state. The loss of cavalry horses has at least been 2,000. Baron Dumont's prisoners made before the 17th of January, had then already been living for four and six days upon camel's flesh. The number of those who will be embarked at Gaza as hard ducombat will be very great, and the whole materiel of the army being completely ruined, it cannot in its present state be considered anything but an armed mass, the only force that approaches to order being the cavelry.

The artillery, when last seen by Baron Dumont, after the taking of Maan, was not any longer transported by draught as it was when it left Damascus; but as many guns had been drawn by oxen, cown, and buffaloes, this column found the means of subsistence by killing these animals, and was thus combled to continue its march by the route of Maan, while the other columns of the army, after the magazines of Maan had been emptied by the Bedouins and the remains burnt, were obliged to countermarch, and come back upon Gaza by isolated tracts, and completely destitute of all mintary array

The straight road from Maan to Cairo is about four days, every station having water for the wants of the large pilgrim caravans; the circuit by Gaza and El-Arish is twenty-three days through deserts, one-half of which is destructe of water.

Wathout the Convention and the arrival of the Commissioners of Peace, the fate of the isolated columns of Ibrahim's army could not have been doubted, arriving as it did at long intervals, and in isolated columns from each other, at nearly the very head-quarters of the Imperial army, ready to move at a moment's notice

The final operations of this carepaign are marked by two distinct feet ites after a ferced retreat from Dr. and the happet of the rational compelled at El-Meierib to abandon his original intention of passing through Palestine to El-Arish, on which line, according to the inclosed return, he would have found 2,787,775 rations for troops, and 271,980 rations of forage.

He was offered battle at Djenin and declined it, preferring the risk of a march through the Desert.

The general insurrection of the Bedouins, and the destruction of the stores at Maan, obliged him a second time to change his route, falling from the encayan road into the heart of the wilderness.

His artiflery having gone by the prescribed line of march, the remains of his army, henceforth routed and isolated columns, without array, ammunition, or guns, without reciprocal communications, could have offered no effectual resistance against a general movement of the Turkish army, whose cavalry bad come into line from the north, and its choice would have been surrender or starvation in the Desert.

buch are the advantages of strategical combinations over more fighting, that the effective loss of 18,000 men and the complete disorganisation of the Egyptian army has not cost 100 men, here du combat.

Sir,

I HAVE the horour to inform your Excellency, that on the 14th instant I directed a division of ten initialions of infantry, 1,800 irregular and Tartar horse, 150 regular cavalry, and 14 pieces of artiflery, to march from Ramia towards Gaza

This latter village is abandoned by the enemy, who has a flying camp of 1,200 regular and 1,800 irregular horse, with eight pieces of horse artiflery, at three quarters of an hour's march south of Gaza, whence he draws has forage and provisions: but rayages, at the same time, the country, carrying off cattle and mules to a great extent from most of the villages south of Randa

The object of my movement was the protection of these villages, but principally the destruction of the enemy's provisions at Gaza, in case the black it is a large struck of second the Dend Sea towards Oaza.

On the 18th of January the drusion encamped at Esdued; on the 15th it could only make a march of three hours to El-Mesde on account of the incessant heavy rain, which poured down ever since it left Ramla.

Towards the afternoon, a reconnecting party of the enemy of 500 here per the state of the enemy of 500 here per the state of the state

Hearing nothing positive about Ibrahim's immediate approach, and the low country towards Gaza having become a complete marsh by the continued floods of rain up to the 16th in the evening, and the troops having been completely drenched day and night in the bivounces. I suspended the movement, and sent the infantry and guns to Jaffa, advancing, at the same time, the cavalry detachments to the neighbour-hood of Ascalon and some villages towards the river of that name, with their head-quarters at El-Mesde, intending to resume the operations the moment the ground had become practicable; but on my arrival here, informed officially of the complete submission of Mehemet Ali Paaha, and the consequent cessation of the state of rebellion of his army, our troops have been ordered to cease offensive hostilities. Sir,

Head-Quarters, Jerusalem, January 25, 1841.

1 HAD the bonour to receive your communication of the 13th only on the 17th instant; and active operations have prevented my answering it before

It would be perfectly superfluous to enter now into any details on its varied contents, since fortune and victory have declared on all sides for me, by the total rout of the Egyptians, thus consoling me, to a certain degree, for that want of confidence in my judgment which, it is evident, you entertain with respect to my operations in the field. But, unskilful as I may be deemed as a military commander, it must at least be confissed from the recent march of events that I am certainly a most fortunate one

I must, however, most distinctly advert to, and refute, two points, upon which a great part of the critical acumen contained in the letter in question, appears to be erroneously based; first, that I am not aware of any person in Syria having been in the accret of my operations, and cognizant of all my plans, until after their execution, since I consider secrecy as the main-spring of success, and, secondly, that I do not admit the right of any naval officer on a special station to attempt the control of those operations, in the manner you have thought proper to assume, upon the same principle that I presume would guide you, were I to venture to give you a lesson on the best mode of managuring your

At the same time I am, and have always been, most happy to receive any opinion or explanation, provided they be given with the courtesy and respect due to the General intrusted with the operations of the army.

It is to me a matter of deep regret, after the transcendent services rendered by the British fleet, that in the very last operation you should have thought proper to decline any naval co-operation in the projected movement upon Gaza; but it certainly is to me a much more cause of surprise, that you should have deemed it requires to write an official letter, on an occasion when naval co-operation could not make any serious impression on the inland position of the enemy, and when the single column of Ramia was more than doubly sufficient for the attenment of my object; since it is well known, that, after the defeat of part of the Egyptian cavalry at El-Maisdal on the 15th instant, the enemy never ventured again to meet our troops beyond the river of Ascalon, although I advanced our cavalry on the following day, which was not half his number, and left it encamped ever since within one and a half hour's march of Gaza, while, at the same time, I sent the infantry and artillery to Juffa on account of the impracticable state of the roads.

Under these circumstances it would have been, in my opinion, perfeetly consistent with your responsibility, not to have given any naval-to-operation in the operator, which off lifty declining it after my return to Juffa, the more so, as I fully agreed with you on the impossible hty of the steamers being of any immediate use. But it appears to have been your particular desire to have made the whole transaction a matter of official correspondence, which, although I do not decline, I would fain

Imperial Head Quarters, Jaffa. February 8, 1841.

I HAVE the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 2nd February by which you inform is that several frequest and transports have been sent to embark the remains of the Egyptian army at Gaza

There exists beither on the part of his Excellency Ahmed Zac rures. Pasas Seriak or of Syraer moerly on a day by et one to this measure, as it hastens the evacuation of Syrin; there existed, however, before the actual arrival of these transports, a very serious one, because we could not be sanctioned any dear or be the possible was pretext that the becomes were waiting for transports, and consequently would not have move by a lather markens

I am not aware that any difficulties have been raised by the Turkish and a fine to an often and the often Conselled or arrect goment sanctioned by the Allied Powers and the Sublime Porte; but Ibrahim Pasha on the octopical attention a long throw and the flowert ever so the out. Jet early, which as quested for Mexerco, it occurrily could not be contemplated by any Convention stipulating the syncustion of Syria, that it embraced also the eventuality of his returning into the country, particularly in the mode he attempted at Jericho on the 14th and 15th of January, putting to fire and sword all the neighbourhood.

It is to me a matter of real concern, that false reports, intentional or not, should have made you erroneously suppose that this army was destined to make any hostile movement on the remains of the Egyptian troops. If such had been the intention I should not have waited for a concentration of troops at Gaza, but should have attacked them as they arrived at long intervals, in isolated columns, from the Desert, in the most helpless state.

If the Turkish authorities had really contemplated hostilities, an easy an volid excuse would have been found to the fact, that Ilrahim Pasha had already by two days exceeded the term of evacuation, granted on the 30th of January for only seven days.

After acquainting you, Sir, with these circumstances, I cannot any further be responsible for reports arising from the visions of terrified magmations at Gaza.

The Turkish authorities consulting the British officers at these head-quarters, have duly considered, in a General Council, your letter of the 11th of January, and such instructions as they possess from other official sections in the present state of affairs in the Levint. Their process against each in the present state of affairs in the Levint. Their process against each in the Subhime Ports. They accept without heatation the consequences of their former resolutions, and of that taken to-day, to permit the embarkation of a corps of infantry at Gaza, notwithstanding that neither Sir R. Stopford's orders, nor those of his Excellency Madoum Bey, specify anything about the embarkation of armed bodies on any part of the Syrian coast, granting only this favour to women, children sick, and wounded men.

The brilliant services which you. Sir, rendered in this memorable war, have not been bestowed on a worthless cause, and the proceedings of the Ottoman Commanders and authorities are not so extravagant as they are deemed at Alexandria. They are (notwithstanding a momentary impression to the contrary, founded on illusion) in conformity with the existing treaties, in conformity with the customs of civilized nations, in conformity with the laws of humanity, in conformity with the interests of the Sublance P and, ranging higher than all these considerations, they are in con-

THE evacuation of Syria by the Egyptians being now almost effected, I beg to represent to you the propriety which in my opinion exists for the Roy I Marine Art there is not with drawn from Second and my reasons for forming this opinion are simply these,— at My knowledge of the Admiral's intention that they should be taken to Marmorice so soon as the officer commanding the British forces

2ndly. The circumstance of the plague having made its appearance at Sidon, happily but in one case as yet, although now it is reported to be severe at Tyre, and foreseeing as I do much painful embarrassment should any of the Royal Marine Artillery detachment be attacked by that disease

3rdly. The necessity which I am under, in obedience to instructions, of sending all the vessels of war at present under my orders, to rejorn the flag at Marmorice so soon as Syria is clear of the Egypton troops, leaving only the "Hocate" steam-vessel at your disposal, whilst, by taking advantage of the presence of the "Magicienne," the whole detachment with their field equipage could embark in that vessel, the "Hazard" taking away the small remnant of the marine detachment still at St. Jean d'Acre

Should you entertain any doubt of the removal of the Royal Marine Artiflery being approved of I fee, myself quite justified, from the communications I have had with Sir R. Stopford, Sir C. F. British Head Quarters, Jaffa, February 15, 1841.

I HAVE the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of yesterday's date, representing the propriety which exists in your opinion for the removal of the Royal Marine Artillery from Sidon to the fleet. The evacuation of this country by the Egyptian army, the often repeated wishes of the Admiral Commanding-in-Chief, and the impression on my mind that it was the intention of the Inte Brigadier-General Michell to permit of their being so withdrawn, so soon as the posture of Syr and off irs would admit, must, of course, very much influence my joe grant but at the same time that I take upon myself the responsibility of assenting to their removal, I must confess that I much regret to find by your letter, that we are also to be deprived of the presence of the several thips of war now on the coast, with the exception of the "Heests" steamer. As, however, in the event of an extension of the plague along the coast, it would be impossible, with one steamer only, to embark the Royal Artillery at Beyrout as well as the Royal Marine Artillery at Sidon, I must consider the absence of any thip of war as an additional reason for a diminution of the force.

Sir.

Head-Quarters, Joffa, February 15, 1841.

FROM the despatches and returns which I had the honour to address to your Excellency on the 2nd and 3rd instant, it will have been perceived that the amount of the remains of Ibrahim Pasha's returing army, was 18,900 combatants and 2,700 non-combatants, making a grand total of 21,500 men of all arms, regulars and irregulars.

From all the reports and returns which I have since received from my Turkish and European Staff-Officers, most of whom were sent to ascertain their numbers, I find that this estimate requires no alteration and in perfectly correct.

The remains of the Egyptian cavalry preserve some military order. The rest of the troops returned from Syria are utterly disorganised, and the daily losses from disease in onsequence of excessive fatigue amounted daily to 50 or 60 between the camp of Gesa and El-Arish.

It is extraordinary that the casualties should not be more numerous, considering the sufferings in the desert, and the fact that whole regiments have been actually living for whole days on the grass and herbs of the wilderness.

For more than ten days the only rations issued to most of the columns, were two or three camels for each regiment on the march,

I do not suppose, according to the annexed estimate, that out of the whole of the remaining 21,500 men, more than one-half, or about 11,000, will be borne again on the strength of the Egyptian army.

I have calculated the probable loss of the march from Maan to Gaza into Egypt, and the amount of desertion when arrived in Egypt, at only 4,000 men. If it be considered that a great proportion of the now remaining troops are married men, and consequently the worst of soldiers, who did not desert in Syria because their wives and children went sid Maan, but who will desert on the very first occasion that offers in Egypt, the above estimated reduction will be found very moderate, the more so, as there are about 2,000 irregular Hennedy Harne who have sellinged Syria during the years of large tyrings of the carry from 17,000 to 20,000 pristres with a burses, arms, and one can seek into higher all of whom will go to their homes.

The last Egyptian troops left Gaza on the February. In all, there were embarked, up to the 13th instant, about 3,000 sick, wounded, and others here do combot, with some women, and the skeletons of some infantry regiments; about 3,000 more men waited till to-day to embark, and were prevented by the surf

The rest went by land to Egypt and El-Arish.

It may be care ated that it I the debrar of the former Syran army and the regular troops still in Egypt, Mehemet Ali, or any future Pasha of Egypt, may re-form a peace establishment of 20,000 to 25,000 effective soldiers. Such a force may also be maintained in the long run without too heavy charges, out of a population amounting at present for 1,800,000 to 2,000,000 of which the permanent selectly would bruilly per cents, and would eventually afford an account of atrength to the Tortish course. The long rand in the property of the hanks of the Nile, now fortunately broken in its most essential elements, would have been only a seed of destruction in the Ottoman dominions.

As we were already acquainted with the impossibility of penetrating this wild country, without the active assistance of the Sheike, (as the Arab horder, caring for neither friend nor foe, were collected in considerable force to plunder the rear of the retreating army,) we were obliged most reluctantly to turn our steps westward, and reached Gaza on the night of January 22, where we found Ahmed Merckit Pasha had arrived the day before with the main body of the cavalry, and that the infantry were expected very soon in three divisions, Ibrahim Pasha himself bring-

Colonel Bridgeman to Viccount Polmerston.—(Received March 13.)

(No. 2.) British Head-Quarters, Jaffa. My Lord, January 26, 1841

FROM a letter addressed to your Lordship by Lieutenant Aldrich, the Assistant Military Secretary to the late Brigadier-General Michell, dated the 23rd of January, you will be led to expect a detailed report of the proceedings in Syria, from the time of the last despatch, under date the 31st of December, 1840. As therefore I am sufficiently recovered from an attack of fever, with which I have been confined for some days, I take the earliest opportunity of embodying and transmitting to your Lordship all the information which I can obtain from the sources at my

On the 29th of December, 1840, Ibrahim Pasha personally and finally evacuated Damasons, marching upon El-Mezerib. The city was service, and His Imperial Highness formally proclaimed. The Egyptian army halted at El-Mezerib on the 3d and 4th instant, and on the 5th, was supposed to have moved on the desert road in four divisions. The force may then have amounted to about 30,000 men, but no positive information on this head has been obtained. Your Lordship is aware, that up to the 31st of December, (the date of the last despatch which you will have received from General Michell,) the latest instructions to Lieutenant-General Jochmus, as well as to the officer communding the British forces, from Lord Ponsonby, directed a continuance of offensive upcrations against the Egyptian army. Acting up to the spirit of these orders, Lieutenant-General Jochmus, on the 5th of January broke up his contonments at Sidon and at Tyre, and with a portion of the garrison of St. Jean d'Acre, mustering in all twenty hattahons of infantry, moved with his artiflery and a small force of cavalry upon Jaffa and Ramla. This induced a corresponding movement of a part of the British force, and on the 6th instant, Brigadier-General Michell and his head-quarters in the "Vesuvius" and "Hecate" steamvessels with 100 marines, and Lieutenant-Colonel Colquhomi's detaclment of Royal Artillery with their guns and stores from St. Jean d'Aere, proceeded to, and landed at Jaffa on the 7th. Lieutenant-Colonel Higgins's detachment of the Royal Artillery with his guns and stores, and a small detachment of the Royal Sappers and Miners, were directed also to embark at Beyrout, in Her Majesty's ship "Magicienne," on the 6th of January, and rejoined the Head-Quarters at Jaffa on the 11th. His Excellency the Scraskier, and Lieutenant-General Jochmus, (the latter of whom had been for some days making a reconnoissance in the neighbourhood of Hasbeya, and thence to Jerusalem.) arrived at Jaffa on the 9th On the 12th instant, Lieutenant-General Joehmus proposed a movement upon Gaza, in which the Sernakier and Rechid Pasha were induced to acquiesce. Brigadier-General Michell, and Captain Houston Stewart of Her-My yest, the was these residet had been at the British Head-Quarters from the 29th of December,) opposed and objected to the operation, from political as well as from mulitary reasons. On the evening of the 12th, Lieutenant-General Jochmus and the Seraskier proceeded to Ramla, and on the 13th, Brigadier-General Michell, with his staff-officers, joined the Turkish Head-Quarters at the above-named village. The attack upon Gaza being positively resolved upon, General Michell deemed it his duty to accompany the Turkish force, and assist the operation to the utmost of his power. In furtherance 4 A 3

of this object, Captain Houston Stewart proceeded on board her Majesty's steam-vessel "Vesuvius" on the 14th instant, and with a reinforcement of one subaltern and fifty marines from the Jaffa garrison, the " Hecate" steamer accompanying, ran down the coast for the purpose of co-operating, as events might dictate, with the land forces. The Turkish troops halted on the 13th at Ashdod, where, according to preconcerted arrangements, they were to have been joined by eight battalions from Jerusalem. under Rechid Pacha. This combined operation failed, however, as Guard Malell had foretold, Rechid Pasha, having been already two tours on his march towards Ashdod, received reports of Ibrahim Pasha's movements, which induced him to return forthwith to Jerusalem.

On the 14th, Lieutenaut-General Jochmus (the Scrashier also being stell present with the army) halted at Mejdill, three hours' march from Gaza. A copy of Lieutenant-General Jochmus's report of this operation, addressed to Sir Robert Stopford, is inclosed, (Inclosure 1.) As an allusion is made in this report to an affair with the enemy's cavalry who had advanced in some numbers upon Mejchil. I hope your Lordship will pardon me for reporting to you the very spirited conduct of Colonel Rose, who, whilst heading a charge of a party of irregular cavalry, was wounded; but I am happy to my, it has not turned out to be of a serious nature. He has in consequence been recommended by the Scraskier to the Imperial

I would also venture to mention to your Lordship, from my own personal observation, that during the pursuit (and the retreat was executed by the enemy in admirable orders, British officers were with the most advanced troops, cheering on the irregular cavalry; and that on relinquishing the pursuit, having driven the enemy us or seven miles from our comp, our advance being then considerably inferior to the Egyptians, who had retired upon their reinforcements, the British officers were on the spot ready to assist in any further attack or pursuit. Major Wilbraham was present from the commencement of the affair, and we were joined by Lieutenant-Colonel Alderson of the Royal Engineers, and by Major Robert M. Crawfod, a Mish properties Mayor States, who had for some time past been staying at our Flead-Quarters with Captain Stewart. These officers having been sent to Ascalon to ascertain whether the steam-vessels were in night, heard the firing on their return, and quickly joined the Turkish advanced troops.

On the 10th instant, the Turkish infantry and artillery returned by the sea-coast from Meddil to Juffa. General Michell reached Jaffa the same day, and the "Vexuvius" and "Hecate" steamers also returned to their anchorage, and disembarked the marines, having found it impossible to communicate with, or even to approach, the Gara coast, in consequence of the severity of the weather. On the following morning, the 17th, Lieutenant Loring, of Her Majesty's ship "Caryafort," accompamed by Hamid Bey, arrived at Jaffa, the hearers of the Convention a uded at Alexandria by Commodore Napier. A report of this is made to your Lordship in Locutenant Aldrich's letter addressed to you on the 23d instant. For further explanation of the notification here of the ratification of this Convention, I forward a letter (Inclosure 2) from Commodore Napier, addressed to General Michell. Inclosure 3 is a letter consequently transmitted to Ibrahim Pasha by Brigadier-General Michell and Captain Houston Stewart, and despatched to the Head-Quarters of the Egyptian army by Major Wilbraham. Inclosure 4 is the copy of a letter addressed to the Commandant at Gasa.

On the 20th inst. a Council of War was held, at which the absolute necessity of abstaining from all offensive measures against the Egyptian army was advocated and enforced. Inclosure 5 is a copy of Lieutenant-General Jochmus's protest at the termination of the council, and inclosure 6 is a letter also addressed to the Council by Mr. Wood. On the 2 s. 1. Charles of hear shirt little for Jerusa cm, and by perusing the inclosed letter (Inclosure 7) from him to the Scraskier, your Lordship will be made acquainted with his position in that City. The staff-officers being all variously employed, Lieutenant-Colonel Colquinous of the Royal Artiflery was requested to proceed with Captain Arbuthot to Jerusalem, on the 21st with the instructions contained in Inclosures 8 and 9; and on the 22 nd at the request of the Seraskeer another officer, Lucutenant-Colonel Arlerson R va. Engineers, proceeded to Gaza; his instructions are embered of Leasting the

I have thus endeavoured to furnish your Lordship with as complete a semmary of the occurrences which have taken place from the date of Brigadier-General Michell's last despatch to the day of his death, as my means will admit of. If I have trespassed too much upon your Lordship's time, I trust I shall be pardoned.

> I have, &c. (Signed) E. H BRIDGEMAN, Colonel commanding the British Forces in Syria

P.S .- I have omitted to acquaint your Lordship that Zacharias Pasha, the new Scrack or Paster, and the successor of Izzer Paster, arrived at Beyrout on the 19th of December, from whence, as I have already mentioned in my letter, he reached Jaffa on the 9th of January.

Commodore Napier to General Michell

Her Moyesty's Shap "Curyafort," Alexandria, January 10, 1841

THE bearer of this letter is charged by me (agreeably to the orders of Sir Robert Stopford in consequence of directions from Loro Palmerston to carry my Convention into effect) to proceed with Hamid Bey to the head-quarters of Ibrahim Pasha, and to deliver to him the order of Mehemet Ali, for the immediate evacuation of Syrin.

It a Sir R ber, Supplement directions that every lacility is to be given for the embarkation of the aick, the wounded, the women, and children, and others of the Egyptian Army at Kaiffa.

But it appears to me (if there is no objection, of which I cannot be a judge here) they may be permitted to embark at any other place, if more convenient.

The officer charged with despatches to Ibrahim Pasha will necessarily consult with him and with you on this point as well as the officer who is charged to see the evacuation carried into effect.

It is needless to observe, that as Mehemet Ali has made his submission to the Porte and is rematated in the Pashalic of Egypt, it is of the atmost importance that he should not city not be disturbed in his wire ation, but that he should be protected and assisted in every manner, so as to cause as little loss of life as possible.

No. 178

Colonel Bridgeman to Viscount Palmerston. (Received March 13.)

(No. 4.) My Lord, Bretish Head-Quarters, Jaffa, February 2, 1841.

IN my despatch No. 2, dated the 26th of January, 1841. I had the honour to lay before your Lordship a summary of events to the date of Brigadier-General Michell's death, and I now resume the subject, and shall endeavour to place your Lordship in full possession of the several occurrences which have subsequently taken place.

ta the despatch of the 23rd of January, 18-11, your Lordship was informed that, on the 17th of January, Major Wilbraham, accompanied by Lieutenant Loring, Royal Navy, Hamid Bey, and a Staff-Officer of the Seraskier Pasha's, left this place for Jerusalem, with orders to produce the series of the seraskier Pasha's, left this place for Jerusalem, with orders to produce the series of the southern extremity of the Dead Sea, turned westward to Gaza, hoping there to obtain some accurate information of Ibrahim Pasha's line of march. From thence Lieutenant Loring returned to this place on the 23rd, bringing us the news of the air as there, on the 22nd, of the advanced guard of Ibrahim Pasha's array under the command of Ahmed Pasha. Major Wilbraham on the same day again left Gaza with Hamid Bey for El-Khalil, from whence on the 25th, in company with Hamid Bey for El-Khalil, from whence on the 25th, in company with Hamid Bey, Omar Pasha the Turkish General, and Captain Arbuthnot, (with whom he had fallen in at El-Khalil,) he proceeded to the Pass of Sucra, through which it was expected Ibrahim Pasha would retire to Gaza.

In order to satisfy ourselves of the good faith of the Generals of the Egyptian army, and at the same time to afford them every possible assurance that the retreat of their army would be not only profilled, but favoured and assisted to the utmost of our power, (they having expressed a slight distrust in consequence of some movements of the Turkish troups at El-Khalil,) Captain Stewart, accompanied by Rechid Pasha, Lieutenant Luring. Royal Navy, and Colonel Rose, embarked on the 25th on board Her Majesty's steam-vessel "Hecate," and landed early on that day at Gaza. They were at the same time to urge the speedy evacuation of that place, and the retirement to the Egyptian frontiers of the troops which were daily arriving. I also instructed Colonel Rose (so soon as he should be provided with a sufficient Turkish escort, taking with him an happean other of rank to proceed on the route la which therann Pasha would most probably approach Gaza, and secure him, as far as possible, from any act of aggression on the part of the Redouin Arabs, or other irregular troops. From the tenour of Lieutenant-General Jochmus's proteste transmitted to your Lordship in my despatch No. 2, and from the letter of Mr. Woods, addressed to the Scrashier Pasha and to the President of the Council, your Lordship will alwayse that the has been a manifest disposition to harass Ibrahim Pasha's retreat.

Of the 21th of January, (the lay be ore the last Stewart processed to Gaza,) a Council was held at the Beraskier Pasha's, at which Captain Stewart and Colonel Rose were present. On leaving the Council, they were under the full impression that all intention of offensive operations against Ibrahim Pasha was abandoned, and that the Convention would be acted up to with mineerity and good faith. With the greatest surprise, therefore, Captain Stewart ascertained subsequently, in the course of the Council of the Counc

I strongly protested against the course they had adopted, by while the hope in of the British has and of the Torkish cause would so assuredly have been compromised, as being so directly at variance with the assurances which Captain Stewart and Colonel Rose had made to Ahmed Pasha, and I received the most positive declaration that no hostile movements of any nature should be made, and that every possible assistance should be given to the Egyptians. To reiterate these assurances personally to Ahmed Pasha, Rechid Pasha returned on the 28th of January to Gaza. The Seraskier Pasha and Rechid Pasha also proposed the removal of 17 battalions of infantry from Jerusalem to Rainla, of 2,000 irregular cavalry to Ashdod, and of two regiments of irregular cavalry to reinforce a small advanced post of Lancers at Mejdill T'. the removal of the 17 batterns were decusalem to Ramla as purely a defensive measure, and consequent upon the parallel movement of Ibrahim Pasha's troops upon Gaza, I did not object, nor did I to the addition of the two regiments of regular cavalry no rely suggesting that they should be stationed at Ashdod instead of Mej and as mong a completing take with Jaffa and Ramla, and further removed from the Egyptian cantonments at Gaza; but I del object and was on ged strongly to pretest, before I gained my point against the advance to Ashdod of any irregular troops. These forces are under little or no control, and would, in all predability, have taken the first opport inty of placing themselves upon the line of march of any isolated Egyptian column, and of committing the same excesses as the Belouin Arabs, from whose attacks (and they pay but little respect to either Turkish or Egyptian flag) we were doing

On the 29th of January I received from Lieutenant-Colonel Alderson, who still remained at Gaza in communication with Ahmed Pasha, the Note of which a copy is inclused, (Inclosure 1), and which he and Captain Stewart had obtained from Ahmed Pasha and the other Egyptian Generals, exchanging with them all possible assurance of good faith in the youth r of the Copyright | little are 2 is the part al affirmation of this document by the Scraskier Pasha, Lieutenant-General Jochmus, and the Most schar Effendi; and Inclosure 3 is the copy of my letter to Lieutenant-Colonel Attlerson, in which it is transmitted. Major Wilbraham and his companions ceased not, in the mean time, to prosecute their search, and were twenty-four hours in the desert without water; all their exertions were, however, fruitless, and it was not until the 31st of January, that Colonel Rose (in consequence of information obtained from some deserters of Ihrahim Pasha's column) was enabled to ascertain his exact line of march. On the morning of that day he came up with Ibrahim Pasha about twenty miles from Gaza, on the route from the southern extremity of the Dead Seas and having delivered to him a copy of Mehrmet Ale's sustructions for the evacuation of Syria, accompanied him to Gaza. Th a morning Colonel Rose and Captain Stewart returned from thence, and the former officer has placed in my hands the inclosed translated copy of Note addressed to the Seraskier Pasha by thrahim Pasha, with which the Seraskour has expressed himself as satisfied. From the reports I Gaza, amounted to about 15,000 infantry and 6,000 or 7,000 cavalry. Of to mer, 2000 men are stated to have been sent to El-Arish before the and at Gaza of Lieutenant-Colonel Alderson; subsequently, six tregular cavalry, have also retired; and Captain Stewart is decidedly of spinion, that the evacuation will be performed without any unnecessary delay, and that within a fortnight not an armed Egyptian will remain in Syria. But whilst the wind remains in its present quarter, it is impossoble either to land the biscuit for the troops, which they must carry with them on their homeward march, or to embark the women, the sick, and the wounded

Colonel Rose having had some personal communication with Ibrahim Pasha, and being enabled to afford further information, I have ventured to direct him to proceed in Her Majesty's steam-vessel "Vesuvini," to carry my despatches to Admiral Sir Robert Stopford and to Lord Pointonby, returning, so soon as he has delivered them, to the head-quarters of our force. I purpose proceeding to Gaza on the 5th instant.

The Governor has published an order, requiring all the women and children to shut themselves up on the approach of the Albanians; and the people from the country, in the greatest terror, began to remove their effects into the town.

Considering how absolutely ruinous to many poor people this removal would be, the general desorder it would create, and the bad effects it would produce throughout the country generally, where it is above all things necessary, at the present moment, to impire confidence, and give stability to the new Government, I induced the Governor, by strong remonstrances and representations of the impolicy of such a proceeding. to withdraw his order for the sequestration of the women and children, in the part and about 1 die asserting every open of perfect security.

(No. 87.) My Lord.

Paris, March 12, 1841.

I HAD an interview this morning with M Gustot. His Excellency rend to me the greater part of a despatch which he had addressed to M Bourqueney in reply to the confidential communication which your Lordship had made to the French Chargé d'Affaires, regarding a project of Convention to be signed by France, as well as by the other Great Powers

Taus despatch, in its essential points, corresponded with the language which I. on Monday last, stated to your Lordship, the French Minister had held to me on this subject. M. Guinot then read to me a accoud despatch which he had written to the Baron de Bourqueney on Tuesday last, after having received intelligence from M. Cochelet of the refusal of Mehemet Ali to accede to the conditions of the Sultan's firman, reapparinting Menemet Ah, Pasha of Egypt M de Bourqueacy is in this despatch directed to suspend the execution of the instructions previously sent to him, which were founded upon the assumption (contained in Protocols confidentially communicated to him by your Lordship) that the question between the Sultan and Mehemet Ali had been finally concluded But M Gussot said to me, that, whenever it was clearly established that the Treaty of July was a fast accompli, the French Government would send full powers to their Representatives in London, to sign a Convention. auch as had been proposed to M. de Bourquency by your Lordship. His bacellency made no observations upon the rightons conditions imposed upon Mehemet Ali by the Sultan; but he said that his despatches from Constantinople stated, that Colonel Hodges had expressed disapprobation of the evasive mode of granting hereditary succession to Mehemet Ali and that those from M. Cochelet stated that Commodore Sir Charles Namer had given his opinion that Mohemet Ali could not accept the conditions of the Sultan's firman

Therapia, February 15, 1841

THE Undersigned, &c., had yesterday the honour to receive an Official Note from the Sublime Porte dated the 13th instant, transmitted to him by his Excellency the Ottoman Minister for Foreign Affairs. together with a copy of two firmans, the one containing the conditions a mexed by the Sublime Porte to the grant made to Mehemet Ali of the 1. reditary Government of Egypt; the other containing the grant to Mehemet Ali of the Government of the Provinces of Nubia, Darfour, hordofan, and Senaar, and also a letter from the Grand Vener to Mehemet Ali, all being dated the 13th of the month.

The Undersigned immediately forwarded the afore-mentioned papers to Her Britannic Majesty's Government, to which it belongs to reply to the wishes expressed by the Sublime Porte respecting the renewed aid to be afforded to the Ottoman Government in the event of a refusal, by Mehemet Ali, to obey the orders of his Sovereign conveyed in the

The Undersigned must take notice of one paragraph in the Offi Note he had the honour to receive from the Sablime Porte, because it does not quite correctly state the circumstances to which it adverts. It states, · En outre, la Sublime Porte, ainsi qu'il est connu à votre Excellence, a agi, deputa le commencement de la Question Egyptienne, d'après l'avis et les cor seils des Quatre Augustes Cours, ses amies et alliées.

The fact is, that the firman which contains the conditions upon which His Imperial Majesty the Sultan grants the hereditary Government of Egypt to Mehemet Ali was not prepared with the advice and counsel of the Four Courts, the friends and allies of the Sultan, for that firman was prepared and perfected by the Ottoman Government without the knowledge . I the Undersigned, who is recognized by the Sublime Porte as the Representative of the British Government in this country.

His Excellency the Ottoman Minister for Foreign Affairs did notify to the Undersigned his Excellency's intention to communicate to the Undereigned a plan his Excellency had in consideration for the settlement of the Egyptian Question, but his Excellency did not make any such communication to the Undersigned. The papers mentioned in the Official Note were not given to the Dragoman of the British Embassy till after the measure had been decided, and the formal execution of it completed, and ordered to be sent to Alexandria within a few hours, that is, before the Undersigned could by any means have cognizance of them. The Undersigned, therefore, disclaims all responsibility whatever for the measures detailed in the firman containing the conditions.

The Undersigned feels a most anxious desire that the arrangement which the Sambine Porte has been pleased to make, may have the happy

Viscount Palmerston to Viscount Ponsonby

(No. 49.) My Lord,

Foreign Office, March 16, 1841

I TRANSMIT to your Excellency a copy of a Note which the Plenipotentiaries of Great Britain, Austria, Prussia, and Russia, addressed to Chekib Effends on the 13th metant, with reference to a communication made by him to the Conference on the 11th instant, of the Hatti-Sheriffs, issued by the Sultan on the 13th of February, specifying the conditions annexed by the Sultan to the grant to Mehemet Ali of the hereditary Pashalic of Egypt.

You will observe, that in that Note allusion is made to questions which may arise, as to the interpretation of parts of the Hatti-Sheriffs. and the Plenspotentiaries state, that those questions will find their solution upon reference being made to the Note, addressed by the Plempoten-tiaries to Chekib Effendi on the 30th of January.

The principal question, to which allusion is thus made by the Plempotentiaries, is that which might arms out of the working of the first Article of the Hutti-Sheriff, which spes has the conditions to be imposed upon blehemet Alt. The working of that Article angle lead to the as ppention it if the business men led to reserve to be use, to choose upon enco vacanes in the Pasha, c of Egypt any one of the discendants of Mehemet Al with it regard to any fixed ride whatever and that thus the principes of heres stary tenure would be rea level sory

Her Majesty's to iversional contained that this was by no means the intential of the Poete and that what was meant to or est his har by the cor litten absenced and is that while, on the one hand, the Sultan grants to the descendants of Mehemet Ali in the direct male line, hereditary succession in the Pashatic of Egypt, the Sultan reserves his own Sovereign rights intact, by declaring, that those descendants shall not succeed as a matter of course and of inherent right, as would be the case with the Rulers of an independent State, but shall each in turn receive his appointment from the Sultan, and by a separate act of the Sultan's

if this is a correct view of the meaning of the Article is question, there can be no difficulty on the part of the Perce in giving at himexplanation thereof as will remove all manneerstandings a litae Porte might say, that it is the intention of the Sult in that this i i tof select in shall in all cases be exercised a favour of the next male mer to the deceased Pasha, unless, by infancy or by physical incapacity, such more her should be incapable of taking charge of the administration of the presures in which case the person next in relationship to the occessed Pasha would be appointed in his stead. The Sultan might, at the same time, make it to be clearly understood, that it is his intention that Ibrahim shall succeed to Mehemet.

It'r Majesty's Government have been informed, that Mehemet Alihas made representations to the Ports upon two other points,-the amount of tribute, and the degree of military and naval rank up to which he is to be allowed to make appointments and promotions, in the forces maintained in Egypt.

The first is a question of account upon which, no doubt, an understanding will be come to between the parties. And the Four Powers purposely abstained from entering into that question, in framing the Separate Act of the Treaty of July, because they felt that they had no information which could enable them to judge what would be the proper amount for such tribute

The second question also seems to be one about which it cannot be difficult to come to an understanding. It is necessary to maintain the principle, that all the military and naval appointments and commissions emanate originally from the Sovereign power of the State, but it seems a

There is, in this respect, great diversity in the practice of different countries. In some, all appointments from the lowest to the highest are made by the direct selection and act of the Grown; in other countries the Crown invariably, and as an established rule, takes the recommendation of Generals in local command, as to appointments and promotions, up to various degrees of rank. The important thing is, that each officer, high or low, should know and understand that he is in the service of the Sovereign, and not merely in that of the Provincial Governor.

In our interview with M. Titow, the Internuncio warmly and earnestly pressed M. Titow to send back Count Medem the next day with M. The tendency of the Syrians to desert was so great, that during the march from Tafyle to Gaza, Ibrahim Pasha caused an Egyptian regiment to bivounce round the Syrian Riflemen in order to prevent their desertion. The Bedouins behaved very ill in plundering and stripping the deserters—if they had not thus checked the desertion, there is no saying to what extent it might not have gone. In one little village in the mountains near Hebron, where I was, there were alone fifty deserters, all nearly naked and starving.

There are a great many Syrians in the Egyptian cavalry I should thus, that in all, 4,000 or 5,000 Syrians must have left their country with Ibrahim Pashs. Your Lordship is awars that Captain Houston Stewart and myself did our utmost to induce the Egyptian military.

authorities, Ahmed Dorumanlı Pasha and Mahmond Bey at Gaza, to leave behind the Syrian soldiers, Mehemet Ali having given up all authority over their country, and ordered its evacuation by his son; they said that they could not possibly do so without orders. I suggested that they might at least leave a roturn of their numbers, as the different regiments left tiaza, extracted from their regimental books: this they consented to. 1 left (inan the next day in search of Ibrahim Praha, but I understand from Colonel Alderson, who is superintending the avacuation at Gaza, that the Egyptians sent him the returns of Syriana in two regiments of cavalry, amounting the one to thirty-five, and the other to thirty-aix; but neither Colonel Alderson nor myself consider these numbers correct. Your Lordship is aware of the answer given by Mohemet Ah to the application for the restoration of the Syriana to their country; which, as well as I remember, was to the following effect: "That his delivery of the Syrians serving in his army would follow on that of the Egyptians taken from him However, as I did not see the document, I do not speak with

When I came up with Ibrahim Pasha's column, there were two lines of valettes flanking it towards the Syrian side,—mounted and diamounted and dry to prevent tesertion. I rosk for several in less along the column, which was in great disorder—in fact it was quite broken up; groups of their up two and threes, some armed some not, others hardly able to work. I new two standards one without any excite, the other with a quart of two ment they must have be inged to battabous which had been broken up on account of their canualties. Ibrahim Pasha's own horses had had no barley that day; the troops had been three days without water, and had submitted chiefly on mule and donkey flesh, which sold at a high price: 200 determined cavalry might have swept away all that part of the column which I saw (I entered it at about two-thirds of its lbraham Praha did not appear pleased when I gave him Mehemet Ah's letter. He was agitated, and it took him five minutes to read it, although it only consisted of four lines. Whilst he was thus employed, his mel rater and chief groom were also endeavouring to read it over his shounder. I rude with him for about four hours, and accompanied him to Gasa; he spoke with considerable betterness of the Turks. He said. Why have you turned out the Seriakier "?" I and that the Turkish Government had, I believed, recalled him, because they were not satisfied with his conduct. He answered, "Oh! they are all alike; they smoke all his, and have people to wash their hands." I only "The present Seriakier is a very good man and soldier." "Oh yes," he replied.

as long as he is in the suddle; as soon as he sits down he will rob like the rest"—on which he laughed very much. "I am the only man," he said, "to manage the Araba and Bedouins, who never had any master before me. I could and did cut off their beads, which the Turks never will do. Lord Palmerston frum London, and Lord Ponsonby from Constantinople, will have to come here to manage Syrin." I said, that certainly they had done so much without coming to the country, that there was no knowing what they might not effect, were they setually to do so. He did not look pleased. It appeared to me that he was either affecting high spirits, or that he had been drinking too much. He drank frequently from a bottle which hung in front of his saddle, and I was informed by an Egyptian Colonel of Artillery that it was filled with claret. He talked and laughed constantly with his servants. He is now

His reception at Gaza was very curious; the people flocked from curiosity to see him, but his entry formed a singular contrast to it it of the Turkish troops into the different towns and villages which they had occupied for the first time. In the latter case, the reception was enthusiastic, the men lining the roads and saluting us with all the varieties of an history welcome, and the women crow high the house tops on I musing will their bongues that extraordinary noise which is meant to denote extreme pleasure, but with Ibrahim Pasha, there was a rock of day received district to the faces of the people, which even their bread of any could not contain the contrary to the Eastern fash on saluted hour, — not one saluted him; certainly, as an inhabitant afterwards and to me, "Not a tongue nor a heart blessed him,"

I TRANSMIT copy of one of General Joehmus's despatches to Admiral Sir Robert Stopford, that I may maure its being known to your Lordship, as it affords information essential to a correct judgment of the affairs of this country.

It is shown in the despatch, that had it not been for the perseverance of General Jochmus in taking measures against Ibrahim Pasha in spite of the opposition that was made to them, it would have been easy for Ihrahim to remain with his army in Damaseus until the arrangement " Alchemet Ali having been completed, he might have retreated with a great and rotes force to regard and that and having his army defeated and nearly destroyed, and wholly demoralized.

Had Thenhim remained at Damascus, the military question would have been undecided, and it would have been easy to amert, that victory might still have been on the side of the Pashs, had Mehemet Als thought it politic to continue the war If thramm had taken back to Egypt his large army unharmed, Mehemet Ah would possess a force that might encourage him to resist, and unght poundly make him stronger than ever. The energy of General Joch-I .. s has rendered all doubt and delusion on the subject of the military passion impossible, and has shown, that under able command the Turkish troops are more than a match for the vaunted Egyptian army and tieneral, his energy has also taken from Mehemot Ah the best means he could have to support resistance, and therefore has afforded the best ground for hoping he will submit.

All this good is due to the energy of General Jochmus. The honest prantes General Jochmus gives to those who have done good service, are prouse of his honourable and just feelings; I hope your Lordship will took with favour to those he bestows upon Mr. Wood, and which that gentleman is a a cold, by a room estre of tustrian Prossian. and Russian agents and officers, to have amply merited.

I have seen the King, the President of the Council, and the Minister for Foreign Affairs, since they learnt that the draft of Convention between Grent Britain, Austria, France, Prussia, and Russia, on the one part, and the Sublime Porte on the other, had been provisionally agreed to by the respective Plenipotentiaries of these Powers. The King and his Ministers expressed to me the greatest satisfaction at the prospect thus afforded of an end being speedily put to that state of agitation regarding the affairs of the East, which had during some years disquested the world and placed in jeopardy the peace of Europe

His Majosty said, that anxious as he had always been for the preservation of peace, he could not but rejoice at France having resumed her place is the Councils of the Great Powers of Enrope, that he was most desirous hat the cordial understanding which had subsisted between the French and British Governments should be re-established, and trusted nothing would ever occur to interrupt the friendship between the two Countries.

M Guizot read to me this morning the despatch he had received from Baron de Bourquency, containing a report of the negotiations which had taken place in London relative to the Convention. M. de Bourquency practile to the restrict of the Representatives of Yustria and of Practia, and renders full justice to the scalaus exertions of your Lordship to overcome the reluctance felt by Baron Brunnow to put his initials to the draft of the Convention. As by the inclosed report of Lieutenant-Colonel Alderson, what has to rear a retraction of the same websity to little sager the reseation of hostilities, to see the evacuation duly carried into effect,it appears that 34,000 men have either marched or embarked, the force with which Ibrahim Pasha reached that place must have amounted to 30,000 men, the original garrison having consisted of about 4,000. A column also under Solyman Pasha, which consisted of 3,000 or 4,000 men. marched to Egypt by the Desert road. The force, therefore, with which Herahim Pasha marched from Damaseus, could not have been less than 40,000 men, as his losses in the Desert are known to have been very severe. Therapia, March 6, 1841

I INCLOSE a report from Mr. Wood on the conduct of Ibrahim Pasha, and his refusal to deliver up the Syrian conser pts and the Turkish marines; and I also send the correspondence of Mehemed Rechid Pasha with Mr. Wood on that subject.

Your Lordship will see the management of affairs in Syria, which has led to the supply of force to Mehemet Ali, and which has, no doubt, mainly contributed to induce him to reject the conditions offered him by the Sublime Porte.

(No. 40.) My Lord, Head-Quarters, Jaffa, February 14, 1841.

IN inclosing a copy of Rechid Pasha's letter from Gaza, relative to the progressive evacuation of that place by the Egyptians, I have the honour to state, that from later news the total amount of troops still there does not exceed 4,000 in all, intended to be embarked the moment a sufficient number of vessels can be procured for that purpose. There are already thirteen ships of war at Gaza, and others are expected daily with a steamer for the conveyance of Ibrahim Pasha to Egypt.

I had the honour to transmit to your Lordship, in my letter of the 2nd instant, a copy of a written promise signed by the Seriskier Pasha, General Jochmus, and the Moustechar Effendi, pledging themselves to conform to the 5-mal declaration given to the Fgy times by Cuptain Stewart, of Her Majesty's navy, and Colonel Alderson, that no further hostilities should be attempted against them by the Turkish army, provided that the total evacuation was effected within seven days from the day of its date, vm, the 30th of January

Not only has thus condition not been fulfilled up to the present date (as I enticipated it would not unless it suited the convenience of Ibrahim Pasha), but in recover he has it sellent ever to the Net se conscripts and the Turkish sailors and marines of the Turkish fleet that had been embodied in the Syrio-Egyptian army. Rechid Pasha wrote to me on the sul ject from Gaza and I salm tred his letter to the Council but as the error had been already committed of allowing the Egyptians to assemble at that place with their arms, contrary to the secret instructions of the Subline Porte, and other engagements had been entered into both in Syria and in Egypt, by those who assumed an authority, I believe, they never possessed, the Council evinced no disposition to protest energetically against all the acts of the enemy that were at variance, or in dire t opposite a with the stip flations igneed to at Alexandria between Maxloum Bey and Mehemet Ah, on the faithful execution of which depended solely the suspension of hostilities. The Syrian conscripts, therefore, and the Turkish sailors and marines, have been compelled to accompany the troops to Egypt.

These embarrassing questions might have been obviated at the commencement, had the Council followed the suggestion of taking possession of the pass of Beshairi, with 1,000 or 2,000 cavalry, which would have obliged Ibrahim Pasha to have continued his retreat to Egypt through the desert, or, if too weak to have made that attempt, to conform to our conditions previous to being allowed to proceed to

All the deserters declare that he could not have remained in the desert two days more, and that the men were too disheartened and too weak for want of nourishment to have endeavoured to force the aforesaid p. ss. By this simple manœuvre, without the renewal of hostilities, or infringing in any manuer the atipulations,-for the road through the desert would have been left open,-Ibrahim Pasha would have been compelled to accede to all our demands.

The total loss of Ibrahum Pasha is reported to amount to 63,500 men. 619 guns, and 148 field pieces: but as I am aware that very full reports will a to an stee to your Lords to by Gereral Jocami s, I will not presume to enter on a subject on which I have not before me the requisite data to form an opinion

Mon cher Mr. Wood,

Gaza, to 16 Zilhadyi, 1256.

QUE faites-vous à Jaffa? Rien à ce que je crois, tandis que nous travaillons toujours ici à faire évacuer la Syrie et nous avançons beaucoup dans notre œuvre, car avant hier est parti Kourchid Pacha avec les troupes arrégulières tant à pied qu'à cheval. Hier encore sont partis quelques chefe des troupes errégulières. Aujourd'hui est parti Ménikle Ahmed Pacha avec trois régimens de cavalerie de la garde, quatre régimens d'infanterie de ligne, enfin trois régimens d'infanterie de la garde; en tout de cinq à sept mille hommes. Ces régimens de ligne doivent être embarqués : on attend les bâtimens. Dans trois ou quatre jours d'an jespère vous envoyer la rume des nouvelles,-l'entière évacuation de la Syrie,-et c'est mo: qui aura l'honneur de vous donner cette nouvelle l'as fait tarer de nombreux coups de canon des batteries de terre et des l'attimens, et pavoiser les vaisseaux ; réjouissances qui ont rempli de contentement et de jou le cœur des sujets de la Sublime Porte, qui ont adreusé des prières au Très Haut pour la conservation des jours et la prospér té de Sa Majesté Impériale Veu le le Suprême Ordonnateur de l'univers faire en sorte que noire très Auguste, très Grand, et très Puissant Padichah et Maître répande à jamais ses faveurs sur les hommes, et brille dans le royaume de la justice et de l'équité.

J'entends qu'on yout renvoyer les troupes de l'Emir Bechir; on ne fera pas mal, mais il faut les payer, car vous agres fort bien, mon cher Wood, que pas d'argent, pas de Suèsse, et en variant le proverbe, pas d'argent, pas de Druses, et ou pourra en avoir besoin quelquefous Je serats bien aise de savoir un peu de nouvelles de Jaffa

J'Al eu l'honneur de recevoir la lettre de Votre Alteme, par laquelle j'al appris que mon empressement à prouver par des faits mon devouement et ma soumesion à celui qui est l'ombre de Dieu sur la terre, lui nyant été fort agréable, il a daugné me réintegrer dans le Gouvernem et de l'Egypte avec béré lité et que l'em à languent que conferme quelques conditions attachees à cette hérédité, et qui est orné en haut d'un resent Impérial, m'était envoyé par son Excellence Said Muhib Effendi, un des Principaux Employés de la Sublime Porte, et Ministre de la Justice Conformément à mon devoir de aujet dévoué, j'ai ordonné la formation d'un cortège d'honneur, que j'ai envoyé à la rencontre de son Excellence .

Il est clair et évident que quelques efforts que nous fassions, mes fils, mes arrière-neveux, et moi, jusqu'à notre extinction, pour remplir les devoirs de notre dévoucment, nous ne pourrous jamais témoigner comme il faut notre reconnaissance pour ces faveurs insignes. Copendant j'ai la confiance que Sa Hautease, qui est pleine de généromité et de elémence mue par son caractère magnanime, ne croira pas qu'il soit digne d'elle, que lorsque le Créateur du monde dispense les hommes de conditions dures, les Padichahe qui sont doués des qualités divines, attachent à leurs bienfaits et à leurs favours des conditions mexécutables. Je prends done la liberté d'exponer ici mes motifs pour ne pas accepter certaines conditions.

Et en premier lieu, pour ce qui regarde l'hérédité, il est dit qu'elle appartient ra à ma postéent male, et que le trouvernement de l'Egypte j'ai la conviction qu'en effet ce qu'il y a de mieux, c'ent que l'hérédité appartienne à la ligne mesculine. Main c'est au temp et à l'expérience seuls à faire voir lequel des enfans est le meilleur et le plus digne aujet. et ce point, c'est la famille qui se tronvera ici et les principaux employés de la famille qui le sauront. Il est donc clair que s'il est établi comme condition que l'hérédité passera de l'ainé à l'ainé, dans la ligne masculine, la familie existante et ses principaux employés feront la demande que l'amé soit nommé, et Sa Hautesse daignera accueillir leur demande, et de cette manière le bon ordre et la tranquillité seront manitenus. Il est évalent, d'aillours, que mue par des sentimens de clémence. Sa Hautesse veut le maintien du repos et de la tranquillité, et c'est pour cela que je prie que la queste a de l'héreste sont aux gée careme il a été d'i pl.

Vient ensuite l'exécution enmplète en Egypte des dispositions du Hatts Schörif de Gulhane, des lois de la Sublime Porte établien et à établir, et de tous les traités faits ou à faire avec les Poussaires nones.

To be experienced as the selection of the factor of the contraction plus grande partie des conséquences qui en découlent, sont depuis pl vingt ans mu en pratique ici. Seulement quelques unes do ces consó quences n'étant pas en harmonie avec les dispositions des pays et la nature des choses, sont nécessaurement restées sans effet. Malgré cel cependant, il ne se fait rien, grace à Dieu, sous les auspices de Sa Hautesse, qui ne soit conforme à l'equité et à la modération.

Venons maintenant à mes procédés envers les Puissances ames Comprocédés ont, de tout teme, été basés sur leurs traités avec la Subhirm Perte de la passar de la passar pas el ron parte no e, des tra tes avec elles. Quant au mode de perception, je dis ; on n'ignore pas que les impôts arbitraires et les droits fixés sont dans chaque pays deux choses distinctes; et que extre distinction provient de ce qu'il faut établir les impôts suivant l'état de la population et la position des pays, et d'après l'état des affaires et des opérations des individus. #### Viscount Palmerston to Lord Reducale

My Lord, Foreign Office, April 2, 1841

HER Majesty's Government have this morning received from Lord Poissonby the despatch of which I include a copy, transmitting a translation of the fetter addressed by Mehemet Ali to the Grand Vizze is reply to the firmans sont to Mehemet Ali announcing his restoration to the Pashalic of Egypt, with the additional privilege of bereditary succession for his descendants, and stating the conditions attached by the Sultan to those grants.

Her Majesty's Government regret to find the letter of Mehemet Ah so little in accordance with that inconditional submission which he had in the first instance announced; for, in fact, that letter, (if the true means of it is extracted from the my axis and make her parameters to the product of the conditions, including several of those which the Four Powers have considered independable

For, first, with regard to the manner in which the hereditary succession is to be granted to his descendants, Mehemet Ali implies that it is to be the Pasha for the time being, who is to choose his own successor, a principle directly at variance with that laid down in the Collectic Note of the 30th of January, and in the Note of the 13th of March.

It has always been the clear intention of the Four Powers, it is sing the Sultan to grant hereditary succession to Mehemet's family that this succession should in each case be an exercise of the Sovereight and of the Sultan; and the condition specially insisted upon by the V starrar Government, that no descendant of Mehemet Ali should become legally Pasha of Egypt, till be had received his investiture at Constanticople from the hands of the Sultan, was evidently intended to maintain that principle; and to reserve to the Sultan the power of rejecting any unfit person, by withholding from him the requisite investiture.

Therefore this demand of Meliemet Ali, that the members of his family, and the chief officers employed in Egypt, shall, on each vacable choose that one of his descendants whom they may think the heat and most worthy, will probably have been rejected by the Porto as most sistent with the advice and opinion of the Four Powers.

It is to be hoped, however, that the Sultan will have given a fair and reasonable explanation of that part of his firman which relates to this point, and will have declared that it is his intention, on every vacancy, to choose that one of Mehemet Ali's descendants, who, according to the European principle of primogeniture, would be the next in order of succession, unless such candidate should be disqualified by nonage or by physical disability, and that in such case the next in order should be appointed instead of him.

It is for the interest of all parties that such an arrangement should be made, because unless a deciding power be reserved to the Sa ian, evolution at sits and struggles of conflicting commants for the Pashane, are certain to arise; and such disputes would, in the first place, disturb the transpullisty of Egypt and in the next place, lead to the interference of the order of arises and posselly to the removal of Muhamet

Met met Ali then goes on to say, that he declines carrying into execution in Egypt the Hatti Speriff of the hand but it is to be remembered that this Hatti Speriff has a ready been preclaimed in Egypt I van officer sent thisher for took purpose he it e Porte, and as it's flutteness part of the laws of the France, its street execution in Fig. 1 a few reaches he it's bleet as Note of the 30th of January, 1841, to be considered by the Four Powers as "induspensable."

The next passage in Mehemet's letter relates to the Treaties contion. If the Salten with Foreign flowers and the passage though ambigue is a worred would seem to amply that Mehemet An acquiesces in the application of all those Treaties to Egypt; if it were not that in the concluding part of his letter, where he sums up the conditions which he means to accept, he makes no mention of this one. But, nevertheless, the individual of the solution of the solution of January, to

The letter then goes on to mention the general laws of the Turkish have a divides them into two classes,—defined Matters, the second

With regard to the first class, Mehemet Ali says, that for some years past a Midstary Code has been in force in Fig. 1 which as form tell to Midstary Code at First e, and test as westers that this Code should continue in force. It must be owned that this request seems reasonable, and in all probability the Porte could not do better than to adopt and apply to the rest of the Sultan's army, the Military Code which has been established by Mehemet Ali for the troops in Egypt.

But Mehemet Ali also requests, that all his administrative laws may a premain in force; and this exposit is incompatible with the application of the whole of the Turkish laws to Egypt; and, moreover, the probability is, that the real object of this request is that Mehemet 1, may the representation of the probability of the force of the request is that Mehemet 1, may refer to out the force of the addition, and the mature those perfectly and macry upon the people of Egypt, and has succeeded in a plying all the wealth and resources of the country to the processes of the country to the processes.

It is likely that the Sultan will refuse to comply with this request as coursely incompatible with the unanimous opinion and advice of the Four-Powers

It is scarcely necessary to remark upon the fallacy of the argument in regard to the scent which Michemet Al femals again the fact that many construct, which now are provinces of some powerful State, had laws and institutions of their own, before they were by conquest, or in consequent of marriages, or by other means, incorporated in the States to which they now belong, and have retained their ancient laws and institutions for there can be no real analogy between the ancient laws of such provinces, and the arbitrary regulations which Mehemet Ali has established in Egypt during the last twenty years, without any rightful authority to do so.

With regard to imposts and taxes, Mehemet Ali declines to confine himself to collecting such as are legal and are established by the laws of the Empire, and he demands that he may continue to be allowed to collect extraordinary and arbitrary taxes from the people of Egypt. This demand, of course, the Soltan will at ouce and peremptority reject; for there can be no just reason why the same system of taxation should not be anothed to the African as to the Assatic and European provinces of the Turkish Empire; and the Collective Note and the Trenty of July declare, that no taxes shall be levied in Egypt but three which are legally estahished; that is to say established by the laws of the Empire.

With regard to the amount of the tribute to be paid to the Porte, Mehemet Ali states, that it is impossible for him to pay as much as one-fourth of the gross revenue of Egypt; and he urges as an argument in proof of that statement, that even powerful Governments do not draw from many portions of their territories so much as a fourth part of the gross revenue.

But this assertion is not home out by any fact, because most Governments do draw from each of their provinces the whole of the revenue collected in that province: and they then pay out of the general treasury the charge of the civil and multary establishments of the whole State; and it is not easy to say what portion of those aggregate expenses belong to each separate province.

Operfourth of the gross revenue of Egypt may or may not be more that I made it to got a tribute of the Selfactiff, and the calculation made by M. Laurin is at all near the truth, that amount would not be too much, because M. Laurin entimater the gross revenue of Egypt, after all the laws and treating of the Empire shall have been carried into execution in Egypt, at 400,000 purses; and he estimates the expense of the civil with made and catablatic at a nt 100 (80) purses; to that if Mehemet Ali were to pay another 100,000 purses, is that if Mehemet Ali were to pay another 100,000 purses, is a subject to the civil of the charge of all his establishments. Now even if the charge of the establishments of Egypt were twice as great as M. Laurin estimates them to be, still this arrangement would leave Mehemet Ali 100,000 purses, or half a million sterling for his own personal expenses; and surely such an arrangement cannot be considered as hard or unjust towards him.

But the man approach a Malamed Alians for a reduction of the amount of tribute, is not admissible. He for it is request upon an approach of the proof of the proof of the state of the stat

I ven if the Sultan shall, upon any other grounds, after his ari migement about the tribute, it is manifest that he cannot be expected to cooption in compliance with the particular reasons stated by Mehemet Ah

B to two tent with asking for a diminution of tribute, Mehemel Ah announces his intention of not paying any tribute at all. For not-withstanding the Article in the Treaty which states, that he is not to make any deduction from the arrears of his tribute, on account of the expenses which he has mearred in maintaining the office to the the Turkish fleet, while in the harbour of Alexandria of the data put into the Treaty, expressly at the suggestion of the Vistrian Pinipiter and Mahami Alexandria to the suggestion of the Vistrian Pinipiter and Mahami Alexandria to the suggestion of the Vistrian Pinipiter and Mahami Alexandria to the suggestion of the Vistrian Pinipiter and Pinip

After stating what conditions he declines, he proceeds to specify those which he accepts, and they are the following:--

First. That in time of peace (by which, it is probable, he means, when he shall be at peace with the Sultan), the troops to be kept up in Egypt shall not exceed 18,000 men. Thus, as far as it goes, is satisfactory; for, although he will probably not observe the restriction, yet the violation of it would set the Sultan free with regard to his Pasha.

Secondly That no new ships of war should be built in Egypt, without the previous consent of the Sultan. This is also a condition which will become in the future important, although it is probable that Mehemet Ali has at present as many ships as he can be able to man.

Thirdly. That the coin in Egypt shall be the same as that in Constantinople. It is believed, that the Turkish coin at present is more debased than the Egyptian, and that Mehemet Ali would be no loser by calling in the cola of Egypt, and reasoning the same nominal amount in Turkish currency.

Fourthly. Mehemet engages to give up his African slave hunts. If this engagement shall be faithfully performed, it will certainly be a great advantage gamed for the interests of humanity

Fifthly. That the uniforms and flags, military and naval, in Egypt shall be assumilated to those of the rest of the Empire; with the reservation, however, that the change of uniform thall be introduced gradually, which of course means not at all.

flut this reservation might well be agreed to by the Sultan; for if Her Majesty's Government Place been rightly informed the Sultan would do more wisely by giving to the rest of his army and days the dress of the army and navy of Egypt, than by giving to the army and navy of Egypt the dress of the rest of his naval and military forces, have already of served, that in this connection of the cond bons which he professes to accept, Mehemet Ali omits all mention of the conon that the Treaties concluded by the Sultan shall be carried into ethert in Egypt.

The Austrian Government will see from the foregoing summary of Mehemet Ali's letter to the Grand Visier, that Mehemet Ali declines accepting several of the most important of those stipulations which the Four Powers have either advised the Sultan to impose, or have declared to be in their opinion indispensable.

Upon the receipt of that letter this morning, I requested the Representatives of Austria, Prussia, and Russia, to come to me this afternoon, that we might read the letter and consider its contents, and accordingly those Plempotentiaries came to me at four o'clock.

We all agreed, however, that, in the present state of the matter, there is nothing that could be necessary for us to do. We all felt that the Porte will probably have answered the letter of Mehemet Ali in confarmity with the tenor of our Collective Note of the 30th of January to Cheksh Effends; and that, at all events, no step on our part could be experient unless some communication on this subject should be made to us by the Porte.

My Lord. St. Petersburgh, March 23, 1841

I HAVE received by post your Lordship's despatch, No. 35, contain-mg the Protocol signed at London on the 5th instant.

Count Nesselrode has been kind enough to inform me of further proceedings of the Conference that have been reported to him, and of the intest intelligence from Constantinople; viz., the firmans sent by the Dan to Alexandria, and the notes by which these documents were comis a cutoff of a psof the All of Powers, and to tan stepresentatives of the other Governments at Constantinople; and the reply addressed by Lord Ponsonby to the Porte

Count Nesselrode tells me that he has given no new instructions to M Titow, but that he has repeated those he originally gave; namely, to be guided by the Treaty of July, and the proceedings of the Conference in London. His Excellency says, Baron Brunnow, who was in the entire confidence of the Emperor, was sent to that Conference expressly to avoid the confusion that might arise by giving caste trous to two different Ministers acting apart, and under different circumstances. I believe, however, that the Imperial Government are not well pleased with Mr. Titow's conduct; but Count Nesselrode, who is connected with, and likes M. Titow, has avoided giving me any opinion upon it. Viscount Ponsonby's Note appears to Count Nesselrode to be very ably written, as it removes from him all responsibility, without expressing any opinion whatever; so much so intered said Count Yesternle lat une is ut a was to guess warther Lord Ponsonby disapproves of the firmans as being too favourable or too unfavourable to the Pasha.

As to the supposed endeavours of M Titow to deprive Rechid Pasha of his office and power, your Lordship will have seen a letter which that Minister wrote to Baron Brunnow, evincing a strong desire that Rochid

My Lord, M. TITOW has communicated to me instructions be received from Count Nesselrude on the subject of Syria, and which have been made known a year to refer and a great fit. M. This is any ass to engage the Ottoman Government to take immediate measures to give estisfaction to the Syrians, but agrees with me in the propriety of our having correct information respecting the old and present state of things in Syria, and he is therefore content that any arrangements to be now made by the Sublime Porte, shall be only temporary and subject to revision. M. Titow also agrees with me that it is particularly accessary the Porte should fasthfully perform the promises Rechid Pasha authorized Mr. Word in such to the Symans, and to therefore thinks it right that Mr Wood should be called here to give information on that point, as well as to describe the wishes, wants, and rights of the Syrians, and afford all the notices he can of the best means for combining the measures useful and downable to the people, with the security of the rights and power of the Ottoman Government.

Therapia, March 17, 1811 My Lord,

YESTERDAY I had the bosour of conferring with my Colleagues of Austria, Prussia, and Russia, upon the subject of the conduct to be pursued in consequence of the late proceedings of Mehemet Air

We had under our cognutance the Official Note from the Sublume Porte, of which I raclose a copy. The subject was long debated and carefully examined by us, and it was determined that each of us should reply to the above-mentioned Official Note in the manner he considered most à propos. The Internuncio seemed to think that he ought to advise the Sublime Ports to make a change in the mode fixed by the Sultan's firman for the regulation of the succession of the family of Mehemet Ali to the hereditary Government of Egypt. It was objected, that by so doing, the Sublime Porte would enter into negotiation with Mehemet Ah; that the submission of Mehemet Alt in the basis upon which all has been rested; that it is difficult, if not impossible, to consider his last act otherwise than as a denial of autimission, that to negotiate with him is to disregard the basss of all our arts, as it has been prescribed by our Courts, and that the alteration proposed to be made by the Internuncio would be negotiation, and negotiation would pro tanto defeat the assertion of Savereignty made by the firman, and be also in opposition to the declaration made by the Conference at London, in its Note addressed to Chekib Effendi dated 30th of January. The Count Königsmarck did not state what course he should recom-

M. Titow said, he should noswer, that he would report to his Govern-

Allies for advice

I have to state to your Lordship that the Internuncia acquainted as whate and on a fater teller be teld perfelling that the Conference at London was dissolved, and that, if not already separated, it would cortainly be so immediately. This intelligence necessarily influenced our conduct, because it would have been useless for the Porte to apply to the Conference after its extinction, and wrong on our part to advise it.

There was question as to the continued stay of the Ottoman Envoy at Alexandria if the Porte should decide for applying to its Allies for advice before it took any steps. M. Titow thought that to recall him might have the appearance of a manifestation of hostility. I concurred will him, and I suggested that means might be taken to put the Envis. privately in mind that his instructions directed him to leave Alexandria after the lapse of a specified period of time, and that he would do well to observe these. Thus, I think, cannot be an act subject to the aiterpretation that might be given to an order to him to leave Alexandria, usued pro re

SAMEDI, le septième jour de mon départ de Constantinople, vers les to the rest Performs the tire stateties bearging under in port d Alexandrie, où le paquebot jeta l'ancre.

Zéki Effendi vint me saluer et me complimenter sur mon arrivée, au nom du Gouverneur d'Egypte, Son Altesse Méhémet Ali Pacha.

Nous nous préparoins à aller à terre ensemble, lorsqu'une autre personne est venue de la part de Son Altesse pour demander si le firman rescond les , torre lu ici ou à Carre. Je répondis que le firman des ; t e re fir l' le re it que puis au Caire, et qu'ensuite il fallait qu'il fut porté à la connamance du public. En consequence de ma réponse Zéki Effeuch me dit d'attendre une ou deux heures, afin que l'on préparat la troupe et la musique; et il nous quitta pour retourner à terre, en me dinnit qu'il alfait revenir pour m'informer de ce qu'il y avast à faire.

Vers les cinq heures, Zékt Effendi revint avec la felouque de Son Altesse; il me dit que les troupes et la munique étaient prêtes, que Son-Altesse m'attendait, et que nous pouvions partir. Je lui demandais si le firman allait être lu. Il répondit non, il faut que Son Altesse le voye d'abord. J'allais donc à terre dans la felouque de Son Altesse, accompagné de mon adjumt Shéfiq Bey. Lorsque je débarquais à l'échel e les hattemens que con Alterse possède sous les auspices du Sultan, et qui se trouvaient dans le port, furent pavoués : l'on tira des coups de canon en suprie de joie et de reconstrussance et une compos de troupes de dont les officiers étaient en grande tenue, vint, musique en tête, a file rencontre.

Le Pacha répliqua: "Que Dieu conserve notre Padichah et bienfaiteur! je suis l'esclave du Sultan. Je ne saurais lui témoigner asses de reconnaissance pour la faveur dont je viens d'être l'objet, et il est de mon devoir d'exécuter promptement tous ses ordres mais comme la lecture en public de ce firman, dans ce moment-ci, présente quelques inconvéniens, nous en parlerons plus tard, et nous verrons en qu'il y aura à faire." Je lui dis alors que les conditions dont il s'agit out été établies avec le concours des Hautes Cours Alhées, que la volonté de Sa Hauteuse à cet égard est positive, et que l'hérédité tient à ces conditions. Mais comme Son Alterse avait dit que nous verrons tout cela après, Sami Bey, qui était aussi présent, prenant la parole "L'Effendi," dit il, "est fatigué du voyage; que Votre Alteuse lui permette d'alter reposer." A ces mots, la séance fut levée, et je me rendis à la maison de Sami Bey, qui m'avait été destinée.

Lundi je me rendis de nouveau auprès du Pacha. "Comment vous portez-yous, mon fils?" demanda Son Altesse; " Etes-yous bien? Avez-yous reposé?" A ces questions je répundis : " Je sum à mon ause, parceque, grace à Dieu, les démèlés et les différends qui ont pendant quelque tems trainé en longueur, venant de comer sous les auspices de Sa Majeste Impériale, il n'y a plus aucuno seismon, aucuno division. Lorsque je parlas au Pacha de l'envoi au trésor impérial du quart des revenus de l'Egypte ainsi que cela est expressément dit dans le firman sur l'hérédité. #### Viscount Palmerston to Viscount Ponsonby

(No. 77 ) My Lord,

Foreign Office, April 10, 1841

March, inclosing copy of an Official Note addressed to you by Rechid Pasha on the previous day, requesting to be made acquainted with your Excellency's opinion as to the course to be pursued by the Porte, with reference to the answer given by Mchemet Ali to the Grand Vizier, respecting the firmans of the 13th of February, and containing an account of a discussion between your colleagues and yourself upon that

I have to state to your Excellency in reply, that my former despatches and the Collective Notes of the Conference appear to me to afford sufficient elements to guide your Excellency in the advice which, either jointly with your Colleagues, or separately, if they should not be prepared to take any steps in the matter, your Excellency should give to the Ports. It is extremely important that the matters in dispute between the Sultan and Mehemet Ali should be settled as soon as possible, and it is the opinion of Her Majesty's Government that the objection stated by your Excellency in your despatch No. 101, to any communication being made by the Sultan to Mehemet Ali, because such communication would have the appearance of negotiation, ought not to weigh against the extreme argency of coming to a final settlement; and it is obvious, that no such final settlement can be come to without such direct communication.

On some of the points of difference between the two parties, Mehemet Ali has reason on his side; on others Mehemet Ali is clearly and decidedly in the wrong. The Sultan ought, therefore, without delay to modify such parts of his firmans as are open to reasonable objections, and he should explain why the other parts cannot be altered without a departure from the terms of the Treaty of July, and from the opinions and advice of the Four Powers, and your Excellency should orge the Porte to dealers without loss of time.

It is very possible that the report announced by the Internuncio to his colleagues, that the Conference had separated, and that the Alliance was less lived, may have encouraged Mehemet Ali to make the construction objections contained in his letter to the Grand Vitter, of which are py was inclosed in your despatch No. 89 of the 9th of March; but Mehemet Ali will since that time have learned that the Conference has not separated, and that the Alliance has not been dissolved; but that, on the contrary, the Four Powers remain steady to their purpose, and true to their engagements; and he will, therefore, probably be disposed again to revert to that state of submission to the Sultan, which he had at first professed, and of which he had given proof by the surrender of the Turkish Reet; but from which he was probably induced afterwards to swerve by the report, no doubt sent to him from Paris, that the Conference was about to separate

A proposal to that effect was indeed made, and strongly urged by the Presupotentiaries of Austria and Prossia at London, by orders of their Governments, and apparently in compliance with wishes privately expressed to those Governments by the Government of France, with a view to render it more easy for the French Government to enter ate a fresh Convention with the Four Powers and with Turkey But this proposal was positively and firmly rejected by Her Majesty's Government, on account of the very objection which subsequent events have shown to be well-founded; namely, that differences were likely to areas between Mehemet Ah and the Sultan as to the practical acceptance, by the former, of the conditions which the Four Powers had recommended the Sultan to attach to the grant of hereditary tenure, and that if Mchemet Ali were to find that the Four Powers had abandoned the Sultan at the eleventh hour, and before they had seen him fully through the difficulties out of which they had engaged themselves by Treaty to help him; Mehemet Ali would thereby be encouraged to retract his submission, and to start objections to those conditions, relying upon the infirmity of purpose which would thus have been shown by the Four Powers; and beauting, as in such case he would justly have been entitled to do, that the Four Powers, after having expelled his troops from Syrin, notwith-standing the inspicasore of France, had at last alreak from further encountering that displeasure, and had, in deference to the will of France, abandoness the enforcement of the count tions which they had themselves inserted in the Treaty, and which in their subsequent Notes they had declared to be indispensable.

I hope I have been right in bringing this question to an end. The Government was very anxious to remain in possession of Syria till after Mehemet Ali was officially informed by the Porte of his being reinstated in the Government of Egypt, and his hereditary title confirmed and guaranteed by the Allied Powers, but I would not consent to a suspension of hostilities, until orders were given for the immediate evacuation of Syria. Sir.

Her Majesty's Ship " Powerful," Malto, March 29, 1841.

I HAVE to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 8th of February, and in reply beg to observe, that Captain Stewart and the British officers gave a very different account of the state of the Egyptian army to what you do, and also of the facilities given to Ibrahim Panha to evacuate Syria by the Turkish authorities

In Captain Stewart's letter to you dated the 12th of January, he distinctly says that you avowed your intention, in the presence of General Michell, to annihilate Ibrahim's army, and if possible prevent a single Egyptian getting back to his country, and in fact you did advance on Gaza, in face of a protest from General Michell and Captain Stewart, and then retired, which movement was also protested against by General Michell.

In your letter to the Seraskier of the 21st of January you inform him that Deponds magazines had been destroyed at ——, that his army was cut in two, and that 150 guns are ineritably in your possession; and that in masses once of other, and secret orders decided at a Council, Ibrahim was given the choice of two conditions. Mr. Wood also plainly kins, that in obsciouse to secret orders from the Ports of he is weak if ese conditions are to be imposed upon him by went as the ray be given any opinion at all I am at a loss to guess. He is vice-Consul at Beyrout. There is nothing either in the Convention or in Sir Robert Stopford's orders authorizing the imposition of such conditions. Had Ibrahim Posta here permitted to retire position of such conditions. Had Ibrahim of the Allies, the minery and loss of life both to the Syrians and Egyptians would have been spared; and I am norry to be obliged to observe, that the Turkinh authorities appear to me to have destroyed his army.

Rushed Pasks as knewledges to Capta a "stewart that he had sent orders to you to demand his guns, and in case of refusal to attack him; but after seeing the efficient state of the Egyptian army, particularly the cavalry, he sent another Courier to contradict the orders, who fortunately overtook the first; I say fortunately, because, from all I have heard from the British officers who were there, had the Egyptian army been attacked, so far from dispersing at the sound of a few drums, they were in a condition, supported by their numerous cavalry, to have annihilated the Turkish army. But even had the contrary been the case, I cannot understand that destroying the Sultan's subjects, whether Turkish or Egyptian, would tend to strengthen the Turkish Empire: fortunately for Turkey, as will be seen ere long, notwithstanding the impediments thrown in the way of Ibrahim's retreat, it was effected with good judgment, and the 150 guns, which were reported to have fallen into the hands of the Turks, arrived safe at Cairo.

J Backhouse, Beq , to Sir John Barrow.

Sir. Foreign Office, April 17, 1841

I HAVE laid before Viscount Palmerston your letter of the 18th of April, inclosing a copy of a despatch from Admirat Sir Robert Stopford, with a copy of a letter written by Commodore Sir Charles Napier to Grand Jochmus, containing observations upon the proceedings of the Tarked Country lets in Seria while the oraculation of that country by the Egyptian forces was in progress. I am directed by Viscount Palmeraton to state to you, with reference to this letter, and for the information of the Lords Commissioners of the Admirally, that one of the main objects of the Convention of 15th of July was to reduce the military power of Mehemet Ali within such bounds as to render him obedient, in his capacity of subject, towards the Sultan, and that it was certainly desirable towards the attanment of that obj. that the Egyptian army should not only be compelled to evacuate Syrin but shall also be reduced a numbers are before a new firefer t would have been very advantageous if a larger portion of the troops under the non-Paska had been made to be a fact of been white of come over to the Sultan, before thrahim Pasha retreated into Egypt; and it would also have been desirable that a larger portion of the Egyptian artillery should have been taken by the Turkish troops. But if, as has been stated, any further operations of General Jochmus for such purposes would have been inconsistent with pledges given and engagements taken towards Mehemet Alı by British officers, whether authorized or not to give such pledges, or to take such engagements, of course it was proper that every effort abould be made by the British officers concerned, to prevers anything from being done which could be at variance with such pledges and engagements.

Sir, Foreign Office, April 17, 1841.

I HAVE laid before Viscount Palmerston your letter of the 13th of April, inclosing a copy of a despatch from Admiral Sir Robert Stopford, with copies of a correspondence which he has had with Commodore Sir Charles Napier, with respect to the Articles of Agreement concluded by the latter Officer with the Egyptian Authorities on the 27th of November; and I am directed by his Lordship to state to you, for the information of the Lords Commissioners of the Admirally that in the qualfied approval which his letter to their Lordships of the 14th of December contained of the steps taken by Sir Charles Napier to procure the evacuation of Syria by the Egyptian troops, he of course did not mean to say anything which is child in the way or the other the question of naval discipline, upon which it belongs to their Lordships alone to decide.

YOUR Lordship has received copy of Mehemet Ali's letter to the Grand Vizier, and been informed of the conduct I thin git it my disty to adopt. I have now the honour to include copy of my reply to the Official Note I received from the Porte, which was transmitted to your Lordship in my despatch No. 101 of this year.

from the Porte, and they have been so good as to send me copies of the ranswers, which I inclose. They desired to have a copy of my reply, which was sent to them.

Your Lordship will see that I have strictly adhered to the spirit of your Instructions, and to the provisions of the Convention of 15th July, and two et or dated the 30th January from the Conference at Lordon to Chekib Effends.

Rechid Pashs has informed me, that the Council has decided that instructions shall be sent to Chekib Effendi to consult the British Government respecting the actual situation of the Egyptian Question, to the earl that the Porte may act according to the advice of that Government.

Viscount Ponsonby to Rechid Pasks.

Monsteur le Ministre, Theraput, Morch 18, 1841.

I HAVE had the honour to receive your Excellency's Note dated 16th of March, wherein reference is made to a letter received by the Sublime Porte from the Pasha of Egypt, and to a despatch written by his Excellency Said Muhib Effendi, copies of which have been communicated to me by order of the Sublime Porte.

Your Excellency says that the hesitation of Mehemet Ali to accept the could tone referred to in the above-mentioned papers, is in no wase compatible with the position of a subject, and that it is clear that it would be hartful, and contrary to the sourceign right of the Sultan, to grant the demands of the Pasha, and your Excellency has been ordered by His Imperial Majesty the Sultan, to ask me what is my opinion as to the conduct the Sublime Porte should hold

I beg to assure your Excellency that I am highly flattered by this mark of the confidence of the Sublime Porte, and that I will now, and upon all occasions, endeavour to merit it by sincerity.

My opinion coincides entirely with the opinion expressed by your Excellency; I think that submission on the part of Mehemet Ali to the authority of his Sovereign, His Imperial Majesty the Sultan, was and is the basis upon which the favours granted by the Sultan are all to rest as the fundamental condition of their being accorded. It appears to me that the letter from the Pasha of Egypt to the Grand Vizier, does not bear the character of submission, though it contains certain phrases expressive of sche twice in the same a yl na that which the Pasha -as heretofore used in his letters written at the moment when he was openly m arms against his Sovereign; and the essence of this letter seems to be, refusal of the conditions imposed on him by the Sultan. I will not quote the various official documents, including the reply of the Conference of London to his Excellency Chekib Effendi, dated 30th of January, 1841, wherein the submission of Mehemet Ali has been recognised by all the Allies, as the foundation upon which is to rest the elemency and the favours His Imperial Majesty may be pleased to extend to that Paulin, nor do I think it necessary here to cite the instructions I have received from my Government on that point, because they have already been made fully known to the Sublime Porte; but I refer to those documents as the guides by which I am directed, and the authority by which I am

If submession be the loss on above some I am of a more that it is at least you give us to defeat be passible in the reservence, for the Summer Periods. The Sublime Porte being intimately connected by the strongent ties with the Government I have the honour to serve, I think it my duty to recommend, that in a matter of so much importance as that at present in question, and respecting which there may be doubts, the Sublime Porte should ask the opinion of its faithful friend and Ally, and that the Sublime Porte should remain entirely inactive as respects the Pasha of Egypt's letter to the Grand Visier until the Sublime Porte shall have bad confidential communication with the British Government

I venture to offer this opinion in conformity with the expressed desire of the Sublime Porte that I should state an opinion, and because I cannot foresee that the mode of acting I recommend can be productive of the least inconvenience to the Sublime Porte. It appears to me that no evil of any sort for the Sublime Porte can attend upon delay. The Sublime Porte must naturally increase its internal strength during the period of delay. The Sublime Porte s, it this result, subject, I believe, than Mehemet Ah. I think he will not risk any offensive act, and that if he were to risk any such act his destruction might be the consecution.

The Porte is pleased to attach high value to its friendly relations with its Allies, and they can only be fortified by every additional evidence of the confidence which the Sublime Porte reposes in them. The Sublime Porte will not limit its power of free mained pendent action by asking the opinion of a friend, but it will obtain the sure knowledge of the feelings of that friend, and the advantage such knowledge will afford for the subsequent arrangement of un own plans.

Il doit avoir donné les ordres nécessaires pour remonter le matériel, tout-à-fait dégradé, que les troupes retournées de la Syrie ont ramené. Ibrahim Pacha s'étant chargé de l'exécution de ses ordres, Méhémet Ali quitta le Caire le 18 à midi, et arriva à Alexandrie le 15 à 8 heures du mann.

L'armée de Syrie arrive au Cairo, peut à petit, par le Désert de Sues, par celui d'El-Ariah, et par la voie de mer par Damiette. Ibrahim Pacha prétend, qu'au bout de trois mois tous ces débris amont ré-organisés, et que hientôt il pourra présenter aux ennemes de son père une armée de 60,000 hommes.

Les nouvelles que Méhémet Ali a reçues par le bateau à vapeur, arrivé de France le 14, ne l'out pas satisfait. Le Commodore Napier doit cepcudant s'être borné à dire au Pacha, qu'il n'approuvait pas le firman, et non pas qu'il lui conseillait de ne pas s'y soumettre. Du reste, Méhémet Ali continuant les armemens, et forçant les contribuables à payer les impôts par anticipation, le mécontentement est toujours le même; le commerce craint de nouvelles entraves; et les propriétaires ne savent à quoi s'en tenir à l'égard des monopoles que le nouveau Traité de Commerce abolit, et que Méhémet Ali fait mine de vouloir maintenir comme par le passé.

YOUR Lordship will probably have observed the discussion on the supplementary budget, and the various efforts which were made to draw from M Guzot any impralent revelations as to the recent Convention between France and the Great P wers, Parties to the Treats of for 15th of Je v. Your lardship will also very probably have noticed the cast on, remarkable for its contrast with the induscretion of his predecessor, dis laved by the Whister for Foreign Affairs on this occasion, a caution not compromised, though accompanied by the declaration, that he boned soon to be able to announce that "the armed peace" with which the semion had commenced, had been exchanged for one of a more regular and tranquilliang nature. But the passages in this debate (Wednesday) to which I particularly wish to draw your Lordship's attention, are two destarns of M. Thiers. The first (made by accepting the cliseryation of some foreign M n ster), that France aspired to, and at the time of I s Ministry was about to arrive at, the possession of the whole court of Africa, and that this domination was to be extended by an alliance with the Pasha of Egypt, from the extreme of the Monterranean up to the Red Sea. The second, that Arabia and Syria were merely causes of weakness and expense to Mehemet Ali, and consequently no losses to him, but that his being deprived of them was a serious loss to France, because she had thereby commanded the Euphrates and the Persian Gulf.

When I remember that the French Government a general and M Thiers in particular, always protested that France had no sort of interest in the Pasha extending his sway over Syria, and that their whole objection to driving him therefrom was the diffice by of the congruence, I can it it is a series of the present and history describing discussive. My Lord. IT having come to my knowledge that some Members of the French Government had observed, that at the same time that they withdrew from all share in the proceedings between the Sultan and Mehemet Ali, they, in fact afforced a protection to the latt t by refusing to sign any common Act with the other Great European Powers, and I the addres of the elast were brought to a conclusion, inasmuch as that they thereby disposed those Powers to settle the pending question promptly by concessions to the Pasha of Egypt, I thought it a lensal le to represent to M. G. zor the great inconveniences that might arise, if the Pasha should construe this delay or reluctance on the part of the French Government into a support of all his pretensions, many of which seem to be too extravagant to be seriously discussed: and I asked M Guisot whether, under such circumstances, it might not be advisable to sign the recent Convention with respect to the Bospherus at once, and by thereby lepri ing Meb met of the support with which he might delude himself, bring the whole matter at once and promptly to a termination.

M. Guzot replied to me by saying, that he did not mean to assert that the refusal of the French Government to sign the Convention in question, until Mehemet Ali and the Sultan had come to terms, might not afford a certain protection to the former; but, said he, "I have taken care that Mehemet All should know that this protection is limited, and that I by no means approve of all his pretensions; on the contrary, judged, l'agree with y it il at many are exaggerated and absord and I have urged him peremptorily to abandon them. My notion, however, I tell you frankly, is, that if these affairs are to be settled speedily, as I wish them, and as you think they ought to be, this can only be effected by your Government pressing the Porte on one side, and my pressing Mehemet Ali on the other. But were all the signatures affixed to the recent Convention, neither your Government nor mine would have the same motives for organcy. The remaining affair then would be left in the hands of the parties themselves, who would protract the negotiation ad infinitum. and thus, after having accomplished all the forms by which the business should be terminated, it would remain in a year hence, just where it

"But," said I, "supposing you will only sign the Convention recently agreed to between yourself and the other Great Powers, when that between Melicinet and the Porte is concluded, and that Mehamot insists upon all the conditions which he has asked for, many of which you yourself consider unreasonable, will you not be allowing the exaggeration and intemperance of another to direct your own policy from that which is desirable and just?" "I have observed to you," M. Gunot replied, "that my consideration for Mehemet Ali has its bounds. I have told him he must abandon much that he pretends to. I believe he will do so, If he dock not, then certainly I shall abandon him."

"Of course," I observed, "you consider his pretension not to pay any tribute for two or taree years are not the quice of "Cu. "You thank he should be bound by the Treaties of the Porte with Foreign Powers?" "Most assuredly." "You doesn it proper that the Hatti-Sheriff of Gulhane should be the law in Egypt as in the rest of the Ottoman Empire?" "I do. In short," M. Gunot continued, "there are but three points on which the Pasha has any reason to me !

"1st. The grant of the hereditary succession in the direct male line of his family 2nd. The payment of a fixed tribute, instead of what is called the fourth of the revenue of the province he governs, -an evaluation which could never be fairly made, which would occasion all sorts of trouble, and introduce, if it is meant that the object demanded should be really obtained, a double set of revenue officers, and consequently a double expenditure into the collection of the taxes, as well as never ceasing disputes as to their amount.

3rd I think the restriction of his appointment of officers, confining him to the rank of Captain, a hardship and an inconvenience which would render the army, for whose discipline and conduct he is responsible, almost free from his control."

I suggested that this last was practically a minor question, to which M Guizot rather assented and seemed to think that it might be possibly settled by Mehemet's presenting the superior officers to the Sultan for approbation, as he would thus have a certain share in their promotion by his recommendation though the act itself would, rocced from the Sudan, and form a natural part of his supreme power

He then added, "I have thus talked with you on all these matters, because, the subject having been started. I was desirous that you should know my real opinions, and not suppose that I directly or indirectly sustain the Pasha in his unreasonable lemands, but I do not pretend to t he on the contrary I most cautiously abstain from taking, any si are in the arrangement which may be brought about: I do not wish to be mixed up in it, or to appear ham was it if have no conditions to make for Mehemet Ab. It we not ug to but his or the cent tous to any use, the say, that werd the afters or the East shall have he a settled I connet sign a loss rest which begas by eaching that they are my and busides, I know well and at my parliamentary position. and that he a last some ever if his courtbear

As I am I was ro ear to endeavour to persuade M. Guizot further towards a step against which he was determined; and as I had at all events obtained his declaration that Mehemet All could not fairly insist on more than the three claims I have stated, and that he (M. Guizot) should abandon all consideration for him if he did, I deemed it as well to close

Vienna, April 14 1841

1 HAVE communicated to Prince Metternich your Lordal of's despatch No 67 ad ressect to make f. With the print, les and reasonings of that despatch the Prince entirely agrees. He draws, however a marked distribution as to the residue importance of the objects therein treated. He considers the Four Pewers pedged to use their lest encarvours with the Se tan to obtain from the the concession of hereditary succession in favour of the lescendants of Mebemet Ali, either according to the European rule of promogerature, or the Eastern one of semonity, no ser the conditions already repeatedly expressed; but this having been obtained, he considers the remaining matters in dispute between the Sultan and the Pasha as relating merely to administrative affairs, in which the Powers will interfere by counsel for the advantage of both parties, but wherein the act or they may tender will be regulated by c remistances and by the fe or of rmation they may gradienly arquire. leaving to them a great latitude of deliberation, and onling them to no specific course of action.

With regard to the tribute, Prince Metternish fully adopts year Lordship's reasonings, and will doubtless assist in obtain ug for the Sultan the arrears which Mehemet Ali shows a disposition to withhold, and in deciding the fixation of the amount of tribute at a reasonable sum. Whether a fourth of the gross revenue be a reasonable amount or to be cannot determine, but he is of opinion that an approach to the krowledge of the amount of net revenue under the new water or possel upon Mehemet Ali is the only basis upon which the proposition of tribute can be justly determined. As a preliminary to this, it is evident that the system of imposts must be previously fixed, and if the calculation is to be made upon these data, it will probably require the employment of Commissioners named for that purpose, before the question can be finally settled. Whenever the principle upon which the tribute is to be determined has been agreed upon, the Prince is of opinion that it will be much for the interest of the Porte to commute the estumated produce for a fixed sum, instead of receiving a proportion of the reven ie - a system which would axpose it to constant fraud and uncortainty.

Incloance in No. 248.

Instructions transmitted by the Sublime Porte to Chekib Effondi. (Received from Chekib Effendi (privately) April 25.)

(Traduction.)

VOTRE Excellence n'ignore pas que le très-honorable Said Muhib Effendi a été dernièrement envoyé en Egypte pour apporter à son Excellence Méhémet Ali la bonne nouvelle de la faveur signalée que Sa Hautesse a daigné lui accorder, pour lui remettre le firman Impérial, contenant certaines conditions indispensables, et pour concerter avec lui plusieurs points nécessaires.

Ayant envoyé à votre Excellence des copies de dit firman Impérial, des dépêches, et d'autres pièces qui ont été écrites à ce sujet, nous devons admettre qu'elles lui sont parvenues à l'heure qu'il est, et qu'elle sera ainsi informée de la résolution souveraine et des principes réglementaires qui ont été établies. Votre Excellence verra de même à quel point se trouve actuellement la Question d'Egypte par la lecture des rapports que nous avons reçus récemment de la part de Méhémet Ali, de Said Muhib Effendi, et dont nous avons en également soin de vous transmettre des copies.

Comme done la Question Egyptienne a été dans tout son cours traitée et réglée de concert et d'accord avec les augustes Cours Alliées, et avec leur assentiment expressement demandé, et comme par conséquent la nature mame de l'affaire exige que les points encore en suspens soient également résolus et arrangés d'un commun accord avec les dites Cours, nous avons consulté MM les quatre Représentant résidant dans cette capitale, en demandant leur avis sur la manière dont la Sublime Porte devait agir dans cette circonstance.

Ils nous ont répondu que la non-acceptation par Méhémet Ali des dits Articles réglementaires a ayant pas été prévue, ils n'avaient pas pu recevoir là-dessus de nouvelles instructions de leurs Gouvernemens respectifs, et que des-lors ils ne pouvaient soumettre aucun conseil à Sa Hauteme le Sultan; par conséquent la question a été méditée et discutée entre les Ministres de la Sublime Porte, et il a été décidé qu'on écrirait à votre Excellence dans le sens suivant.

Un des points que Méhémet Ali refuse d'accepter est celui de l'hérédits qui, selon lui, devrait être regle d'après le seignoriat. Blaix si par la suite un de ses fils majeurs devait être incapable de conduire l'administration du pays, et que le Gouvernement de l'Egypte dut passer comme béritage entre ses mains, l'ordre dans cette province en serait nécessairement troublé. Or, la Sublime Porte ayant à cour la bonne administration de l'Egypte, tout autant que celle des autres provinces de l'Empire, voulant en outre prévenir tout inconvénient que cette Question pourrait faire naître plus tard, et accorder en même tems au dit Pacha une nouvelle marque de faveur et de bienveillance, elle promet des à présent de conférer le Gouvernement de l'Egypte à Ibrahim Pacha ou à tel autre de ses fils que Méhémet Ali lui-même choisirait de son vivant, à condition qu'ensuite le droit d'élection appartiendra de nouveau à Sa Hauteme.

Comme seconde alternative nous proposons ce qui suit : le Pacha nous ayant représenté que le véritable caractère et la capacité personnelle de l'individu qui deviendra ensuite Gouverneur de l'Egypte ne pourront pas être connus ici, tandis que là on pourra très bien les apprécier, un de ses descendans devra être choisi en Egypte par les membres de sa famille, et par les notables du pays, et proposé à la Sublime Porte ; il sera confirmé et nommé par Sa Hautesse le Sultan.

Pour ce qui concerne les lois civiles et militaires, ce point constitue une des principales stipulations du Traité d'Alliance.

Comme donc les Cours Alliées auront évidemment la bonté d'en faire adopter le principe et les détails, il ne devra pas être question de le modifier, ni de le changer.

La manière de la perception de l'impôt étant sur le point d'être réglée et arrangée ici, les lois et réglemens de la Sublime Porte, tant présens qu'à venir, devant ainsi, qu'il a été établi, être entièrement exécutés en Égypte, les principes qu'on adoptera ici au sujet de la perception de l'impôt, seront aussi observés en Egypte. Bref, il faudra ne pas sortir du cercle des stipulations fondamentales du Traité.

Méhémet Ali Pacha a trouvé exagérée la demande du quart de l'impôt. Mais en égard à la situation de l'Egypte et à son véritable revenu, ce chiffre est proportionné aux ressources du pays, de sorte que votre Excellence devra employer tous ses efforts pour que ce quart nous soit payé, conformément à la première décision. Le revenu du Pacha s'élève au-delà de 600,000 bourses. Si toutefois à présent l'abolition des monopoles et la cessation de certains procédés vexatoires diminueraient le revenu d'environ 200,000 bourses, il en resterait encore 400,000 bourses

Par la passé, le Pacha entretenait une armée de 80,000 à 100,000 hommes, tandis qu'à présent il n'en aura que 18,000 à 20,000 hommes, ce qui le débarrance des frais occasionnés par 60,000 à 80,000 hommes de troupes. Les sommes qu'il dépensait jusqu'ici en fourniture pour le Hedjas seront dorémavant payées par le Sultan. En outre, ce quart ne se rapporte pas à tous les produits de l'Egypte, ainsi que le Pacha l'a compris et écrit : il s'applique seulement aux droits de Douane et à toutes les autres récettes de la Province.

Paisque donc, d'après ce qui précède, il est nécessaire que ce quart soit perçu en entier, il faudrait tacher d'obtenir l'assentiment des Puissances.

Le changement à opérer dans les uniformes des troupes régulières de l'Egypte : la mutation, le désearélément de ces mêmes troupes, auxquelles doit être appliquer uniformément le réglement établi pour toutes les troupes régulières de Sa Hautesse; enfin, les promotions militaires qui devront avoir lieu d'après les principes suivis par les autres Gouverneurs : sont des objets d'une haute importance, sur lesquels il faut insister. C'est donc sculement pour le changement des uniformes qu'on donne un court theber d'obtenir l'assentiment des Puissances.

Les divers points qui précèdent, ayant été soumis à la sanction de Sa Hautesse, elle a daigné ordonner que l'on procédat en effet de la manière proposée. Il faut donc, pour ce qui concerne ces questions, recourir au Gouvernement Britannique par l'entremise de votre Excellence, et aux trois autres Gouvernemens par celle de leurs Légations respectives, con-naître avant tout leur manière de penser, et agir ensuite en conséquence.

Des copies de la présente dépèche ont été remises aussi aux Représentans des dites Puissances, en leur communiquant en même tema l'état des choses actuelles.

Votre Excellence aura donc, de la manière susmentionnée, à employer tous ses efforts pour obtenir l'assentiment des Cours à ce aujet, et pour faire par la preuve de sagesse, d'habilité, et de savoir faire.

En outre, comme le très-honorable Said Muhib Effendi a dû, pour le moment, prolonger un peu son séjour en Egypte, votre Excellence voudra bien, le plutôt possible, faire connaître à la Sublime Porte les communications officielles que le Gouvernement Britannique sera dans le cas de lui faire au sujet des points susmentionnés, ainsi que les aouvelles marques d'intérêt et de bienveillance qu'il nous donnera à cutte occasion. C'est à cet effet que nous adressons la presente.

My Lord, Paris, April 26, 1841.

I CALLED on Count Appony on Saturday, and he was so obliging as to show me a despatch he had just received from Prince Metternich, in which the Prince (anticipating as certain that the Porte would adopt the suggestions of the Four Powers, and that Mehemet Ali would accept the conditions that would thus be proposed) endeavoured to enforce the necessity of returning at once to the normal state of peace which the affairs of the East had temporarily deranged. "When this condition is once established," said the Prince, as well as I can remember the words, "those States qui sont faits pour se comprendre, can enter into such friendly relations as are advantageous for the interests of each." Count Appeny seemed to consider, that although M. Guisot would be willing to lay down a certain portion of the present military establishment of this country, His Majesty King Louis Philippe would, on the contrary, maintain that the preservation of internal tranquillity required every soldier at present under arms; and I thought that the Count himself was rather inclined to believe, that the King would in some degree be justified in using this line of argument.

Poreign Office, April 28, 1841. My Lord,

WITH reference to the concluding passage in your despatch No. 124 of the 6th instant, in which you say that you understand the end which Her Majesty's Government have in view in the Turco-Egyptian Question, to be the arrangement of the affair with Mehemet Ali at any rate. I have to state to your Excellency that the object which the Four Powers have in view is not exactly an arrangement with Mchemet Ali at any rate; but, as has been stated in the Notes of the Representatives of the Four Powers to Chekib Effendi, an arrangement in conformity with the provisions of the Treaty of July.

> I am, &c., (Signed) PALMERSTON.

No. 252.

Note from the Plenipotentiaries of Austria, Great Britain, Prussia, and Russia, to Chekib Effendi.

Londres, le 10 Mm. 1841.

LES Soussignés, Plénipotentiaires des Cours d'Autriche, de la Grande Bretagne, de Prusse, et de Russie, out eu l'honneur de recevoir la Note en date du 27 d'Avril, par laquelle son Expellence Chékib Effendi, Ambassadeur de la Sublime Porte, en leur communiquant les instructions dont il vient d'être muni, a bien voulu en appeler au concours des Puissances Alliées, afin d'applanir les difficultés qui se sont élevées relativement à l'interprétation de quelques unes des dispositions contenues dans les firmana émanés le 13 Février dernier au sujet de l'arrangement définitif des affaires d'Egypte.

Les dispositions à l'égard desquelles la Sublime Porte a désiré connaître l'avis des Quatre Cours Albées, se réduisent nommément aux trois points suivans :-

1º. La question de l'hérédité. 2. La fixation du tribut. 3°. Les promotions militaires.

Les règles générales qui servent à résoudre ces trois questions ont été déterminées en principe par la Convention que la Sublime Porte a conclue le 15 Juillet, 1840, avec les Cours d'Autriche, de la Grande Brotagne, de Prusse, et de Russie.

C'est donc aux principes posés par cette transaction que les Soussignés ont eru devoir se référer dans les communications qu'ils ont eu l'honneur d'adresser successivement à M. l'Ambassadeur Ottoman, nommément dans leurs notes du 30 Janvier, et du 13 Mars. En un fondant sur la même base, les Soussignés, pour répondre au désir exprimé par son Excellence Chékib Effendi, s'ampressent de lui offrir les éclaireissemens SUIVARIS.

1". La Question de l'Hérédité.

LE Sultan, en réalisant l'intention que Sa Hauteuse avait manifesté des l'origine de la crise du Levant, a formellement annoncé la détermination de conserver héréditairement l'administration du Pachalie d'Egypte dans la famille de Méhémet Ali, tant que lui et ses descendans se rendront dignes de cette faveur, en rempliesant fidèlement les conditions qui y sont

Ce principe, une fois légalement posé par l'autorité souveraine du Sultan, il ne reste qu'à régler le mode d'après lequel le poste de Gouverneur d'Egypte sera transmise d'un membre de la famille de Méhémet

C'est d'accord avec ce principe, que Sa Hautesse, en réintégrant Méhémet Ali dans les fonctions de Gouverneur d'Egypte, a daigné lui adresser le firman du 13 Février.

De plus, par une disposition spéciale que le Sultan a eru devoir communiquer à ses Alliés, ce souvernin a dispensé Méhémet Ali de so rendre à Constantinople pour recevoir dans cette capitale l'investiture de son Pachalic.

En même tems, Sa Hautesse a daigné déclarer qu'elle dispensait également Ibrahim Pacha de se rendre à Constantinople, lorsqu'il scrait appelé à remplacer Méhémet Ali dans les fonctions de Pacha; et que le firman d'investiture lui sernit alors envoyé en Egypte.

En adoptant cette disposition, telle qu'elle a été communiquée aux Cours Alliées, la Sublime Porte a indiqué elle-même le mode d'après lequel Sa Hautesse se proposait de pourvoir à l'administration du Pachalic d'Egypte héréditairement dans la famille de Méhémet Ali.

D'après ce mode, et conformément aux usages établis dans l'Empire Ottoman, c'est donc Ibrahim Pacha qui, à titre de plus agé dans la famille, se trouve éventuellement appelé à succéder à Méhémet Ali dans le poste de Gouverneur d'Egypte.

En répondant ainm à l'appel que M. l'Ambassadeur Ottoman vient

En répondant ainsi à l'appel que M. l'Ambassadeur Ottoman vient de leur adresser, d'ordre de son Gouvernement, ils ont eru devoir constater que la nomination au poste de Gouverneur d'Egypte appartient exclusivement à Sa Hautesse; que ce droit s'exerce et se manifeste chaque fois par l'investiture conférée au nouveau titulaire; enfin, que cette investiture, accordée par l'autorité Souveraine, constitue le titre en vertu duquel chaque nouveau Gouverneur sera appelé à administrer l'Egypte au nom de Sa Hautesse comme une province fesant partie intégrante de l'Empire Ottoman.

2". Firation du Tribut.

Il a posé sculement en principe :

Qu'il scrait proportionné à l'étendue du territoire dont l'administration serait confide à Méhémet Ali:

Qu'à condition du payement régulier du tribut, le Pacha d'Egypte percevrait, au nom du Sultan et comme délégué de Sa Hautesse, les taxes et impôts légalement établis;

Enfin, que moyennant la perception de ces impôts, le Pacha d'Egypte pourvoira à toutes les dépenses de l'administration civile et militaire du dit Pachalie.

En rappelant ici ces dispositions établies en principe par la Convention du 15 Juillet, les Plénipotentiaires des Cours Signataires de cette transaction croiraient dépasser les limites de leurs attributions s'ils émettaient une opinion décisive sur le moutant du tribut—question financière relative à l'administration intérieure de l'Empire Ottoman, que les Soussignés, ainsi qu'ils l'ont déjà exprimé dans leur Note du 13 Mars, ne regardent point comme étant de leur ressort.

De plus, ne possédant pas les données statistiques nécessaires pour servir de base à un jugement solide sur les ressources financières de l'Egypte, ils ne sauraient prononcer aucun avis sur la quotité du revenu annuel que le trésor de la Sublime Porte peut retirer de cette province.

Néanmoins, pour satisfaire, autant qu'il est en leur pouvoir, au vœu exprimé par son Excellence Chékib Effendi au nom de la Sublime Porte, ils croient devoir émettre l'idée, qu'au lieu d'affecter au tribut à payer par le Pacha, une partie proportionnelle du revenu brut de l'Egypte, il serait preférable, dans l'intérêt bien-entendu de la Porte, de déterminer le chiffre du tribut par une somme fixe : ce qui assurersit au trésor de Sa Hautesse une recette positive. Toutefois, vu que les bases d'après lesquelles le montant de cette somme serait déterminé, pourraient être sujettes à varier par la suite du tems, il serait peut-être utile que le montant nominal de la dite somme fût soumis à révision à l'expiration de certaines époques.

3°. Promotione Militaires.

Le paragraphe 6 de l'Acte Séparé de la Convention du 15 Judies porte, que les forces de terre et de mer que pourra entretenir le Pacha d'Egypte, fesant partie des forces de l'Empire Ottoman, seront toujours considerées comme entretenues pour le service de l'Etat.

D'après ce principe, les forces militaires employées en Egypte étant celles de Sa Hautesse le Sultan, les officiers de terre et de mer n'obtjendront leur avancement qu'en vertu de l'autorité seule du Souverain à qui appartieunent l'armée et la flotte Ottomanes.

En partant de ce principe, qui est d'une application générale, les Soussignés ne sauraient attacher qu'une importance secondaire à la difficulté qui s'est élévée relativement à la question des promotions militaires en Egypte. C'est au Sultan qu'il appartient de déléguer à cet égard les pouvoirs qu'il jugera nécessaire de coofier aux Gouverneurs d'Egypte, en se réservant d'étendre ou de restreindre ces pouvoirs aelon que l'expérience et les besoins du service pourront en démontrer l'opportunité.

Persévérant dans les vues et opinions qu'ils ont manifestées par les dits Actes, les Soussignés croient devoir s'y reférer. Ils ne peuvent considérer la soumission formellement faite par Méhémet Ali que comme absolue; et Dès lors les Soussignés de la Comme comme terminée.

Des lors les Soussignés ne sauraient admettre la supposition, que ce Pacha, en reconnaissance du parden que le Sultan a daigné lui accorder, et des faveurs que Sa Hautesse lui a conférées ainsi qu'à sa famille, ne se les conditions de ce parden et de ces faveurs.

Les Pléaspotentiaires des Cours d'Autriche, de la Grande Bretagne, de Prusse, et de Russie, en communiquant ces observations à son Excellence Chékib Effendi, l'invitent à vouloir bien les porter à la connaissance de sa Cour, comme devant servir de complement au contonu de leur Note Collective du 13 Mars dernier.
